Alcona athletes play at the Palace next Wednesday

By Cheryl Peterson Editor

Alcona High School athletes have had a long-standing, friendly rivalry with Oscoda High School over the years and, next week they will have the shared experience of playing at the Palace of Auburn Hills against each other.

The boys varsity basketball game will be played at the Palace 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 21. Tickets for the game can be purchased through the Palace box office, according to Dan O'Connor, Alcona High School principal and athletic director. The cost is $20 and includes the high school game and the NBA game Pistons vs. Grizzlies.

"We have sold almost 200 tickets just from our school," O'Connor said. "It should be a really neat experience for both schools – a very fun, positive day for everyone involved. This is a once-in-alifetime opportunity (for high school athletes) to play on a NBA court."

"My high school did this when I was an athlete and it's always been something I had hoped to have Alcona athletes experience. The timing was right this year in order to be able to work with the Palace and to be able to play with another local team."

O'Connor explained he has been trying to pull this together over the last several years, but is complicated by lining up team schedules and a willingness to participate and then to schedule the venue. The date wasn't his first choice since it was in the middle of the week and on the last day of school before the holiday break, but the opportunity outweighed the inconvenience.

"I don't think we could have pulled this together – tickets, seating, everything else, without Patti Byce. She was a huge, huge help," O'Connor said.

Athletes and coaches will travel by bus from Alcona High School and will stay to watch the professional game that begins at 7 p.m. He explained there wasn't enough interest in a spectator bus to provide one for Alcona fans. "I think, since it's three and a half hours away folks wanted to drive on their own so they could do other things while down there," O'Connor said.

Anyone interested in obtaining tickets can call the Palace box office at (248) 377-0100 and follow the voice prompts. Mention the Alcona-Oscoda game to ensure entry to the NBA game and possible seating with Alcona fans.

Japanese student learning to embrace rural life

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

Students and teachers of Alcona High School are receiving as much as they are giving by sharing cultures with a Japanese foreign exchange student this year.

Yuki Nishibashi, 17, has spent his whole life in Shinga, Japan, and wanted to know more about American culture, learn to speak better English and make friends in the United States.

Nishibashi, a senior, has been studying English in school since he was 12, but said his English still needs work. His dream is to someday live in the United States permanently. His mother was a foreign exchange student when she was in school so he thought he'd like to try that as well.

With just a 10-day notice before school began, Nishibashi left his mother, sister, brother and four dogs, (he misses his dogs most of all), to travel to Alcona County to live with the Fitzgerald-Mac-Master family of Harrisville.

Jacqueline Fitzgerald and John MacMaster and their 16-year-old son, Matt MacMaster are Nishibashi's host family during his stay. Nishibashi said there are many differences between Shinga and Alcona County and he has never lived in such a rural area before.

Shinga is home to more than 1.4 million people, which, compared to Alcona County's population of just under 11,000 is incredibly rural. But Shinga does have something in common with Michigan, Shinga encircles one of the largest fresh water lakes in Japan. "He's getting acclimated to rural life," John MacMaster said. "He's in the FFA and his supervised agricultural experience project is how to raise a cow."

Another big difference between Shinga and Alcona County is the lack of public transportation. "In Shinga it was two-minute walk to the train and you go anywhere. You didn't wait for a ride," Nishibashi said. He's been relying heavily on newly licensed driver, Matt, 16, to take him where he needs to go.

One place he enjoys going in Alcona County, besides school, is Kris Mart in Lincoln for groceries, although he's a bit disappointed the store does not carry fresh sushi like the stores in Shinga.

Fitzgerald said the teenager does his own laundry and helps cook meals and likes to make stir fry for the family. He enjoys some American food such as chili, hamburgers and French fries, but he isn't a fan of peanut butter. MacMaster said not liking peanut butter is typical of many foreigners.

Prior to the start of school, Nishibashi did some traveling in the states with Matt and Matt's aunt and uncle, Hugh and Barb MacMaster. They visited Pennsylvania, New York, Washington D.C. and Maryland. Nishibashi would also like to see Florida, California and Canada before leaving the United States this summer. The family is planning to take a trip to New Orleans in the spring but said Canada is completely out because of Nishibashi's passport restrictions.

Nishibashi is enjoying classes and activities at school and said that Spanish, English and global culture are some of his favorite classes. He enjoys the stu-

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

I would like to take this time to get away from the political bull of who's right and who's wrong to thank the Alcona County EMTs who responded to my 911 call when my daughter, Cindy, fell and injured her back.

