Volunteer faces felony charges

By Cheryl Peterson Editor

A Harrisville woman has been charged with embezzling from a local nonprofit organization over the course of approximately four years.

Michelle L. Krisan, 47, was arraigned in 81st District court on November 9 on two felony counts – embezzlement over $1,000 under $20,000 and computer – using to commit a crime.

According to Michigan State Police Trooper William Brown, his investigation began on July 31 when a report was filed regarding funds missing from the Alcona Athletic Association treasury. Brown explained that according to meeting minutes of the organization dated July 28, 2013 the treasurer at the time "stepped down" and Krisan, who was president of the group, took over the treasurer's role.

"The definitive point was when there was a change in (treasurers). That's when there began to be inconsistencies in the account and, what lead to the investigation. It is very clear in reviewing the bank statements that there was a substantial amount that was misappropriated," Brown said. A total of $5,243.43 was used as "personal in pature"

Hobbyists and artisans often donate works of art to charity. They spend long hours creating their masterpieces, but many artists time pales in comparison to the long days, weeks and even months quilters, tediously working stitch by stitch with needle and thread, donate when working on a quilt to be awarded to a veteran for their service.

These quilts are called Quilts of Valor, and are provided by a foundation started in 2003 by a veteran's mom, Catherine Roberts, who decided to make her son a patriotic quilt to honor his long deployment to Iraq.

The initial inspiration was to give a lifetime award, stitched with love, prayers and healing thoughts to wounded American veterans. Since then, Quilts of Valor (QOV), has expanded to allow any service person, wounded or not, whether their time of service was sitting at a desk or in the trenches of war, the ability to receive a quilt.

"Any person who is affected by war can receive a QOV. Over 170,000 Quilt of Valor quilts have been awarded nationally since its inception," said Dianna Rigato the QOV coordinator for the Quirky Quilters Guild of Oscoda.

Helping area youth in need stay warm

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

Local children in need of winter coats, boots, or other necessary clothing items will be helped again this year thanks to a community organization.

For three years the Alcona Masonic Lodge No. 292 has been annually collecting coats and other clothing items and donations for kids in Alcona County. All items are distributed through Alcona Community Schools.

John Guynn, chairperson for the project, said the lodge members saw other communities collecting coats for kids and thought it was a good idea and took on the project.

"The first year (in 2015) we collected $1,000 dollars to donate to the school and 200 items of clothing. The second year we collected $1,500 and over 200 items. This year we have about $2,100 in monetary funds and 175 items to donate," he said.

Guynn explained during the fundraising process, which is held annually between September and November, fundraised monies are matched dollar for dollar by the Michigan Masonic Charitable Foundation (MMCF). MMCF annually matches up to $1,500 per year for the different causes the lodge works on.

The monies donated to the coat fund are requested for use by the school success liaison on an as-needed basis. Liaisons may see a child in need of shoes, socks, a coat or other items and if that item is not available out of the clothing items collected, funds are allocated for the item to be purchased. This year the group agreed monetary funds could be utilized for personal hygiene items in addition to necessary clothing purchased. "We may have about 12 pairs of shoes donated, but if we don't have the size available the child needs, the school liaison can purchase the right size and get reimbursed through our funding. The success coordinators have a good reputation for personal in nature.

Following his investigation, Brown filed his report with the prosecutor on October 11 and on October 18 an arrest warrant was authorized. Krisan paid a $1,500 cash bond "to avoid being taken to jail" and was ordered to appear in court for arraignment on Thursday, Nov. 9. Brown explained that the Alcona Athletic Organization disbanded approximately one year ago, and the bank account has been frozen.

Krisan is scheduled to appear in court on Wednesday, Nov. 22 at 10 a.m. for a probable cause hearing and on Wednesday, Nov. 29 at 11 a.m. for a preliminary examination.

It's the third year the lodge has given coats and other apparel along with monetary donations for the purchase of items a school child may need. Thorntons celebrate 50th Anniversary

Allen and Laurel "Esther" (Putman) Thornton of Glennie have enjoyed the blessings of 50 years of marriage. Their journey started on November 18, 1967 at First United Methodist Church in Vassar, Mich.

