Alcona School Board receives unexpected funds

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The Alcona Community School Board of Education members and administrators are breathing a little easier these days thanks to an unexpected payment of over $100,000.

A total of $113,619 came from the state of Michigan from adjustments the state made for a period of 12 years, from 2003 to 2015.

Superintendent Shawn Thornton said the adjustment was made from equalization values which were changed on a county level per household taxable value but were never changed by the state over the 12 year period.

Margaret Negro, business manager for the school board, said amounts are adjusted periodically and it was normal to see some adjustment but in smaller amounts. "We had no idea this amount was coming in. It just appears on our state aid for prior year adjustments," Negro said.

Thornton said the $113,619 amount was larger than usual because of the amount of years the adjustment reflected.

"On June 30, 2015, we approved a budget with approximately a four percent fund balance. That is less than one month of operating expenses for our school district. With this budget adjustment, which is a result of a combination of changes in revenues and expenditures, our estimated fund balance has increased to $669,474 on June 30, 2016."

"We are pleased with this positive change because our auditors recommend at least a 15 percent fund balance and this budget adjustment raises our fund balance up to approximately 8.8 percent rather than the four percent which was riskier," Thornton said.

Other adjustments were made to the budget at the school board meeting on Monday, Nov. 9, bringing the total of increased local and state revenues for the school to $406,330.

There were also changes to the budget for expenses, the majority of which covered new staff hires necessary when some faculty left prior to the start of the school year.

Negro and Thornton explained revenue budget adjustments which came locally such as a positive $131,000 which really has no effect on the budget and is a flow through amount for insurance premiums. The school board expenses for it on the budget, but the employees pay it back.

There is also a positive amount of $2,500 which came from athletic fees paid to the school system.

Negative amounts of $15,000 for the school success program and $11,138 from taxable value changes at the county level were also noted and deducted on the revenue budget adjustment.

Thornton said the $15,000 was because the school success program is now in its second year at the school so no start up funds were necessary.

State sources of revenue adjustment reflect the current year adjustment to state aid which includes $7,391 per pupil, the addition of a vocational education category, increased at-risk funding, and removal of performance and best practice categories bringing in an amount of $180,349. This amount came in with the unexpected $113,619 for the adjusted state valuation.

There was also a $5,000 increase from the reach higher grant from the Michigan College Access Network. Thornton explained the district did not add a vocation category to its curriculum and the funds were actually earmarked for the agriculture science program already at the school.

"The at-risk fund was statewide and is allocated by the state based on student at-risk population," Thornton said.

Alcona Community School Board of Education meetings are open to the public and held on the second Monday of the month at 5:30 p.m. at the Alcona County Middle School on Barlow Road in Lincoln. For more information, call the school at (989) 736-6212.

Road commission hosts open house for new building

After two long and challenging years, the Alcona County Road Commission maintenance building in Lincoln has been rebuilt and operations will soon be headquartered in the new facility.

A dedication of the new facility will take place at an open house on Saturday, Dec. 5 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., when the public will be welcomed to tour the building.

"It has been a long two years," said Alcona County Road Commission Managing Director Jesse Campbell. "It wasn't just a matter of sticking a new building up in place of the garage that was destroyed by fire. There were so many variables and unknowns that hindered progress along the way, but it was always the intention to build the best, yet most practical and economical, replacement building we could."

gain traction, there were change orders that only became apparent as the building progressed," Campbell said. "Considering the hurdles in addition to the change orders such as availability of materials, logistics, weather, and coordination of the several different tasks and contractors on the job, it really was a relatively efficient process."

The projected actual cost of rebuilding the garage is $1,680,000, and will be completely covered by insurance. Another $314,000 will pay for contents lost in the fire, and approximately $899,000 was allocated to replace trucks lost in the fire. Other items that will add to the functionality of the operation of the new facility, such as "... we are pleased to be able to present this building to the citizens of Alcona County who showed their support by approving a millage to help pay for some extra improvements not covered by insurance."

Eagles host benefits for Toys for Tots

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The Barton City Eagles will host benefit nights to help fund the Toys for Tots program in Alcona County.

