Conservation officers play key role in apprehending escaped Iosco County prisoner Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR)

conservation officers played a key role in apprehending an escaped prisoner Saturday, Aug. 29, in Iosco County. Ten conservation officers, part of the DNR Law Enforcement Division, from Iosco, Ogemaw, Alcona, Oscoda and Gladwin counties responded to a call Saturday afternoon of a prisoner who had escaped the custody of county law enforcement personnel in Reno Township near Whittemore. The prisoner escaped while being transported back to the losco County jail after receiving medical treatment at the West Branch Regional Medical Center. In conjunction with law enforcement personnel from Iosco, Ogemaw and Alcona county sheriff's departments, the Michigan State Police and the United States Forest Service, DNR conservation officers assisted in setting up a perimeter around the prisoner's last known location. Just over two hours after the escape, conservation officers apprehended the prisoner in a large forested area. "The conservation officers were very familiar with the forest topography and features of the area, which greatly assisted in quick apprehension of the prisoner," said DNR Sgt. Brandon Kieft. According to Kieft, Michigan conservation officers are fully commissioned state peace officers who provide natural resources protection, ensure recreational safety

Investigation determines arson as cause of Hubbard Lake fire

solving an arson at a business in Hubbard Lake is sought by the Michigan State Police in Alpena.

At approximately 5 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 30, a fire was reported at the Cedar Grove Bar & Grill located at 14502 Hubbard Lake Road in Hubbard Lake. According to the state police, the fire caused a considerable amount of damage to the building and its contents prior to being extinguished by the Hubbard Lake Fire Department.

On Tuesday, Sept. 1, a fire investigator from the Michigan State Police Fire Investigation Unit examined the scene and ruled the fire was intentionally set.

The investigator concluded cover up a breaking and entering committed by one or more suspects. Items stolen from the office area included a considerable amount of cash and coins -- a large number of one dollar bills and quarters.

On the same night of the fire, there was also a heavy metal music festival at a park approximately one quarter mile from the fire scene. This festival was well attended into the early morning hours, with many people staying overnight at the park.

Because this was well within walking distance of the fire, investigators are not ruling out the possibility that someone from the festival was involved.

The Michigan State Police arson and burlary.

The public's assistance in that the fire was likely set to is requesting the public's assistance with identifying the suspect or suspects involved in these crimes.

Anyone having information regarding this burglary and arson, or who may have seen or accepted a large number of one dollar bills or quarters since the fire is requested to call the Arson Tip Line at (800) 44-ARSON or Crime Stoppers at (800) 422-JAIL.

The information will remain confidential and a caller may remain anonymous. The Arson Tip Line will pay up to a $5,000 reward for information that assists in the solving of this arson.

Crime Stoppers will also pay up to another $1,000 reward for information that assists in the solving of this

Black River author takes readers to another galaxy

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

A local author combined his love of history, writing, a little bit of romance and a lot of imagination to complete a series of eight science fiction books.

'End of Days" is the first book in what J.R. (John) Bacon calls his "Birth of the Gods" series. His wife, Patt, an artist, helps edit his books. They spend their summers in Black River where Bacon has a writing room over looking Lake Huron. The couple winters in Florida series, there is plenty of love, compassion and suspenseful moments to accompany the struggle for life. Bacon said he likes to tease his readers and leaves some cliff hangers

Bacon chose Egyptian names and places for his characters in the book and calls the people of Mars Mayans, which gives the series a historical feel. He explained he wanted his characters to be real people and not some sort of alien space monsters.

Bacon said he liked writ-what his characters were thinking or feeling to gain a better understanding of who they are. "For me, the real challenge is getting inside the character's mind. Stepping into that person's shoes. You have to feel what the character feels, see what he or she sees and smell what he or she smells. You have to get into the character's emotions and, of course, it has to be from the character's perspective," Bacon said.

