Public's help sought in credit union break in

By Cheryl Peterson
Editor

Local law enforcement is asking for the public's help in the investigation into a break in at a local credit union.

The breaking and entering occurred at 5:38 a.m. on Monday, July 28 at the Glennie branch of Northland Area Federal Credit Union.

According to a press release from the Alcona County Sheriff's Department, officers responded to a bank alarm at the credit union and found a door on the backside of the building which had been forced open. The safe was damaged, but unopened. Nothing was taken from the bank.

A video surveillance system from inside the bank captured one suspect who entered the bank and exterior surveillance from a nearby business provided information that showed another suspect was involved.

"The suspect (who entered the credit union) was wearing a light colored gray hooded sweatshirt with a camo patterned jacket over the sweatshirt. The suspect was also wearing black pants and white tennis shoes," according to the press release.

"The suspect vehicle is a dark blue or black Chevy blazer which was driven by a second suspect," the release stated.

The incident is under investigation.

Anyone with information which may help identify the suspects is asked to contact the Alcona County Sheriff's Department at (989) 724-6271.

Hospitality event fosters connection to necessary services, items, information

Staff Writer

This year's Project Connect promises to bring a free meal, school supplies, assistance for veterans and so much more for those in need in Alcona County.

Project Connect is an annual event that provides free services, products, and information to those in need in Alcona County. On Tuesday, Aug. 5, from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m., at the Alcona High School auditorium, 51 N. Barlow Rd., Harrisville, visitors can receive a bag of free groceries, school supplies, hygiene products, paper products, cleaning supplies, socks and underwear, laundry detergent, and clothing vouchers for St. Vincent de Paul in Mikado. Tables with information like veteran's housing and benefits information, free ear and eye exams, diabetes testing and haircuts will also be available.

All products are donated and are free of charge. No proof of need is required and door prizes will be offered at the various information booths around Alcona High School.

This event began as Project Connect through the Northeastern Coalition and Prevention of Homelessness and Hunger and was federally funded. However, in 2006, in order to expand services to more families in need, Project Connect became independent with the help of Lea Krause. Since then, the project has grown.

Krause coordinated the event for seven years until she announced she was stepping down last year. Les and Julie Miller of New Life Lutheran Church in Hubbard Lake came forward to take over the event, believing it was "too good to see it go." They brought together a steering committee between the three Lutheran churches in the county: New Life Lutheran, Trinity Lutheran of Barton City and Spruce Lutheran.

Although she misses being more involved with the event, Krause said she has complete confidence in the Millers. Playing a smaller role also allows her to focus more on her own booth, the Alcona Health Center Dental Services. "I'll be happy not to be running all over the place and being pulled 100 different ways," Krause said.

A daunting task at first, the Millers found guidance through Krause who still continued to help and attend meetings, even providing a list of past participants and agencies to the committee.

The event had 33 different agencies donate time and resources last year; this year has increased to 41. All the items available are donated by the different agencies and volunteers, but all items were bought or provided by businesses in Alcona County in order to

Black Bear peddlers catch the thrill of the ride and the weather

It started as thick fog marched into Grayling, Mich. early morning on Sunday, July 27. Over 250 peddlers crossed the start line on their way to catch the paddlers of the AuSable Canoe Marathon that started the night before. The weather initially broke to a beautiful sun filled day. For much of the early day it was easy to look at the weather and say, "What a great day to be in northern Michigan." It was not to last.

Many bicyclists were optimistic as they pushed off from the start line. The peddlers were a mixture of seasoned bicyclists and newcomers. Evelyn Moon, 80, from East Tawas, was in her fifth tour of the Black Bear. "I just want to get up Heartbreak Hill, cross the finish line and my motivation is the ice cream cone at the end of the ride. And I get a double scoop!"

Kelley Benson, 56, from Ypsilanti, Mich. and a teacher of piano at the University of Michigan, School of Music, was determined to put a "century ride" of 100 miles on her bucket list. Diagnosed with ovarian cancer in December 2013 and having gone through grueling chemotherapy treatment, she worked for months to get into shape. In remission since May, she knew the Black Bear Bicycle Tour was what she wanted to do.

However, the good weather didn't last. Benson was 72 miles into her ride when severe weather hit. Rescued by Grayling volunteer, Jerry Gosnell, Benson was taken to the Glennie Fire Station where many cyclists took cover from the weather.

"The Rotary Club does a great job with support at the major corners. I always felt safe with the numerous volunteers and stations along the way," Benson said. She also added that although she didn't finish, she plans on being back next year.