The Toys for Tot evenings are held four times prior to Christmas from October through December. Three of the evenings are pizza benefit nights with pizza made on site and include entertainment. A special Elvis impersonation night will also be held with a fried chicken dinner.

The dates for the next pizza night benefits are Friday, Nov. 20 with DJ Roger performing and on Friday, Dec. 11 with Music Maker Donna.

On Friday, Dec. 4, a special chicken dinner is planned prior to an entertainment concert by Elvis impersonator Elzie Dixon.

The chicken dinner will be served from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and includes fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, vegetable, coleslaw, and dessert. The Elvis performance begins at 7:30 p.m.

All proceeds from the benefits go directly to Toys for Tots to furnish children in Alcona County with toys for Christmas. Unwrapped new toys can also be brought to the events, but the price remains the same for the dinners even if toys are brought.

Shirley Zaleski, Barton City Eagle member and bartender, has been coordinating the Toys for Tots benefit nights for about four years and said they typically serve about 50 to 60 people per night.

The Toys for Tots program purchases toys from the funds collected and then gives them to St. Vincent DePaul and My Brother's Hope for distribution.

The Barton City Fraternal Order of Eagles No. 4141 is located at 671 Sanborn Road. For details, contact Zaleski at (989) 335-0461.

parking lots, drainage, fencing and other items not covered by insurance will be paid for using the millage funds.

"We are being very prudent with the millage funds the public has entrusted with us," Campbell said. "That's one of the reasons we are encouraging attendance at the open house so people can see firsthand the facility and grounds where their road crews are based."

With all due appreciation for the temporary facilities used over the past two years, it will be so much more efficient when the base of operations in one place again.

"The community support, the cooperation with Alcona schools for renting us space in their repair facility, Ken Manning for leasing a truck storage site, local business and outside vendors being flexible and responsive to our needs, and the immediate and ongoing response from other road commissions in offering to lend and/or sell us equipment at fair prices has helped us get to this point," Campbell said. "I can't imagine how much longer or challenging the process would have been without that help."

The new steel-frame structure is 18,500 square feet and is smaller than the old building, which was 19,600 square feet. "Unlike the old building, which was outdated and dysfunctional, the new building was designed to use the square footage wisely and more closely meet the needs of how we do operate now," Campbell said.

For more information about the new building, contact the Alcona County Road Commission at 301 N. Lake Street, P.O. Box 40, Lincoln; by phone at (989) 736-8168 or by e-mail at roads@alcona-crc.com; the website at alconacrc.com.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

How to guard against deadly aortic aneurysms

Dear Savvy Senior,
My father died several years ago, at the age of 76, from a stomach aneurysm, which now has me wondering. What are my risk factors of getting this, and what can I do to protect myself, as I get older?

Just Turned 60

Dear Just,
Stomach aneurysms, also known as "abdominal aortic aneurysms," are very dangerous and the third leading cause of death in men over 60. They also tend to run in families, so having had a parent with this condition makes you much more vulnerable yourself.

An abdominal aortic aneurysm (or AAA) is a weak area in the lower portion of the aorta, which is the major artery that carries blood from the heart to the rest of the body. As blood flows through the aorta, the weak area bulges like a balloon and can burst if it gets too big, causing life-threatening internal bleeding. In fact, nearly 80 percent of AAAs that rupture are fatal, but the good news is that more than nine out of 10 that are detected early are treatable.

Around 200,000 people are diagnosed with AAAs each year, but estimates suggest that another two million people may have it but not realize it. The factors that can put you at increased risk are:

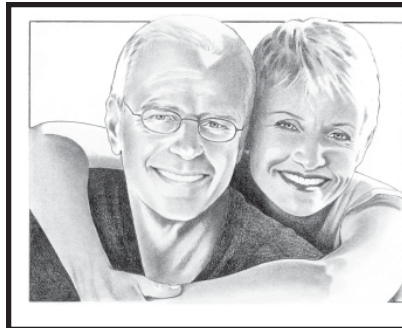

- Smoking: Ninety percent of people with an AAA smoke or have smoked. This is the number one risk factor and one you can avoid.
- Age: Your risk of getting an AAA increases significantly after age 60 in men, and after age 70 in women.
- Family history: Having a parent or sibling who has had an AAA can increase your risk to around one in four.
- Gender: AAAs are five times more likely in men than in women.
- Health factors: Atherosclerosis, also known as hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and high cholesterol levels also increase your risk.

