lcona takes district title over Hillman

By Ben Murphy Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity football team had never won a district title entering Friday night's home Division VIII district championship game with Hillman.

The hosting Alcona Tigers ran for over 500 yards on the visiting Tigers as they ran away with the game 56-34, giving them the district trophy at long-last.

"I'm really excited for the kids, they work really hard in practice and in the off-season so to see the work payoff is really great," said head coach Jason Somers.

Alcona held a lead for most of the night and as the game progressed, the only question was whether or not it could enforce a running clock before it was over.

"What stood out the most for me was the fact that we were in place to get every player on the field and a chance to play in a playoff game," Somers said. "The effort from each of these young men in practice was able to be rewarded and that was the best part of the night."

Hillman started the game with the ball but after it dropped a third down pass, the Tigers had to punt the ball away, giving Alcona the ball on its own 28-yard line.

Alcona went the 72 yards required to score in eight plays, getting a Jack Hutchinson touchdown run from

Lady Tigers claim district title

By Ben Murphy Sports Writer

As Thursday night progressed, it was clear that the Alcona varsity volleyball team had one thing on its' mind -winning a district title. The Lady Tigers did just that and on their home court, as they handled Johannesburg-Lewiston (J-L) in four sets, 25-

14, 22-25, 25-15 and 25-19. This is the first volleyball district title since 2014.

"Winning the district feels incredible," said head coach Kristi Miller. "The girls were very determined, which was evident by their level of play."

Alcona came out and largely dominated the first set of the Class C District final, as they cruised to an 11-point win. The Lady Tigers took a 22-19 on a Lily Sager ace in the second set, but J-L stormed back to take the set with the final six points of the frame.

Aces by Raegan Eller and Jenelle Carpenter helped the Lady Tigers claim an early 6-2 lead in the third set and a Carpenter spike kept them ahead at 11-7 with Taylor

Historian writes book on Springport area

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

A passionate interest in the history of Harrisville, specifically the Springport area and its people, past and present, inspired a local man to tell about his findings in print. The book, "A Brief History of the Springport Area," was written by Robert P. Merkel, PhD, a local man who goes by "Bob" and lives on Spring-ments and historical photos.

port area land with his wife,

It was Bob's grandfather, Milo Johnson, who instilled his love of history for the area. "My grandfather was one of Harrisville's leading citizens and, I believe, he was the first harbormaster in Harrisville in 1961. I grew up in Oscoda and would come in the summer and visit my grandparents," Bob said. History of the area interested Johnson, and Bob, even as a young child took note of that inter-

In 1983, Bob and Carolyn, who lived and taught school near Monroe, Mich., began looking for a summer home on Lake Huron. "We would come up to visit Grandfather and help him. He was quite old and cranky and in need of some assistance at that point," Bob said.

They found a cottage on Lake Huron Shore Road and each summer they spent time working on their future retirement home while enjoying the lake breezes. It was during this time that Bob became extremely interested in Springport Springs subdivision -- a track of land holding 10 lots with eight homes, one of which was the Merkel's.

Recall petitions don't meet statute requisite

By Cheryl Peterson Editor

Three members of the Curtis Township Board and roughly 20 citizens attended a hearing Monday afternoon to determine if wording on recall petitions met the state statute and if the recall process would progress.

After more than an hour of listening to comments from those in attendance including Curtis Township Supervisor Darrell Kenyon, treasurer Teresa Perkins and trustee Paul Grabstanowicz - the elected officials who are named on the petitions and Christopher Clouse, the person who filed the petitions, the Alcona County Election Commission determined the wording did not meet the requirements set by state statute.

The three petitions that Clouse filed with Alcona County Clerk Patricia Truman had the same wording, "misleading the taxpayers with false costs of the township hall; not listening to the will of the people.

The clarity hearing was conducted by three members of the election commission - Truman, Alcona County Treasurer Cheryl Franks and Alcona County Chief Probate Judge Laura Frawley, election commission chairperson.