As severe weather moved east along the bike route, including hail, high winds, rain and a tornado warning, many riders also took shelter in McKinley, Mich. and Glennie. Course support volunteers transported participants and provided assistance along a 44 mile route between McKinley, Mich. and Oscoda. While some riders called it quits, many waited for the weather to pass to finish the tour.

As mid-afternoon approached, severe weather hit the finish area in Oscoda. High winds nearly took down the tents while volunteers and riders struggled to keep the structure up. Black Bear participants and people rescued by the Iosco County Sheriff's Department Marine Patrol from the river, huddled together waiting for the weather to improve. G's Pizza delivered

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
I am responding to a letter Jan Haase wrote in the July 23 paper. I live in Glennie and on the Fourth of July our town was overwhelmed with tourists. If your grandson was driving 60 in a 55 mile per hour zone he deserved a ticket. He was endangering his life and the life of others. Is he above the law? I don't think so. If he had a party to attend he should have left earlier so he wouldn't have to speed.

To the Editor
The Democratic primary is supposed to be for Democratic candidates. After reading the story in the Alpena News about Scot McKenzie, who is running for state representative, I wonder if that is true. Why would someone who claims to be a Democrat never talk about Republicans being the problem and instead say over and over that he has no problem voting against the Democratic Party?

Clearly, Mr. McKenzie is pandering for independent votes which makes me wonder why he isn't running as an Independent. You see, Mr. McKenzie, the job of Democratic candidates is to show independent voters why we better represent their interests than Republicans. Instead, you throw Democrats under the bus for your own political pandering. That doesn't fool me, and I don't believe it will fool anyone else.

Michael Johnson

(Editor's Note: The Primary Election on August 5 is to let voters select a candidate from either party -- Democrat or Republican -- to be placed on the General Election ballot in November.)

To the Editor,

A labor union is an organization of wage earners for mutual aid and protection, and for dealing collectively with employers.

The meaning of union has been cast aside and overlooked by the Michigan Education Association (MEA) endorsement panel. Their endorsement in the primary election for state representative for the 106th District of a candidate who has allegedly never belonged to a union, nor have his employees been unionized, is shameful and embarrassing to all unions.

There were two other candidates from which to choose. One, an experienced negotiator of MEA contracts (contracts that all of the committee members have benefited from). The other, a lifetime MEA union member, who won the prestigious Golden Apple Teacher Award worth $10,000 for her school from Governor Jennifer Granholm. These two candidates have nearly 70 combined years of paying dues to the MEA. Union members and retirees depend on their union to recommend a candidate who will work hard for their best interests. This MEA panel has let them down. This endorsement for the primary election August 5 tells us the reason for the decline of unions in America, and why Michigan has become a "right to work state." It wasn't necessary, or ethical to do an endorsement before the primary.

To the Editor,
 I had the opportunity to sit in on the road commission meeting late May and was appalled to find out that the road commission, at that time, had not yet billed the townships for at the very least a large part of the expenses incurred for 2013 township road projects. Late May is almost a year after they were completed. For the purpose of this letter I requested the exact dollar amounts under the Freedom of Information Act, but they requested I pay them $46 dollars for this information. So rather than spend my hard earned money, I decided to write this letter without the exact figures.

 When you stop to consider that, normally, bills are sent within 30 days of projects being completed, one must question how can this go unnoticed for almost year by those in charge of the road commission? The projects were completed well before the fire, so this can't be used as an excuse. From my understanding up until 2013 bills have been sent out in a timely manner.

 Why am I bringing this up? I wanted to bring this to the attention of voting property tax payers in Alcona because I'm deeply troubled considering such a large amount of money wasn't collected because the townships weren't billed. How can we feel comfortable voting for a millage request, requiring a millage to raise additional funding? For these reasons I'm going on record as voting no for this mileage request.

To the Editor,
 The League of Women Voters of Alpena County urges voters to check the website www.VOTE411.org to find nonpartisan information about candidates and ballot issues that are on the August 5 primary election ballot. By typing in their name and address, a voter can find the listing of all candidates, candidate responses, five Alpena County ballot proposals, township proposals, and background on state Proposal 14-1. Of special interest on the VOTE411 website is the background information on candidates in contested races, i.e. Democrats running against Democrats and Republicans running against

Republicans. These contested races are for U.S. Representative, Michigan Representative, and local Alpena County Commissioners in Districts 3, 4 and 8. VOTE411 gives background information on all candidates who have responded. In the coming primary election, voters must vote either Republican or Democrat, a "straight ticket." Directions to access VOTE411: Enter your address and click "enter." Click "Get personalized information on candidates and issues." Just above the map, click on "Find my information." Choose a language - click on "Go to my races." Look above the governor to click "All my races." Michigan LWV Voter Service Chair Eva Packard said, "It's very important to vote in a primary election because in many races, the primary is the voter's only chance to influence who is elected." The League of Women Voters encourages citizens to make informed decisions and to vote. The league never supports or opposes candidates or political parties.

show support and gratitude for helping those in need.