They have four daughters, Laurie D'Annunzio, Bridget (Earl Lee) Allen, Leah Gorman-Thornton, and Alison (Mark) Beckius, nine grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

The couple has been active members of Lott Baptist Church of Glennie for more than 30 years and consider the congregation their second family. Their home has been the gathering place for family, extended family, and friends during their 50 year marriage. All that visit enjoy the food and fellowship that are always so joyfully given.

buying economically so the money is well spent and its approved by the lodge before they are reimbursed," Guynn said. He explained any funds leftover at the end of the school year get transferred to the lodge's coat fund for the next school year.

The gently used and new clothing donations typically range in size from small child to adult with mostly adult sizes available. Guynn said all donated items are put out on a table during parent teacher conferences and are free for the taking by anyone at the school in need. "People are very generous in this community. Some will go through their closets and donate, others go to second hand or thrift stores, or shop sales and purchase items. Many items come in with price tags still on them," Guynn said.

The need is here. If you talk to the principal, teachers or the success liaisons you will hear about kids coming to school with wet feet because their shoes or boots have holes in them or their feet are ice cold because they don't have socks. Sometimes they come in with coats two sizes too small because that's all they have. Sometimes their socks get wet and they just need something to get them through their school day," Guynn said.

The Alcona Masonic Lodge is still accepting donations for coats and other necessary items as well as monetary donations, but the monetary donations will not be matched by MMCF until fundraising begins again next September 2018.

For more information on where to make a donation or when and where to drop off clothing items, contact Guynn at (989) 736-6545 or email him at johnrguynn-@gmail.com.

CEO of Alcona Health Centers set to retire

During her tenure, Christine Baumgardner, CEO of Alcona Health Centers, directed the expansion of Alcona Health Centers from one medical and dental clinic site in Lincoln with two providers, to 12 clinic sites and 20 school behavioral health sites in eight counties of northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

Alcona Health Centers (AHC) has 320 employees, 76 of whom are medical, dental, pharmacy and behavioral health providers. "AHC has thrived under

"AHC has thrived under Chris' leadership," said Carolyn Brummund, chairman, AHC Board of Directors. "She and her team have built an organization that is a health care leader within the region, with a strong patient focus, sound business practices and clear emphasis on serving communities in the region. She leaves our organization well-positioned for the future, and we thank her for her many years of outstanding service."

"During my career, I have had the good fortune to work with outstanding staff and board members. Delivering health care to a rural population requires solid team work, and AHC can be proud of the continuous, stable leadership team it has had over the years," Baumgardner said. "I also had the honor of watching AHC develop into one of the region's leading health care organizations. I am truly grateful for a very rewarding career.

Christine Baumgardner

"Today, the organization is positioned to continue to meet the needs of our patients well into the future. The AHC board has selected our long term COO, Nancy Spencer, to fill the role of CEO January 1, 2018. They could not have made a better choice. Nancy has the education. experience, and, most importantly, the passion for AHC that this position requires. Nancy's selection makes it much easier for me to transition from this leadership role. I know that under Nancy's leadership the mission and vision of AHC will continue to be upheld," Baumgardner said.

Following her retirement, Baumgardner will continue working on some state and national initiatives in which she is currently involved. Those activities include retaining a board seat as a founding member of the National Rural Accountable Care Consortium and the Greater Michigan Accountable Care Organization, entities approved by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services for participation in the Medicare Shared Savings program.

She will also continue to serve the Northern Michigan State Innovation Model as a steering committee member as well as serve on the board of the Northern Health Plan. At the state level, Baumgardner will chair the Alternative Payment Reform initiative with the Michigan Primary Care Association and the State of Michigan Medicaid office.

When not engaged in the above activities, Baumgardner and her husband, Roger, have planned travel, visiting grandchildren and touring the U.S. and abroad. Both intend to stay active in their church and various community organizations.

Natives of Chicago, Ill., the Baumgardners moved to Michigan in 1970. Baumgardner has a Master of Arts degree from Southern Illinois University, and, prior to accepting her position at AHC in 1985, served for seven years as director of a ninecounty Area Agency on Aging and taught English at Alpena Community College for three years. After a five year hiatus when she chose to stay home with her three young children, she accepted the position with AHC.