The election commission listened to roughly a dozen individuals who spoke about the situation in Curtis Township involving the sale of the former elementary school (by the Oscoda Area Schools Board of Education) which was used as the Curtis Township Hall and community center. Clouse purchased the building when it was put up for auction by the school dis-

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor.

Have you ever known someone who lies when the truth would work? And the nature of those lies is full of self-puffery and rambling tales of exaggerated superiority. If you do, I'll bet you keep them at arms length. You think of them as a con man and someone who will swindle you as soon as he gets the chance. The kind of person your parents warned you about growing up. Consider Donald Trump.

There are simple and seemingly harmless things like "Andrew Jackson was very upset about what was going on with the Civil War," when in fact. Jackson had been dead for 16 years at the start of the war. He then took the opportunity to declare he would have been a better president than Lincoln in that setting. What? Well, maybe harmless but a lie just the same. More seriously he didn't answer the questions about Niger but took the opportunity to celebrate his efforts to contact all gold star families. And then compares himself favorably and inaccurately to past presidents. He lies about his taxes and yours. He uses his generals like props for photo ops, there is no palace guard and they are our generals not his.

There isn't space here to list them all. Not even a day's worth. So here is a question. Why the lies? If Donald Trump can fuzzy the lines between truth and fiction on all things little and big, he begins to normalize his half truths and fabrications. Everything that is unflattering is fake news. Over time people begin to say, "What's the big deal? It doesn't affect me." His apologists call him unconventional and hyperbolic. Have any of these mainstream news "journalists" reported how the Clinton campaign funneled millions of dollars to a British spy and to Russian sources in order to create the discredited Trump dossier? Or that the U.S. Attorney General is investigating how Hillary Clinton used her office as Secretary of State to influence the sale of 20 per cent of America's uranium supply to Russia in exchange for millions of dollars in donations to the Clinton Foundation and cash to her husband?

You must look elsewhere to get the complete news picture and learn what the mainstream liberal media doesn't what you to know. Fox News is an excellent source to get the other side of the story. Americanthinker.com and poilitico.com are two very good sources for all things political. For a broad-brush of the daily news, drudgereport.com is also a good source.

In September, members of the township board signed a lease agreement with Jerome Orefice for office and meeting space in a building located across from the Curtis Township Library. Clouse also proposed lease options on the former school building for consideration by the township board. That meeting was very well attended by more than 100 community members and many spoke during the meeting expressing their opinion.

Several times during the hearing Frawley reminded those in attendance that the hearing was only to determine if the "language on the petition is factually based and clear to the electorate."

In conclusion of the hearing all three members of the election commission agreed that the wording on the petition did not meet the statute's requirement.

Frawley explained that Clouse had the option to appeal the decision in 23rd Circuit Court or to try again with another petition. "I sincerely hope that you all are able to come together as a community and work through this to continue to be a vital community," Frawley said at the conclusion of the hearing.

Livingston getting a tip-kill at for the district clinching 25-12-7.

Hailee Gordy added a tipkill at 18-9 as the Lady Tigers pulled away from the Cardinals as the set wore on.

A Sager spike found its way through a block to put the team up 24-15 with a side-out giving the Lady Tigers the 25-15 win.

The Cardinals led the fourth set 9-7, but back-toback aces by Eller put Alcona ahead 10-9 and a block by Livingston made it 11-9.

Another block by Livingston kept the Tigers ahead 12-11 and a tip kill by Gordy pushed it 20-16.

Courtney Church fired an ace at 22-17 and with the Lady Tigers one point away from the win, Livingston tipped the ball over a block, allowing it to fall to the floor 19 victory.

"We needed everyone to step up, it was key that we play with intensity and fight for every point," Miller said. "We had faced Johannesburg throughout the season and knew it was going to be a battle. They were solid defenders and consistent at the net. Our defense made a strong effort to keep the ball in play, which definitely ignited our offense. The girls saw the court well and utilized our strength at the net to deliver many kills."

