Library director retires after 16 years

By Cheryl Peterson
Editor

Finding the time for projects around the house, traveling and getting involved in the community are a few goals of the newly retired director of the Alcona County Library.

Carol Luck, who officially retires on July 4, is embracing her new phase in life – even though leaving a position she's held for 16 years is a bit bittersweet.

"It's been my honor to work with the staffs that I've created – their ideas and creativity are wonderful. It's been great serving the community and I've enjoyed the support and encouragement of the library board – I wouldn't have been able to get everything done (over the years) without everyone working together," she said.

Carol, and her husband Lee, moved to Alcona County in 1999 after she was hired as the library director. She came into the position just after construction on the new library building in Harrisville had been completed. Her job was "to fill it up," a task that she feels "very fortunate" to have had.

Two years later she upgraded the circulation system so that each branch – Lincoln, Mikado and Caledonia – was connected and then, eventually joined a consortium which gave the library access to a half million pieces of material. Six years ago, the library joined the Michigan eLibrary (MEL) which gives the system unlimited access to material. She's also overseen the remodeling project at the Harrisville branch which saw the addition of the local history room and a study area for test proctoring.

Drill Team with its horses.

The following events will open for business after the parade: Food sales by the Lincoln Order Eastern Star No. 184, FFA Alumni Pancake and Sausage, Bouncy, Water Slide (free to kids and bring a towel), Kids Carnival Games, John Fowler's hand crafted wood items, and the Reed's Car Cruze. ## Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,
On Father's Day the Soling Singles Club had a picnic at Spencer Park in Greenbush. This has been a tradition for over 10 years and as always, the park was pristine.

Unfortunately, we were the only ones using the park. I'd like to thank those responsible for maintaining the park which encompasses two baseball diamonds, a playground, nature trail, pavilion and two sets of outhouses. The trash barrels were empty, the picnic tables nice sturdy metal.

As a Greenbush resident I am proud of our park.

Barbara Taylor, president

White Pine sees third generation of golf course managers-designers

Monday, May 4 was a special day at White Pine National Golf Resort. The third generation of Wolfroms, James Tyler Wolfrom, entered the golf business as manager of operations.

Tyler and Kathleen Wolfrom

Tyler Wolfrom was raised on golf. At the tender age of two his family moved next to the maintenance facility at Barton Hills Country Club in Ann Arbor, Mich. where Tyler's father, Bruce Wolfrom, was the golf course superintendent. Tyler spent his early years fishing the ponds on Barton Hills and selling lemonade over the fence to players.

In June of 1990, the family made the move from Ann Arbor, Mich. to Gaylord, Mich. to begin their next "adventure" in northern Michigan golf at Treetops Resort. Bruce Wolfrom had been asked to improve playing conditions at Treetops Resort. He had hesitated because the plan when leaving Ann Arbor was to build a golf course with his brother, Clem, long time superintendent at Detroit Golf Club. Harry Melling, Treetops owner, and Rick Smith, head pro and golf instructor at Treetops, gave their blessing to Bruce's golf course construction project. And from there, began the quest to lure Tom Fazio to design the second course at Treetops. Bruce oversaw the construction of three more courses that would be built at Treetops during his tenure there.

Meanwhile, Tyler was completing his high school education. On weekends, the Wolfrom family traveled from Gaylord, Mich. to Hubbard Lake to take on their project of building White Pine National. Tyler picked rocks, boxed bunkers, seeded greens and performed a myriad of other jobs, starting at age 14. After the course opened in 1992, Tyler worked bag drop, pro shop and grounds crew, getting a total view of the golf business.

In 1997, Tyler moved downstate where he had multiple jobs, gaining experience in skills such as promotion, finance and accounting. He launched his own company, American Metal.

In the early spring of 2015 Tyler came to Hubbard Lake in order to assist with the installation of new computers and software for White Pine National. Bruce casually asked Tyler when he was going to come back and run White Pine National. Tyler and Bruce were both surprised when Tyler said "sure."

In his role as manager of operations, Tyler will be relieving Bruce and Donna Wolfrom of some of their duties as he takes on greater responsibilities.

Tyler's grandfather, Clarence Wolfrom, was superintendent of Maple Lane Golf Course in Sterling Heights, Mich. for 54 years. Clarence was posthumously inducted into the Michigan Golf Hall of Fame in 2002. Clem Wolfrom, Tyler's uncle, served as course superintendent at Detroit Golf Club for 53 years. Clem and Bruce designed and built White Pine National Golf Resort. Both Tyler, Bruce's son, and Larry, Clem's son, worked on the project.

Tyler's wife, Kathleen, will be joining the staff of White Pine National in 2016.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Simplified cell phones for seniors with hearing problems

Dear Savvy Senior,
Can you recommend some basic simplified cell phones for seniors with hearing loss? My 82-year-old father needs to get a new cell phone for occasional calls or emergencies, but he needs something that's easy to use and one that he can hear on.

Looking Around

Dear Looking,
There are several simplified cell phones on the market today that are specifically designed for seniors, or for people who just like things simple. These are basic cell phones - primarily used for talk and text - that come with big buttons, easy to navigate menus, SOS emergency buttons, enhanced sound and are hearing aid compatible too.

Here are some top options. If your dad isn't locked into a cell phone contract, there are three senior-friendly options to consider, all from no-contract cell phone companies.

• One of best is GreatCall's Jitterbug5 (greatcall.com, (800) 918-8543). This custom designed Samsung flip-phone offers a backlit keypad with big buttons, large text on a brightly colored screen, and "YES" and "NO" buttons to access the phone's menu of options versus confusing icons.

It also offers voice dialing, a powerful speakerphone, a built-in camera, and a variety of optional health and safety features like the "5Star" medical alert button that would let your dad call for help and speak to a certified agent 24/7 that could identify his location and dispatch help as needed. "Urgent Care," which provides access to registered nurses and doctors for advice and diagnoses. And "GreatCall Link," which keeps family members informed through your dad's phone activities.

The Jitterbug5 sells for $99 with a one-time $35 activation fee, no-contract, and calling plans that start at $15 per month.

• If you're looking for something a little less expensive, the Doro PhoneEasy 626 sold through Consumer Cellular (consumercellular.com, (888) 345-5509) is an excellent option.

This flip phone offers a backlit, separated keypad that can speak the numbers as you push them, which is a nice feature for seniors with vision problems. It also has a big easy to read color display screen that offers large text with different color themes.

Other handy features include two speed dial buttons, shortcut buttons to texting and the camera, a powerful two-way speakerphone, and an, in case of emergency (ICE) button on the back of the phone that will automatically dial one preprogrammed number.

The Doro 626 sells for $50 with service plans starting at $10 per month, and no long-term contract. They even offer discounts to AARP members.

• Another budget-friendly cell phone you should look into is the Snapfon ezTWO for seniors (snapfon.com, (800) 937-1532), which costs under $20, with a $35 activation fee, no contract, and monthly service plans that start at $10. If you don't want the Snapfon service plan (you can go through AT&T or T-Mobile), the phone is $80.

This is a bar-style phone that provides big buttons, a color screen, enhanced volume with a speaker phone, a speaking keypad, and an SOS emergency alert button on the back of the phone that can sound an alert when pushed and held down for five seconds. It then sends a text message to as many as five emergency contacts and calls those contacts in order until the call is answered. Or, for an additional $15 per month you can subscribe to their SOS monitoring service that will dispatch help as needed.

• If you want to get your dad a simple cell phone through your cell phone provider, most carriers - like AT&T, Verizon, Sprint and T-

The purchase and remodeling of the current building that houses the Lincoln branch and the remodeling and updating of the Mikado branch were also completed during Carol's tenure. "My one regret is that I haven't been able to oversee a new facility for the Caledonia branch. I've been working on getting funds but, I guess I have to leave something for the new director," she said.

