Firemen continue education program

The Village of Lincoln Fire Department is continuing a commitment to fire prevention -- with assistance from the community.

Leroy Hall, chief of Lincoln Fire Department, explained as part of this commitment the department is organizing its annual Fire and Burn Safety Program for the children of Alcona County. Over 300 youngsters, ages five through 12 will receive educational fire prevention materials created and geared to each specific age level.

Hall said this comprehensive program includes fire safety guidebooks that contain 24 activity pages designed by educators to stimulate the child's awareness and independent thinking about the everyday fire hazards he or she may encounter. Various other fire safety booklets, folders, posters, and brochures are made available to encourage the prevention of destructive fires, painful burns, disfiguring injuries, and needless death.

Bob Koch, of the United States Fire Safety Service, Inc. (USFSS) will be helping local fire fighters in planning and delivering programs to school children. Koch is the Area Fire Safety Representative of the USFSS.

The Lincoln Fire Department is in the process of mailing sponsor request letters explaining the entire program to the area businesses, industrial and professional leaders, asking for their financial support to help cover the cost of the materials used by the department. Anyone not contacted, who would like to support this, can mail a check to the fire department,

Volunteer instructors help keep ORV users safe

To many people ORVs – off-road vehicles – are a means of conveyance to other sporting endeavors: transportation along a trap line, a way back to the deer blind, or a ride over the ice to a fishing shanty. To others, ORVs are a sporting end unto themselves; folks just like to hop on a quad or a dirt bike and ride it, over trails through the woods or on scramble areas.

Most will tell you that riding an ORV can be a lot of fun. But as with any other form of motorized equipment, there is an element of danger associated with it too. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), which oversees ORV regulations in Michigan, has developed an ORV safety program to help riders make sure they are minimizing that danger while maximizing their enjoyment.

The DNR's program is entirely academic. There's no way the department could physically train everyone across the state in the safe and responsible use of ORVs. Instead, there is a network of volunteer instructors who provide the hands-on education while the department's hands-on training is directed toward those volunteer instructors who teach others ORV safety.

"The only hands-on program we have is our ORV Instructor Academy," explained Cpl. John Morey, the DNR Law Enforcement Division's head of ORV and snowmobile safety training efforts.

"Our program is based on a longstanding recommendation from a previous ORV education work group that was put in place by our ORV advisory group," Morey continued. "One of the changes they recommended for our program was to implement this mandatory instructors' academy."

The DNR has held one academy so far this summer and has sessions scheduled for July and August as well. The academy runs over two and a half days at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Center on the north shore of Higgins Lake and is designed to give instructors an overview of various ORV disciplines.

This year, the program centered on four disciplines: All-terrain vehicles (ATVs), utility terrain vehicles (UTVs), off-highway motorcycles and the use of electric winches and recovery straps. The first academy of the year was open only to previously certified ORV safety instructors, 18 of whom attended the June session.

"We wanted to get feedback from them in order to improve the academy moving forward," Morey said. "We did that. Their suggestions ranged from providing additional information to covering different teaching styles. You have a variety of age groups and learning curves associated with ORV safety students, and the instructors have to be able to adapt their teaching style to a variety of people in any given learning group. They can

Death Notice

Matthew J. Potter

Matthew James Potter, 41, of Canton, Mich. died on Wednesday, July 6, 2011. He was the son of James and Barbara Potter of Harrisville and the grandson of Norman and Wilma Oliver of Lincoln.

The funeral was held Monday, July 11 at Gillies Funeral Home. Burial was in Westlawn Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the Alcona County Food Bank or Gift of Life.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

We just had our Mikado Quasquicentennial Celebration and I was pleased with the turnout at the events and glad that everyone was able to work together to make it a success.

I would like to thank all the members of the planning committee, contributors, volunteers who created the kid's carnival games, veteran organizations, parade entrants, program advertisers, craft show entrants, baseball and softball players, all the newspapers and radio for the coverage and to all who attended the Mikado Quasquicentennial.

Thank you to each one of you and hopefully everyone enjoyed themselves.

Jesus "Yogi" Yruegas
Township Supervisor

To the Editor,

Why do we continue to torment and harass the sick and disabled? First, we have local township officials that rush to make ordinances that override state law. Over zealous law enforcement using Nazi Gestapo era tactics to bring fear and terror to sick people and their families.

Politicians that we elected flatly refuse to follow the will of the voters and state that "the law is the worst they have ever seen and will not support it."

Medical marijuana patients are not criminals and should not be treated as such. Medical marijuana cannot be bought at the local Rite Aid. Obviously, we don't want patients trying to get medication off the street. Not only can they be in danger of being ripped-off, it's just not safe. Besides it makes no sense to support the Mexican drug cartels anyway.

These patients need a safe clean environment to get their meds. People shouldn't have to live in fear just because they want to use a medicine that works for them. Dispensaries are up and running in our state, Traverse City has three. Gaylord and even little Pinconning both have one. Why does one county embrace the medical marijuana program but others try their best to discredit the program?

Currently 26 bills dealing with medical marijuana sit in our politicians' laps. Why don't they advert this energy and effort getting people back to work and fixing our economy?

It's time for the war to end on the sick and disabled. You don't have to support medical marijuana but don't be against the people who do.

Hall stressed to prospective advertisers that this is the only program of this type that the Lincoln Fire Department will be conducting this year. Should any other person solicit for support, especially by phone or in person, and does not have a letter from chief Leroy Hall, they are asked to contact the fire department immediately.

Birds may reject a birdhouse placed near food or water, as these attract creatures like raccoons or rats that will eat birds and their eggs. Claw marks on the house's surface or nesting material pulled from the entrance will show you these predators are around and can easily reach the birdhouse. Try mounting the house away from food and on a metal pole, rather than on a tree trunk or hanging it on a branch. Smear the pole with a petroleum jelly/hot pepper mixture and spread sharp gravel around the base to discourage intruders.

Invasive Species Workshop

A non-native invasive plant known as phragmites (frag-mite-eeze) has become an issue for property owners across the state. Uncontrolled, this tall rush will dominate native plant communities in a very short time. Efforts to date have made it apparent that phragmites is very difficult to eradicate: Burning, mowing, flooding and grazing have been relatively ineffective.