The courtesy and professionalism was quite evident in their care of my daughter. We have a great bunch of people working for our county and they don't get the credit they deserve. Thanks again, you're awesome.

David Burnham Harrisville To the Editor,

I would like to express my opinion on one of local business that I had a very bad experience with -- that would be Sunrise Carpet Direct. I am writing this letter so, hopefully, a other customer will be aware of what they are dealing with and that it doesn't happen to them.

I had Sunrise Carpet Direct put a laminate floor down for me at the cost of $4,000. They came in and put the floor down. It was fine for about a month then it started to buckle. I called the owner, Dave. He sent his installer out, he nail it down -- which is a no, no. It was good for two weeks then it really started to buckle in all of the rooms.

Again, I called him. He put me off time and time again; always tried to get more money out of me to fix his mistake. I finally hired a man to come in and fix it which cost me $650. He told me it was put in wrong and not straight and too tight to the walls.

Obituaries

David A. Woods

David A. Woods, 66, of Barton City, died on Sunday, Dece. 11, 2016 at MidMichigan Medical Center in Alpena.

He was born October 24, 1950 in Toledo, Ohio. He was the son of John and Jeanne (McDermott) Woods of Toledo, Ohio. He was raised in Monroe, Mich.

Mr. Woods was a long-time resident of Barton City. He enjoyed the out-of-doors, especially hunting and riding his four-wheeler.

He was a member of the Barton City Eagles Club Aerie 4141.

Mr. Woods is survived by his mother, Jeanne Woods of Monroe, Mich.; one sister, Debby (Jim) Kansier of Monroe, Mich.; one brother, Jeff (Marva) Woods of Monroe, Mich.; one niece, Kacie (Matt) Stanfill; two nephews, Christopher (Megan) Kansier and Jeffrey (Nikki) Kansier; and seven great-nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father, John Woods. Private family services will be held. Cremation arrangements were made through Gillies Funeral Home, Lincoln.

To the Editor,

The United State's Attorney General oversees important court cases. Many involve civil and voting rights with the outcome of these cases affecting minority citizens' participation in our democracy.

The attorney general must be impartial. Jeff Sessions, Trump's attorney general appointee, has proven he is not impartial, and not qualified. He was already denied a lesser government judgeship in 1986 because of racist remarks he made. He was denied the post by a Republican senate, his own party.

In the mid 90s, Alabama schools were ordered to desegregate because its schools were proven to be giving an unequal education to black children. Sessions continued to resist, employing a crew of lawyers to do so. He claimed to represent the state of Alabama School Board in his lawsuit, which they flatly denied. He fought for two years, and lost. Obviously, his commitment to allowing institutions to segregate the races is strong.

Sessions was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1998. In a 2000 Senate debate, Sessions spoke against a law protecting disabled school children. He said, "...laws creating special treatment for certain children... are a big factor in accelerating the decline of civility and discipline in the classroom." Sessions believes in protecting the institutions' right to reject certain students. How about students he would be sworn to protect?

Sessions also votes against allowing legal immigration. This is a man sure that the white race should not have to put up with difference. He has a clear belief that some people are inferior and should not be allowed to mess up his country. Certainly, they should not have the same rights to vote or be educated.

How can Sessions be in charge of guaranteeing rights to all? Please call your senator and insist that there must be a more appropriate nominee for attorney general.

Frankincense Gibbs Bull

Frankincense was part of the perfume of the sanctuary (Exodus 30:34), and accompanied the meal-offering (Leviticus 2:1, 2:16, 6:15, 24:7). A specially "pure" kind was presented with the showbread (Leviticus 24:7). When burnt it emitted a fragrant odour and symbolized the Divine name (Malachi 1:11; Song of Solomon 1:3) and prayer (Psalm 141:2; Luke 1:10; Revelation 5:8, 8:3). It was often associated with myrrh (Song of Solomon 3:6, 4:6) and with it was given to the infant Jesus (Matthew 2:11). — Brenda Weaver

Blue Goose Stuffed

Approximately 1,488 toys and 5,563 food items were collected on Saturday, Dec. 10 during the fourth annual "Stuff a Blue Goose" event sponsored by the Michigan State Police (MSP) from the Alpena post. Troopers and other staff members stood outside Wal-Mart and Neiman's Family Market in Alpena for an eight hour period, with Blue Gooses (patrol cars) collecting non-perishable food items and new unwrapped toys for families around the area who are in need this holiday season.