Carol is also proud to have been able to complete the digitization of old issues of the Alcona County Review and the Alcona County Herald from the beginning of publishing for both newspapers. Both are available online within the library system.

Books and libraries have been the focus of Carol's life from when she was a teenager and joined the library club at Alcona High School with Mrs. Gardner. She received a working scholarship where, during holiday and summer breaks from Western Michigan University, she worked at the library in Harrisville with Edna Cole, the librarian.

She received a bachelor's degree from Western in social science, married Lee in 1969 and received a master's degree in library science from Western in 1974. They lived in various locations throughout the United States over the years including Fort Knox, Ky., Tucson, Ariz. and Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minn. where Carol worked in various positions at Walden Books throughout her career and eventually got back into the "library business" when she became the reference librarian at Dakota County Library System in Minnesota.

Then the position in Alcona County became available. They jumped at the chance to come back to Alcona County. "All of the skills that I learned through the years were what I needed for this position," Carol said. "To come home to our home town is pretty amazing and to have a good job... I never dreamed that I'd be able to come back like this."

As much as she's enjoyed working in the library system in her "home" county, she is looking forward to not working now. "I have projects at home that I haven't had a chance to get done in the last couple of years... I enjoy gardening and reading, of course. We enjoy kayaking and I am looking forward to having the time to get involved with our church and some charitable organizations," Carol said.

Both Carol and Lee enjoy traveling. They've visited all 50 states at least once and have taken several cruises in the Caribbean, Panama, Mexico, Hawaii and Alaska. They have a trip to Glacier National Park planned in July and a trip to Washington D.C. in August.

"We'll see what my garden looks like in a couple of years," Carol said. And, as for Lee, who has been retired for the last several years... "I have plans for Lee - he'll be helping."

Denise Bearre was hired by the Alcona County Library Board for the position of library director. She has been training during the last several weeks and will take over officially on July 6.

Study shows upper Great Lakes region has good cougar habitat

By Logan Clark

Capital News Service

Don't call it a comeback. Call it a potential comeback.

Habitat is suitable for cougars to recolonize the Upper Great Lakes region, according to researchers at Michigan Technological University.

Their study says that cougars were driven out of the Midwest by the early 20th century. Since then, they have persisted only in the West.

But the western population has been increasing, pushing the cats to expand to the east, the study reported.

This population increase is likely due to more prey availability and the ban on predator bounties and poisoning in the 1960s and 1970s, said one of the authors, Shawn O'Neil, a doctoral student who studies wildlife spatial ecology.

Researchers focused on Michigan and Wisconsin, and extended a model previously developed by researchers at the Cougar Network, a non-profit organization that studies the species.

"For the most part, as a society, we've moved from trying to control and eradicate apex predators to trying to coexist," O'Neil said.

O'Neil also credited the expansion to the animals' instinct to avoid inbreeding. They disperse long distances in search of suitable habitat and new gene pools, he said. One cougar was even thought to have traveled more than 1,000 miles from South Dakota to Connecticut, according to the study.

O'Neil and his colleagues demonstrated that suitable habitat exists in the Upper Great Lakes by assessing the region's capacity to support them. That capacity includes food availability and physical characteristics of the landscape. Among those characteristics are elevation, vegetation, distance to water and roads and their ability to avoid people.

After comparing results with sightings confirmed by the Department of Natural Resources in Michigan and Wisconsin, researchers estimated that the study area could support more than 500 cougars.

That may sound good for cougars, but if recolonization does happen it will undoubtedly bring political and cultural problems similar to that of the wolf.

That's according to Adrian Wydeven, a retired wildlife specialist from the Wisconsin DNR who has long studied cougars and other large carnivores.

Wydeven said he expects fairly negative attitudes from farmers and hunters, adding that people seem to fear cougars more than wolves or bears. "It may be that if recolonization occurs slowly, it will receive better support, but under current conditions, a rapidly growing cougar population would raise concerns," he said.

O'Neil said that another debate over using hunting to manage carnivores could well be around the corner. "Several states have cougars living right next to major population centers, and this hasn't seemed to generate the same divisiveness as wolves have," he said. "So maybe there is greater capacity for social acceptance."

A large portion of Michigan's Lower Peninsula is also suitable for cougars, despite the lack of confirmed sightings in this century, but according to Wydeven, cats will have a harder time than in the U.P.

"My guess is that it will be decades and maybe as much as a century or more before breeding populations of cougars establish in the Lower Peninsula, he said.

The Michigan DNR has started confirming cougar sightings only since 2008. None of those confirmations was a female. As a result, the department's official stance is that there is no breeding going on in the state, according to Kevin Swanson, its large carnivore specialist.

The Michigan Wildlife Conservancy disagrees. The or-

Always check for baby in the backseat

In 2013, nationwide, 44 children died from heatstroke after being accidentally left in a parked vehicle, including three deaths in Michigan.

Even with mild temperatures outside, the temperature inside a vehicle can rise 20 degrees in as little as 10 minutes, according to Michigan State Police Community Service Trooper Ashley Simpson, of the Alpena post.

Heatstroke is the leading cause of non-crash, vehicle-related deaths of children according to Safe Kids Worldwide. A child's body heats up three to five times faster than an adult's, making them more susceptible to heatstroke.

"A hot car can be deadly," Simpson said. "Always be sure to look twice before getting out, it's easier than you think to forget a baby in the backseat."

Take steps to remember not to leave a child in a vehicle:

- Write yourself a note and place it where you'll see it when you leave the vehicle.

- Place your bag, briefcase or something else you're sure to need in the back seat so you'll see a child left in the vehicle.

- Keep an object in the car seat, such as a stuffed toy. Once the child is buckled in, place the object where the driver will notice it when he or she leaves the vehicle.

- Ask your child care center to call you if your child doesn't arrive on time for child care.

- If you are dropping your child off at child care, and it's normally your spouse, partner or caregiver who drops them off, have them call you to make sure the drop off went according to plan.

- If you see a child alone in a hot vehicle, call 911 immediately. If they are in distress due to heat, get them out as quickly as possible. Cool the child rapidly (not in an ice bath, but by spraying them with cool water).

For more information and safety tips about preventing child heatstroke deaths, visit www.safekids.org/heatstroke.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Venus Embraces Jupiter

Keep looking west during evening twilight for the next several days because you'll see unfolding one of the best celestial events of the year. Venus (brighter) and Jupiter have been on the march towards one another for the last several months, and on Tuesday, June 30, they will embrace, approaching each other to within 1/3rd of a degree after sundown (20 minutes, 36 seconds of arc distant). It's much less than the angular diameter of the full moon, which on Tuesday will be 31 minutes, 34 seconds of arc. There are 60 minutes of arc in a degree and 360 degrees in a circle. The waxing gibbous moon will be seen at the same time low in the southeast trailing behind the planet Saturn. Venus and Jupiter will easily fit within the same field of view in large and small telescopes alike. One of the interesting effects of viewing this conjunction will be how the unaided eye responds to Venus and Jupiter in such close proximity. When the eye views bright objects under high contrast conditions (bright against dark), it tends to flare the object making it appear larger. Prove this to yourself by viewing Venus 15 minutes after sundown. It will appear like a pinpoint, small against the bright turquoise sky; but as conditions darken, Venus will appear to have rays of light emanating from it. The amount of flaring is dependent upon visual acuity, age, and the size of the opening of the iris—how much light the eye is collecting. The effects of glare increase the perception of size, and will make Venus and Jupiter appear larger and even closer together than they actually are. Through a properly focused telescope, Venus will appear to be crescent-shaped (less than half lit), but bland while Jupiter will have at least three of its four Galilean satellites visible. Io and Europa will be so close together during the East Coast dusk that they will probably appear as one satellite through most scopes. In time zones farther west, they should have changed positions enough to be easily visible. Clear skies! www.astronomy.org

Habitat

ganization, based in Bath, Mich. restores and establishes wildlife habitat. Patrick Rusz, director of the group's wildlife programs, said breeding pairs of cougars never left the Great Lakes.