The steering committee has been hard at work since May to bring together this event and Julie Miller said she hopes to see it "grow and grow." She explained Project Connect is billed as Alcona County's "Day of Hospitality" where citizens can "connect" with agencies and services to provide help that they need.

Other families and organizations have made a significant contribution this year by donating 129 bags of groceries and 100 bags of school supplies. All visitors will also receive a free lunch of hotdogs, chips, cookies, and a drink.

In order to prepare, items are bought in accordance to the number of those in attendance in the previous year, making sure not to run short and last throughout the three hours the event runs.

Last year was particularly successful, with over 250 people attending and leaving no items left over according to Les Miller. Julie Miller said they hope the same happens this year. However, if there are left over items this year, everything will go straight to the Spruce Food Pantry.

Activities for kids will be provided while parents and guardians make their way around the tables at the Alcona High School. Free face painting, coloring and a presentation from the South Shore and Lincoln Fire Departments about fire safety will take place throughout the event.

The Salvation Army will be serving lunch, which is also funded by community donations. Drawings for door prizes will include free haircuts, pizzas, grocery gift cards, gas gift cards, a free fishing day at a local trout farm, tickets to Thunder Bay Theatre production of Disney's "High School Musical," a barbecue grill and a Makita drill kit.

For more information, contact Les and Julie Miller at (989) 736-3890.

Riders crossing the finish line in Oscoda in record time were Christopher Evans, from Flint, Mich. whose time on his recumbent bike was three hours, 43 minutes, 29 seconds. Greg Jenkinson, of Corunna, Mich. finished first in the overall tour of bicycles with a time of 4:12:03. David Manges from Flushing, Mich. came in second and Craig Fitzpatrick came in third with respective times of 4:12:04 and 4:12:19. Valerie Litznerski of Kalamazoo, Mich. came in first in the women's category with a time of 4:37:52, while Mary Reichardt of Alpena came in second with a time of 4:47:12.

The support in the community of Glennie has involved local resident, Warren Mervyn. Mervyn has assisted the Grayling Rotary Club with finding volunteers for the 14 years of the event. He is a self-described "homebody" but completes 100 miles on his stationary bike in eight hours and 32 minutes on the Black Bear day.

Everyone who finishes the Black Bear has the chance to participate in a raffle drawing of small prizes and a new bike. Kara Wagner of Midland, Mich. was very happy to be taking the bike home.

The Black Bear Bicycle Tour is sponsored by Avita Water and is a fund raiser for the Grayling Rotary Club. The proceeds from the event support local and international efforts such as bicycle helmets for children attending the Grayling Bicycle Rodeo, scholarships for high school students and the ongoing effort to eradicate polio worldwide through Rotary International.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Food assistance programs can help seniors in need

Dear Savvy Senior,
I run a community counseling program for needy families and am frustrated that so few eligible seniors take advantage of the food stamp program. Can you write a column on this to help educate seniors to this underutilized benefit?

Reaching Out

Dear Reaching,

It's hard to imagine that a government program serving more than 46 million Americans each month is considered severely underutilized. But that's the reality of the Federal Food Stamp Program when it comes to serving seniors.

Nationwide, food stamps (now called the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, or SNAP) reaches around 80 percent of those eligible, but the numbers are much slimmer among the seniors, age 60 and older. Recent statistics indicate only 39 percent of eligible seniors receive SNAP benefits.

There are a number of reasons for the lack of participation. Some seniors are too embarrassed or too proud to apply. Others think that if they receive SNAP they will be taking food benefits away from others (which they won't). Some think it is too difficult to apply for SNAP, and others don't even know the program exists.

With all that said, here's a run down of which seniors are eligible for SNAP, what they get and how they can apply.

For seniors to get SNAP, their "net income" must be under the 100 percent federal poverty guidelines. So, households that have at least one person age 60 and older, or disabled, their net income must currently be less than $958 per month for an individual or $1,293 for a family of two. Households receiving TANF or SSI (except in California) are also eligible.

Net income is figured by taking gross income minus allowable deductions like medical expenses that exceed $35 per month out-of-pocket, and shelter costs (rent or mortgage payments, taxes and utility costs) that exceed half of the household's income.