The community donations stuffed the Tahoe SUV seven times and the Charger five times. The toy donations were then given to the Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 583 to be distributed to families in need in Alcona, Alpena, Montmorency and Presque Isle counties, and the food donations were given to The Salvation Army of Alpena.

'Without the donations from these businesses (Neiman's Family Market, Wal-Mart, Upper Cut Salon, Pure Water Wells, Downtown 76 and WATZ) and the very generous donations from all the members of the community, our event would not have been possible.

"Thank you again for helping the troopers of the Alpena Post make a difference in the lives of those in need this holiday season," said Community Service Trooper Ashley Simpson.

The Alcona boys varsity basketball team had a perfect start to its season last week, as it won games over Atlanta and AuGres.

The Tigers hosted the Wolverines on Thursday, Dec. 1 and picked up a 46-41 North Star League win.

Alcona led the game 23-15 at the half and 39-27 entering the fourth and staved off a late AuGres rally to preserve the win.

Leading the way was Jordan Steiner and Alex Stephenson with 13 points apiece and Antavius Mikazes netted eight points.

On Monday, Dec. 5 the Tigers played in their NSL and season opener at home against Atlanta, winning that contest 48-30.

The Tigers led 12-8 after the first quarter, and though the Huskies trimmed that margin to 12-10 early in the frame, Alcona went on a 9-0 spurt to help it take a 21-13 lead at the half.

The Tigers had six threepointers in the game and were led by Mikazes with 15 points, Matthew Krisan netted nine and Devon Mills and Stephenson had seven points

Alcona (2-0 overall, 2-0 NSL) was at Mio on Monday. They host Tawas on Tuesday, Dec. 20 and play Oscoda at the Palace of Auburn Hills next Wednesday.

Alcona girls come up short against AuGres

By Hope Smith

Sports Writer

The Alcona girls varsity basketball team traveled to AuGres Sims High School on Friday, Dec. 9 to take on the Lady Wolverines. It was a tough night for the Lady Tigers as they continue to struggle to find an offensive rhythm.

Alcona fell to AuGres 38-24. (Individual results were not made available by dead-

On Wednesday, Dec. 7, the Lady Tigers played host to the Alpena Wildcats. Alcona had a slow start offensively. They were behind 15-5 by the sound of the first buzzer. Although the Lady Tigers' shooting improved in the second quarter, they still trailed the Wildcats 31-17 at halftime. In the second half, the Lady Wildcats continued to dominate the game with speed and added pressure on the ball at both ends of the floor causing Alcona to throw the ball away and rush too many open shots. The Lady Tigers finished the third quarter with 40-24 deficit.

In the final period, the Lady Tigers had their hands full just trying to keep up, but Alpena's offense proved to be just too much. The Wildcats cruised to a 53-32 win over Alcona.

"I thought we played pretty well tonight, especially against a team of Alpena's caliber. We really struggled to score, as it was not a good shooting night from the field or the free throw line," said coach Mark Feldhiser. "Early in the game we didn't get back on defense and had a couple of really unforced turnovers, and that put us in the hole right from the beginning. But, I cannot fault the effort of our girls; we won't have many games that are tougher than this one. The key is that we are continuing to improve, and we believe we are now ready to get into the meat of our North Star League schedule."

Senior Brittany Decker led Alcona on offense with 12 points and defensively with three blocks. Taylor Livingston added 10 points, Kendra LaFave put up five points and grabbed three steals. Jordan Joyce had a triple and snatched one steal. Brooke Shultz added two points and picked up one steal.

Alcona played host to the Atlanta Huskies on December 6 and outplayed them right from the start. The Lady Tigers had a 19-4 lead by end of the first period and continued to add even more distance on the scoreboard with a 39-6 lead by the halfway

They extended the lead 54-9 in the third quarter and finished the night with a convincing 70-11 victory over the Atlanta Huskies.

"It was nice to get our first win, especially a league win. Everyone got to play a lot and all 10 players contributed. We had a good defensive effort. More challenging games are ahead, so it is back to work," Feldhiser said.