Because of the urgency of the problem a collaborative effort was begun in 2009 along Michigan's northern coast. Partners include townships, conservation districts, state parks, land conservancies, lake and river associations, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation

On Friday, July 22 a free workshop sponsored by the Friends of Negwegon State Park will teach people what they can do to aid in this effort to eradicate this plant. The workshop will take place at Alcona Township Hall (5576 N. US-23, Black River) between 9 a.m. and noon. Registration is limited and required. Bring a GPS unit (if available), water, snacks and comfortable shoes. There will be an indoor presentation from 9-10:30 a.m. and a field trip to Negwegon State Park from 10:30 a.m. to noon. The Long Term Care Ombudsman program of northeast Michigan is in need of ombudsman volunteers in the counties of Alpena, Presque Isle, Alcona, Ogemaw, Roscommon and Crawford. Individuals who face challenges with sensitivity and determination are encouraged to consider this opportunity, which requires a minimum commitment of a few hours per month for one year. As a volunteer ombudsman, an individual will receive initial training and continuing support, recognition for a job well done, rewarding relationships with residents and other volunteers and an opportunity to be a partner in fostering dignity of residents of long term care facilities.

On Stage

The Shoreline Players will debut its summer revival of the comedy "The Dixie Swim Club" Friday, July 15 at 7:30 p.m. The setting is a cottage on the shore where five witty southern women whose friendships began while they were on the college swim team gather on a long weekend in August to recharge their relationships. "The Dixie Swim Club" focuses on four of those weekends spanning a period of 33 years and is a comedy about friendships that last forever.

Cast members include Tina Wells as Sheree Hollinger, the spunky team captain. Renee Diener plays Dinah Grayson, the wisecracking, overachieving attorney. Diana Shackleton is Lexie Richards, the outspoken Southern belle. Linda Ramsdell is cast as Jeri Neal McFeeley who is the sweet but ditzzy ray of sunshine. Kerry Tudor plays Vernadette Simms, a woman who faces her tribulations from a problematic home life with humor.

The play is written by Jessie Jones, Nicholas Hope, and Jamie Wooten and is directed by Diane Teddy and produced by Sue Miller. Jay Wells is the stage manager for the production with Jackie Temple and Eddie Bissell working on props. The set was designed by Mark Lee and constructed by Lee, Jack Carlson, Bernie Schenk, John Manning and Thomas Bowman. Hair and makeup are by Kerry Tudor and Salon 121. Costumes are by Jill Jenks, Jan Carlson, and Joan Robinson. Light design is by Eric Joseph and sound design is by J. D. Hock. Publicity and fundraising is by Miller and Debbie McCoy. How to prevent swimmers itch

District Health Department No. 2 is advising area residents and visitors that with summer weather the possibility of swimmer's itch may increase. Caused by a naturally occurring microorganism, swimmer's itch happens when people swim or wade in waters inhabited by waterfowl and certain types of snails. A parasite that ordinarily resides with waterfowl and snails may enter the water and burrow into an individual's skin causing an itchy rash that may last for several days.

To avoid swimmer's itch children and adults who participate in lake activities are advised to consider the following recommendations:

- Avoid swimming in areas where there are many aquatic plants, snails or waterfowl
- Apply waterproof sunscreen before swimming
- Vigorously towel dry or shower immediately after leaving the water

Usually, there is no treatment necessary for swimmer's itch. However, individuals should consult with their physician for the alleviation of itching or if a secondary skin infection is suspected. Swimmer's itch is not spread from person-to-person and symptoms typically disappear within a week with no long-term health effects.

For further information on swimmer's itch, visit District Health Department No. 2's website at www.dhd2.org or call (800) 504-2650.

Civil War items needed

The Michigan Civil War Sesquicentennial History Partners and the Michigan Civil War Sesquicentennial Commission are seeking the help of Michigan communities, organizations and individuals in their efforts to identify Civil War items, landmarks, exhibitions and other elements that will help to tell the story of Michigan's role in the war.

Partners chairman Keith Harrison said the two organizations are asking Michigan residents to help them identify everything from individually held artifacts to public monuments, graves, statues, homes, historical markers, sites, exhibits and stories.

Harrison said the effort would help to promote public exhibits and historical sites around the state for educational purposes as well as day trip opportunities. In addition, the organizations hope a more complete list of Civil War elements in the state will help historians and residents to better understand Michigan's history during the period.

Information about the location of items and their public accessibility should be sent to Harrison at pcinc@prodigy.net or Michigan Civil War Sesquicentennial Committee Chair John M. Dempsey at jdempsey@dickinsonwright.com.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

How seniors can shape up while sitting down

Dear Savvy Senior,
 What can you tell me about chair exercises for seniors? I have some balance problems along with arthritis in my left knee which limits my mobility. A friend recommended chair exercises as a good way to get moving but I don't know where to start. What can you tell me?

Sedentary Senior

Dear Sedentary,
 For seniors with balance problems or other health conditions that restrict their mobility, chair exercises are a gentle and safe way to shape up while you're sitting down. Here's what you should know, along with some tools and resources to help get you started.

Many people find it hard to believe, but the health benefits of chair exercises can be significant for seniors. Chair exercises can help you build muscle strength and endurance, improve your flexibility and balance and boost your circulation and metabolism.

Your doctor or physical therapist can be great resources to help you learn more. All you need is a sturdy, four-legged chair that sits flat on the floor. Don't use a rocking chair or a large cushioned chair that doesn't provide support.

To get you started, there are lots of great instructional DVDs, VHS tapes and books you can purchase to guide you through a wide variety of chair exercises that you can do at home. To find these products try websites like Sit And

Be Fit (sitandbefit.org, (888) 678-9438), a nonprofit organization that has a chair exercise television program on many PBS stations around the country, and sells dozens of DVDs, videotapes, CDs and books on different exercise programs depending on your needs and ailments.

Another great chair fitness option you should check into is "chair yoga," which is ideal for improving your flexibility and range-of-motion. Some good resources for finding chair yoga instructional videos and DVDs are yoga-heart.com, peggycappy.com and strongerseniors.com which also offers chair exercise DVDs.