In addition to the net income requirement, a few states also require that a senior's "assets" be below $3,250, not counting the home, retirement or pension plans, income from SSI or TANF, and vehicle (this varies by state). Most states, however, have much higher asset limits or they don't count assets at all when determining eligibility.

The SNAP pre-screening tool at www.snap-step1.usda.gov/fns can help seniors, and their family members, figure out if they qualify.

To apply, seniors or an

authorized representative will need to fill out a state application form, which can be done at the local SNAP office or it can be mailed or faxed in, or in many states it can be completed online.

If eligible, benefits will be provided on a plastic card that's used like a debit card and accepted at most grocery stores.

Depending on the person's financial situation, the amount of SNAP a beneficiary may be eligible for will range between $15 and $189 per month as an individual, or $15 to $347 for a family of two.

To learn more or apply, contact your local SNAP office - call (800) 221-5689 for contact information or visit www.fns.usda.gov/snap.

In addition to SNAP, the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program is another underused program that provides coupons that can be exchanged for fresh fruits and vegetables at farmers' markets, roadside stands and community supported agriculture programs.

Anyone eligible for a senior discount probably knows all too well the little life struggles which accompany aging bodies.

My Willy, just a few years shy of 70, has had his share lately. Nothing major, but enough to remind him he isn't 30 anymore. His latest appeared without warning; he simply woke up in the wee hours of Memorial Day unable to move his neck and in a great deal of pain.

Of course, like any normal holiday weekend, we had a house full of guests. It was 4 a.m. when I gently woke up my first cousin once removed, Tracy. "I have to take Wil to the hospital, we'll be home soon," she roused just enough to understand most of what I was saying and asked if I needed help.

Tracy is my cousin Tom's daughter and both of them could easily win the cousin humanitarian award (if there were such a thing). Tom is the cousin who always seems to be there; if there's any kind of celebration, Tom is there. If my world is falling apart, like the time my sister was breathing her last breath, Tom was there. And he stays as long as he is needed.

Tracy is a lot like her dad, always there, always responsible, easy to hug, easy to laugh, always willing to help. She was there for her dad at 19 when she gave him a much needed kidney. The two just celebrated their 20th anniversary of Tracy's kidney functioning perfectly in Tom.

After giving her dad a kidney, Tracy went on to have five children in her 20s -- a daughter and four boys including a set of identical twins. By the time she was 30 she was a single mom raising all five on her own. She has always held her head high and worked hard to raise her family. Her kids are all teenagers now.

That morning in every direction I looked there was sleeping city boys. Blankets were tossed, pillows dangled on the edge of air mattresses, sheets were rumpled, socks and shoes strewn on the floor amidst cell phones, walkie talkies and sling shots. The boys were all sleeping deeply, completely exhausted by a hard three day weekend of play at the Weber Mosquito Farm.

I smiled looking at the rumpled mess. I left a bulk package of cinnamon rolls on the counter and quietly got Wil to the car.

Wil had pinched nerves in

his neck due to degenerative aging disks. They gave him some pain killers and muscle relaxers and sent us home. Despite the meds, my hubby was in a world of hurt for weeks. When the drugs didn't help we were sent to a neurologist and surgery was scheduled.

During those weeks Willy was unable to do his daily summer tasks. All winter we had made a long list of to-do's we wanted to get done around the house this summer. It looked like none of those jobs would get tackled this year.

I did what I could to keep up with my Wil's chores. After a short how-to lecture from him I cut the grass around the house with his zero turn Cub Cadet. I even cut the neighbor's grass. I also learned the hard way not to lean the "cubby" too much on the ditch by the street.

I then got a quick course of instruction on how to operate the brush hog on the back of the tractor. As I mowed the long grass along our river bank swerving around many trees I learned the tractor and brush hog are not a zero turn (how that tree got between the back of the tractor and the front of the brush hog I'll never know).

When one task was finished a new one presented itself -- weed the pond and flower beds, brush our three extremely large shedding dogs, fill the dog food containers, fill the water softener with salt, get the ladder to replace a ceiling light. I was beginning to understand all the things which kept my man busy in the course of a day. My arms, my knees, my back and my head ached. Wil sat by watching me fight through another day, feeling guilty he couldn't help.

"I think it's time to call in the reserves," he said as I started to weed my flower beds -- a task I normally complete by mid June and was just being tackled in July.

"And just who would the reserves be?" I scoffed.

"Tracy's boys, she's got some good healthy strapping young men who aren't doing anything this summer. They need to be kept busy and we can certainly keep them busy,"

Wil said. I scoffed again with a grunt and kept working.