Leading the way in the win was Gordy and Carpenter with 10 kills each. Sager and Livingston had nine kills each, with Livingston adding 14 digs and five blocks. Carpenter also had five aces and Abby Franklin had 49 as-"I am very proud of our efforts," Miller said. "We played with mental toughness and worked so well together. Franklin did a great job setting up her teammates, which is reflected in our balanced attack totals. We needed to get everyone involved in order to maximize our potential. It was a solid team victory."

On Tuesday, Oct. 31 the Lady Tigers opened up district play with a straight set win over Whittemore-Prescott in the semifinals, 25-13, 25-15 and 25-20.

Gordy led the team with 12 kills; Livingston had 11 digs; Carpenter added five aces; and Franklin had 32 assists.

Alcona opened up regional play in Houghton Lake on Tuesday against Elk Rapids.

The finals are scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 9 with Houghton Lake and Traverse City St. Francis on the other side of the bracket. The regional winner moves on to quarterfinals in Munising on Tuesday, Nov. 14.

"In regional play, it is key that we continue our momentum from districts," Arnold said. "Defense will be a huge factor. If we protect our court and continue to play with power and control at the net, we will keep fighting."

Tigers head to Nouvel for regional finals

By Ben Murphy Sports Writer

If you are still playing football games at this point in the season; chances are your are a pretty good football

The Alcona varsity football team knows this is true because it is a very good football team; but it also knows that Friday's opponent, Saginaw Nouvel, is a very good squad as well.

"When you actually take a look at this, there is only seven other teams in our division preparing to play this week," said Alcona head coach Jason Somers. "So, looking at it that way, this is very exciting and speaks volumes about our athletes."

The Panthers are ranked fourth in division eight and are traditionally one of the strongest small-school programs in the state. They won a state championship in 2011 and have made the post-season in all but six seasons since their first year playing in 1984.

This year's Nouvel team has averaged 31 points a game in its' high-powered spread offense and has given up an average of nine points a game. Alcona conversely has scored an average of 48 points a game and given up

Despite their gaudy resume, Somers doesn't feel his team should be intimidated in the slightest by the Panthers.

"Of course they have a good

'Alcona is very physical, well coached and their offensive is exceptional," he said. "We obviously need to work on stopping the run and on the opposite side we need to come up with a plan to run the ball. It will be very difficult for us against Alcona. We have a very strong group

"My hope for them is that they compete hard, enjoy each other and enjoy the moment of playing for a regional title. I hope they have fun doing what they love.

tradition and you don't play in these games by mistake." he said. "I don't think this (playing well) will be a problem. Our boys just like to play football and it doesn't matter to them who they play, they are always up to the challenge. Also, we played this team a couple of years ago and many of the players played in that game.

The game Somers mentioned was the 2015 playoff 38-22 loss to the Panthers. Despite being on the winning end of that score, Mike Boyd, 18th year Nouvel head coach, remembered the team that Alcona can bring to the table very well.

of seniors who work hard and believe in themselves and one another though, so it should be one heck of a game."

The Tigers may enter the game un-ranked, but come kick-off time, that matters little to them.

"I think we will have to play our best and knowing these guys, they will give it their all and will not back down from the challenge," Somers said. "My hope for them is that they compete hard, enjoy each other and enjoy the moment of playing for a regional title. I hope they have fun doing what they love.'

five yards out to cap the drive with a score. J. Hutchinson also ran in the two-point conversion to make it 8-0.

Hillman responded with a scoring drive of its own and faked an extra point to convert a two-point pass to knot things up at 8-8 with 1:53 to play in the first quarter.

Early in the second, Tim Hutchinson broke free on a pair of big runs, the second of which was a 33-yard touchdown run. T. Hutchinson also tacked on the two-pointer, making it 16-8.

Hillman moved the ball down the field on its next drive as well, and appeared to be headed for a potential game-tying score as it reached deep inside Alcona territory.

On a second-and-11 from the Alcona 24-yard line, Hillman completed a pass that allowed the receiver to reach the 10-yard line, but a hit by the defense caused a fumble, allowing Alcona's Damion Stewart to recover for a key turnover at the seven yard

The Tigers cashed in on the extra possession on a T. Hutchinson run from 40-yard out, allowing them to take a 22-8 advantage.