Rusz has been tracking Michigan cougars for more than a decade. He is critical of how state officials have handled cougar sightings, pointing out that the department didn't confirm any sightings until 2008, but has confirmed 28 sightings since.

Rusz testified before the Michigan Senate in 2009 that he has found plenty of evidence of cougar settlement in both peninsulas. Rusz said he believes that the DNR ignores such evidence because it doesn't want to manage another endangered species. And he said the department should recognize their presence and begin managing for it.

The department has put together a cougar team of biologists to keep up with the increasing sightings on both the Upper and Lower peninsulas. Swanson said the team has yet to find evidence of a breeding population in the state.

Veterans Host

Air Force Vets and Agent Orange

The Department of Veterans Affairs has now agreed to provide disability benefits to certain Vietnam-era Air Force veterans who were exposed to Agent Orange in airplanes.

Were you ever on a C-123? Did you work on or around the airplanes? Does the name Operation Ranch Hand ring a bell? That was the operation that sprayed the Vietnam jungle and Korea DMZ area with the Agent Orange defoliant, and the C-123 planes were the ones that did it.

Until now, the VA had regularly denied claims from veterans who were ill with any of the 14 AO-related conditions and who said they were exposed to AO on a plane. The VA said there was no danger, that any AO on the planes would have dried. What they didn't consider was the multiple uses of those C-123s: They also were used by National Guard, medical evacuations, routine cargo and more -- for the next 10 years.

What's disturbing is that the VA has already identified 2,100 Air Force active-duty and reservists who can get compensation. Twenty-one hundred? That's all? It's also pre-identified the locations where those veterans worked, as well as the Tactical and Aeromedical Squadrons. (Note: The lists vary, depending where you look.)

Back in 2013, one veteran pushed hard and was finally given compensation for Agent Orange exposure that came from being aboard C-123 aircraft. In 1994, his plane had been sent to a museum, and there it was discovered that the plane was still "heavily contaminated" with Agent Orange.

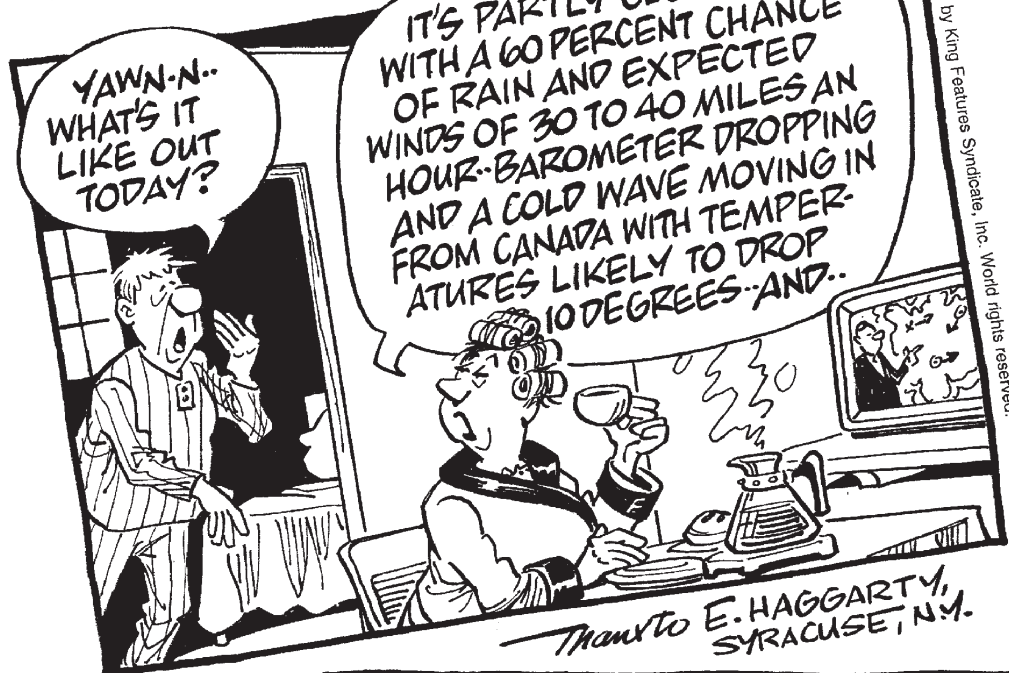

Call 1-800-749-8387 for more information or see www.benefits.va.gov and put C-123 Agent Orange in the search box. Don't miss Veterans Exposed to Agent Orange through Duty on Contaminated C-123 Aircraft.

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

- On July 16, 1863, the draft riots enter their fourth day in New York City in response to the Enrollment Act, which allowed wealthier citizens to pay $300 to avoid military duty. More than 1,000 people died in the violence, which was only contained by the arrival of Union troops from the battlefield at Gettysburg.
  - On July 19, 1879, Doc Holliday kills a man for shooting up his saloon. Despite his reputation as a deadly gunslinger, Doc Holliday engaged in just eight shootouts and killed only two men. The second was at the O.K. Corral in 1881.
  - On July 17, 1944, an ammunition ship explodes while being loaded in Port Chicago, California, killing 332 people. Poor procedures and lack of training led to the disaster. The blasts were felt as far away as Nevada.
  - On July 15, 1971, President Richard Nixon stuns the nation by announcing that he will visit communist China. Since the Communists came to power in China in 1949, Nixon had been one of its most vociferous critics.
  - On July 13, 1985, in London, Prince Charles and Princess Diana officially open Live Aid, a worldwide rock concert to raise money for the relief of famine-stricken Africans. The 16-hour concert was globally linked by satellite to more than a billion viewers in 110 countries.
  - On July 14, 1995, the MP3 file compression format is born, allowing music files small enough to be stored in bulk.
  - On July 18, 1999, New York Yankee David Cone pitches the 16th perfect game in major-league history with a no-hit, no-walk victory over the Montreal Expos. Cone needed only 88 pitches, 68 of them strikes, to set down 27 Expos in a row.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was Italian novelist and philosopher Umberto Eco who made the following sage observation: "Fear prophets and those prepared to die for the truth, for as a rule they make many others die with them, often before them, and at times instead of them."
- Iconic American rock band the Grateful Dead were originally known as the Warlocks.
- It takes an average of 45 seconds in a microwave to make a Twinkie explode.
- Dedicated experts at the University of Connecticut Alcohol Center conducted a study in which it was determined that light beer is more likely to cause a hangover than dark beer is. Evidently, lighter beers tend to be more highly carbonated, which causes the alcohol to go through the system faster.
- It's been reported that the Department of Defense has contracted a private lab to come up with a smell that's so bad, it can be used to control unruly crowds.
- The 1942 film "Casablanca" is consistently considered to be one of the best movies ever made. However, executives at Warner Brothers didn't expect much from the film and gave the producers an extremely small budget. In fact, they were so strapped for cash that the plane used in the movie's iconic final scene was no more than a cardboard cutout.
- The original American Express card was not green, but purple. The now almost-ubiquitous green wasn't introduced until 1969.
- Those who study such things say that if you have bad breath, you're more likely to be bitten by a bat.
- In the 1970s, there was an epidemic of teenagers sniffing airplane glue to get high. In order to discourage this practice, the glue manufacturers began adding an intense oil of mustard to the formula.

Clean water activist paddles Great Lakes to raise awareness

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

One of the greatest assets in northeastern Michigan is the clean, practically pristine, water. It's a precious resource which, without much notice, can quickly become polluted, unusable and undrinkable.