He recently spoke to a small group at the Harrisville branch of the Alcona County

The book begins with people living on Mars approximately 11,500 Earth years ago. They have enjoyed life on the planet for thousands of years, but now their planet is dying and to further its demise it's been hit by an asteroid. Running out of air to breath, the government builds 127 gigantic plastic domes, unfortunately the domes are not enough to prolong life on the planet and a selected few must board a starship to find a new home.

"There is only room for 900 people aboard the ship but there are millions living on the planet, so they hold a lottery. They can't go to Earth because Earth is going through an ice age, so they find another galaxy," Bacon said.

Spruce Food Pantry Closing

The Spruce Lutheran Church Food Pantry is closing and board members want to inform clients of this situation. "We're sending out letters to all our volunteers, et cetera, but our clients come from Tawas to Glennie and north of Alpena," said Karen Poellet, assistant coordinator for the food pantry.

The following is an explanation of the situation: "It is with regret that we have to impart the following news to you — at the end of the pantry on Saturday, Sept. 26, the Spruce Lutheran Church Food Pantry will close its doors. The Spruce Lutheran Church Council said its insurance will not cover any injuries or harm to the pantry's clients resulting from food given out to those clients, which in turn, might cause a lawsuit."

sage — which brings together the principles of classical English dressage and western cowboy.

The first "Fall All Discipline Dressage Schooling Show" will be held at the Lucky Dog Ranch on Saturday, Sept. 26 starting at 9 a.m. Registration closes on September 19. The second "Fall All Discipline Dressage Schooling Show" will be held at the Lucky Dog Ranch on Saturday, Oct. 24 starting at 9 a.m. Registration opens on October 3 and closes October 17. For more information regarding the club or registration fees, contact Mary Linton at (810) 338-0884 or Sue Schmitz at (989) 736-8447. The public is invited to watch these schooling shows, free of charge.

New Horse Club

Sunrise Equestrian Sports is a new horse club forming in Alcona County at the Lucky Dog Ranch, 2430 E. Dewar Road in Harrisville. The club's founders, Mary Linton and Sue Schmitz, are bringing some of the many diverse disciplines for the sport horse to northern lower Michigan. Some of the disciplines being offered at this time are: Trail riding, reining, eventing, jumping, classic dressage and the new popular and rapidly growing sport of western dres-

Light refreshments provided courtesy of KSJ Marketing Communications. Business can register for the seminar by using this link: http://goo.gl/kyqXfw, by emailing to kym@ksjmarketing or by calling (844) 575-6584 (toll-free) to register.

"I'm excited about offering the first of many free business seminars at the Skyline Event Center," Johnson said. "I love that I not only have a great location to offer marketing seminars but I can share my knowledge with local businesses at no charge because I'm an Authorized Local Expert (ALE) with Constant Contact. It's also great that my RDD for Constant Contact, Erin Bemis, can make the trip to co-present with me."

Adjusted flu vaccine options available to seniors this year

Dear Savvy Senior, What can you tell me about this year's flu shot? Last year's vaccine was ineffective at preventing the flu, especially among seniors. What options are available to me this year? Seeking Protection

Dear Seeking,

You're right. Last season's flu shot was not very effective at preventing the flu. In fact, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), people who got the shot were just 19 percent less likely to visit the doctor for flu than people who did not get the shot. In good years, flu shot effectiveness is in the 50 to 60 percent range.

The reason for the shot's ineffectiveness last year was because the vaccine was mismatched to the circulating flu viruses, which can genetically shift from year-to-year. This year, U.S. health officials have tweaked the flu vaccines to include last year's missing strain, which will hopefully provide better protection. But a flu shot is still your best defense against the flu. So, depending on your health, age and personal preference, here are the flu vaccine options (you only need one of these) available to older adults this year.

• Standard (trivalent) flu shot: This traditional flu shot has been around for more than 30 years and protects against three different strains of flu viruses. This year's version protects against two A strains (H1N1 and H3N2), and one influenza B virus.