Student fundraising effort helps secure new uniforms

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

Three Alcona High School freshmen witnessed a wellachieved goal when the Alcona Middle School's boys basketball team opened their season in new game uniforms last Monday.

Jacob Sytek, Nick Rasmussen and Nick Somers began a "Make a Difference (MAD)" campaign last spring when they were in the eighth grade to raise money for the new uniforms, even though their basketball season in middle school had long been over and they would never benefit from their efforts.

When presenting their program to the public about what they wanted to achieve and why, they described the old uniforms as "disgusting" and the shirt numbers were cracking and peeling. "Other schools have nice uniforms and we believe we should have those too," Somers said.

Coach Ryan Bilby said the boys earned about $500 selling cookie dough. Sytek wasn't satisfied with ending the fundraising there. So, on his own he decorated a trailer with Alcona basketball signs and took it to Alcona Park in Glennie this summer for a bottle drive raising another $350.

Still a long way to the total goal of $2,000 for the uniforms, Bilby said he couldn't let their dream fail and ordered the new uniforms. "We will still do a little more fundraising but with three kids raising almost half, we'll take it. When I showed them the new uniforms, their eyes lit up. They were pretty excited to see the fruits of their labor come to reality," Bilby said.

Bilby, who graduated from Alcona Community Schools in 1994, said the previous uniforms were so old they were probably the same ones used when he was in the eighth grade.

He was proud of the boy's efforts saying it showed a great deal of maturity, "This is the kind of thing I like to see. I like to see kids get a pat on the back. There are so many bad stories you hear about kids getting into trouble and struggling families. When you see kids doing something like this for someone other than themselves, you want to make sure that gets recognized," Bilby said.

Sytek, Rasmussen and Somers received certificates of appreciation from the school for their efforts.

Bilby said the boys teams was doing well, "Both the seventh and eighth grade teams have progressed quickly. Every day they work very hard to improve their fundamentals and are looking forward to a successful season this year. The students love their new Nike uniforms, they have worn them proudly each game.'

The next two middle school games will be held at home on Thursday, Nov. 16 against Tawas Area Schools and Monday, Nov. 20 against Rogers City Schools. Both games start at 6 p.m.

Assistance dogs provide help and love

Dear Savvy Senior,

What can you tell me about assistance dogs for people with disabilities? My sister, who's 58, has multiple sclerosis and I'm wondering if an assistance dog could help make her life a little easier. Inquiring Sister

Dear Inquiring

For people with disabilities and even medical conditions, assistant dogs can be fantastic help, not to mention they provide great companionship and an invaluable sense of security.

While most people are familiar with guide dogs that help people who are blind or visually impaired, there are also a variety of assistance dogs trained to help people with physical disabilities, hearing loss and various medical conditions.

Unlike most pets, assistance dogs are highly trained canine specialists - often golden and Labrador retrievers, and German shepherds - that know approximately 40 to 50 commands, are amazingly well-behaved and calm, and are permitted to go anywhere the public is allowed.

Here's a breakdown of the different types of assistance dogs and what they can help with.

• Service dogs: These dogs are specially trained to help people with physical disabilities due to multiple sclerosis, spinal cord injuries, Parkinson's disease, chronic arthritis and many other disabling conditions. They help by performing tasks their owner cannot do or has trouble doing, like carrying or retrieving items, picking up dropped items, opening and closing doors, turning lights on and off, assisting with dressing and undressing, helping with balance, household chores and more.

• Guide dogs: For the blind and visually impaired, guide dogs help their owner get around safely by avoiding obstacles, stopping at curbs and steps, negotiating traffic and more.

• Hearing dogs: For those who are deaf or hearing impaired, hearing dogs can alert their owner to specific sounds such as ringing telephones, doorbells, alarm clocks, microwave or oven timers, smoke alarms, approaching sirens, crying babies or when someone calls out their name.

• Seizure alert/response dogs: For people with epilepsy or other seizure disorders, these dogs can recognize the signs that their owner is going to have a seizure, and provide them with advance warning, so he or she can get to a safe place or take medication to prevent the seizure or lessen its severity. They are also trained to retrieve medications and use a pre-programmed phone to call for help. These dogs can also be trained to help people with diabetes, panic attacks and various other conditions.