"We knew that Hillman was going to be good and this was huge for us to get that turnover and then turn it into points to give ourselves a little bit of breathing room,' Somers said.

Later in the half, T. Hutchinson converted a fourth-andtwo on the 37-yard line into a touchdown, staking the Tigers to a 30-8, before settling for a 30-16 lead at the half.

"All year our offensive line has done a remarkable job of giving our backs good places to run," Somers said. "On this night, the backs finished the blocking and then also finished their runs really

Just two plays into the second half J. Hutchinson exploded for a 60-yard touchdown run, with an Alex Stephenson quarterbackkeeper on the two-pointer making it 38-16.

Early in the fourth, Stephenson raced his way down the right sideline on a keeper for an 18-yard touchdown run and a one-yard plunge by Kyle Haeger midway through the frame made it a commanding 50-16 lead.

Jon Hudgins added another short touchdown run, and though Hillman scored three touchdowns in the game's final few minutes, Alcona was able to comfortably run out the clock. All this against a red-hot Hillman team that upset number one seed AuGres the week be-

"I think this win shows our team got better and it shows how much they have grown together, making things like winning playoff games possible," Somers said.

The potent ground-game was led by T. Hutchinson with 243 yards and three touchdowns on 25 carries. J. Hutchinson ran 17 times for 157 vards and two scores. Stephenson added 138 yards and one score on nine attempts. Haeger and Hudgins rounded out the scoring with one touchdown each.

On defense, the Tigers were led by Cody Schram with eight tackles. Štewart had seven and Devon Mills and Stephenson had six apiece. Stewart and Travis added one fumble recovery each.

Alcona (9-2 overall) heads to fourth ranked Nouvel (11-0) on Friday for a chance at its first regional championship. The Panthers are coming off a come-from-behind 27-26 win over Harbor Beech last week.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

When will Medicaid pay for nursing home care?

Dear Savvy Senior,

What are the eligibility requirements to get Medicaid coverage for nursing home care?

Caregiving Daughter

Dear Caregiving,

The rules and requirements for Medicaid eligibility for nursing home care are complicated and will vary according to the state where your parent lives. With that said, here's a general, simplified rundown of what it takes to qualify.

Medicaid, the joint federal and state program that covers health care for the poor, is also the largest single payer of America's nursing home bills for seniors who don't have the resources to pay for their own care.

Most people who enter nursing homes don't qualify for Medicaid at first, but pay for care either through longterm care insurance or outof-pocket until they deplete their savings and become eligible for Medicaid.

To qualify for Medicaid, your parent's income and assets will need to be under a certain level that's determined by their state. Most states require that a person has no more than about $2,000 in countable assets that includes cash, savings, investments or other financial resources that can be turned into cash.

Assets that aren't counted for eligibility include their home if it's valued under $560,000 (this limit is higher - up to $840,000 - in some states), their personal possessions and household goods, one vehicle, prepaid funeral plans and a small amount of life insurance.

But be aware that while your parent's home is not considered a countable asset to determine their eligibility, if he or she can't return home, Medicaid can go after the proceeds of their house to help reimburse their nursing home costs, unless a spouse or other dependent relative lives there. (There are some other exceptions to this rule.) of your parent's income such as Social Security and pension checks must be turned over to Medicaid to pay for their care, except for a small personal needs allowance usually between $30 and $90.

You also need to be aware that your parent can't give away their assets to qualify for Medicaid faster. Medicaid officials will look at their financial records going back five years to root out suspicious asset transfers. If they find one, their Medicaid coverage will be delayed a certain length of time, according to a formula that divides the transfer amount by the average monthly cost of nursing home care in their state.

So if, for example, your parent lives in a state where the average monthly nursing home cost is $5,000 and they gave away cash or other assets worth $50,000, they would be ineligible for benefits for 10 months ($50,000 divided by $5,000 = 10).

Medicaid also has special rules for married couples

when one spouse enters a nursing home and the other spouse remains at home.