 Quadrivalent flu shot: This vaccine, which was introduced two years ago, protects against four types of influenza - the same three strains as the standard flu shot, plus an additional new B-strain virus.

• High-dose flu shot: Designed specifically for seniors, age 65 and older, this trivalent vaccine, called the Fluzone High-Dose, has four times the amount of antigen as a regular flu shot does, which creates a stronger immune response for better protection.

However, note that the highdose option may also be more likely to cause side effects, including headache, muscle aches and fever.

• FluBlok vaccine: Created for adults 18 and older who have egg allergies, this is a trivalent flu vaccine that does not use chicken eggs in its manufacturing process.

• Intradermal flu shot: For those who don't like needles, the intradermal flu shot uses a tiny 1/16-inch long microneedle to inject the vaccine just under the skin, rather than deeper in the muscle like standard flu shots. This trivalent vaccine, however, is recommended only to adults, ages 18 to 64.

To locate a vaccination site that offers these flu shots, visit vaccines.gov and type in your ZIP code. You'll also be happy to know that if you're a Medicare beneficiary, Part B will cover 100 percent of the costs of any flu shot, as long as your doctor, health clinic or pharmacy agrees not to charge you more than Medicare pays. Private health insurers are also required to cover standard flu shots, however, you'll need to check with your provider to see if they cover the other vaccination options.

Two other important vaccinations the CDC recommends to seniors, especially this time of year, are the pneumococcal vaccines for pneumonia. Around one million Americans are hospitalized with pneumonia each year, and about 50,000 people die from it.

The CDC is now recommending that all seniors, 65 or older, get two vaccinations -Prevnar 13 and Pneumovax 23. Both vaccines, which are administered just once at different times, work in different ways to provide maximum protection.

If you haven't yet received any pneumococcal vaccine you should get the Prevnar 13 first, followed by Pneumovax 23 six to 12 months later. But if you've already been vaccinated with Pneumovax 23, wait at least one year before getting the Prevnar 13. Medicare Part B covers both shots, if they are taken at least 11 months apart.

Tigers devour Huskies, Wolverines in first two games of the season

By Kendra Cole

Football Writer The Alcona varsity football team is off to a great start this season.

Head coach Jason Somers' goal is to make it to the state playoffs with this team and, starting with two victories under their belt, Alcona has started to pave the way for a trip to the playoffs.

Somers sees something special in this team. "The thing that is most exciting about this team is their relationship with one another. This team truly cares about one another and it shows in their play as well as how hard they push each other in practice.

The Tigers played the first game of the season two weeks ago on their home field against the Atlanta Huskies. There were no first game jitters to be found on the Tiger sidelines as they blew past the Huskies with ease 70 to 0.

The Tigers have a younger line up this year and Somers explained this will be one of the challenges they face. "This season will present many challenges for this team, they are still pretty young overall so competing with experienced teams will be a challenge."

Last Friday, the Tigers faced the AuGres Wolverines. Alcona had no problem sealing the second win of the season with a score of 66 to 14.

Alcona kicked off to Au-and protect citizens by providing general law enforcement duties in the communities they serve.

"Conservation officers play a vital role in Michigan's law enforcement network, and this is another example of the critical work they do to protect the public," said DNR Law Enforcement Division Chief Gary Hagler.

In addition to their conservation and law enforcement duties, conservation officers provide such critical services as search and rescue, ice rescue and other lifesaving op-

Gres and the Wolverines started off strong by taking advantage of a 15-yard penalty by the Tigers and scored their first touchdown. With 11:24 left, Hunter Sullivan recovered a fumble and gained possession of the football. That play set up Brock Franklin to score Alcona's first of many touchdowns. With a pass from Alex Stephenson to Isaac Dubuque, the twopoint conversion was good.