A New Jersey woman is bringing awareness to the dangers that Michigan's waterways are susceptible to by making a 2,000 mile journey by outrigger canoe through the Great Lakes.

Margo Pellegrino, a legend amongst her activist peers, began her Great Lakes paddle in Newark, N.J. on May 20 by paddling up the Hudson River, through the Erie Canal and Lake Erie making her way to what she refers to as "Ocean Huron."

On day 37 of her journey she made her way from Au Gres, Mich., to Greenbush. She plans to finish her "Big Apple to the Big Easy" paddle in Chicago, Ill. around mid July. A second leg of her journey will begin in the spring of 2016 when she plans to paddle from Chicago, Ill., down the Mississippi to New Orleans, La.

This isn't the activist's first journey on the water to call attention to the fight for clean water, she has paddled much of the eastern seaboard, made a Miami, Fla. to New Orleans, La. paddle and a 1,500 mile paddle from Seattle, Wash., to San Diego, Calif.

She describes herself as a stay-at-home mother who does a lousy job at staying home. She is thankful for her supportive husband, and patient children ages 13 and 10 and a mother who not only supports her, but helped finance the first $1,000 of her trip.

Looking weathered from her journey, Pellegrino made her way to the Oscoda Main Pier, lips chapped, cracked and sore, exhausted and wrapped in a thick black robe, she lifted her canoe onto the car of her logistic manager, Jessica Besock, who is traveling along the shoreline to track Pellegrino.

She had paddled for nearly 12 hours straight against strong headwinds to make it to Oscoda that day. Typically, the lone paddler is on the water only eight to 10 hours. She covers roughly 40 miles a day, resting at night wherever a host family will put her and Besock up. Their rest that evening would come from a family in Greenbush.

In the morning, she started again by driving to the same spot she stopped paddling the night before making sure not to miss a mile of shoreline. "I'm not a cheater," she said as she lifted the lightweight outrigger from the top of the car, "It goes in where I got out.

"I really did not want to get up and paddle this morning. I wanted to stay in that warm bed and keep sleeping, the wind is strong again today and it's too cold for my liking. I'm a cold wimp.

"Yesterday's paddle wore me out; my body really took a beating. I'm only going to do a short paddle today to Greenbush to our host's home. I wanted to take the day off but I know the few miles I gain today will be worthwhile. Here I go again," Pellegrino said as she paddled quickly past the breakwall of the pier and headed north.

The chilly wind whipped hard and swells seemed to gobble her small yellow craft leaving only her head and bright red hat visible as she paddled by, leaving pedestrians on the pier somewhat bewildered as to why anyone would be on that chop in such a small vessel. It was 8:30 a.m. and another day was underway for the water warrior.

This two month event is a project of Blue Frontier Campaign with help from Earthjustice, Surfers' Environment Alliance and others including the Clean Ocean Action, New Jersey/New York Baykeeper, Environment New Jersey, Food and Water Watch and many other individual donors.

She said the hardest part of making these journeys is leaving her children, but for Pellegrino, ocean conservation is about protecting her children's future. "We've got to have clean water, I'm trying to get people thinking about our water resources and how they need to be protected. We've got to get our act together with our water. We are mucking things up and we need all hands on deck to win this fight.

"In addition to partnering, donating money and getting actively involved with watershed groups, we need to do individual action, partner with groups on the ground and legislation," Pellegrino said.

She talked about some of the serious plights currently going on with drinking water. "Recently men in Columbus, Ohio, who take Viagra and pregnant women, were told not to drink the water. This is Ohio we're talking about with dangerous waters," Pellegrino said.

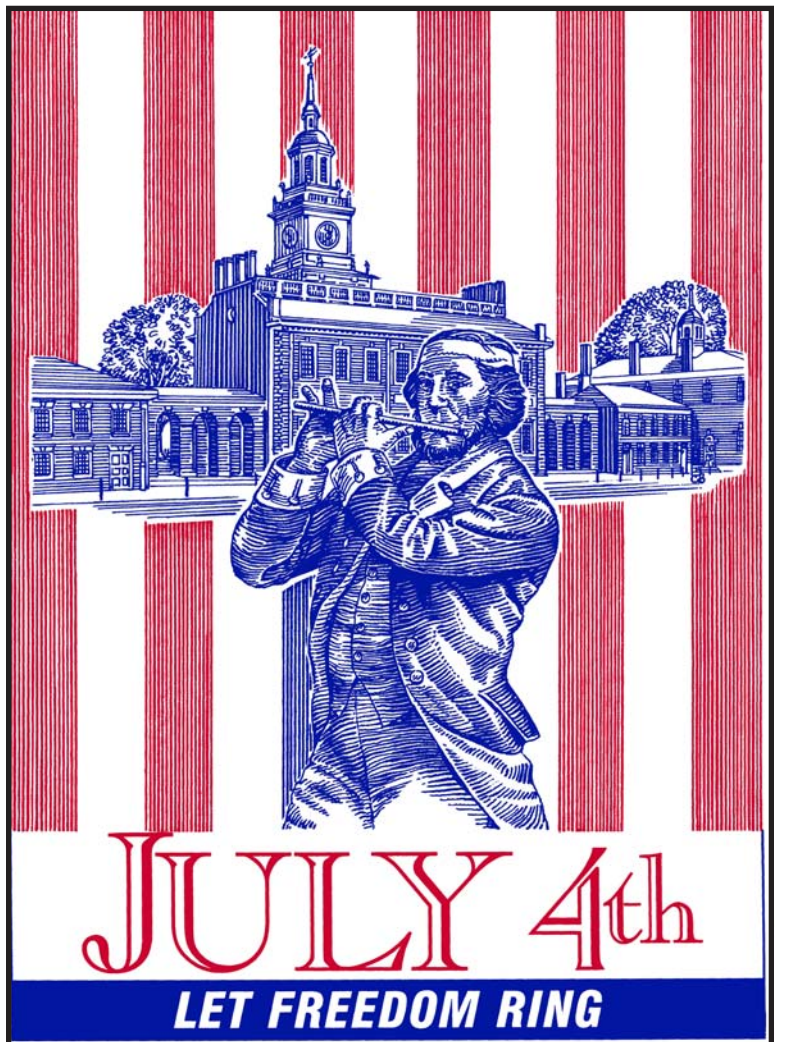

According to Men's Sexual Health.com Columbus, Ohio residents recently received a warning from city officials—don't bathe a child under six months old in city water and don't drink tap water if you are a pregnant woman or a man taking Viagra. The local newspaper, The Columbus Dispatch, said the crisis could last weeks but offered no timeline.

The culprit behind the warning is nitrogen fertilizer used on nearby industrial hog, soybean and corn farms. The runoff made its way into the area's rivers and streams, flooding the drinking water with nitrates. Hog manure is loaded with nitrates.

The nitrates, which the water treatment plant in Columbus, Ohio does not have the capability of filtering, can cause birth defects, inhibit

Ryder Baker, 6, and his sister, Alivia Baker, 5, from Almont, Mich., visiting their grandmother, Bonnie Baker, of Mikado, stopped by the Bailey School on Log Cabin Day. The children were interested in everything the school had to offer including story books, feathered pens on the teacher's desk and the dunce cap and stool in the corner of the room. Volunteer host William Roorda said the young children's voices sounded good in the one room schoolhouse. Photo by Mary Weber.

blood flow and can cause cancer of the ovaries and the thyroid gland. These same nitrates cause blood pressure to drop. When it interacts with Viagra the blood pressure can fall to dangerous levels. Often, men on nitrates for hypertension are steered away from taking Viagra for just this reason.

Pellegrino also spoke about the poor decision of Canada's Joint Review Panel to move forward to allow a Canadian company to bury nuclear waste less than a mile from the shores of Lake Huron and directly across the lake from residents of St. Clair, Sanilac and Huron counties, despite the outrage voiced by residents in both Canada and Michigan.