The Lady Tigers were led by Decker with 12 points. Livingston added 10 points and picked off three steals. LaFave had eight points. Rachel Warner delivered eight points and four steals. Madison Lane made eight points and grabbed three steals. Abby Lobaugh and Haley Gordy had six points each. Joyce and Faith Wallenmaier added five points each and Brooke Shultz found the bottom of the net for two points in Alcona's first North Star League win of the season.

Alcona was back in action December 13 when they played host to Mio AuSable. The Lady Tigers will play their last game before the Christmas break in Fairview against the Eagles on December 19. The junior varsity tip-off is at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity contest at 7:30 p.m.

A deer hunt for the ages

By Gregg Schefferly Outdoor Writer

Every once in a while you hear a hunting story that stands out from the others because it's so much more than a hunter shooting a big buck.

Such was the case for Alan Usler and Rebecca and Michael Billiel. Michael has been managing his hunting land for trophy whitetails for the past several years. The results of his dedication have been paying off in the form of harvesting some mature bucks.

Michael's 23-year-old daughter, Rebecca, has been fighting Cystic Fibrosis for her entire life. This year has been especially challenging for her and for a time it was questionable whether she'd be up to hunting. An avid outdoorswoman, she was determined to be in the woods for the opener of firearm season and she was.

Michael's father-in-law, Alan Usler, 75, hadn't shot a buck in nine years and de-first few days hunters were seeing does and some smaller bucks, but Browzilla was nowhere to be found. Then as the weekend approached Rebecca's grandfather called her dad and said he couldn't stand it. He was coming to hunt that weekend. November 20 found Alan hunting his favorite stand, Michael and Rebecca hunting together, and their son-in-law, Mark Wygant, occupying another blind.

It wasn't long after sunrise when a big doe came down the trail with a large buck trailing behind her. Rebecca took careful aim and squeezed the trigger, after tion of the 2017 firearm season.

Congratulations to both hunters.

Late Antlerless Season

While driving around Alcona County in the fall, I was shocked to see the large number of deer in field after field. The reason I bring this up is it can't be stressed enough to hunters the importance of substantially reducing our deer herd in the next couple weeks.

As hunters, we all enjoy seeing lot's of deer while on stand, but as a trapper I understand carrying capacity of the land. If we don't properly cided he wasn't going to hunt this year.

Making memories this season (left) Alan Usler shot an eight-point just minutes after his granddaughter, Rebecca Billiel, shot an eight-point on family property in Mikado on November 20. Usler's buck had a 14-inch spread and weighed 150 pounds. Billiel's had a 16-inch spread and weighed 160 pounds. Courtesy photo.

Michael had game cameras out early and caught a huge buck on camera; they named him Browzilla as a result of its unusually long brow tines.

Browzilla's appearance on camera definitely gave Michael plenty of reason to spend every moment he could in his stand during archery season. His dedication paid off when he called in Browzilla in late October. But, it wasn't meant to be -- his arrow glanced off the buck's shoulder. Michael was distraught, because he knew the odds of seeing this buck again on his property was slim to none.

Just prior to the opening of firearm season a couple of friends described a big buck they spotted and the description brought hope because the old buck was still in the neighborhood. It was about this time that Rebecca told her dad she planned on finishing what he started by bagging this mature buck.

The opener was bittersweet because Rebecca had rebounded and was in the woods hunting, but her grandfather wasn't. For the which the buck ran off out of sight. As they were waiting to allow some time to pass before tracking the buck, they heard the roar of Allan's rifle.

What a morning -- both Rebecca and Alan shot within minutes of one another. Michael and Rebecca decided to track Rebecca's buck, but contemplated going first to see if they could help Allan. It was about this time they saw antlers sticking up out of the grass not very far from the stand where Michael had his chance at Browzilla.

Imagine their surprise when they approached the downed buck and realized that Rebecca had, indeed, finished what dad had started.

They were in the middle of celebrating when Michael's cell phone rang. That was when they found out that Alan had downed a trophy eight point buck of his own.

That weekend was one they'll never forget. And, I was told that grandpa is no longer known as grumpy grandpa. He now has a jump in his step as well as a glimmer in his eye as he discusses enlarging the food plot and the work he wants to do around the blind in prepara-manage wildlife populations, Mother Nature will. Believe me her way is much crueler than ours. This isn't the Disney channel, this is reality. As a trapper I know about rabies, mange and distemper. Simply put, animals suffer for weeks, even months as they waste away before they ultimately die.