In these cases, the healthy spouse can keep one half of the couple's assets up to $120,900 (this amount varies by state), the family home, all the furniture and household goods and one automobile. The healthy spouse is also entitled to keep a portion of the couple's monthly income - between $2,030 and $3,022. Any income above that goes toward the cost of the nursing home recipient's

Medicare, the federal health insurance program for seniors 65 and older, and some younger people with disabilities, does not pay for long-term care. It only helps pay up to 100 days of rehabilitative nursing home care, which must occur after a hospital stay.

For more detailed information, contact your state Medicaid office (see Medicaid.gov for contact information). You can also get help from your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (see ShiptaCenter.org), which provides free counseling on all Medicare and Medicaid issues.

Putting the time in: Steiner is Alcona's all-time goal leader

Alcona senior Jordan Steiner, in a district game this season, set the soccer program's career goals, 131, and season goals, 51, records this fall. Photo by Ben Murphy.

By Ben Murphy Sports Writer

Alcona senior Jordan Steiner was a big piece of the puzzle to the soccer team's success over the last four years. The fleet-footed forward scored 51 goals and had 20 assists in his final high school season. His 51 goals was a single season school record -- a record he set twice before and it also gives him 139 career goals, also a school record.

"It is definitely pretty special," Steiner said. "I had older brothers (Jared and Jason) that played before me so I had a lot to live up to. They both played all four years and started all four years and were a big part of the program. I may have had big shoes to fill so I have to give a lot of credit to my family, my teammates and the glory to God for my career and not having any major injuries or cer in the area, meaning they anything like that."

As the younger brother of two solid soccer players in their own-right, Jordan's fondness for the game seemed natural form day one.

"From a young age I started playing," he said. "My parents (Tim and Kathy Steiner of Mikado) got me involved and they, along with my older brothers, really pounded it into me. We would be in the backyard every evening in the summer and we would kick the ball around, working on drills. A lot of credit goes to them for all of this."

All those drills and endless nights in the backyard paid off in a big way for Steiner, as he easily eclipsed the previous career record of 64 goals, set by Trent LaVergne.

The Tigers are one of the smallest schools to carry sochad to play some much bigger programs. That didn't seem to slow down Steiner and his team much however.

"We have a lot of team chemistry with each other, we play for each other and our coach (Tim Munro) and our fans that show up to our games, "Steiner said. "The win over Alpena this season was huge for us. We just went out there, played hard and went after it and we won Alcona had won back-toback district titles entering this season, but came up just short this year in a shootout loss to eventual district champ Roscommon this year.

"That was definitely hard," Steiner said. "We beat them last year in districts, so they were after us. Last year we

Hunting the peak of the rut

By Gregg Schefferly Outdoor Writer

The silence was broken by the sound of running feet; suddenly, right in front of me a doe burst out of the cover, and squatted to urinate. Her head snapped back to look behind her before she ran off.

I heard grunting and, in the blink of an eye, he was standing exactly where the doe had urinated moments earlier. The buck, a spikehorn, put his nose into the ground inhaling and analyzing the scent just deposited by the doe. He stood there momentarily before tearing off grunting in pursuit of the

In a span of 20 minutes I heard and saw a fork-horn and a small six-point follow the same trail grunting as they moved through.

This was just one of a few experiences I had with rutting bucks last year.

Over the 30 years I've been hunting I've been blessed to have experienced hundreds of rutting bucks chasing does past me.

During one opener, over the course of four or five hours, I had the same buck chase a doe past me twice, with the third time being the "charm;" I had the good fortune of watching them breed. I believe you can discern the difference between a younger and a mature buck grunt. On two occasions I've heard a buck grunt that was unlike any I've ever heard. Unfortunately, these bucks never showed themselves, but the sound they made left me without a doubt they were both mature, trophy whitetail bucks.

Hunters want nothing more than to have the rut peak on the firearm opener. Nothing can bring to life the woods more than the rut. Bucks, normally nocturnal, are suddenly found moving about in broad daylight. As a result, there are many different opinions as to what determines the timing of the peak of the rut. Deer biologists have done many studies to try and unlock the secret of the timing of the rut. Some believe the weather can affect it, others believe it's tied to the full moon in November, which is known as the hunter's moon.