Also see Chair Dancing International (chairdancing.com, (800) 551-4386), a company that offers a variety of chair exercise videos that incorporate gentle no-impact dance moves into their routines.

If you don't like exercising alone or need some motivation, call your local senior center to see if they may offer chair exercise classes - many do. Or, consider joining SilverSneakers (silversneakers.com, (888) 423-4632) or Silver&Fit (www.silverandfit.com, (877) 427-4788). These are fitness programs offered in fitness centers, gyms and YMCAs throughout the U.S. that offer special exercise classes designed exclusively for seniors including chair exercisers.

There are also several pieces of equipment you might want to purchase to enhance your chair exercises. To boost your circulation, balance and leg strength consider a pedal exerciser (prices range from $25 to over $100), which will give you a bicycle-type workout from your chair. It can also be set on a table to exercise your arms. The Sit-N-Stroll Portable Foot Exerciser is another handy tool for stimulating leg circulation.

And for chair strength training exercises, there are elastic bands, small hand weights and medicine balls you can purchase for around $10 that provide muscle toning resistance. You can find all these products at sporting goods stores, or online at amazon.com. Cans of soup, water bottles or milk containers filled with water or sand could also be used (like small hand weights) for resistance training. Another great strength training tool you should know about is the Resistance Chair (it costs $280). This is an all-in-one home fitness system that helps senior's maintain and improve their strength from a safe, seated position. To learn more see vqaction-care.com or call (800) 585-4920.

Going online — or not

Senior News Line
 By Matilda Charles

The conversation started easily enough: A local group of seniors were enjoying a monthly lunch when one said: "My son wants to buy me a computer."

The responses ranged from "Oh, lucky you!" to "You poor thing."

We quickly got on to the topic of whether to join the "technology revolution" — or not. Back in 2004, a Pew research report revealed that a full 80 percent of seniors didn't have any intention of going online. A 2009 study revealed that 42 percent of seniors use a computer. How far we've come in a few years.

We took a vote, and our statistics were higher: Seventy percent of us already had a computer, and of that number, about 50 percent felt competent to do all they wanted. Email was a given.

When it came to downloading and printing or filing photos, the percentage fell. The success rate was related to having taken a class or having a nearby grandchild to give instruction.

As for social media — engaging with others via the Internet — only one of us confessed to that, saying he had Twitter and Facebook accounts and used them to keep up with his children.

But successfully searching on the Internet, that was more difficult. Still, with some effort, it's possible to find all sorts of helpful information online: worldwide news, vacation research, the latest health data.

Our group's apparent guru, the one with the Facebook account, cited another reason for being on the Internet: One of his old school chums was able to look him up, and they've been able to share memories, stories and photos.

In case you're on the fence: If nothing else, finding old friends would make having computer access worthwhile.

The courage of her convictions

By Kathryn Fritz Kniep
Columnist

"I figured, O.K., I'll move to the White House, do the best I can, and if they don't like it, they can kick me out, but they can't make me somebody I'm not."

~ Betty Ford

In October of 1973, I was walking through a department store in Montreux, Switzerland when I realized a murmuring group of customers had gathered before a bank of television sets on display. My German was equal to a brief conversation but the news announcer on the screen went far too fast for me to follow.

As I watched, an image of President Richard Nixon appeared on the screen, followed by a photo of a man I'd never seen before and a map of Michigan. Turning to the man next to me, I asked if he spoke English. Yes, he said. Could he tell me what was happening? He seemed pleased with the opportunity to translate. "You have a new vice president," he told me, "The Governor of Michigan, Henry Ford!"

The man on the screen was clearly not Henry Ford. But he turned out to be one of the rare Republicans I would both like and admire, Gerald Ford, at that time a congressman from Grand Rapids and the Republican Minority Leader.

I liked him because he seemed genuinely sincere in his intent to get things back in order, and because he had a great wife. Not necessarily in that order.

You might have had to be there, in order to truly appreciate Betty Ford. The Vietnam War and the Watergate scandal had left the country in disarray. The women's movement was in its infancy. And for all that the 1970s were the dawning of the age of Aquarius, America was still a rather prim and proper society, especially in hidebound Washington, D.C.

Into which came straight-shooting Betty Ford, a former model and dancer, the (rather shockingly) second wife of the first man to take our country's highest office under the 25th amendment, without ever being elected president or vice president.

Describing her husband's swearing in ceremony in 1974, Mrs. Ford said later, "I was the wife of the President of the United States. What an astonishing place for Elizabeth Ann Bloomer to have come to."

President Ford had only been in office a month when Mrs. Ford was diagnosed with breast cancer. At a time when the word "breast" was seldom uttered in public, much less on air, she became a spokesperson for early screening and an advocate for breast cancer survivors everywhere. "I knew if (my husband) had lost a leg, I wouldn't have deserted him," she said, "and I knew he wouldn't desert me because I was unfortunate enough to have had a mastectomy..."

Betty Ford, the county soon realized, had a toss-off delivery that often required a moment to absorb. Describing Ford's earlier decision to run for Congress, she said, "I was very unprepared to be a political wife. But I didn't worry because I didn't think he was going to win."

And "Before Gerry got this new job, I'd been planning to work at a hospital three days a week because I felt the need to be doing something for someone else... Suddenly, I had more projects than I could handle.

Despite President Ford's "new job," Mrs. Ford rarely hesitated to say what she thought. She advocated for the Equal Rights Amendment, promoting equal pay for women, and spoke out in favor of freedom of choice. She turned heads when she told "60 Minutes" that she wouldn't be surprised to find out her sons had experimented with marijuana, adding "if I were young now, I might try it myself" and that if she discovered her daughter was having an affair, "I'd talk to her about it."

Puttin' On

When she requested one of the first shared bedrooms in the White House (traditionally most presidents and first ladies had maintained separate rooms) she told the press she liked to sleep with her husband "as often as I can."

And while Republicans and the country in general might not have always agreed with her, by 1975 "Time Magazine" declared her its Woman of the Year. Nonetheless, she clearly had mixed feelings about the role of first lady. On her final days in the White House, she was reported to have slipped off her shoes and danced the length of the Cabinet Room table.