If your sister is interested in getting a service dog, contact some assistance dog training programs. To find them, Assistance Dogs International provides a listing of around 65 U.S. programs on their website that you can access at AssistanceDogs-International.org.

After you locate a few, you'll need to either visit their website or call them to find out the types of training dogs they offer, the areas they serve, if they have a waiting list, and what upfront costs will be involved. Some groups offer dogs for free, some ask for donations and some charge thousands of dollars.

To get an assistance dog, your sister will need to show proof of her disability, which her physician can provide, and she'll have to complete an application and go through an interview process. She will also need to go and stay at the training facility for a week or two so she can get familiar with her dog and get training on how to handle it.

It's also important to understand that assistance dogs are not for everybody. They require time, money, and care that your sister or some other friend or family member must be able and willing to provide.

Slow start dooms Alcona in regional game

By Ben Murphy Sports Writer

With temperatures dropping well below freezing last Friday night, the Alcona varsity football team came out cold. Host Saginaw Nouvel came out red hot in the division eight regional championship contest however, as it staked itself to an early 28-0 lead, forcing the Tigers to play catchup the rest of the night.

Despite better play as the night went on, Nouvel ended Alčona's season, 54-34.

"Every year only eight teams get to end with a win. However these young men played with a lot of heart and passion," Alcona head coach Jason Somers said. "I was into the endzone one play very proud of their effort. Nouvel was a very good team with many athletes that could play.

The game, unfortunately for the Tigers, spiraled in the wrong direction early on.

The Alcona offense couldn't gain its usual yardage on the ground and gave up scores on the Panthers and their quick-strike spread offense on their first three possessions, falling behind 21-0 after the first quarter.

Early in the second quarter, a miscue on an Alcona punt attempt allowed Nouvel to take over on the Tiger five yard line. Nouvel punched it played with the Panthers, and one could argue the Tigers outplayed them, as it outscored Nouvel 34-26 the rest of the way. Unfortunately, the damage had been done however.

"Getting behind early really tested the team's ability to fight through adversity, but we were able to play with them after that first quarter and did not give in to the temptation of giving up," Somers said. "I think that effort shows who they really are.'

The Tigers began their next possession on their own 33yard line and used a big run by Alex Stephenson on a quarterback keeper to the Panther 33 to set up their first score of the night, on a three yard run by Stephenson.

After another Nouvel score, Alcona answered with a 42yard touchdown run by Jack Hutchinson, pulling within 34-14.

Alcona stopped Nouvel on fourth down on its next drive and nearly found the endzone again, as a big run by Tim Hutchinson brought the Tigers deep into Nouvel territory, but a fourth down attempt inside the Panther's 20-yard line came up short, leaving the score 34-14 at the half.

The Tigers recovered Devon Mill's onside kick attempt to start the second half and quickly found the end zone again, pulling to within 34-20 after a Stephenson threeyard score.

Nouvel regained control of the game with a pair of scores on its next two possessions, pulling ahead 48-20.

Alcona did add another short Stephenson touchdown run at 48-26 and Stephenson also broke free for a 40-yard score in the game's final minute, bringing the final to 54-34.

"I thought our senior leadership showed up big in this game," Somers said. "I was pleased with the messages of encouragement I was hearing from within the team."

Leading the way in the loss was Jack Hutchinson with 186 yards on 24 carries. Tim Hutchinson had 130 vards on 20 carries and Stephenson finished with 96 yards on 14 attempts. On defense, Mills led the way with 12 tackles. Mason Clark took down seven and Cody Schram had six. "This is a group of very dedicated young men who represented themselves, their school, their community and their team with great class," Somers said. "Not only did this group get it done on the field, but they were very active in the community, proving that not only did they care about the game of football, but they also held their community in high regard. That is what I will remember most about this group. Next year we will have a younger group of players, however they all have had the experience of playing playoff football and we will prepare to make this run again.

The Quirky Quilters heard about the program through one of its 70 members, Clairellen McLaughlin of Harrisville, who approached her group about it in 2008. "I had heard about this mom and found out other moms and people felt the same way," Clairellen said.

"These are not charity quilts. They are an award to thank veterans for their service. I had a son in the Navy at that time and felt related to the story, so I brought it to the (Quirky Quilter's) guild to see what they thought," she said.