Many biologists believe the rut is tied to the length of daylight; somehow the shorter days trigger the does to come into season. I was told of a whitetail biologist who studies both deer in the wild and pen-raised deer. His studies showed that his penraised does drop their fawns every year within a three day period; which, he believes, regardless of the weather or moon phase proves that the rut is triggered by the length of daylight.

Based on my experiences the last 38 years, I have to agree with him. I believe that the moon and weather do affect hunting in regard to daytime deer movement, but the rut in Michigan peaks mid-November. It's long been understood that during periods of a full moon deer will move less during the day and move more at night.

The same can be said when it's warmer. I believe deer in mid-November move less during the day when the temperatures are above normal. I recall a hunting buddy who had a tremendous amount of deer sign around his stand, yet on the opener he didn't see a deer. They pulled the card on the game camera and had well over a hundred pictures of deer overnight between the 15th and 16th. The full moon that year landed on November 14.

With the firearm opener only a week away, I've been hearing reports that some of the nicer bucks are showing up while it's still daylight and that they are starting to chase. The key word is chase: everything I've heard indicate that while they are in the mood, the does are not ready.

Halloween, for me, is the time when there's a transformation in the woods. Late October is when the does start getting harassed. Up until then they would feed alongside one another on the foodplots. Late October is traditionally when bucks start harassing the does. This is the time when seeing or smelling a buck is all it takes for the does to scurry off to avoid being harassed.

It's long been known that monitoring scrapes is the perfect indicator of when buck's start finding does in heat. Before the time when does come into heat bucks take their frustrations out on rubs and scrapes and leave their scent. When they encounter does in heat they are too busy chasing to pay attention to scrapes.

Fresh scrapes will reek of the pungent scent of a rutting buck and around the them will be fresh urine stains and tracks. Once the rut kicks in they go cold. In my experience, this seems to occur within a week of the gun sea-

Late October archery hunting is so much fun because you can see this transformation in deer behavior firsthand. This magical time is when some of the nicest bucks are taken with a bow as the mature bucks are on the move looking for the first does to come into heat. The pre-rut is when grunt calls, rattling and bleat cans tend to work the best to lure in those rut-crazed bucks.

As the firearm opener approaches this year, it looks to be a good one. Based on reports, it would seem we have a large number of trophy bucks out there. Buck poles this year should see some real bruisers hanging on them.

Patience is the key -- hang tough, and stay the course. Some of the nicest bucks show up later as the woods quiet down after the first few

I'd like to encourage hunters to pick up a doe tag and to take some does. During the last few years the deer population has exploded and it's our responsibility to help manage the herd. Based on the numbers of deer observed in the fields the last couple of years, we need to harvest a lot of does. If we don't Mother Nature or the state will take care of the problem, either way the hunters lose.

When the state reduces deer numbers they care not about the sex or age of the animal and they shoot a lot of mature bucks. If Mother Nature does it we could see the deer herd wiped out. Hunters are stewards of the land and it's our responsibility to manage the herd, so please let's do our part. I hope the 2017 firearm season is a good one. Good luck, and be safe.

(After spending the last several years in Afghanistan, Alaska, North Dakota, and Wisconsin, Gregg Schefferly has recently returned to writing and Lincoln where he grew up hunting, fishing, and trap-

Bob began to notice items of interest in the ground and the water with historical value. This was before the mandatory marine sanctuary law came into place where historical artifacts became wards of the state and could not be moved.

Tools used to make barrels, net stones to hold fishing nets in place and even 270 feet of anchor chain appeared on or just off his property in the lake. He and his young sons worked long and hard in cold waters to retrieve the heavy anchor chain, knock off the thick crustacean formed on it and with the help of a bull dozer, dragged the chain up to their home, which decorates the perimeter of their lot.

It was also during this time Bob began to talk to families and historians about the area, to learn exactly what took place there and who cared for the land.

"I gathered huge amounts of information interviewing second and third generation family members who were involved in Springport history over a 10-year period from 1983 to 1993. Unfortunately, I made an error when collecting the data. I failed to record the dates when the interviews took place. All the people I interviewed, except for one, are now deceased, so they can't contradict me," Bob said.