Because AAAs usually start small and enlarge slowly, they rarely show any symptoms, making them difficult to detect. However, large AAAs can sometimes cause a throbbing or pulsation in the abdomen, or cause abdominal or lower back pain.

The best way to detect an AAA is to get a simple, painless, 10-minute ultrasound screening test. All men over age 65 that have ever smoked, and anyone over 60 with a first-degree relative (father, mother or sibling) who has had an AAA should talk to their doctor getting screened.

You should also know that most health insurance plans cover AAA screenings, as does Medicare to beneficiaries with a family history of AAAs, and to men between the ages of 65 and 75 who have smoked at least 100 cigarettes during their life.

Savvy Senior

If an AAA is detected during screening, how it's treated will depend on its size, rate of growth and your general health. If caught in the early stages when the aneurysm is small, it can be monitored and treated with medication. But if it is large or enlarging rapidly, you'll probably need surgery.

While some risk factors like your age, gender and family history are uncontrollable, there are a number of things you can do to protect yourself from AAA. For starters, if you smoke, you need to quit – see smokefree.gov or call (800) QUIT-NOW for help.

You also need to keep tabs on your blood pressure and cholesterol levels, and if they are high you need to take steps to lower them through diet, exercise and if necessary, medication.

(Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org.)

YMCA Programs for Vets

VETERANS POST
by Freddy Groves

Have you been to the Y lately? Did you know there are special programs there for veterans?

The alliance between the armed forces and the YMCA goes back to 1861, in Abraham Lincoln's day, when YMCA members provided relief services to the military in local encampments. The Y also offered education scholarships long before that benefit was established for veterans and active-duty personnel. The relationship has continued all these years.

In 1984, the YMCA and the Department of Defense established a Memorandum of Understanding, which was renewed in 2004. And now, the VA and the YMCA have expanded their partnership to promote the health and well-being of veterans and their families.

Who knew?

The expanded agreement pairs Veterans Benefits Administration regional offices and Veterans Health Administration facilities with YMCAs to make sure that veterans are hooked up with resources in their communities, as well as their families and caregivers. Not every YMCA site has the veterans program.

The variety of programs is broad. This summer a new program started that provides career opportunities for veterans on public lands protecting natural and cultural resources. Some YMCAs have started scuba experiences for wounded veterans. Others sent the kids and families of veterans to camp.

Typical programs can include health and fitness, aquatics, camping, family, child care, arts, community development, sports and teens, as well as LIVESTRONG (healthy living and fitness help) and Healthy Kids Day. Some locations have diabetes prevention programs, youth after-school, preschool enrichment, aerobics and indoor track, cross training and more.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Leonid Meteors Ascending

Internet chatter about the Taurid meteor shower showed that it has produced some very nice fireballs. One of my friends, David Fisherowski, who lives in SE PA, imaged nine meteors on the night of Nov. 8/9, a really nice catch for a meteor stream that produces about five events per hour under optimal conditions. Taurid activity will continue throughout November but at diminished rates. Leonid meteors follow, but this shower is not for the faint of heart. Insomniacs, early risers, or the individual who just likes it cold, please step forward. Leonid activity peaks on the morning of November 18 between midnight and dawn. Fueled from the debris of Comet Tempel-Tuttle, it was the Leonid storm which triggered the birth of meteor astronomy on November 11-12, 1833. On the 12th, between the hours of 2 a.m. and dawn, Leonids literally rained down on North America with the highest rates estimated at 100,000 shooting stars per hour. That's about 30 events each second. The Leonids for 1866 and 1966 had maximum numbers of 5000 and 160,000 meteors per hour respectively. Enhanced returns also occurred from 1999 through 2002, with 2001 being the most productive year for East Coast observers. Now activity has returned to normal with about 5-10 Leonids visible each hour on maximum morning from suburbia. Face SE after midnight and view towards the zenith, usually the darkest part of the sky. If Leonid activity is present, the paths of the shooting stars will trace back to the sickle of Leo the Lion, a reversed question mark which outlines the Leo's head. Leonids really fly; they are the fastest meteors that can be seen with entrance velocities of nearly 45 miles per second. Dress for winter, making sure that head, hands, and feet are well protected. Hefty sleeping bags are a must-have item, including numerous hand warmers, and an air mattress to elevate your body off the cold ground. Here's to being a happy human icicle by dawn's early light on Nov. 18. www.astronomy.org