When Clairellen approached the group, the Quirky Quilters requested that each member, in addition to the $20 annual dues they paid, also commit to making at least one baby quilt annually to donate to a baby pantry, hospital neonatal intensive care unit or other deserving pregnancy/infant charity.

Since Clairellen's presentation to the group, the charitable requirement expanded to include at least one quilt to give for a charitable purpose, such as the baby quilt, a lap quilt for a cancer patient or a QOV quilt to be awarded to a veteran.

What surprised Clairellen is there seemed to be more QOV quilts being made by the group than any other type of quilt. She was thrilled, especially since QOVs are larger than baby and lap quilts, taking a lot more material, which many quilters donate themselves, and take longer to make.

"The (Quirky Quilters) guild was very receptive. We now have an annual session in January just for members to sew on their QOV project. You can't make a quilt in a day, but it's a nice time just to sew and talk about our projects. We encourage each other," Clairellen said.

She explained several members make more than one QOV a year and thought the interest by the group was because most of the members had already made quilts for everyone in their family.

The Quirky Quilters have made 150 QOV quilts with many of them awarded to veterans locally or in Michigan. A few have gone out of state and about 10 quilts were sent to a military hospital in Germany for wounded American soldiers.

Quite often quilts are awarded at ceremonies in which the veteran has no knowledge about since it is typically planned by family or a friend of the veteran. "We often surprise the veteran because so many of them feel there are many more deserving veterans out there other than themselves. I've awarded quilts to veterans of the surprise. Quite often show them the label on the Dianna enters the room nonchalantly acting like any other guest or a friend of the family. She locates the veteran and begins a small dialog with them about their service.

with no arms or legs and they still feel they don't deserve it, saying so many others gave their all for their country,' Dianna said.

She has not made it through an award ceremony yet without tearing up. "I'm tearing up right now just thinking about it. They always say 'thank you,' 'thank you,' 'thank you,' and I tell them it is an honor that I'm doing. I can't explain it. It just fills my heart that I can pay them back for what they did to allow us to live where we do," Dianna said.

Veteran quilt recipients are often told by family they are going to a party or friends are coming over for a get-together to keep the recipient unaware their family, their hometown and didn't know where they were going or if they were coming back. I say 'thank you' for giving us the opportunity to live where we do and for how we are living. Then I say 'I'm so thankful for their service, I'd like to award them with something' and I take the quilt out of the bag," Dianna said.

With the help of a family member, Dianna wraps the quilt around the recipient, she then tells the recipient they need to know and feel the love and respect which was put into every stitch of the quilt. She explains that she did not make the quilt, but it is her pleasure and honor to present it, and will quilt containing the name of the quilter(s) who worked on it.

According to Dianna, sometimes the quilters will add a note of thanks to the veteran, a poem or a small journal of what their life or thoughts were when they made the quilt, giving the recipient a more personal bond with the quilt creator.

Occasionally, opportunities to present a quilt come without much notice as Clairellen and Dianna recalled a ladies group informational luncheon meeting which they were invited to speak at about the QOV program at a local restaurant.

They brought a few of the quilts to display and while they were being served lunch they found out their waitress was a veteran. While the waitress was busy in the kitchen they decided to surprise her with one of the quilts.

QOV's are typically 60 x 80 inches in dimension, making them a little bigger than a twin blanket. Each quilt must be made of high quality, new fabric and stitched carefully to hold up for many washings. Most of the Quirky Quilters are called quilt "toppers." Toppers are individuals who choose the pattern, or creates one of their own, and decides on the materials for the overall look of the quilt. Most QOVs are patriotic looking with a red, white and blue color pallet and can contain stripes, stars, eagles or other symbols.

Like a mosaic, each individual piece of material is meticulously coordinated and sewn together by the topper to give the quilt its color, depth, warmth and an overall feeling the creator wants to portray to the veteran. Once the top piece is complete it is shipped, with matching fabric for the bottom piece, to a long-arm quilter who volunteers to add the batting, at their expense, and quilts it on a special longarm machine. The finished product is then shipped back to the topper to be awarded.

It takes the quilters several days, to weeks or even months to complete a quilt depending on how difficult the pattern is and the skill level of the quilter. Currently, the Quirky Quilters have about 16 quilts on hand to give and approximately 15 or more requests for QOV quilts.