With the game tied, the Tigers defense held off the Wolverines so that they could take over on downs. Franklin broke multiple tackles to score a 41-yard touchdown for the Tigers making it 14 to 8 with 7:28 left. Cody Schram and Franklin contributed to the Tigers defense.

Jack Hutchinson got an interception off a huge hit by the one of Alcona's defensive players. Franklin then scored a touchdown breaking the tie, 22-8. Stops by Stephenson and Dakota Oke left just enough time for Sullivan to work some magic to score a 44-yard touchdown with only three seconds left. A successful two-point conversion put the Tigers ahead 30-8 at the end of the first quarter.

The second quarter saw another strong drive by Alcona which started with a pass from Stephenson to Hutchinson. That pass set up Stephenson to score a touchdown with 9:34 left in the quarter. Franklin completed the two-point conversion and the Tigers pulled farther ahead, 38-8.

Sullivan contributed multiple stops for the Tiger's defense eventually causing Au-Gres to punt. Sullivan carried that energy into offense and completed a 23-yard run. Jack Hutchinson had two great blocks for Franklin which cleared the way for another Alcona touchdown and a successful two-point conversion.

Tiger defense went work again and took over on downs. Hutchinson broke multiple tackles for a 27-yard touchdown, and brought the score to 52-8.

AuGres took advantage of the 2:25 minutes left and scored their second touchdown for the night. The first half ended with a score of 52-14.

The second half began with the Wolverines kicking to Alcona and were lucky enough to recover the ball. Tim Hutchinson answered back with a huge hit and Ray Bets sacked the quarterback for a loss of five yards. After getting possession, the Tigers set up Oke for a 60-yard touchdown with 6:43 remain-

Library about his books and how they developed. "The idea came to me about two years ago. Normally, I would write two chapters of a book on note cards and then transfer them to paper (by computer), but for some reason when this series began I had about half a novel on note cards before putting anything on paper," Bacon said.

He explained typically he wrote about 700 to 800 pages a year, but when he started writing this series of books he wrote over 1,400 pages the first year and finished all eight books in rough draft form the second year. He said he really didn't know where the idea of the series came from and couldn't believe how fast it all came totown, much like Harrisville. He was the middle child of a single mother who, after divorcing, moved back home to live with her parents while raising her family. Bacon idolized his grandfather, who was a dentist and practiced until he was 92 and lived 10 more years after that. Bacon said, "He was a marvelous man. I was his sidekick and handyman."

His college education began at the University of New York, but after spending most of his youth in a small town the big university was not a good fit. He transferred to Adrian College in southern Michigan, where he met a beautiful redhead, his wife Patt. He attended graduate school at Wayne State University. Bacon's advice to anyone wanting to write is to just do it. "Writing is a muscle that needs to be exercised every day. Don't just think about it, do it," Bacon said. The first book in the series "The End of Days," which Bacon helped subsidize to be published is available in Kindle and paperback versions and can be purchased by visiting his website at www.johnbaconauthor.com. Copies are also available at the Alcona County Library and the Alpena Public Library. He, along with his agent, is seeking a publishing firm to print the rest of the series. The next book should be available next year. For further information, email johnbaconauthor@gmail.com.

He treats his talent of writing like a job and works to keep his skills in condition; much like a football player would practice for his next game.

Bacon said he wanted to write since he was a teenager, but put his career teaching English first while raising a family in the Detroit, Mich., suburbs. He taught for 33 years. He and his wife have three children and six grandchildren.

ing on the clock. Lucas Wise and Bets contribute big stops for Alcona's defense which allowed them to take over on downs. Tim Hutchinson and Oke finished the quarter with a couple of good carries.

The Hutchinson twins began the fourth quarter with Tim scoring a touchdown and Jack completing with a twopoint conversion which topped the score at 66 to 14. Tristan Gordy, Franklin, Tim Hutchinson, and Dubuque all contribute to the Tigers' defense. After gaining possession of the football, Alcona ended the game, adding another check to their win column.