Her influence extended well beyond her time in the White House. A longtime spinal arthritis sufferer, in the late 1970s, following a family intervention, Mrs. Ford entered a rehab program for alcohol and prescription drug addiction. "Alcohol made me feel warm," she said, "And I loved pills. They took away the tension and the pain." In 1982, she cofounded the Betty Ford Center, described as the premiere drug and alcohol treatment facility in the country.

One of the most poignant memories many of us have of Betty Ford is of her taking the microphone on election night, 1976, to read the text of her husband's concession speech when he allegedly lost his voice. It epitomized her commitment to marriage as a partnership and her image as a thinking person, never outwardly at least, insecure about her role as woman or wife.

The final image many of us have of Betty Ford came in December, 2006 as, during a grueling 17-hour bi-coastal funeral for the former President, she remained the epitome of grace and dignity -- the loving wife she had always been to her handsome football player from Grand Rapids.

The word that comes to mind, when one remembers Betty Ford, is candor. During the 1976 campaign, a favorite bumper sticker read, "Re-elect Betty's Husband." Like her or not, you could always depend on her to speak her own truths and the quote that begins this column proved true, no one could make her something she was not. When she moved into the White House, she brought with her the courage of her convictions. May she rest in peace.

Ioscoa/Alcona MARSP

What an opportunity. The special Cooke Dam Centennial exhibit and others on display at the renovated Iosco County Historical Museum will be viewed by members and guests of the Iosco/Alcona Chapter of MARSP on Wednesday, July 20. Volunteers of the museum will serve attendees lunch ($6) prior to the business meeting. Museum executive director Marguerite Schmidt is arranging for this unique event starting at noon, and will lead the museum tour. The museum is on US-23 just south of Newman Street, in East Tawas.

With the re-districting of the Michigan State Legislature, our representatives will be changing. The chapter's legislative liaisons Rich Hummel and T.D. Haskins will inform attendees about that and other items that will effect members. MARSP actively lobbies the state legislators, and the Iosco/Alcona legislative liaisons are in touch with both our state representative and senator.

2010 Water Quality Report for The City of Harrisville

This report covers the drinking water quality for the City of Harrisville for the calendar year 2010. This information is a snapshot of the quality of the water that we provided to you in 2010. Included are details about where your water comes from, what it contains, and how it compares to Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and state standards.

Your water comes from two (2) groundwater wells located at 417 Mill Creek Rd. The state performed an assessment of our source water in 2007. Copies of the reports are available from the Harrisville City Clerk's Office. Our wells were determined to have moderately low susceptibility to contamination.

Contaminants and their presence in water: Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Vulnerability of sub-populations: Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune systems disorders, some elderly and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Sources of drinking water: The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs and wells. Our water comes from wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

* Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

* Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.

* Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture and residential uses.

* Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

* Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which provide the same protection for public health.

Water Quality Data

The table below lists all the drinking water contaminants that we detected during the 2010 calendar year. The presence of these contaminants in the water does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. Unless otherwise noted, the data presented in this table is from testing done January 1 – December 31, 2010. The state allows us to monitor for certain contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. All of the data is representative of the water quality, but some are more than one year old.

Terms and abbreviations used below:

• Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG): The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

• Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL): The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

• Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL): The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

• Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG): The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

• N/A: not applicable ND: not detectable at testing limit ppb: parts per billion or micrograms per liter ppm: parts per million or milligrams per liter

• Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.

Samples collected at the Wellhouse:

Regulated Chemical Contaminants	MCL	MCLG	Our Water	Sample Date	Violation Yes / No	Typical Source of Contaminants
Fluoride (ppm)	4	4	0.18 MG/L	8/30/2010	No	Erosion of natural deposits

Unregulated Chemical Contaminants ²	Our Water	Sample Date	Violation Yes / No	Typical Source of Contaminants
Sodium (ppm)	6	8/30/2010	N/A	Erosion of natural deposits
Sulfate (ppm)	23	8/30/2010	N/A	Erosion of natural deposits

² Unregulated contaminants are those for which EPA has not established drinking water standards. Monitoring helps EPA to determine where certain contaminants occur and whether it needs to regulate those contaminants.

Samples Collected in the Distribution System:

Contaminants Subject to an Action Level	Action Level, MCL, or MRDL	Our Water	Sample Date	Number of Samples Above AL	Typical Source of Contaminants
Lead (ppb) ³	AL = 15	(90 th percentile) 2	7/25/2009	0	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; Erosion of natural deposits
Copper (ppm) ³	AL = 1.3	(90 th percentile) 0.150	7/25/2009	0	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; Erosion of natural deposits; Leaching from wood preservatives

³ 90 percent of the samples collected were at or below the level reported for our water.

Microbial Contaminants	MCL	MCLG	Positive Samples	Violation Yes / No	Typical Source of Contaminants
Total Coliform Bacteria	1 positive monthly sample (5% of monthly samples positive)	0	0	no	Naturally present in the environment
Fecal Coliform and E. coli	Routine and repeat samples are total coliform positive, and one is also fecal or E. coli positive	0	0	no	Human and animal fecal waste

We will update this report annually and will keep you informed of any problems that may occur throughout the year, as they happen. Copies are available at the Harrisville City Clerk's Office, 200 N. Fifth St., Harrisville, MI 48740. This report will not be sent to you.

We invite public participation in decisions that affect drinking water quality. The Harrisville City Council meets regularly at 7:00 p.m. on the second Monday of the month at the Harrisville City Clerk's Office at 200 Fifth St. Harrisville MI 48740. For more information about your water, or the contents of this report, contact The City of Harrisville (989)724-6666. For more information about safe drinking water, visit the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency at www.epa.gov/safewater/.

range from eight years old to 80."

The academy involves three hours of classroom work on Friday evening, a short classroom session Saturday morning, and then field work on a course set up on the north end of the RAM Center property Saturday and Sunday. It ends with a 50-question examination on Sunday evening.

"Based on the recommendations of our first academy group, we'll probably expand it to three full days next year," Morey said.

ATVs are the basic four-wheelers, commonly known as quad runners or, simply, quads. UTVs are vehicles with side-by-side seating - such as a Polaris Ranger or an Arctic Cat Prowler - that are designed with automobile-style features (steering wheel, brake and throttle pedals instead of handlebars and hand controls) and are capable of carrying one to three additional passengers.