She also spoke of the good things that have come from the trip and the interesting and friendly people she has met along the way. Pellegrino said one of the most positive things she will be taking back with her to New Jersey is what the clean waters of Michigan have taught her.

"This is a message I will carry back home with me. I believe Michigan's bottle bill has helped to keep their waters clean. There is a lot less trash here. New Jersey doesn't have that and the water ways are littered with plastic bottles. It's really nice here and you can tell the people here love and take care of their water," Pellegrino said.

Free breast and cervical cancer screenings available

Women who are 40-64 years of age, are uninsured or underinsured, and who meet income qualifications guidelines, are eligible to receive a free mammogram and Pap test as part of the Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Program (BCCCP) offered at District Health Department No. 2 (DHD2), which serves Alcona, Iosco, Ogemaw and Oscoda counties.

According to the American Cancer Society, breast cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths and is the most frequently diagnosed cancer among Michigan women. Early detection through breast exams and mammograms is the best protection in the fight against breast cancer. A mammogram has the ability to find cancer before it can be felt. When found early, breast cancer is highly curable.

In regards to cervical cancer, experts believe that virtually all cervical cancer deaths could potentially be prevented by a combination of safe sex practices, routine PAP tests, and appropriate follow-up of abnormal screening results.

Most cervical cancers develop over a relatively long period of time. During this time, abnormal tissue can be detected by a Pap test and removed by a health care provider.

The BCCCP also provides referrals and education for clients. Also, anyone that has insurance with high deductibles and is in need of follow-up on an abnormal mammogram or pap-test, the program may be able to help with those costs. Plus, for a limited time, DHD2 will be giving gift cards to women who receive cancer screening services.

To find out more about the BCCCP, or to see program eligibility, call (800) 504-2650, or visit the website at www.dhd2.org.

The Ice Cream Parlor, the newest business venture for Christopher Clouse, opened its doors to customers on June 19. Clouse, who owns the Glennie Hardware, is the fourth generation of the Clouse family which has been in business for 101 years. "I thought that an ice cream parlor would be a nice asset for our community and would eliminate an empty building. I am very happy the way it has been received by our community," Clouse said. Clouse purchased Glennie Hardware last year and this building was part of the property. He has plans to give the rest of the building "a face lift" in the future. The Ice Cream Parlor, which is located in downtown Glennie, serves Ruggles and Country Parlor ice cream and employees (from left) Jordan Mason, Samantha Zerbst, Clouse, Harlie LaFond and Hailey Petty will scoop cones, sundaes, banana splits or make shakes and malts for customers. The parlor is open from noon to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and from noon to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Courtesy photo.

Strawberries: Tips for use and storage

Strawberries are packed with vitamin C, fiber, and have high levels of antioxidants; they are good sources of manganese and potassium as well. One serving (eight large berries count as a one cup serving) provides more vitamin C than an orange.

This heart shaped berry is not only good for hearts, indicating an association in decreased cardiovascular disease but the phytochemicals present in the berries also have anti-inflammatory properties.

If conditions are favorable, strawberries are available between June and July. Varieties that grow well in Michigan include Guardian, Surecrop, Midway, Red Chief, and Sparkle. Gilbert and Ozark Beauty are excellent for freezing, while Red Chief and Guardian are recommended varieties for preserves. Raritan, Delite, Holiday, Earliglow and Scarlet varieties are additional varieties that also grow well in Michigan.

Michigan State University Extension recommended selecting or picking medium-sized berries that are firm, plump and deep red in color. Once picked they will not ripen further.

Strawberries are quick to perish and must be treated with care once harvested. Avoid fruit that is bruised, damaged or moldy. Store berries in a box with holes and cover with plastic wrap or put in a plastic bag with holes. Research shows two days as maximum for refrigerator storage before vitamins begin to decrease and the berries will begin to break down. It is recommended to store strawberries in refrigeration at temperatures below 40°F degrees.

In addition to being consumed fresh, strawberries can be frozen, made into preserves, jam or jelly, syrup, as well as dried, used in salads, and flavorings in favorite dairy products such as smoothies, milk shakes and ice cream.

Freezing berries involves selecting fresh, ripe berries. Wash them in cold water but do not soak. Remove caps and drain well.

There are several options for freezing: Syrup pack method, sugar pack method,

Using a float while fishing

Floats can be a useful tool for anglers looking to find bigger fish while also producing a relaxing fishing opportunity while sitting back and letting the gear work its magic.

Using a float, such as a traditional bobber, classic teardrop or oval-shaped option, will allow fish to have time to check out your bait up close and decide if they want to take a bite.

Anglers will also need to decide between using a spring-type fixed bobber or a slip bobber. A slip bobber offers more flexibility because it can move up and down the line - depending on where you put a stopper.

Northeastern Lower Peninsula June 25

• Cheboygan River: Is still producing some walleye at the mouth. Try crawlers, leeches or body baits.

• Rogers City: Has great lake trout fishing with limit catches reported. The water is beginning to warm up so the fish are starting to scatter and were suspended. The best fishing was found in the bottom 10 feet in 40 to 65 feet with dodgers or cowbells with spin-glos or green, orange and silver spoons for the fish that are suspended.

The better action was north towards the state park, Forty Mile Point or south toward Calcite, Swan Bay and Adam's Point. Anglers are hoping other species such as Atlantic salmon, Chinook and steelhead will show up with warmer water. Try spoons up higher and faster trolling speeds.

• East and West Twin Lakes: Walleye fishing was pretty good in the 14 foot holes on East Twin. One angler caught a 41 inch pike when trolling the deep hole. Walleye fishing was also good on West Twin in the 10 to 12 foot holes. The fish range 15 to 18 inches. Perch fishing is slowly starting to pick up in both lakes with anglers catching fish up to 11 inches. Bass fishing has been really good. Many are catching good size smallmouth and lots of rock bass in five to eight feet off Eagle Point.

• Alpena: Walleye fishing continues with a good night bite. The walleyes seem to be on the move so anglers will have to do some searching to find them. The better places to try are Grad Island, Sulphur Island, Scarecrow Island and along the shore at the city beach. Best depths were eight to 20 feet with crawler harnesses and body baits. Good colors were green and purple, green and copper, perch and fire-tiger.

Lake trout fishing continues to be good just off the bottom in 60 to 80 feet around Thunder Bay Island. Try Hootchie mamas with squid, spin-glos and flies or dodgers and cowbells with spin-glos.

• Thunder Bay River: Is producing channel catfish and freshwater drum.

Northeast Michigan

Fishing Report

have been taken off the Ninth Street Bridge when drifting body baits in the current or with crawlers and leeches on the bottom.

• Harrisville: Dredging in the harbor is done. Lake trout are there in good numbers. Anglers did very well in 60 to 120 feet straight out from the harbor, north and south. Spoons are working well on downriggers and lead core. Most of the fish are suspended throughout the water column. A wide spread of bait will be the best way to target them. There have been some Chinook and steelhead but numbers are low. Walleye seem to be north of the harbor between Sturgeon Point and the Black River in 20 to 50 feet. Body baits worked best but some were taken on crawler harnesses.

• Oscoda: Lake trout can be found straight out, to the north and the south. Most anglers had success in 80 to 150 feet with spoons, cut bait and wobble glows. Fish are suspended so spread bait throughout the water column.

• AuSable River: Walleye are coming in and most are being caught up river behind the bank and further toward the dam. Crawlers and body baits have produced the most catches. Some good catches of brown trout were reported on the South Branch.

• Lake Margrethe: Panfish action has been slow to steady.

• Houghton Lake: Is producing walleye and pike. Anglers are trolling or drifting crawler harnesses and leeches along the weed lines.