Franklin had 15 carries for 164 yards and four touchdowns. Sullivan had four carries for yards and one touchdown. Oke had three carries for 75 yards and one touch-

Two new invasive species in Michigan waters

Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) staff recently confirmed a freshwater alga commonly known as didymo, or rock snot, growing in extensive mats in the St. Mary's River near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Additionally, DEQ staff recently discovered New Zealand mud snails in the Pere Marquette River near Ludington, Mich.

Unlike other types of nuisance algae, didymo thrives in cold, clean water. Under the right conditions, didymo can grow into thick mats that cover the river bottom. The mats look and feel like wet wool, which is why the algae is sometimes called rock snot, although it's not actually slimy. Didymo is not a threat to human health, but the formation of mats crowds out biologically valuable algae and invertebrates that are important food for fish. Thick didymo mats can become snagged in fishing gear and interfere with fishing and wading.

New Zealand mud snails are each only about and eighth of an inch long, and can be difficult to see. However, they often cluster in high densities, and compete with native snails and other macroinvertebrates for food and space. Originally from New Zealand, the snails are now widespread in many western states and present in Wisconsin. They are easily transported and resilient, and can survive in damp environments for up to 26 days.

Both of these new invaders can easily attach to fishing equipment, wading gear and other hard surfaces and hitch a ride to a new environment. Anglers and boaters are reminded to take steps to clean, drain and dry their equipment to help prevent the spread of both didymo and New Zealand mud snails, as well as all types of aquatic invasive species. Boaters are required by law to remove aquatic plants before launching, as well as to drain live wells, bilges and all water from boats before leaving the access site. Boaters and anglers are encouraged to clean boats and equipment, including waders, with hot water or a dilute bleach solution, and allow to dry for at least five days before reusing, when possible. Report any new sightings of didymo, New Zealand mud snails or other invasive species to www.michigan.gov/ aquaticinvasives or the Midwest Invasive Species Information Network at www.misin.msu.edu.

Hunting outlook and season for Michigan small game

Small game hunting season began on September 1 with the opening of the early Canada goose season and teal seasons and continues until rabbit and hare season ends March 31, 2016. Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) wildlife biologists across the state say hunters should find conditions similar to last year.

Hunters are reminded that due to changes in licensing, all licensed hunters may pursue small game.

Rabbits

Season: Cottontail rabbits and varying (or snowshoe) hare can be hunted from September 15 through March 31, 2016 statewide. The daily bag limit is five in combination with a possession limit of 10.

Outlook: Roughly 56,000 hunters reported pursuing rabbits in 2011 (the most recently completed harvest survey) and about 12,000 hunted hares. Cottontail populations are good throughout their range over much of the state.

Concentrate on thick cover, such as briar patches and brush piles, often near agricultural fields. Snowshoe hare populations are down from historic levels. Look for earlysuccessional forests (such as aspen stands) and low-lying conifer swamps with blowdowns and brush piles in the northern two-thirds of the state.

Squirrels

Season: September 15 through March 1, 2016. The daily bag limit is five per day with 10 in possession.

Outlook: Both fox and gray squirrel populations are at moderate to high levels across much of the state. Areas that had good mast production last year are a good bet, as are wood lots adjoining corn fields. Post deer-season hunting, in January and February, is increasingly popular. About 72,000 hunters pursue squirrels.

Ruffed Grouse

Season: September 15 through November 14 and December 1 through January 1, 2016 statewide. The bag limit is five per day/10 in possession in the northern two-thirds of the state, three per day/six in possession in Zone 3 (southern Michigan).

Outlook: Grouse populations are cyclical, typically rising and falling over a 10-year period, and indications are that populations are near the bottom of the cycle, though spring drumming counts during the last two years were up. Hunters are expected to see more birds this year than in 2014.