Regulations for ORV use vary according to the type of vehicle. For ATVs and UTVs, youngsters less than 16 must pass an ORV safety course to operate them. (They are also required to carry that safety certificate with them and present it if asked by a law enforcement officer.) In addition, youngsters operating ATVs or UTVs must be under direct adult supervision - adults must be able to observe the youngster constantly with the unaided eye and be able to provide immediate assistance if necessary.

There is, however, no age limit for using off-highway motorcycles (OHM).

"If an eight-year-old can take a recognized safety training class on his own and pass it, he or she can operate the OHM on the state's designated trail system with adult supervision," Morey said.

The first academy "was very well received by the instructors," Morey said. "We had overwhelmingly positive comments on the evaluations."

Michigan's ORV safety program is funded by $1 from each of the $16.25 ORV permits that are required of ORV users who operate on public land or on the ice of public lakes. That $1 appropriation not only funds the instructors' academy but it also pays for all the printed material the DNR produces on ORVs.

For more information on ORV safety training, contact the DNR's Marketing & Outreach Division at (517) 335-3418.

The Garden Bug

Acanthus mollis

Sometimes called "bear's breeches" or "oyster plant", this plant is native to Mediterranean regions and has been cultivated since ancient times. It is thought to have inspired the motif on Corinthian columns (shown at right) in Greco-Roman architecture. It is tolerant of drought and shade, and flowers pink, purple or white in late spring or early summer.

A sure way to keep wasps off of your hummingbird feeder is to make sure the feeder doesn't have any yellow on it. Wasps are attracted to yellow like hummers are attracted to red. So keep 'em red, folks, if you want hummers instead of wasps.

Online scammers turn to reloadable debit cards to defraud consumers

The Better Business Bureau (BBB) is warning consumers that online thieves have found a new method of defrauding people by siphoning cash from their Green Dot MoneyPaks accounts.

MoneyPaks, which are sold in stores throughout the U.S., are reloadable debit cards normally used to make same-day payments or add money to prepaid cards or PayPal accounts. In recent weeks, the BBB has noted a significant increase in schemes where scammers either tried to solicit - or were able to collect - payments via MoneyPak for merchandise, advance fee loans or sweepstakes prizes that all proved to be fraudulent or nonexistent.

"More and more scammers are moving away from seeking payments via wire transfer and instead asking consumers to give them money via MoneyPaks," said Patrick Bennett, director of community relations of the BBB. "We feel this is likely due to the fact this form of payment is quite convenient - for both consumers and scammers - and is untraceable."

According to the BBB, any website requesting payment via a MoneyPak is likely a scam. They also say people should be very cautious when using MoneyPaks to pay companies or individuals they don't know, and want people to understand that once they load a MoneyPak with funds, anyone they share the number of that card with will also have access to those funds.

The fraudsters will convince consumers to put money into their MoneyPak card, get them to share its serial number, and then empty the card of funds, leaving consumers empty-handed.

"These scammers are very savvy and effective at coming off as trustworthy," Bennett said. "That is why people should never give a MoneyPak serial number to anyone they don't know."

In the last two weeks alone, the BBB has received reports from consumers who:

- Were asked to pay advance fees on bogus loans with MoneyPaks.

- Were told they had won cash prizes of hundreds of thousands of dollars, but would first have to provide payment via MoneyPaks to claim their winnings.

- Purchased heavily discounted home exercise equipment they found advertised on a fraudulent website (www.directhomefitness.com), but after paying hundreds of dollars for it with a MoneyPak discovered the merchandise was nonexistent.

To avoid falling for MoneyPak scams, consumers should:

- Be wary of websites or Craigslist advertisements linking to websites where customers are asked to pay with a MoneyPak card.

- Never give their MoneyPak number to someone they don't know.

- Keep in mind advance fee loan offers are not legitimate and are targeted at customers and companies who are struggling with debt and poor credit, often making bad situations worse.

- Remember that if you're told you have to pay a fee via MoneyPak or wire transfer to collect a cash prize or sweepstakes winnings, you haven't won anything.

- Avoid offers that do not accept credit card payments and ask you to purchase a MoneyPak and then provide the MoneyPak number in an e-mail or over the phone.

- Beware of websites requesting MoneyPak as a form of payment even if they display the MoneyPak or Green Dot logo. Consumers should check www.moneypak.com for a list of approved MoneyPak partners.

- Treat their MoneyPak cards like cash. Remember that transactions cannot be reversed.

On their website, Green Dot says MoneyPaks should only be used to reload prepaid cards or accounts you control. They also advise people who are using MoneyPak with PayPal for eBay or other online merchants to transfer money to their PayPal account before paying the merchant; people should not e-mail the MoneyPak number directly to the merchant.

Green Dot also states they are not responsible for the quality or nonreceipt of any goods or services.

Consumers who have been scammed by fraudulent offers involving Green Dot MoneyPaks should contact their local law enforcement and file a claim, as well as, file complaints with the Michigan Attorney General's Office (www.michigan.gov/ag) and the FTC (www.ftc.gov).

The Better Business Bureau Serving Eastern Michigan is a nonprofit organization with the purpose of assisting in the protection of consumers and businesses from fraud and unethical business practices in the local marketplace. In addition to its recognized dispute resolution services, BBB maintains reliability reports on the customer service history of more than 80,000 local businesses and provides consumer education materials on numerous topics. BBB provides its services free to the public and its service territory stretches across eastern Michigan from Ann Arbor through Detroit, Lansing, Flint, upward to Alpena, and covers the entire Upper Peninsula.

American Life in Poetry

By Ted Kooser

U.S. Poet Laureate, 2004-2006

Ellery Akers is a California poet who here brings all of us under a banner with one simple word on it.

The Word That Is a Prayer

One thing you know when you say it:
all over the earth people are saying it with you;
a child blurting it out as the seizures take her,
a woman reciting it on a cot in a hospital.
What if you take a cab through the Tenderloin:
at a street light, a man in a wool cap,
yarn unraveling across his face,
knocks at the window;
he says, Please.