Wil walked away. I continued working and thinking. I muttered angrily to myself, "That's all I need is teenage boys to take care of along with everything else I have on my hands."

Two hours later I was still working in the same flower bed and I began to rethink what Wil had proposed. Maybe just two of those boys would be okay. Maybe they could just mow and possibly weed the pond. Hmm....some free labor would be nice.

Five exhausting hours later, still dripping with gardening sweat and dirt, I made arrangements to pick up Tracy's boys, Josh, 15 and Derrick 14. I felt a sense of relief... the reserves were coming and they'd be able to stay for almost three weeks until Wil's surgery.

By the time the boys arrived Wil was feeling a bit better, still he was to take it easy before and after surgery. I knew he'd hate the recovery part if we didn't get some of the things crossed off the to-do list while the boys were here.

First things first, we'd have to feed these growing boys so we went shopping. They were good about letting me know what they'd eat and what they wouldn't. Eight hundred dollars later I realized they'd eat just about anything.

The boys got busy mowing; when that job was done they were instructed how to paint door frames -- one of the many jobs on the to-do list. They managed only to drip paint on

Blooms at night

Trees and shrubs such as lindens, basswood, summersweet, French lilacs and mockoranges give out their fragrances at night. Some night-blooming perennials are Honeybells hosta and daffodils. Annuals like heliotrope, night-scented stocks and jasmine-scented tobacco also provide wonderful scents in the evening.

The Alcona County Road Commission has started work on a section of F-30 between M-65 and North Lake Road just east of Glennie with the grinding of the existing pockmarked surface.

Actual reconstruction will begin late in August and is expected to be completed by October 14. Work will include drainage corrections, gravel, a new asphalt surface, guard-rail replacement and signage.

The cost of the project is $582,474 with approximately $252,960 being supplied by voter-approved millage proceeds Curtis Township has been saving to make this project possible. The remainder of the cost is covered by state and federal transportation funds.

D.J. McQuestion & Sons, Inc., of LeRoy, Mich., will be the primary contractor on the job. Huron Engineering and Surveying of Alpena did the design engineering and will also be on hand to oversee the construction operation.

This section of F-30 is the last in a long succession of improvements over the years on the only east-west county road traversing Alcona County.

"It's been a long time in the making, but we finally were able to get all the financial components to fall in place to complete this project," said Alcona County Road Commission Managing Director Jesse Campbell. "In fact, this project has been in the planning stages through more than one township board administration. We are pleased to finally be able to see some activity."

Questions or concerns about the F-30 project or other road issues, should be directed to the Alcona County Road Commission at 301 N. Lake Street, P.O. Box 40, Lincoln, Mich. 48742, by phone at (989) 736-8168 or by e-mail at roads@alconacrc.com.

Four veterans from Alcona County received hand carved canes in conjunction with the Lean on Me program which were carved by members of the Sunrise Woodcarvers group. Cane recipients are (front row, from left) Warren Libka Sr. (cane carved by Terry Metzke), Les Thomas Sr. who served in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War from 1968-1970 (cane carved by Bill Hastings), (back row) Gregory Anderson, who served in the U.S. Air Force during 1972-1992 (cane carved by Jim Phinney) and Robert Nelson who served in the U.S. Army during the Vietnam War from 1967-1969 (cane carved by Gale Sherbeck). Hubbard Lake Road Phase 2 to begin

The second part of a two-phase project to reconstruct Hubbard Lake Road between Spruce Road and Hubert Road in Alcona County's Caledonia Township is slated to begin September 10.

The first portion was completed last year and ended at Bennett Road, leaving the 1.45 mile stretch to Hubert Road for this year.

While not as complicated as the first phase where swampy conditions created some challenges, this next section will involve some grade adjustments and major changes to the intersections at Jennison Grove Road and Hickey Hill Road.

According to Alcona County Road Commission Managing Director Jesse Campbell, there have been some long-standing issues with the curve and hill between the two roads and also with the configuration of the two intersections.

"We are constantly repairing the shoulder where traffic inherently runs off the paved edge because of the way the curve is shaped," said Campbell. "Also, both Jennison Grove and Hickey Hill roads are tangents off Hubbard Lake Road instead of the standard and safer 90 degree configuration that allows for a clear field of vision."

He explained the hill will be cut approximately four feet, the intersection at Hickey Hill Road will be eliminated, and the intersection at Jennison Grove will be reworked to create an intersection that will better serve the traffic patterns the road sees today.

The project is funded by $248,787 in Surface Transportation Program allocations from state and federal sources and Caledonia Township's

Area youth learn about STEM education at 4-H Camp

By Les Thomas

4-H Program Coordinator

Marshmallows, crafts and mosquito bites... Summer camp conjures these images and many more for any adult that ever went to camp years ago.