Young to moderate-aged aspen stands - about six to 15 years of age - with a thick understory of witch hazel or dogwood are prime grouse habitat. Food sources are important, but wild fruit and berry production should be very good this year due to good spring rains.

Grouse are most numerous in the Upper Peninsula and northern Lower Peninsula, but hunters may find local populations in areas with good habitat in southern Michigan as well.

Grouse and woodcock hunters are asked to assist the DNR in monitoring populations by reporting their results. Cooperator forms can be found on the DNR web site at www.michigan.gov/hunting (select Upland Game Birds and then Ruffed Grouse). Michigan boasts about 77,000 grouse hunters.

Woodcock

Season: September 15 through November 2 statewide. The daily bag limit is three with a possession limit of six.

Outlook: Woodcock populations have been in long-term decline, though there is evidence that decline has slowed in recent years. Hunters can expect about the same results they had last year.

Found in all parts of Michigan, woodcock are migratory, and although their population densities are higher in the northern two-thirds of the state, they often can be found in good numbers in southern Michigan later in the season as the birds head south.

Some 32,000 hunters say they pursue woodcock in Michigan, the top woodcockhunting state in the union. All woodcock hunters must obtain a free woodcock stamp in addition to a valid base license; the endorsement stamp is available at all license agents or online at www.mdnrelicense.com.

Sharp-tailed Grouse

Season: October 10-31 in the eastern Upper Peninsula, east of M-129 and east of I-75 north of M-48. The limit is two daily, with four in possession; six per season.

Outlook: Sharptails use grasslands and associated shrubby habitat; think pheasant habitat. Often found in small flocks and sometimes difficult to approach, sharptails often require relatively long-range shooting compared to ruffed grouse. Sharptail hunters are required to have a (free) sharp-tailed grouse endorsement on their hunting licenses. In 2013, 350 hunters chased sharptails.

Pheasants

Season: October 10-31 in the Upper Peninsula in Menominee County and portions of Iron, Marquette, Dickinson and Delta counties. October 15 through November 14 in the Lower Peninsula and December 1 through January 1, 2016 in selected areas of Zone 3 (southern Michigan). The limit is two cocks daily, with four in possession.

Outlook: Pheasant populations have been in decline for a number of years, primarily because of changes in agricultural practices and/or urban sprawl. Typically, the best habitat is on private lands that have been managed for pheasants, especially those that are enrolled in farm set-aside programs, though some public land is being intensely managed for pheasants.

Generally speaking, hunters who enjoyed success last year should find similar hunting conditions in the same areas. The best counties for pheasant hunting occur in south-central to mid-Michigan and into the Thumb, though locally abundant populations can be found almost anywhere. Look for warm-season grasses, especially on idled farm fields. Lateseason hunters can have success in cattail and shrub lands adjoining picked agricultural fields. An estimated 23,000 hunters pursue pheasants in Michigan.

During fall turkey season, a hunter may take a bird of either sex; in spring, it's gobblers only. Photos courtesy of Michigan DNR.

Montcalm, Oakland, Saginaw, St. Clair, St. Joseph, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Tuscola. Washtenaw and Wayne counties. The bag limit is five per day/10 in possession.

Outlook: Back-to-back harsh winters and ice storms have significantly lowered quail populations. Often associated with pheasant hunting, fewer than 500 hunters reported quail hunting in 2011.

Wild Turkey

Season: September 15 through November 14 in eight management units, including the entire Upper Peninsula (except Isle Royale) and all counties to the south of and including Oceana, Newaygo, Mecosta, Isabella, Midland, Bay and Huron (except Wayne and Monroe).

A total of 51,850 licenses are available - 5,150 general licenses that may be used on public or private land and 46,700 licenses for privateland only. Licenses are issued by lottery, though leftover licenses are available over the counter on a first-come, firstserved basis until management unit quotas are met. Hunters may take one bird of either sex per license. The limit is one per license.