There are a lot less cedar swamps where deer winter in northeast Michigan. As a result of increasing deer numbers, deer have browsed anything edible to the ground and out of reach; this is called a browse line.

One hard winter in and we will literally have thousands of deer die of starvation; it's only a matter of time, starvation is a slow and miserable death. If you aren't aware of it, currently there are a few diseases wiping out deer in other parts of the state. These diseases are far more devastating than the TB we are cursed with locally. If we don't manage our deer herd, we could see the deer population practically wiped out from one bad winter or as a result of disease due to the dents and teachers, especially his Spanish teacher, Carolyn Watts, who the teenager said is very funny and can whistle.

Watts said the feeling was mutual, "The students love having him in class. They ask him questions about his country and his perceptions about the students here. They like to ask him how to write their names in Japanese. Yuki has a great sense of humor and the students are drawn to him," Watts said.

Already Nishibashi has experienced holidays he would have never had a chance to without coming to the states. Halloween was an event he had never experienced before and thought people were pulling his leg when they talked about dressing up in costume to go trick or treating. "He thought we were pranking him but he got a very cool costume, he was a headless man. He had fun." Matt said.

He has also been to a barn dance and is attending church at St. Anne Catholic Church in Harrisville with the MacMasters. He said there are very few Catholics in Shinga and not many Japanese follow a religion.

Nishibashi is a skilled artist and is enjoying his 3D art class at the high school, he's also having fun trying some new sports. He played competitive badminton in Japan but since Alcona High School doesn't have a badminton team he tried out for cross country running instead. To everyone's surprise, despite having no experience in the sport, he was excellent at it and even medaled and received a letter for his efforts. Nishibashi said he is currently weight training. "His mother won't recognize him when he gets home," Mac-Master said.

Nishibashi also enjoys basketball for fun and downhill skiing and snowboarding. "That was one of the things which we saw on his profile and why we picked him to host. He has that in common with Matt and we thought the two of them would get along and enjoy skiing together this winter," Fitzgerald said.

The MacMaster family has hosted two other foreign exchange students in past years, both were from Germany. This is their first experience with a student from Japan. MacMaster said he thought it was working out well for both boys. Matt is the MacMaster's youngest son and has dreams of someday being an engineer. MacMaster thought his son could learn a lot from Japanese engineers someday and possibly travel there for further education.

Nishibashi is part of the Education First foreign exchange program. Fitzgerald said the organization places around 700 students from Europe, Asia, and South America, but only about 80 of the students are from Japan. She'd like to see more students hosted in Alcona County as she feels it enriches not only the foreign exchange student but the students and people here as well.

Watts said, "I think it's great to have foreign exchange students to show other parts of the world. Our student's get to see that people from other countries really are like them and have similar interests."

May this be the first of many thanks to my friends, family and community in this time of loss of our home which was completely destroyed by a chimney fire on November 22, 23, 2016. Thank you to the response of the fire departments and all involved. We now are in the process of building a home again.

Many thanks krom.

SENIOR ZIFESTYLES Locating lost life insurance policies

Dear Savvy Senior,

When my mom passed away we thought she had a life insurance policy, but we have no idea how to track it down. Do you know of any resources that might help? Searching Susan eficiaries.

Dear Susan, Lost or forgotten life insurance policies are very common in the United States. It's estimated that more than $7 billion in benefits from unclaimed life insurance policies are waiting to be claimed by their rightful ben-

While unfortunately, there isn't a national database for tracking down these policies, there are a number of strategies and a few new resources that can help your search.

 Search her records: Check your mom's financial records or storage areas where she kept her important papers for a policy, records of premium payments, or bills from an insurer. Also contact her embenefits administrator, insurance agents, financial planner, accountant, attorney or other adviser and ask if they know about a life insurance policy.

Also check safe-deposit boxes, monitor the mail for premium invoices or wholelife dividend notices, and review old income-tax returns, looking for interest income from, and interest expenses paid, to life insurance companies.

• Contact the insurer: If you suspect that a particular insurer underwrote the policy, contact that carrier's claim office and ask. The more information you have, like your mom's date of birth and death, Social Security number and address, the easier it will be to track down.

Contact information of some big insurers include: Prudential 800-778-2255; MetLife Metlife.com/policyfinder; AIG (800) 888-2452; Nationwide (800) 848-6331; John Hancock JohnHanployer or former employer cock.com - click on "Contact Us" then on "Account Search Request.'