For this year's participants of the 4-H Camp Ready, SET-Go! at the Ocqueoc Outdoor Center, these images are still accurate but may not be the most memorable thing about Rube Goldberg machines. (search that term on YouTube). Campers designed and built pieces of a complex machine that could accomplish a simple task (such as popping a balloon or raising a flag). On the second day, those smaller machines were altered and combined to create a single machine that took up an entire room.

Throughout their stay,

4-H volunteers, agencies that participated this year were Hammond Bay Biological Station, Jordan River Fish Hatchery, Michigan State University Extension SNAP Ed Program as well as various other adult volunteers.

For more information about Alcona 4-H or MSU Extension programs, contact the Alcona MSU Extension office at (989) 724-6478.

their summer camp experience. Campers enjoyed educational sessions based on education Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) as well as traditional sessions and free-time activities that will certainly be a high point of their summers.

Fifty-five campers ages nine to 12 and 19 counselors (ages 15 to 19) from Alcona, Alpena, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle counties gathered at the former Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Millersburg, Mich. for the overnight camp.

Campers engage in eight educational and fun sessions that closely mirror the theme. Sessions this year focused on engineering, biological science, mathematics and nutrition -- with a few sessions addressing traditional camp activities like canoeing and archery.

One of the highlights this year was the engineering session based on the creation of campers were guided and mentored by volunteer teenage counselors that came from four of the five participating counties -- a big factor to a successful camp. This leadership opportunity couldn't be more vital to the success of the camp -- creating an environment that allows youth to learn and have fun.

Counselors keep groups together during the day, often running to the bathroom in the wee hours of the night and assisting staff wherever possible. These teenage youth participated in as many as 12 hours of training in preparation for camp while many were returning from previous years and knew what to expect.

Alcona County has a 15 year history with this camp, and this year sent 21 campers and two teenage counselors. Volunteers coming from Alcona this year included archery instructors Tom and Alex Keerl In addition to local

Summertime and the fishing is good

The inland lakes are providing some good fishing opportunities and can be a great alternative to those that are not able to get out on the Great Lakes because of windy conditions.

Northeast Michigan Fishing Report

Northeast Lower Peninsula July 24

• Rogers City: Boat anglers are taking chinook, coho, pink salmon, steelhead and lake trout in 45 to 120 feet. Most are spreading lines throughout the water column with blue and silver, green or black and white spoons. Steelhead were up high and hitting on orange spoons. Try Forty Mile Point, straight out from the harbor or south towards Swan Bay and Adams Point.

• Alpena: Those targeting trout and salmon are heading towards the Nine Mile Can, Rockport, the Nordmere

Wreck and Thunder Bay Island and fishing in 45 to 90 feet. Anglers are using spoons and attractors for lake trout near the bottom. Steelhead were caught up high on orange spoons. Walleye are being caught throughout the bay. Hot spots were Sulphur Island, Grass Island, Scarecrow and Thunder Bay Island when using a combination of crawler harnesses and crank baits.

• Thunder Bay River: Is producing smallmouth bass, rock bass and a few walleye. Anglers are using crawlers and leeches or casting artificial baits.

• Harrisville: Fishing slowed as water temperatures dropped. Boats making their way out had limited success for steelhead, lake trout and salmon. Try dark colors and start shallow about 60 feet and head out to 120 feet. Walleye were holding in 12 to 40 feet north and south of the harbor.

• Oscoda: Boat anglers had decent results for lake trout, steelhead and the odd salmon. Most were dropping lines in 75 feet and working their way out in the morning. In the evening, reverse and follow the fish into shallow waters. Lake trout are hitting on dark colors in the bottom 20 feet. Steelhead are on the scum lines and staying up high.

• AuSable River: Walleye are still making their way into the river in good numbers. Crawlers, leeches and stick baits are working well early or late.

• Higgins Lake: Continues to produce a lot of rock bass. Perch have been caught but anglers will have to locate the schools of fish. Those trolling and jigging caught lake trout along the bottom. Most are fishing along the ridge that runs off the North Sunken Island. Some caught bass ranging 17 inches or so while others have caught pike ranging 22 to 34 inches.

• Houghton Lake: Those fishing along the weed beds are catching panfish, wall-eye and bass. Try six to 10 feet of water.

• Tawas: Pier and river fishing were slow with only a few smallmouth bass, rock bass, freshwater drum and small perch caught. Boats trolling outside Buoy No. 2 caught steelhead off the surface and down to about 20 feet in waters 35 to 50 feet deep. A few walleyes were also caught. A couple of boats perch fishing along the weed beds off Jerry's Marina caught a fair number of fish ranging six to 10 inches. A good number of walleye boats continue to head south to the Charity Islands.