"A Quilt of Valor is the highest civilian award that a soldier or service person can get, it is equivalent to a civilian purple heart. It is an honor we can do this for a veteran's service, sacrifice and valor," Dianna said.

All material costs, which can be anywhere from $80 to $250 per quilt, are usually donated by the quilter, although some monetary donation do come in which are mostly used for shipping fees. QOV quilts are awarded to veterans free of charge. Veterans, family and friends of the veterans are never asked for a donation.

The Quirky Quilters meet on the third Tuesday every month at 6 p.m. in Oscoda at the United Methodist Church on River Road. The group also makes mammogram heartshaped pillows for breast biopsy patients. Every other year they hold a large exhibit of their finished quilt products, their next show will be in September 2018.

Monetary donations for QOV materials are accepted and appreciated and can be directed to the QOV quilt guild of the donor's choice. For more information, visit the website QOVF.org, or email Dianna Rigato at jtrigato@att.net or call her at (989) 724-5416.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Leonid Meteors Fly this Week

November traditionally represents the transition period from tolerable warmth to the chill of winter. By the time of Thanksgiving, accumulating snows can already be in the forecast Some of the best meteor observing occurs during the long dark nights of late fall and early winter, and with a cooperating moon, these events can be impressive. If the sky is clear, the morning hours of November 18 (Leonids), December 13 (Geminids), and 22nd (Ursids) all promise to deliver a plethora of shooting stars. The moon certainly will not pose any problems. It was the Leonid shower of November 12-13, 1833 that gave birth to meteor science. During the four hours preceding dawn on the 13th, meteors rained down on the eastern and central US, with as many as 15-50 shooting stars visible each second, radiating away from the head of Leo the Lion. Screams of hysteria as well as the bright, but silent explosive flashes of light from fireballs illuminating bedroom interiors awakened most people in the regions of greatest activity. A 24-year old Abraham Lincoln was an eyewitness to the Leonid storm that morning. The Leonids are cyclical in nature with increased activity occurring every 33 years or so. The last interval of enhanced action was between 1998 and 2002, but the Leonid meteor shower of 1966 was also a banner year in the Southwestern US with rates as high as 40 to 50 meteors per second visible over a 10 to 15-minute time interval. Leonid meteors result from the abundant dross which is released by Comet Tempel-Tuttle, discovered December 19, 1865 by E. Tempel (French) and independently on January 6, 1866 by H. Tuttle (American). As the short period comet swings around the sun every 33.17 years, dense corridors of debris are released from sublimating (vaporizing) ices that compose most of the comet. Earth intersects the denser swarms of powdery dust near to Tempel-Tuttle in enhanced periods of activity when the comet is close to the sun. Particles in these debris streams rapidly disperse so that in an average year like 2017 about 10-15 Leonids will be seen each hour after midnight on maximum morning. Want to be a part of meteor history? Then be outside, warmly dressed around an hour or two before dawn on November 18. Leo will be high in the sky, just west of south. Leonid meteors are the swiftest of the major showers, entering the Earth's atmosphere at slightly over 43 miles per second. They will appear to be radiating from the sickle of Leo the Lion, a backwards looking question mark which forms the Lion's head and lower torso. The bright star Regulus forms the dot of the question mark. Leo can be bisected by taking the two stars of the Big Dipper that point to the North Star, Dubbe and Merak, and going in the opposite direction about an equal distance. A Leonid meteor will appear to be radiating swiftly away from the head of the Lion every five minutes or so. A map is online at astronomy.org. www.astronomy.org

A veteran died alone

In July 2016 a veteran died alone in a Department of Veterans Affairs hospital, unattended and unchecked for many hours while a nurse played video games at the nursing station ... for her whole shift. Doctor's instructions had been to check the patient once or twice an hour. No one even knew the veteran had passed away until the next shift took over.

The nurse only admitted to playing computer games because the hospital cameras caught her. She was transferred to work in the cafeteria, but once the truth came out, investigations began, pushed forward by U.S. Sen. Elizabeth Warren.