• Lake St. Helen: Is producing panfish, walleye and pike.

• Tawas: Walleye fishing was good near the Crib in 18 to 25 feet and along the drop-off in 35 to 70 feet. Try crawler harnesses, spoons and body baits. A lake trout and one Atlantic salmon were also caught. Pier fishing was slow. There was a big mayfly hatch in progress.

• Tawas River: Is producing a few channel catfish, pike, smallmouth bass and freshwater drum.

• AuGres: Limit catches of walleye were taken in 30 to 45 feet straight out or to the south towards the shipping channel when using crawler harnesses.

• AuGres River: Is producing channel catfish and freshwater drum.

unsweetened pack method and tray freezing (dry pack).

The sugar and syrup pack methods will produce better quality frozen strawberries than packing berries without sweetening.

- Syrup pack method: Pack berries into containers and cover with cold 50 percent syrup (1 part water to 1 part sugar), leaving ½ inch headspace. Seal, label, date and freeze the berries.

- Sugar pack method: Add 1 part sugar to 6 parts strawberries, and mix thoroughly. Put into containers, leaving ½ inch headspace. Seal, label, date and freeze the berries.

- Unsweetened pack method: Pack into containers, leaving ½ inch headspace. To ensure better color, cover with water containing 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid to each quart of water. Seal, label and freeze the berries.

- Tray freezing (dry pack) method: Slice berries into ¼ inch slices, spread onto cookie sheet in single layer, place in freezer. Once frozen, place strawberries into freezer bags, seal, label and date the frozen berries. This method works nicely for pre-packaging berries for smoothies.

Working to contain and eradicate chronic wasting disease in deer herd

Since the discovery in May of a free-ranging deer infected with chronic wasting disease in Ingham County, Mich., the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has been hard at work sampling deer from the immediate area for additional signs of the disease and putting into effect emergency precautions to prevent as much as possible spread of the disease.

So far, no additional infected animals have been found.

Chronic wasting disease (CWD) is an unusual neurological disorder that affects members of the deer family. CWD is caused by prions – mutating proteins in the animal’s nervous system – not a bacteria or virus. A form of transmissible spongiform encephalopathy, similar to mad cow disease, CWD causes lesions in the brain.

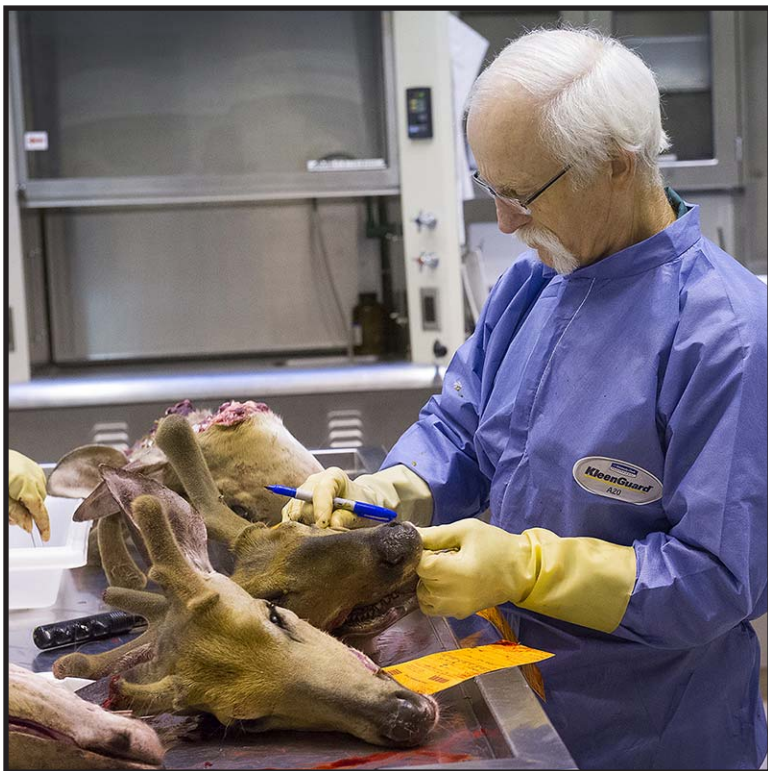

Infected animals exhibit uncharacteristic behavior – they lose their fear of humans, for instance – and gradually waste away. CWD has never been shown to cause illness in humans.

The infected animal in Ingham County showed classic symptoms, said DNR veterinarian Steve Schmitt. “The animal was found in a subdivision in Meridian Township showing neurological symptoms, standing there, letting people approach it,” Schmitt said. “And it was thin.”

Meridian Township police dispatched the animal and turned it over to the DNR, where it tested positive for CWD. Further testing at the U.S. Department of Agriculture’s National Veterinary Services Laboratory confirmed that the animal was infected.

That’s when the DNR’s work started. “The first step is ramping up our surveillance,” said Chad Stewart, the DNR’s deer and elk specialist. “We’ve determined that the disease exists in Ingham County and now we need to find out how prevalent it is and where else it may exist.

“We’re checking road kills and other samples. If we get on it very quickly, we have a chance to eradicate it. If it gets established, we’re pretty much in containment mode.”

First identified in a captive mule-deer herd at a research facility in Colorado in the late 1960s, CWD has since been found in 23 states and two Canadian provinces.

Michigan’s first case of CWD was in a private, captive herd in Kent County in 2008. Significant monitoring of deer from the county and surrounding area failed to discover another infected animal. Since CWD was confirmed in Ingham County, 122 deer have been tested. None tested positive for CWD.

The bulk of the deer tested have been road kills, which are excellent test subjects, Schmitt said. “An animal with neurological disease is more likely to step in front of a car,” he said.

Others have been shot under disease-control permits issued by the DNR and by the USDA’s Wildlife Disease unit, which the DNR contracted to take additional deer.

“This disease can exist in otherwise healthy-looking animals for months or years, but they’re still infectious,” Stewart said. “We’re optimistic that we caught this in time and we can remove enough deer and any infected deer from the population. We obviously won’t know that answer until we test more deer.”

Schmitt said two states that similarly found a single infected deer – Minnesota and New York – were able to prevent the disease from becoming established in their herds by “aggressive management.”

Schmitt said he was pleased that no additional animals have tested positive, but “we’re going to try to get our hands on every deer from the core area – within a two-mile radius of the infected animal – that we can.”

Prions are passed from infected deer by excrement, saliva or even the dead carcass of an animal. The prions remain active for a lengthy period of time – how long is not fully known – but animals can pick up the disease from a contaminated environment. “Those prions will bind with soil particles and stay infectious for years," Schmitt said.

In addition to surveillance, the DNR has issued immediate orders applying to Ingham, Clinton and Shiawassee counties banning feeding deer year-round and baiting during hunting season. All three counties will have an early antlerless hunting season this year.

The DNR has established a nine-township Core CWD Management Area, which includes the townships of Lansing, Meridian, Williamstown, Delhi, Alaiedon and Wheat-field in Ingham County; DeWitt and Bath townships in Clinton County; and Woodhull Township in Shiawassee County. Unlimited antlerless deer licenses will be available in the core area this year.

Hunters will be subject to mandatory deer registration in the core area. They will be required to register their deer at a DNR check station before they take their deer outside the core area and will be instructed on proper carcass disposal.

When the fall deer season arrives, the DNR intends to issue unlimited antlerless deer licenses in the affected area and institute mandatory deer checks. Hunters will be asked not to take the carcass of any deer taken in the area outside the township in which it was harvested, though they will be allowed to have the deer processed by a licensed processor and will be alerted to test results.

CWD has never been known to cause human health effects, but health officials warn against consuming the meat of infected animals or the parts of the central nervous system of any deer, as a precaution. "We hope the hunters will help by participating in mandatory check-ins, helping restrict carcass movement, and observing the feeding and baiting bans," Stewart said. "We have to try to stop any potential spread or increase in prevalence on the landscape."