• AuGres: Water temperatures dropped because of prevailing winds however, those trolling were still taking good catches of walleye straight off the mouth of the AuGres River and south of Pointe AuGres off the Rifle Bar in 10 to 20 feet. Look for areas of warm water and you will find active fish.

(The Weekly Fishing Report is intended to give anglers an "idea" of what is going on around the state. Updates for the report come from DNR Fisheries creel clerks and field staff as well as DNR conservation officers working in the field. For those looking for specific information on a certain body of water or port, it is safe to say if a certain species is being caught in some waters in the area, more than likely they are being caught in all waters in that section of the state that have that species. This report has been provided by the DNR Fisheries Division; (517) 284-5830; located in Constitution Hall, 525 W. Allegan Street, Lansing, Mich. 48933.)

Gardening Tips

August is the time to enjoy the "fruits of our labor" as far as gardening is concerned. There are, of course, still the dead-heading of flowers, the trimming back of shrubs, pulling the occasional weed and thinning overzealous plants.

The "green" which has been removed from the garden to tidy it up, can provide the nutrients to jump-start those same plants next spring, if they are composted.

Simply stated, composting is achieved by layering green materials (yard and kitchen waste, no bones or meat products) and brown materials, primarily dried leaves from last fall's raking. Add water periodically and you get mulch.

Now is a good time to start a compost pile. Check out the latest issue of "Horticulture" in the local library for more information.

a few things, one of them the leather sofa in the living room (how it got there remains a mystery).

Every day presented new jobs neither of the city boys had ever done before, including weeding the pond. As the older one pulled and tugged weeds he was reminded again about the very large snapping turtles in the pond. Willy cautioned, "If you leave them alone they will leave you alone." The younger of the two boys (and probably the smarter) stayed on the sidelines to drag away the debris his brother gathered from the pond.

An hour later they were ready to eat again.

I never lifted anything over 10 pounds the entire time the boys were with us. Every day a new job on the to-do list was checked off. They worked from after breakfast until lunch. Sometimes they'd wander off to watch TV, but we were fairly good at getting them back to work again until dinner. They lifted, climbed, painted, brushed, shoveled, installed and scrubbed. They worked hard.

They also played hard -- daily rides on the four wheelers (a bit too fast for my liking) through the woods for a splash in the river, rolling on the floor playing with our dogs, playing cards and games on their phones, wrestling each other as brothers do and laughing... lots and lots of laughing.

Weber boot camp had a good effect on them; they ate well and slept hard. They made their beds in the morning and used coasters under their glasses. They vacuumed, washed dishes and kept the mud they collected from a day's work outside. They said please and thank you and occasionally used a napkin instead of wiping their hands on their pants.

All in all, they were good boys. Yes, they needed some guidance, well, to be honest, they needed a lot of guidance, but for the most part they were good boys.

Just two days left to their visit, the pond still needed some attention. Wil borrowed our neighbor's row boat and sent them afloat to get the weeds from the middle. I went to work that day thinking the pond would sparkle by the time I got back.

Apparently, while I was gone the boys decided a row boat meant playtime. After Wil advised one of them not to stand up and rock it for the second time, he decided to take matters into his own hands and got in the small boat with them.

When I first heard about the three boaters in our pond all I could think of was the nursery rhyme three men in a tub, rub-a-dub-dub, but after listening to their pond cleaning efforts and seeing for myself how many weeds they got out of the pond, I thought more it probably looked like George Washington leading his troops across the Delaware.

Every job on our to-do list is complete, plus some extra things we hadn't thought of. We took the boys home last week and Wil had his surgery. It was a success all the way around. Today we are back at home. Wil is resting easy in his chair. The house is quiet...too quiet.

I miss those extra large feet tromping through our house. Our refrigerator echos of emptiness and I will miss cooking for an army and not having a single piece of food left over. I will really miss their laughter.

It was the most expensive free labor we ever acquired, but it was worth it. I found out my cousin Tom's grandsons were just like him. They were there for us when we needed them.

(Mary Weber was born and raised in the suburbs of Detroit, Mich. She moved to Alcona County in 2005 with her husband, Willy, when he retired. Life in the north woods, away from city life presents new experiences with nature on a daily basis...and they love every minute of it.)