By the time you hear what he's saying,
the light changes, the cab pulls away,
and you don't go back, though you know someone just prayed to you the way you pray.
Please: a word so short it could get lost in the air as it floats up to God like the feather it is, knocking and knocking, and finally falling back to earth as rain,
as pellets of ice, soaking a black branch,
collecting in drains, leaching into the ground,
and you walk in that weather every day.

Taking a closer look at age related macular degeneration

As we age, it becomes more important than ever to pay attention to our bodies in order to maintain good health. Eyes are no exception. Age-related macular degeneration (AMD) is a leading cause of vision loss in Americans 60 years of age and older - and early detection is key.

AMD is a disease associated with aging that gradually destroys sharp, central vision needed for seeing objects clearly and for common daily tasks such as reading and driving. It affects the macula, the part of the eye in the center of the retina that allows you to see fine detail.

When a person has AMD, the macula begins to deteriorate, causing symptoms that can range from blurred or slightly distorted central vision to a blind spot in the center of the visual field. It does not cause pain and in some cases, advances so slowly that people notice little change in their vision. In others, the disease can progress quickly and, though AMD does not cause blindness, it could potentially lead to loss of central vision in both eyes.

AMD occurs in two forms: dry and wet.

Dry AMD occurs when the light-sensitive cells in the macula slowly break down, gradually blurring central vision in the affected eye. The most common symptom is slightly blurred vision; one may have difficulty recognizing faces or need more light for reading and other tasks.

Health Watch

Another sign of dry AMD is drusen, or yellow spots under the retina. The National Eye Institute's Age-Related Eye Disease Study (AREDS) found that taking a specific high-dose formulation of antioxidants and zinc significantly reduces the risk of advanced AMD and its associated vision loss.

Wet AMD is considered advanced AMD. Symptoms include: Straight lines appearing wavy, things appearing lopsided or smaller than they really are, blurry or blind spot in your field of vision and abrupt onset with rapid worsening of symptoms. It can be treated with laser surgery, photodynamic therapy, and injections into the eye. If AMD is caught early, in the dry stage, it can prevent a patient from ever advancing to the wet stage.

As a rule, dry AMD affects both eyes. Treatment is paramount; it can delay and possibly prevent intermediate AMD from progressing to the advanced stage, in which vision loss occurs.

Dr. Allan Rinke, board certified ophthalmologist, often sees patients with both forms of AMD. "Macular degeneration can be detected on a dilated yearly eye exam," Rinke said. "If you are having difficulty with your vision it is important to get this ruled out. Wet macular degeneration can progress quickly if not treated."

The greatest risk factor for AMD is age. Other factors to be aware of are:

- Race - it is more common in whites.
- Gender - it is more common in women.
- Smokers - smoking can increase your risk.
- Family history - AMD in your immediate family can put you at higher risk.
- Obesity - being overweight has been known to speed up progression of the disease.

Your lifestyle can play a role in reducing your risk of developing AMD. Here are some things you can do in terms of prevention:

- Eat a healthy diet high in green leafy vegetables and fish.
- Don't smoke.
- Maintain normal blood pressure.
- Watch your weight.
- Exercise.
- Maintain routine eye exams.

For more information on AMD, contact Dr. Allan Rinke, at Eye Specialist of Northeast Michigan, (989) 356-6353. Dr. Rinke specializes in diseases and surgery of the eye, including eyelid surgery, cataract surgery, glaucoma treatment, diabetic eye evaluations, and general eye exams.

Fall turkey applications on sale through August 1

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds hunters that applications for fall turkey hunting licenses are on sale through August 1.

A total of 50,050 licenses are available through a lottery for the units open to hunting, 3,350 general licenses that may be used on public or private land and 46,700 licenses for private land only. Eight wild turkey management units totaling 42,218 square miles are open to fall turkey hunting during the September 15 - November 14 season, including most of the southern Lower Peninsula, Beaver Island, and the entire Upper Peninsula.

"We are in the second year of a three-year period of stabilized regulations that were developed by working with turkey hunting groups," said Al Stewart, the DNR's upland game bird specialist. "Regulations are similar to last year with one change occurring to quotas in the Upper Peninsula. The Unit M quota was reduced from 4,000 to 1,500 licenses."

Hunters may apply for a turkey hunting license at any authorized license agent, at DNR Operations Service Centers, or online at www.michigan.gov/huntdrawings. The application fee is $4. Drawing results will be posted online beginning August 15.

If any licenses remain after the drawing, unsuccessful applicants may purchase one leftover license at any license agent or online for a one week period beginning August 22 at 10 a.m. (EDT). Any licenses that remain as of August 29 at 10 a.m. (EDT) will be available for purchase over the counter by any hunter. The licenses will be sold until the quotas are met.

Hunters have an additional opportunity to get a turkey license by applying for the 2012 Pure Michigan Hunt drawing. Each application is $4 and hunters may apply as many times as they like. Three winners will receive a hunt package that includes an elk, bear, turkey, and antlerless deer license. For more information, go to www.michigan.gov/puremichiganhunt. Season dates and regulations have not yet been established for the 2012 hunting seasons.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - What's Happening to the Sun?

I am a proponent of global warming which is an accepted model being advocated by a majority of individuals in the scientific community. Even if this theory is proven wrong, it makes no sense to me to continue to pump pollutants into the atmosphere which are known to trap heat—heat that will cause our planet to warm. One aspect of global warming or cooling, however, is not within our control. Solar physicists have noted that the sun's varying activity can be understood by looking at sunspot numbers. Sunspots are intense areas of solar magnetism which slow the ability of the sun to transport energy to its surface. Intuitively, it seems that many dark, cool spots covering the sun should produce a lower energy output than when the sun is spotless. An interesting idea—yes; a correct idea—no! The sun actually overcompensates by funneling greater energy outflow in regions called faculae near the spots. A spotless sun is less luminous than when Sol is heavily spotted. This means that when a sunspot cycle bottoms, the Earth cools ever so slightly and warms in a similar fashion when activity is high. Sunspot numbers vary in periods which average 11 years, but groupings of cycles seem to show periodicity also; and sometimes the cycles cease to occur for decades. This happened from 1645 to 1715 and to a lesser extent from 1790 to 1830. In both instances, the Earth's temperature cooled significantly, producing colder winters and cooler summers. A similar situation may be occurring now. We are just emerging from the longest solar minimum in a century and a weak solar maximum has been predicted for 2013, three years later than originally calculated. Forecasts for the following solar maximum envision even less activity, due to a weaker circulation of solar plasma. If this proves correct, we may get an extra decade or two to sort out our global warming issues. www.astronomy.org

The History Channel

• On July 26, 1775, the U.S. postal system is established by the Second Continental Congress, with Benjamin Franklin as its first postmaster general. Until then there were no post offices in the colonies, so mail was typically left at inns and taverns.