Outlook: Fall turkey seasons are held only in areas where populations are stable to increasing, so prospects are very good. Roughly 16,000 hunters pursue wild turkeys in the fall hunt, many of them during the archery deer season.

Ducks

Seasons: Youth: September 12-13. Regular season: September 26 through November 22 and Nov. 28-29 in the North Zone (Upper Peninsula). October 3 through November 29 and December 12-13 in the Middle Zone. October 10 -December 6 and December 26-27 in the South Zone. The bag limit for ducks is six per day with no more than four mallards (no more than two hens), three wood ducks, three scaup (bluebills), two redheads, two pintails, two canvasbacks and one black duck. Five additional mergansers (no more than two may be hooded mergansers) may be taken. Possession limit is two days' daily bag limit. Outlook: Continent-wide, duck numbers are high, well above the long-term average, with mallard numbers the highest on record. Michigan mallard numbers are similar to last year. Wetland conditions are very good. Hunting should be very good for early season puddle ducks (wood ducks and teal). Diving ducks, which usually begin arriving in good numbers around mid-October, should be plentiful on the Great Lakes, too; notice the extra canvasback allowed this year. About 42,000 hunters pursue ducks in Michigan.

Canada Geese

Seasons: The early season is September 1-15 except in the Upper Peninsula and Saginaw, Huron and Tuscola counties, where the season is September 1-10. The daily bag limit is five.

The regular goose seasons are September 11 through December 11 in the North Zone. September 19 through December 19 in the Middle Zone. September 19-27, October 10 through December 6, and December 26-27 in the South Zone, except in designated goose management units (GMUs). The daily bag limit is two.

In the Saginaw County and Tuscola/Huron GMUs, the season is September 19-27, October 10 through December 6, and December 26 through January 19, 2016 with a daily bag limit of two. In the Allegan County GMU, the season is October 31 through January 30 with a bag limit of two. In the Muskegon Wastewater GMU, the season is October 17 through November 14 and December 1-22. The bag limit is two. The late goose season, in the South Zone, excluding the GMUs, is January 23 through February 14 with a daily bag limit of five. Outlook: Resident Canada goose populations, which account for more than 70 percent of the state's total harvest, are above population goals, so hunters should find plenty of geese. Migratory goose numbers are down somewhat. Except for a few days in December and January, waterfowl hunters may pursue geese somewhere in the state from September 1 to February 14, 2016. For more information on Michigan hunting, visit www.michigan.gov/hunting.

A special seven-day early teal season held in early September was a bonus to duck hunters.

Quail

Season: October 20 through November 14. Quail can be hunted only in Branch, Calhoun, Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Gratiot, Hillsdale, Huron, Ingham, Ionia, Jackson, Kent, Lapeer, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, Monroe,

Alcona 4-H youth receive recognition

In an evening awards ceremony held during the Alcona Fair, youth from across the county were recognized for their accomplishments culminated during the 2014-15 4-H year.

Youth are recognized in achievement or mastery of an individual project area (such as shooting sports or swine) or with County Awards that recognize the youth's achievements greater throughout their 4-H career. Youth from nine to19 are eligible for up to three project awards per year and in addition, youth 12 and up are eligible for a county award.

The more highly contested County Awards can only be given to a youth once in their lifetime and are acknowledged with a golden medallion and in some cases, a cash award. This year's top winners included: Leadership - Alex Stephenson, Citizenship - Maire MacMaster and Victoria Burns and Achievement - Cheyenne Appleton,

This year's 4-H'er of the Year honors went to Seth Tulgetske, son of Melissa and James June of Glennie. Tulgetske's accomplishments throughout his 4-H career include mastery of various livestock projects, completion of countless hours of community service, participation in numerous statewide events and providing leadership at 4-H camp for two years. His medallion was accompanied by a check for $50, courtesy of the Alcona 4-H Advisory Council.