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Meteor Season Upon Us

The summertime heralds the increase of meteor activity which coincides nicely with our desire to spend more time outdoors. I have lots of fond camping memories during these warmer months. My friends and I would specifically choose a dark location, often in New England, to view shooting stars. The evening hours before midnight were literally a hoot. A bright shooting star would flash without warning, and pockets of cheers and screams from observant campers would echo against the black dome of the star-filled sky. Gradually, as the hours ticked away, the campground hoopla would slowly fade, so that by 1 a.m., it was normally just my friends and I who were still watching. We were usually in silent competition to see who could observe the most meteors. The nights were always very dewy, so plastic covering our sleeping bags and air mattresses, as well as a ground tarp, were a must; and if we were imaging the sky, some type of battery operated, dew-busting heater around the lens was mandated. Chemical hand warmers left over from the winter months, now serve as lightweight, nonelectrical substitutes. Just remember to bring along rubber bands for their snug attachment. A tripod and a cable release or intervalometer are also necessary. Unfortunately, the biggest meteor shower of the summer, the Perseids, will be highly curtailed by a nearly full moon this year. The best nights are on August 11/12 and 12/13. The moon is full late on August 10; but still, don't be discouraged. By the end of July, during new moon week, there are five minor streams that are active, in addition to the Perseids, which are just beginning to heat up. Early Perseids have a reputation for producing memorable fireballs. The Perseids are radiating from the NE, while the other meteors are spilling outward from the south. A clear, moonless night in a rural setting should yield hourly rates of at least 10-20 shooting stars after 1 a.m. Much success! www.astronomy.org

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

- On Aug. 16, 1920, Cleveland Indians shortstop Ray Chapman is struck in the temple by a ball pitched by Carl Mays of the New York Yankees. He died 12 hours later. After Chapman's injury, it was mandated that scuffed or discolored balls be replaced with new white ones, making them easier to see.

- On Aug. 17, 1933, New York Yankees first baseman Lou Gehrig plays in his 1,308th consecutive game, breaking former Yankee Everett Scott's record for consecutive games played. Gehrig would go on to play in 2,130 games in a row, setting a record that would stand for over half a century.

- On Aug. 13, 1948, U.S. and British planes airlift a record amount of supplies into sections of Berlin under American and British control. Despite terrible weather, crowded air-space and exhaustion of the pilots and crews, more than 700 British and American planes brought in nearly 5,000 tons of supplies.

- On Aug. 12, 1953, less than a year after the United States tested its first hydrogen bomb, the Soviets detonate a 400-kiloton device in Kazakhstan. Known as the "Layer Cake," the bomb was fueled by layers of uranium and lithium deuteride, a hydrogen isotope.

- On Aug. 15, 1969, the Woodstock Music Festival opens on a patch of farmland in White Lake, New York. By the time the gates opened, more than 400,000 people were clamoring to get in. Those without tickets simply walked through gaps in the fences, and the organizers were eventually forced to make the event free of charge.

- On Aug. 11, 1973, "American Graffiti," a nostalgic coming-of-age tale steeped in the car-centric culture of suburban California, is released in theaters. The film went on to become a sleeper hit.

- On Aug. 14, 1985, Michael Jackson purchases the publishing rights to the vast majority of the Beatles' catalog for $47 million, outbidding even Paul McCartney. In later years, the catalog -- now estimated to be worth in excess of $1 billion -- allowed Jackson to remain solvent by serving as collateral for several enormous personal loans.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was ancient Greek philosopher Plato who made the following sage observation: "Good people do not need laws to tell them to act responsibly, while bad people will find a way around the laws."

- How would you like to brush your teeth with salt, chalk or ground brick? The first tooth powders that were used with toothbrushes were made of just such materials.

- When you think of hibernating bears, you typically imagine some cozy cave in the woods, right? Well, the next time you're out for a winter hike, you'd better pay close attention to exactly where you're going; some bears spend the cold season curled up on the ground in large nests made of branches.

- Greyhounds have better vision than any other breed of dog.

- Every May, horse lovers flock to Churchill Downs in Louisville, Kentucky, to see the world's finest thoroughbreds race in the Kentucky Derby. While there, spectators will collectively consume more than 1,800 gallons of mint juleps.

- If you're a cat lover, you might not be surprised to learn that a group of felines can be referred to as a glaring, a pounce, a clutter or a clowder. Feral cats en masses are known as a destruction of cats.

- People who sustain brain injuries can suffer from a variety of maladies. One of the stranger ones is anosognosia. The victim suffers from some sort of disability, such as losing the ability to move a limb, but that's not unusual; what makes anosognosia so fascinating is that the person suffering from the limitation seems completely unable to believe that any limitation exists, despite voluminous evidence to the contrary.