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

- On Dec. 2, 1859, in Charles Town, Virginia, abolitionist John Brown is executed on charges of treason, murder and insurrection. Brown became militant during the mid-1850s, when he fought pro-slavery settlers in the sharply divided Kansas Free State territory.
 - On Dec. 6, 1917, a Belgian steamer and French freighter, both loaded with ammunition, explode in Canada's Halifax Harbor, leveling part of the town and killing nearly 1,600 people and injuring some 8,000. The ships carried 8 million tons of TNT intended for use in World War I.
 - On Dec. 5, 1945, five U.S. Navy torpedo-bombers take off from Florida on a routine training mission over the Atlantic Ocean. The squadron leader later reported that his compass had failed and his position was unknown, and a rescue aircraft was dispatched with a 13-man crew. No trace of the 27 crewmen or six aircraft was ever found.
 - On Dec. 4, 1956, the "Million Dollar Quartet" convenes at Sun Studios in Memphis, Tennessee, in an historic impromptu jam session. Present were Carl Perkins, Johnny Cash, Jerry Lee Lewis and Elvis Presley. A tape recorded that day was not discovered until 1981.
 - On Nov. 30, 1965, lawyer Ralph Nader publishes the muckraking book "Unsafe at Any Speed." It became a bestseller and prompted the passage of seat-belt laws in 49 states (all but New Hampshire).
 - On Dec. 3, 1979, eleven people are killed in a stampede outside a Who concert in Cincinnati when a crowd of general-admission ticket-holders surged forward in an attempt to secure prime unreserved seats inside, known as festival seating.
 - On Dec. 1, 1990, 132 feet below the English Channel, workers drill an opening through a wall of rock, connecting the two ends of an underwater tunnel linking Great Britain with the European mainland for the first time in more than 8,000 years.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was Scottish novelist and politician John Buchan who made the following sage observation: "We can pay our debt to the past by putting the future in debt to ourselves."
- The general board of the prestigious University of Cambridge has recommended that the institution hire a Professor of Lego. Yep. The lucky academic will head up the Research Centre on Play in Education, Development and Learning. On a related note, Cambridge recently received a donation of more than $6 million from the Lego Foundation.
- If you happen to have 40 billion Lego bricks lying around, you could, theoretically, build a tower to the moon.
- Single-shot coffee makers like Keurig are increasingly popular, but the inventor of the K-Cup coffee pods doesn't actually use them himself. John Sylvan says, "I don't have one. They're kind of expensive to use." He added, "It's not like drip coffee is tough to make."
- Beloved British author Charles Dickens was forced to go to work at the age of 11, pasting labels on bottles of shoe polish in a boot-blackening factory. Soon after, his father was put in debtors' prison, and when his mother and siblings went to live with him there; young Charles was left to live on the streets and fend for himself. It's not surprising, then, that after Dickens achieved the great success he enjoyed as a writer, he was an ardent campaigner for children's rights.
- If you plan to become a patriotic citizen of Greece, I hope you have a good memory: The Greek national anthem has a whopping 158 verses.

Thought for the Day: "The greatest analgesic, soporific, stimulant, tranquilizer, narcotic and to some extent even antibiotic -- in short, the closest thing to a genuine panacea -- known to medical science is work." -- Thomas Szasz

"Loverites" is the latest disease that has struck town. The symptoms are a smothered sensation in the region of the heart with a high fever and a strong desire to take a long hike. It attacks young men from 15 to 21 years and rarely proves fatal. The only cure known is to present the patient with a good axe and introduce him to the wood pile that will last ten days. The latest victims are George and Earl.