VA chief David Shulkin takes the allegations seriously ... OK. But here's a suggestion: If you have a friend or relative in a VA hospital who is in such serious shape that they aren't able to press the call button, don't leave. Schedule watchers around the clock. Run shifts of friends, relatives, church members, American Legion or VFW members, or others. When nursing staff comes in, ask questions.

If you're told that "visiting hours" are over, refuse to leave until a doctor reads the chart in front of you and tells you that staff has indeed been doing what's required to care for the patient. Take notes and get names. In other words, make waves and get attention. Let them know someone is watching. Yes, the patient might be so ill that death is inevitable, but do everything you can to ensure that proper care is being given.

William Nutter, the veteran who died alone at the Bedford VA Medical Center in Massachusetts, was a two-tour Vietnam veteran who later completed 21 years in the Reserves. In Vietnam, he was a door gunner who got drenched with Agent Orange too often. He left a wife and family.

We owed him more than this.

The sewer report was also given. There isn't much to report as the SAW grant is in progress and many items are being worked on. A letter was read from Mr. Walters of the DEQ. From this point forward, the reports to the DEQ will be due yearly. This is due to the groundwater discharge permit that has been granted from the DEQ. We will still require monthly reports with our own files but our administrator will not be required to file further.

In old business, Gauthier asked about the buildings that are in need of clean up. He will be meeting with zoning administrator Troy Somers to have him start pushing things through the process to get things done.

Healy stated that she has managed to get new people to join the planning commission. Putsky stated that the DNR grant process is still going along. He had to put the information together and get it to Becky Rivard from Huron Engineering for submission as a final step. Zielinski stated that the chili cookoff was a huge success. Lincoln Pharmacy took first place; Farmers Market was second place; Cox Plumbing was third; Alcona Motors took first place for soup. Lori Wilkins took first place for best decorated vehicle. He stated that one of the compressors on one of the motors was broken down for the Brownlee Lake Association. Over the winter months the group plan to redo the other 13 compressors.

The light poles have all been decorated for the holiday season. A meeting was held with the HR committee regarding the village maintenance work tract. It will be presented at the December meeting for approval. A meeting with the HR committee will be held following an advertisement in the local paper for part-time/as needed help with Steve Slater. President Jordan gave his report. At last months' meeting a decision was delayed regarding the bid approval/ agreement for sidewalk work on West Main Street. Bids were received from Environmental Excavating & Contracting and Lincoln Sand & Gravel. It is a possibility that we can pay part of the bid price from the 2017-2018 budget and part from the 2018-2019 budget. A motion was made by Healy to award the bid to Environmental Excavating & Contracting in the amount of $19, 909.86. President Jordan will talk with the company about paying in two installments. Dave James, Steve Slater and Phil installed the new light that had been broken on 2nd Street. Thanks Dave! The water system has been shut off for the winter season. The SAW grant project is going very well. The Festival of Lights will be held on Friday, Dec. 1. There will be a decorating contest for businesses and homes; hayrides with the Alcona High School athletes who will be present; hot dogs and drinks at the fire hall; and a visit from Santa.

Holly Hussain, Sara Healy and Phil attended a meeting with members of the DDA and attorney Cook to explore the possibility of having a Redevelopment Ready Community committee. District 11 President Arnold advised that the quarterly audits must be completed before the meeting and must be accepted at the same meeting. This procedure presents problems for auxiliaries who have meetings very early in the month. President Arnold will contact national to see if a grace period can be obtained.

She also advised that the bimonthly bulletins should be read and discussed during the first month and then the chairmen provide reports of any participation during the second monthly meeting. Operation HELP will be held at 7 p.m. at the Standish Post on November 4 and tickets are in the mail to each auxiliary. The ticket sales provide funds for District 11 use only. The District 11 meeting will be held November 5 at the Standish post.

The post advised the auxiliary that the November meeting will require a change in date due to the Alpena County election for the new jail millage. Therefore, the auxiliary and the post will hold their meetings on Thursday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. at the Sanborn Township Hall.

It was recommended that President Vichunas advise department secretary Peto of this date change. Arnold provided a brief summary of her inspection of the auxiliary and noted that the president, secretary and treasurer's books were up to date.

Norma Alstrom provided the suggestion for the Good of the Order that it is permissible to wear a flag button or pin.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 9 at the Sanborn Township Hall.