Matt MacMaster, son of Dr Jaci Fitzerald and Dr. John MacMaster of Harrisville, was named the Junior 4-H Member of the Year. MacMaster's involvement in the county program has been in several areas of interest, including livestock, shooting sports and amateur radio. In 2014, he became one of the youngest HAM radio operators in Alcona County and is currently a volunteer member of the Alcona Amateur Radio League. In addition to his medallion. MacMaster will receive a $25 cash award, courtesy of the 4-H Advisory Council.

Chickadees

A Carolina Chickadee graced my yard the other day. These tiny birds are easy to identify by their black cap and white cheeks. While chickadees love suet, sunflower chips and peanuts, this little fellow feasted on safflower seed from a hanging tray feeder. I was thrilled to have him.

Moments In Time By The History Channel

• On Sept. 26, 1580, English seaman Francis Drake returns to England, becoming the first British navigator to sail around the world. Drake had set out from England on Dec. 13, 1577, with five ships on a mission to raid Spanish holdings on the Pacific coast of the New World.

 On Sept. 27, 1869, in Kansas, Ellis County sheriff Wild Bill Hickok responds to a bar brawl and kills one man. Weeks later he killed a second man in the name of law enforcement. While his brutal ways were effective, local citizens were less than impressed. At the next election Hickok was voted out.

 On Sept. 22, 1953, the world's first four-level interchange opens in Los Angeles at the intersection of the Harbor, Hollywood, Pasadena and Santa Ana freeways -- 32 lanes of traffic weaving in eight directions at once.

• On Sept. 23, 1969, the trial for eight anti-war activists charged with the violent demonstrations at the 1968 Democratic National Convention opens in Chicago. The trial turned into a circus as the defendants used the court to attack President Richard Nixon, the war, racism and oppression.

• On Sept. 25, 1978, a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 jet collides in mid-air with a small plane over San Diego, killing 153 people. The Cessna's student pilot did not comply with air controller instruction to keep the plane below 3,500 feet altitude.

• On Sept. 21, 1989, the Senate Armed Forces Committee unanimously confirms President George H. Bush's nomination of Army Gen. Colin Powell as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Powell became the first black American to achieve the nation's highest military post.

• On Sept. 24, 1996, bestselling author Stephen King releases two new novels at once. "Desperation" was released under King's name, while "The Regulators" was published under his pseudonym, Richard Bachman.

Strange But True By Samantha Weaver

 It was noted author and Nobel laureate Ernest Hemingway who made the following sage observation: "Never think that war, no matter how justified, is not a crime. Ask the infantry and ask the dead." He would know; he volunteered as an ambulance driver on the Italian front during World War I.

 Poets, take note: The words "orange," "month," "purple" and "silver" have no rhyming words in English.

 Historians say that Queen Victoria didn't like knocking at doors; she preferred scratching.

 If you're interested in space, you are probably aware that the second person to walk on the moon was Buzz Aldrin. Most likely, though, you didn't know that his mother's maiden name was Moon. Aldrin kept this fact a secret from NASA -- he was evidently concerned that his bosses would think he was somehow trying to gain favor.

• It's been reported that in the early days of the Christian church, forks were considered to be inappropriate.

 Those who study such things say that deep-sea anglerfish mate for life -- the male's life, anyway. The female is much larger than the male, and when they mate the male attaches himself to her abdomen D where he remains, living as a parasite, until he dies.

 If you have detected the presence of the paranormal by olfactory means, you've experienced "clairalience."

• The ancient Inca believed that an eclipse was caused when the mood goddess was under attack by a giant snake. Whenever this event occurred, the Inca made lots of noise, believing that the cacophony would scare the snake away.

Thought for the Day: "We now know that memories are not xed or frozen, like Proust's jars of preserves in a larder, but are transformed, disassembled, reassembled and recategorized with every act of recollection." -- Oliver Sacks (c) 2015 King Features Synd., Inc.