Get state help: Nineteen state insurance departments have a policy locator service program that can help you locate lost life insurance, and many other states offer resources that can help you with your search. To find direct access to these resources visit the American Council of Life Insurers website at ACLI.com/consumers-click on "Missing Policy Tips."

 Search unclaimed property: If your mom died more than a few years ago, benefits may have already been turned over to the unclaimed property office of the state where the policy was purchased. Go to Missing Money-.com, a website of the National Association of Unclaimed Property Administrators, to search records from 40 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia. The pull-down menu under Links connects you to a map and addresses for unclaimed property agencies. Or, to find links to each state's unclaimed-property division use Unclaimed.org.

If your mom's name or a potential benefactor's name produces a hit, you'll need to prove your claim. Required documentation, which can vary by state, is detailed in claim forms, and a death certificate might be necessary. If you need a copy of your mom's death certificate, contact the vital records office in the state where she died, or go to VitalChek.com.

· Search fee-based services: There are several businesses that offer policy locator services for a fee. The MIB

Group, for example, which is a data-sharing service for life and health insurance companies, offers a policy locator service at PolicyLocator.com for $75. But it only tracks applications for individual policies made since 1996.

You can also get assistance at Policy Inspector (Policy-Inspector.com) for $99, and L-LIFE (LostLifeIns.com) for $108.50, who will do the searching for you.

high numbers of whitetail we currently have.

There is the potential with our current population of whitetail for our herd to contract Blue Tongue or Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD). If you haven't heard of them, Google and research these terrible diseases. Please get out and kill a bunch of does during the late antlerless season.

Just because you didn't see many deer during the fall hunting seasons doesn't mean there aren't many deer. They react to human intrusion into the woods by bedding and going nocturnal. Gauge your deer herd by the numbers of deer you saw in the fields in August and September. Good hunting. Christmas for Sportsmen

As we grow older it seems to gets harder and harder to buy a gift for that special someone in our life. If you're buying for someone who loves to hunt or fish, buying them Christmas gifts or stocking stuffers isn't really that difficult. The first step is finding out what they pursue -- are they a deer hunter, small game hunter, fisherman, or all of the above?

As an avid outdoorsman, I have to say that if you really want to put a huge smile on that special someone's face nothing will do it quicker than having a new fishing boat parked in the garage. If a boats a bit out of reach, a hunting rifle, bow, crossbow, a portable shanty, or even a gas ice auger would be a guaranteed success.

Okay, now that my ears are ringing, here are a few other thoughts.

To be sure to get them what they want, the best bet is to corner a friend they hunt or fish with -- believe me, they will have suggestions. Hunters always need ammunition; .22 ammunition is always a safe bet for a hunter. Practically everyone owns a .22, so as long as it says .22 LR, you'll be fine. Packages of hand warmers are also great stocking stuffers. Little buddy heaters are relatively inexpensive and are very popular with both hunters and ice fishermen. Boot dryers are a great gift to keep feet dry and warm.

For the fishermen, do they like open water fishing, icefishing, or both? What do they fish? Ask their fishing buddy they'll know. Do they cast, troll, fly fish, or jig? If they like trolling; check out Offshore Tackle's inline planer boards, be sure and get them with the tattle tail-flags. Another incredible gift is the Precision Trolling's app for Smartphones; it tells how deep most all the popular lures dive. Without going into detail this app is a homerun for anyone who trolls for din-

Christmas shopping for the outdoorsman is as simple as getting a shopping list of suggestions from their buddy and visiting the local sporting goods store. Having a detailed list will allow the salesmen to help you find what you want. If you're unable to get a list, knowing what they fish will help the salesman determine if you need jigs, spinners, or crankbaits. If the person you're looking for likes icefishing, HT and Frabill make some very nice ice fishing products such as ice rods, tip-ups, and minnow buckets.

If all else fails, get a gift certificate from a sporting goods store -- it's always a safe bet. Good luck and Merry Christmas.

(Editor's Note: After taking several years off as an outdoor writer while he worked in various locations around the United States and abroad, Gregg Schefferly returned home to Alcona County and most recently, to the pages of the Review.)

Gifts are not always material. My father was an artist and a lover of nature. He painted many pictures of birds and other scenes of nature. And that is a gift he passed on to me -- a love for birds and nature. For that, I am grateful. Holiday greetings to you all.