"A lot is going to depend on how much hunter participation we get. We've gotten the ball rolling, but we need a lot of samples from our hunters during the season. We need their participation."

Currently, all deer being tested for CWD are being incinerated.

"We have one chance to try to eradicate this disease, so we have to give it our best shot," Stewart said. "There are going to be some people who won't like this - culling deer and unlimited antlerless permits - but it's the best thing to do."

People who see animals exhibiting neurological symptoms are asked to call the Report All Poaching (RAP) line at (800) 292-7800. People who see road-killed deer in the nine-township area are being asked to report them to the Wildlife Disease hotline (517) 614-9602 at the DNR Rose Lake Field Office.

Artificial reefs in Great Lakes lack long-term monitoring

By Eric Freedman
Capital News Service

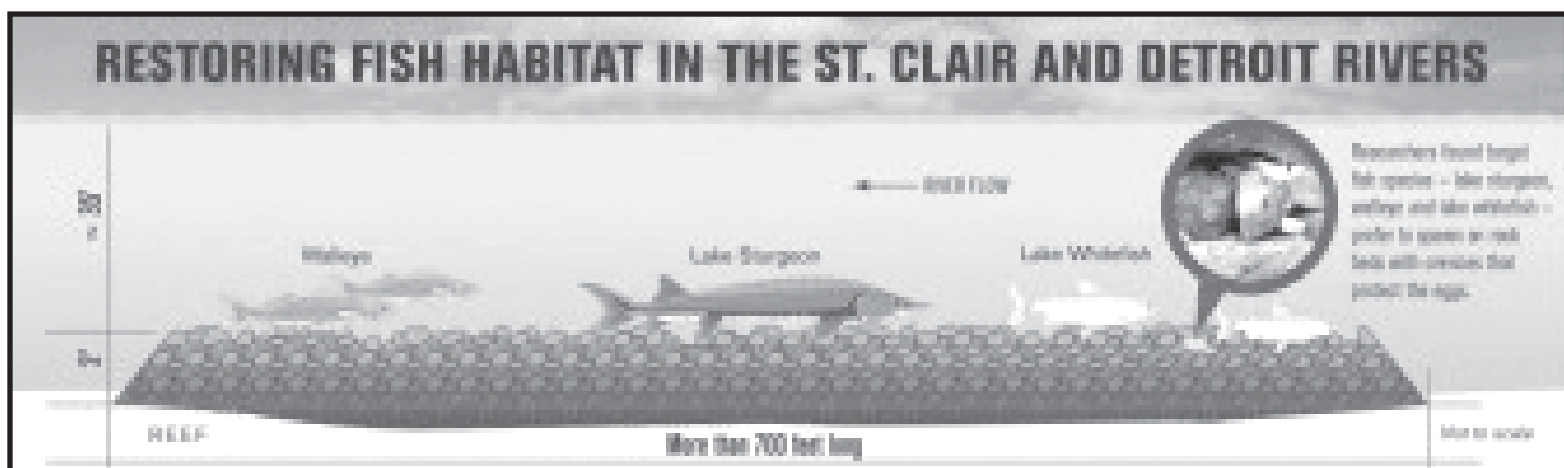

Artificial reefs in all five Great Lakes and some of their tributaries are intended to improve sport-fishing, enhance fish habitats and reduce the impact of current and waves.

But it's uncertain whether they've been as successful as hoped in achieving those goals, according to a new study by scientists at the U.S. Geological Service's Great Lakes Science Center in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The problem is a shortage of long-term monitoring data on the region's expanding number of artificial reefs.

"Artificial reefs have been proven to attract fish and increase catch rates in recreational fisheries, but the ability of reefs to increase fish abundance is not well documented in freshwater and marine systems," according to the study in the "Journal of Great Lakes Research."

Among the reefs cited in the study are those near the Cook Nuclear Plant in Bridgman, Mich., J.H. Campbell Power Plant in Ludington, Mich., Hamilton Reef in Muskegon, Mich. and ones in Thunder Bay and Port Huron.

Reefs may benefit fish habitat, however, that determination is unknown due to lack of research.

Some research shows increased spawning and fish feeding success, the study said, and sometimes the deposition of fish eggs has been greater on artificial than natural reefs.

However, "from an ecological perspective, whether artificial reefs can function as well as natural reefs remains unclear. Some artificial reefs have produced fish communities that are different in composition from those in natural habitats," the study said. "We found no studies that directly linked artificial reef projects to increased fish abundance at the population level."

Matthew McLean, a co-author of the study, said, "What has been done shows a lot of promise. Monitoring them is very important" to provide "solid evidence they are doing good."

McLean, formerly with the Great Lakes Science Center, is now a technician with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service.

Co-author Edward Roseman, a research fishery scientist at the center, said, "We don't know what we'd learn by monitoring these things for a long time."

According to Roseman, long-term monitoring data could help scientists decide where to site future artificial reefs. "What are the physical conditions at the bottom, and the current systems?" he said. That includes the river systems' depth, flow and suitability for species. And it would be useful to know how the reefs mature over time, including whether they silt in from sediment and whether vegetation grows on them.

Almost 40 reefs were built in the Great Lakes basin between the late 1800s and 2013, according to the study, with the most in Lake Michigan and the fewest in Lake Superior.

They've been used for fishery management for more than four decades. Those designed to improve recreational fishing of species such as smallmouth bass and walleye were most frequently placed near cities.

Other artificial reefs are newer than 2013, such as ones at Harts Light in the St. Clair River and at Pointe aux Chenes near Algonac, Mich.

And this summer, construction is scheduled for an artificial reef at Grassy Is-

TRAGIC DEATH OF MISS JENNIE CHIRITREE SHOCKS COMMUNITY

Brooding Over Continued Ill Health She Goes to the Lake and Ends Her Troubles in Its Depths

MOTHER CRAZED WITH GRIEF

UNFORTUNATE GIRL LEAVES A LETTER

So Sick She Could Not Stand It Longer,
Lake Looked So Peaceful She Would be Happy There

Leaving a note informing her mother that she was going to the lake "and never coming back," Miss Jennie Chiritree went to the shore sometime between ten o'clock Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning and ended her life in the waters of Lake Huron.

The body was found about ten o'clock Wednesday morning by two small boys who were fishing off the old Union dock. It was discovered partly submerged in shallow water close to the dock and at first the boys thought the exposed part was a dress or an apron floating on the water, but investigation disclosed the terrible truth.

They summoned help and Coroner Carle and Sheriff Hamilton came to the scene and removed the body to the home of the unfortunate girl's mother on Huron Avenue.

An inquest was not deemed necessary.

The funeral services will be held at the home Friday (tomorrow) afternoon at 2:00 o'clock local time.

Burial in the family lot at the South cemetery.

Miss Jennie lived with her mother, Mrs. Eugene Chiritree, widow of former Sheriff Chiritree of Alcona County, and her brother Calvin. The latter's son Howard also lived with them.

Almost from infancy Jennie had been afflicted with a nervous disorder which gradually grew worse and she kept to the house much of the time. Of late she has been despondent by spells. Some time ago her mother persuaded her to go to visit friends in southern Michigan and Jennie returned from the visit about ten days ago seemingly feeling better.

Mrs. Chiritree is employed at the McDonald House and necessarily is away from home much of the time day and night, and Jennie did what work she could at the home. She was alone much of the time and during the past week or so, she seemed unusually depressed at times and would complain that she was a burden to her mother. Mrs. Chiritree reasoned with her daughter at different times and usually succeeded in bringing her to a more cheerful frame of mind. Tuesday night she spent the evening at home with Jennie who seemed to brood over her illness and complained again that she was sorry her mother had to work so hard for her.