• On July 25, 1832, the first recorded railroad accident in U.S. history occurs when four people are thrown off a vacant car near Quincy, Mass. A cable on a vacant car snapped them off the train and over a 34-foot cliff.

• On July 31, 1916, future racing legend Louise Smith, who will become the first woman inducted into the International Motorsports Hall of Fame, is born in Barnesville, Ga. In her first race, unaware that a checkered flag meant the finish line, Smith kept going when the race ended until someone threw out a red flag.

• On July 28, 1932, President Hoover orders the U.S. Army under Gen. Douglas MacArthur to evict Bonus Marchers — a group of World War I veterans seeking cash payments for their veterans' bonus certificates — from Washington, D.C. MacArthur's men set their camps on fire, and the veterans were driven from the city.

• On July 29, 1958, the U.S. Congress passes legislation establishing the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a civilian agency responsible for coordinating America's activities in space. • If you're like the average American, you eat 20 quarts of ice cream every year.

• I'm sure you've heard the term "dimwit" used as an insult, but, as it turns out, the word is more descriptive than derogatory. The human brain actually uses less power than a 100-watt light bulb.

• A man named Patrick Hooligan lived in London in the mid-1800s. He was such a notorious troublemaker that his name is still used today to refer to ruffians and hoodlums.

• In 1909, in England, one Lord Barbazon took a pig up for a ride in an airplane. Bovines seemingly got short shrift; the first cow didn't take to the air until 1930. It was in February of that year that a cow was loaded into an airplane in St. Louis. It was milked during the flight, and the milk was parachuted to earth.

VILLAGE OF LINCOLN MINUTES

The Lincoln Village Council met on Tuesday, July 5 at 7 p.m. at the village hall. The meeting opened with the "Pledge of Allegiance." Those in attendance included: President Jordan, treasurer Kossa, clerk Somers, deputy clerk/treasurer Stutzman, and council members Gauthier, Lask, Naylor, Somers and Stutzman. Absent was council member Sara Healy. Also present was attorney Cook and guests. The minutes of the May meeting were approved on a motion from Gauthier, with support from Somers. The treasurer's report was approved subject to audit on a motion from Gauthier, with support from Stutzman.

Leroy Hall, fire chief and Scott DuBay, assistant fire chief, attended the meeting and presented Ryan Mendyka for consideration as a new fire fighter/first responder. A motion was made by Gauthier, with support from Lask, to appoint Ryan Mendyka as a new fire fighter/first responder. Carried. Ryan already has all the necessary certification in place and will mainly be working with the department as a fire fighter. Hall stated the DNR grant is nearing completion and they have been able to purchase additional pagers and batteries. President Jordan stated that he will be working with Joan Gonyea and Hall as well as treasurer Mary Kossa to close out the FEMA grant.

Sue Kennard of the Brownlee Lake Association stated that the project to clean up the lake has started. It has been 10 years of hard work, fund raisers, Texas Hold'em's, boat parades etc. to get the funding in place. Twenty One thousand feet of tubing was placed in the lake and the rest of the materials will be put together starting tomorrow. There are seven sites where stations will be placed. All riparian owners have agreed to look after the individual sites that are located near their properties. The target date for finishing the project is Friday. The system will be tested for a half hour prior to beginning the actual process of turning the system on for the duration of the summer and fall. Although the association is still short $15,000 members decided to go ahead with the project and continue fund raising efforts. Ron Kennard stated that there will be an additional fixed cost of $4,000 to $5,000 per year to keep the pumps running 24 hours per day from April to November. District Health Department No. 2 will be testing the water at the beach as well as the people who are installing the system. Ron stated that the lake will "stop dying" as of Friday. Thanks Ron and Sue for all your efforts. In old business, Stutzman stated that after checking on prices for purchasing a village Christmas tree it was decided to use the tree that is located by the village hall. John will check on getting electric installed for use in the area. He stated that the Civil War reenactment was very nice although he would like to have had a better turnout. The group stated that this was a wonderful place to stay and they thoroughly enjoyed their time. They would like to come back next year. Jordan stated that there were issues that needed to be taken care of for the future and he would like to form a committee to work on it for next year. Jordan thanked Marcia Simons for all her help during the festivities. Gauthier brought the group up to date on the planned dedication of the Everett Schram ball field to be held on July 23 at noon. She stated that they are still looking for people to sign up to play in a fun type softball game. Anyone interested in playing or those wanting more information should call Bonny Gauthier at (989) 736-3844 or Sharon Ginder at (989) 736-8314. It is also possible that there will be a little league game being played that day. She stated that the inside of the Flights of Imagination needs some attention. Jordan stated that the entire complex needs work so there is a possibility of getting the Lincoln Lions and the beautification committee together for a work bee.

In new business, Somers stated that the dump truck needs a lot of repairs. Village helper Ray Somers has looked at what types of repairs need to be done. It appears that it could cost in the neighborhood of $10,000 to repair it completely or possibly $15,000 to get a newer truck. Dick will see about having someone work on it in Alpena.

President Jordan gave his report. The small dock has been fixed at the beach and the sign has been moved. The posts from the big dock still need to be taken out, hopefully yet this week. Jordan stated that the new pontoon/dock needs the ladder to be attached and anchors to be added. The security cameras at the playground will be installed very soon. There are currently two poles in place ready to have the cameras put up.