The stages have been very regular with the mail so far this season, not withstanding the terrible condition of the roads. The people along the Shore appreciaie the efforts of Messrs. Green and Reed to give them a daily mail.

We would like to ask the editor of the AuSable News what he would think of us If we should endeavor to injure his business by soliciting job work from the citizens of AuSable and Oacoda?. We learn, from creditable source, that he endeavored to get orders for printing at Greenbush, last Monday.

Our fishermen have closed operations for the season, and hauled their crafts out of the lake on dry land. Mr. Fred. Lincoln's catch of fish for the 📩 · Telescopes and Christmas—they go together like mistletoe and kisses, but most people buying a scope for under the tree will make the wrong decisions. All telescopes are compromises in one way or another, but all experts agree that telescopes are not built strictly for magnification. If a manufacturer hypes the power that a telescope can attain as the chief reason for purchasing the scope, stay away from that product. The most important attribute of a telescope is its ability to gather more light than the human eye-more light to see deeper into space. In addition, a good telescope will bring the light collected by a mirror or a lens to a crisp, contrasty focus in a comfortable manner. The eye, acting as the receptor of the gathered photons, essentially becomes as large as the surface of the light-gathering area of the telescope. Department store scopes like those sold at K-Mart or Wal-Mart are, simply put, overpriced and poor performers attached to unstable mounting systems that quickly drive potential enthusiasts to other hobby interests. Manufacturers like Orion, Celestron, Explore Scientific, and Meade produce good instrumentation in the $300 to $600 bracket, and all have good websites hyping their products. My suggestion, if you're thinking about a scope for Christmas, is to visit a retail store that exclusively sells telescopes and talk to a knowledgeable individual who knows the market and can make appropriate suggestions. Places like these are few and far between, but locally serving the Greater Philadelphia and Lehigh Valley regions is Skies Unlimited (skiesunlimited.com) in Pottstown, PA, at 52 Glocker Way, 19465 (888-947-2673). I was just there this past Friday, Dec. 9, and they had "tons" of used and new equipment on their showroom floor, real telescopes, and many at affordable prices. Talk to Bob, Ted, or Dave for a no pressure introduction to the telescope market. Skies has treated me and Moravian College very fairly and will do the same for you. • On Dec. 27, 1932, at the height of the Great Depression, thousands turn out for the opening of Radio City Music Hall, an Art Deco theater in a formerly derelict neighborhood in Manhattan. Since its opening, more than 300 million people have attended events at Radio City.

• On Dec. 29, 1940, London suffers its most devastating air raid when German planes firebomb the city. The next day, a newspaper photo of St. Paul's Cathedral standing undamaged amid the smoke and flames seemed to symbolize the city's unconquerable spirit.

• On Jan. 1, 1959, a popular revolution led by Fidel Castro quickly takes over Cuba. After Castro nationalized American-owned property and allied himself with the Soviets, the U.S severed diplomatic and economic ties, and enacted a trade and travel embargo.

Strange But True By Samantha Weaver

• It was notoriously prolific American author and academic Isaac Asimov, who died in 1992, who made the following sage observation: "There is a cult of ignorance in the United States, and there always has been. The strain of anti-intellectualism has been a constant thread winding its way through our political and cultural life, nurtured by the false notion that democracy means that 'my ignorance is just as good as your knowledge."

• If you're like 10 to 20 percent of the U.S. population, you suffer from "coulrophobia," a fear of clowns.

• In Linden, California, a man saw a rabbit scurry into an irrigation pipe. Worried about the animal's safety, he got two other men to help him lift the 44-foot-long pipe and urge the rabbit out. Their kindly behavior wasn't rewarded, however; while the men were lifting it, the pipe touched a 12,000-volt electrical wire, electrocuting all three of the Good Samaritans.

• Those who suffer from Moebius syndrome are incapable of showing expressions on their faces -- not a frown or a smile or a quizzical lift of an eyebrow. They often are found sleeping with their eyes open.

 Between 1976 and 1987, no red M&M candies were produced.

• A collection of items that belonged to Eva Braun, Adolf Hitler's longtime companion (and, very briefly, his wife), recently went up for auction. Among the items was a pair of her underwear, lilac with white lace and ribbon trim, embroidered with her initials. An unnamed collector bought the undergarment for more than $3,500.