During the evening she asked her mother if people who were drowned had to be buried. Mrs. Chiritree did not realize the significance of the remark and the thought that Jennie contemplated going to the lake did not enter her mind. She remained until Howard came home, about 9:30, and then returned to the hotel. Jennie kissed her repeatedly and said good bye lingeringly as her mother left for the night but still the latter's suspicions were not aroused.

When Cal. came home about ten o'clock Jennie sat on the veranda. He passed inside and retired. Early next morning Cal. arose and went to work in the garden, after getting his breakfast, as was his custom. He noticed that a lamp had been left burning but paid no particular attention to that.

Later when Howard arose he went to Jennie's room; the door stood open and noticing that the bed had not been occupied he stepped in. Things did not look right to him and he soon discovered the letter lying on the dresser addressed to "mother." He glanced through it and ran to his father.

Cal. thoroughly frightened hastened up town and with others was on his way to the beach when the boys who had found the body approached and told their story.

Mrs. Chiritree was frantic when she learned of her daughter's terrible act, and is inconsolable in her grief. "If I had only stayed with her last night" she, moans as she walks back and forth in the little home.

"Jennie was all that I had to live for—oh, why did she do it! " is her constant cry.

Sympathetic friends are with her and doing all they can to comfort the grief-stricken mother.

Jennie was born in New York state 37 years ago, but she lived the greater part of her life in Alcona County. She was of a gentle, retiring disposition and had many friends. Her tragic death came as a severe shock to the community and the bereaved mother and family have the sincere sympathy of all. Besides her mother and brother, she is survived by an uncle, her father's brother, who is expected today from Detroit.

LAKE STREET BEE 'NOTHER GOOD ONE

Twenty Teams Haul Three Hundred Loads of Gravel

Co-operation of Ladies Adds to Success of Affair

Another big success was scored Monday by the Booster Club when the gravel bee held under their auspices was brought to very satisfactory conclusion with about three hundred loads of gravel spread on Lake street in places where it would do the most good.

Twenty teams and about thirty men and boys rallied to the call and as at the first bee all rolled up their sleeves, spat upon their hands and boldly went out at the work in hand.

The worst parts of the street were thoroly [sic] repaired and it is in fairly good condition up to the Fair Grounds—the objective point when the Boosters first started the movement.

Many of the country people again lent a helping hand and thus added to the obligation which the Boosters feel they are under to return the compliment when opportunity presents itself.

Not the least memorable feature of the day was the splendid dinner served in Odd Fellow Hall by the ladies of the Civic Improvement League. Just as one hungry shoveler put it "it was not a meal, it was a banquet."

Clothed in white gowns with caps to match the ladies made a pleasing sight as they flitted here and there attending to the wants of the hungry men and their system was so complete that there was no delay in the service and the men were back on the job inside of the hour. "Neatness and dispatch" is a well-worn term, but it exactly expresses the way this meal proposition was handled.

Heaping plates of good food served by ladies fair revives the weary Booster.

Makes him glad that he is there.

The menu included everything good to eat—hot and cold meats, vegetables, salads, pies, oh, everything—and the way it disappeared was a fitting compliment to the excellence of food.

By the way of good measure the ladies appeared at the pit in the midafternoon with a big supply of sandwiches and coffee.

The crew were on the job until plump six o'clock and when the last team left the pit they were a tired and perspiring lot, but happy in the consciousness of good work well done.

Farm Home Levelled By Fire

Fire of undetermined origin leveled the farm home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gwyn, on the Poor Farm Road, 1 1/4 mile north of M-72, about 2:30 Friday morning. The couple and their eleven children, ranging in age from 11 months to 15 years, escaped in their night clothes.

The fire apparently started in the basement and the aged structure burned rapidly. The building was owned by the Maurice Dellars who purchased the farm from the McIntyres in the recent past. It was formerly known as the "Pizer Farm".

The Lincoln, Harrisville and Greenbush fire departments were at the scene but the building was beyond saving in a short period of time.

New Mail Route Speeds Delivery

Changes for the better began today, (Thursday) in mail delivery and pick-up services, within Alcona County, it is announced by Postmaster Otto Klein of Harrisville.

A new route out of Harrisville with three runs a day, will speed up delivery and pick-up at Mkiado, Lincoln, Black River and Spruce postal offices. Clarence MacGregor, of Harrisville, Star Route carrier to Lincoln, Barton City and Curran, has been awarded the contract for the term, July 1, 1965 to June 30, 1969, and will handle this direct route. He has secured Carl Moore of Harrisville as driver of the Star Route to Lincoln, Barton City and Curran. No change in time was made on this route.

In the new schedule of service, all mail from out of the county for Mikado, Lincoln, Spruce and Black River will be left at the Harrisville post office. MacGregor will depart from the local post office at 7:30 a.m., 10:15 a.m. and 3:20 p.m., to deliver and pick up mail at the four post offices named above.

The service is daily except Sundays and holidays other than February 22 and November 11.

Hour schedule: 7:30 - leaves Harrisville, arrives at Mikado, 7:50, at Lincoln 8:05 and at Spruce, 8:25; Leaves Spruce 8:30, Black River 8:50 and returns to Harrisville at 9:10 a. m.

10:15 a.m. - leaves Harrisville, arrives at Mikado 10:30, at Lincoln 10:45 at Spruce 11:05; Leaves Spruce, 11:10, Black River 11:30 and returns to Harrisville at 11:50.

3:20 p.m. - leaves Harrisville, arrives Black River at 3:40, Spruce, 4:05, leaves Spruce at 4:10, Lincoln 4:30, Mikado 4:45 and returns to Harrisville at 4:55 p.m.

The contractor is required to transport all classes of mail; box delivery and collection services are not required, and equipment is a minimum of one vehicle, with minimum capacity of 250 cubic feet.

Mr. MacGregor has operated the Star Route to Curran for the past twenty years. He succeeded the late Fred L. Green, in 1945.

land north of Grosse Ile in the Detroit River, Roseman said. Michigan Sea Grant is coordinating that project with federal funding from the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative.

He said the initiative has paid for the majority of such projects during the past five years, with other support from local and state governments, nonprofit organizations and the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry.

While most were intentionally constructed for fish habitat, the earliest ones were unintentional, such as a 19th-century reef in the North Channel of the St. Clair River formed when ships dumped coal cinders while moored near Detroit.

Their size, design and construction materials—including limestone, granite cement and rubble from an old sports stadium—varied.

Monitoring of projects in the Detroit and St. Clair rivers already has shown that “we can get away with cheaper material, such as broken limestone which is a native geological form” in the Great Lakes Basin “and less expensive than fieldstone,” Roseman said.

The study examined prior research about eight artificial reefs in Lake Michigan, six in Lake Erie, three each in lakes Ontario and Huron, two in Lake Superior, nine in connecting channels and six in tributaries.

“Although artificial reefs have been successful in attracting fish for feeding and spawning purpose, the long-term effects on fishes remain unclear,” it said.

The scientists found that most monitoring programs are too short and on too small a scale to effectively evaluate long-term effects. Biological monitoring in the Great Lakes generally lasts only two to seven years after construction, for example, and McLean said there’s even less monitoring of the physical structures for erosion, sedimentation and vegetation.

The study calls for development of better standards to monitor the reefs’ biological and physical attributes. That would include water quality parameters, fish use and invertebrates.

Every part of the foxglove plant is toxic to humans and animals, including the roots and seeds. In some instances, people have confused foxglove with the comfrey plant (which is often brewed into a tea) with often harmful consequences. As dangerous as it is, the foxglove plant contains a chemical from which digoxin, a heart medication, is made. Digoxin can increase the strength of heart muscle contractions, change heart rate, and increase heart blood output. - Brenda Weaver