NEMCOG has been notified that we want them to redo our ordinances and help us get things going in the right direction. John Klinger, Gustin Township supervisor has indicated that they would also like to work with us and NEMCOG to see this plan worked out. Jordan stated that he has talked with officials from Hawes Township and asked to be included in their next tri-township meeting. He suggested that members of the planning commission should attend the next meeting once we have been notified. Jordan brought a package regarding a fiber-optic company that wants to work within the village to bury fiber optic cable along the roadway. Attorney Cook looked the permit over and stated that he believes we should pass the resolution to allow Merit Incorporated to work within the village. An authorization to approve the request submitted under the Metro Act to Merit Network was made by Gauthier, with support from Stutzman. A roll call vote was taken; Gauthier, Lask, Naylor, Somers, Stutzman, all ayes. Absent was council member Healy. Resolution passed.

Jordan stated that there several roads being closed during the streetscape project. He asked that motorists be aware that the entire length from Main to Traverse Bay will be closed and access can be made from the side streets. Jordan has talked with personnel from the sheriff's department, the EMS and road commission offices to alert them of the closures. Jordan stated that we are still waiting for official closing papers from the demo grant. The façade grant is moving forward and we are still waiting for word on whether we are approved. Jordan stated that Huron Community Bank has a new manager and he looks forward to doing lots of things in the community. A meeting will be held next week for selection of Citizen of the Year. Those on the committee include,

Kossa, Somers, Naylor and Jordan. A letter was received from Gustin Township regarding their intent to remove lilac bushes beside the Gustin Township hall. Dick will work on the project later next week. A letter was received from Dave James regarding the new lighting for the streetscape project. Dave has calculated a way to save money on the new light fixtures by installing dimmer type switches on them. President Jordan stated that he received information from Alpena Montmorency Alcona Educational Service District Great Parents, Great Start regarding a play group being held in Lincoln. The group will meet on Mondays in July between 10 and 11 a.m. at the playground area. Children between the ages of zero and five are welcome as well as siblings. All materials are provided and there will be lightly structured activities. Any questions may be directed to Heather at (989) 354-3101 extension 121. HAYNES TOWNSHIP ORDINANCE

Haynes Township Ordinance to Establish a New Planning Commission and Transfer Zoning Authority

An ordinance to establish the Haynes Township Planning Commission; provide for the composition; provide for the powers, duties and limitations of that planning commission; and repeal any ordinance or parts of ordinances or resolutions in conflict with this ordinance.

The Township of Haynes, Alcona County, Michigan, Ordains:

Section 1: Scope, Purpose and Intent
 This ordinance is adopted pursuant to the authority granted the township board under the Michigan Planning Enabling Act, Public Act 33 of 2008, MCL 125.3801, et seq., and the Michigan Zoning Enabling Act, Public Act 110 of 2006, MCL 125.3101, et seq., to establish a planning commission with the powers, duties and limitations provided by those Acts and subject to the terms and conditions of this ordinance and any future amendments to this ordinance.

The purpose of this ordinance is to provide that the Haynes Township Board shall hereby establish the Haynes Township Planning Commission; to establish the appointments, terms and membership of the planning commission; to identify the officers and the minimum number of meetings per year of the planning commission; to prescribe the authority, powers and duties of the planning commission; and to transfer all powers, duties and responsibilities of the Haynes Township Zoning Board to the planning commission.

Section 2: Establishment
 The township board hereby creates a township planning commission consisting of five members. The planning commission is formed under the authority of and subject to the powers, duties, and limitations provided in the Michigan Planning Enabling Act, Public Act 33 of 2008, MCL 125.3801, et seq., and further subject to the terms and conditions of this ordinance and any future amendments to this ordinance.

Section 3: Appointments and Terms
 The township supervisor, with the approval of the township board by a majority vote of the members elected and serving, shall appoint all planning commission members, including the ex officio member.

When the planning commission is first established, the members appointed, other than the ex officio member, shall be appointed to one-year, two-year or three-year terms such that, as nearly as possible, the terms of one-third of all the planning commission members will expire each year. After that, all planning commission members, other than the ex officio member, shall serve for terms of three years each.

A planning commission member shall hold office until his or her successor is appointed. Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as the original appointment.

bers at least 48 hours before the meeting.

Final authority to approve a master plan or any amendments thereto shall rest with the planning commission unless the township board passes a resolution asserting the right to approve or reject the master plan.

Unless rescinded by the township, any plan adopted or amended under the Township Planning Act, Public Act 168 of 1959, MCL 125.321, et seq., need not be readopted under the Michigan Planning Enabling Act, Public Act 33 of 2008, MCL 125.3801, et seq.

Section 11: Zoning Powers
 All powers, duties, and responsibilities provided for zoning boards or zoning commissions by the Michigan Zoning Enabling Act, Public Act 110 of 2006, MCL 125.3101, et seq., or other applicable zoning statutes are transferred to the Haynes Township Planning Commission.

Any existing zoning ordinance shall remain in full force and effect except as otherwise amended or repealed by the township board.

Section 12: Subdivision and Land Division Recommendations

The planning commission may recommend to the township board provisions of an ordinance or rules governing the subdivision of land. Before recommending such an ordinance or rule, the planning commission shall hold a public hearing on the proposed ordinance or rule. The planning commission shall give notice of the time and place of the public hearing not less than 15 days before the hearing by publication of a newspaper of general circulation within the township.

The planning commission shall review and make recommendation on a proposed plat before action thereon by the township board under the Land Division Act, Public Act 288 of 1967, MCL 560.101, et seq. Before making its recommendation, the planning commission shall hold a public hearing on the proposed plat. A plat submitted to the planning commission shall contain the name and address of the proprietor or other person to whom notice of a hearing shall be sent. Not less than 15 days before the date of the hearing, notice of the date, time and place of the hearing shall be sent to that person at that address by mail and shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the township. Similar notice shall be mailed to the owners of land immediately adjoining the proposed platted land.

Section 13: Severability
 The provisions of this ordinance are hereby declared to be severable, and if any part is declared invalid for any reason by a court of competent jurisdiction, it shall not affect the remainder of the ordinance, which shall continue in full force and effect.

Section 14: Repeal
 All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Section 15: Effective Date
 This ordinance shall take effect 63 days after the ordinance is published by the township board in a newspaper of general circulation in the township.

Certificate