The book contains the abstract of the original 10 lots in the subdivision which Bob wanted to document because he was the only one with an abstract, saying it was no longer available at any abstract office.

The book focuses on three individuals, Simeon Holden, Joseph Van Buskirk and Carl E. Schmidt, although there were other notable figures owning or working the land at one time or another.

According to what Bob found out, Holden was a fisherman in the 1840s who was blown ashore in a storm with a crew of two. Since weather prohibited the men from relaunching, they explored the area. Holden liked it and its abundant supply of white pine. A wood high in demand to make fish-shipping bar-

Starting a barrel business n the land. Holden moved his wife, two children and his wife's sister to the area, becoming the first white settlers in what would become Alcona County.

One of the most interesting figures to Bob was Carl E. Schmidt. He owned 10,000 acres of land with 12 miles of Lake Huron frontage around 1929. "From what I could find out, Schmidt deeded the road access free of charge to the State of Michigan to build US-23. That's huge. He was quite a fellow," Bob said.

Another interesting story in the book is about Bob himself, just after purchasing his lake front cabin. While walking around the Springport land he happened upon a depression in the ground on his neighbor's property which he thought was a grave.

Bob got his neighbors permission to dig up what was there. "My uncles and mother were here, and we set out lawn chairs. Carolyn made ice tea and my son and I started digging. We got down two feet and ran into some $chicken\,wire,\,plate\,pieces\,and$ a bent pewter fork. We got down three and a half feet and started finding what I thought were finger bones. We slowed things down and meticulously began putting the bones out on sheets. We got down a bit further and found beef roast bones. We finally hit the bottom of the hole where the dirt was hard paned," Bob said

After some thought and examination of what had been dug up, the conclusion was it was not a gravesite, but the remains of what was once an outhouse dating back to about 1870s during the Van Buskirk days. What Bob thought were finger bones, were actually chicken and rabbit bones.

Bob accredited many people who helped him with the research of his book and with interviews, including the late Doris Gauthier, a local historian, who not only helped him with his research but encouraged him to write the book.

The book is paragraphically documented, listing sources and publications of where Bob secured the historical data.

Photographs in the book were collected from several

Bob Merkel with his book, sources, including Bob's own photograph of his great-great grandparent's log cabin in Haynes Township. He explained that while it was not a photograph of Holden's log cabin, it was what it would have most likely looked like, as most log homes of the 1800s looked similar.

All nimrods off for "the front"

Twenty of Harrisville's Eagle-Eyed Hunters in Flynn Valley

November 8, 1917 ~ Kaiser Bill and h i s 42.centimeter guns have nothing on the bunch that are leaving this week to stalk the deer in the Flynn Valley region. As a noise-making aggregation the Nimrods probably have the best of the argument, for a combined discharge of their complete armament would make the earth tremble for miles around, and the poor deer have about as much chance of escaping as old Bill himself when the Khaki lads get across.

Three parties are going, composed of twenty or more men, all more or less celebrated locally for quick eye and active trigger finger. The largest party embraces Mayor A . R . Miller, Cleve Noyes, Senator Duncan McRae, Judge Geo. W. Burt, "Dad"

Beever, Will Elmer, Win Chapelle, A. T. Swarthout and David Green. The last two named a re from Laingsberg and are hunters of good re-

Wilbur Monroe heads the next party with such able lieutenants as Chas. Conklin, Jeff Waters, Frank Chapelle, Capt. J. E. Henderson, Joey Miller and George Bensonthe latter from Port Huron.

The third bunch, though fewer in numbers, never fail to bring home the venison. They are Bert Noyes, Stewart Conklin, F. L. Tibbies, and John Dunn.

Now, will some one tell us just what chance there is for the game out in the Flynn Valley section?

Wm. Armstrong Says That's What is Making at Camp Sheridan

November 8, 1917 ~ Camp Sheridan,

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 2, 1917. Dear Editor:-

I just decided to write you a few lines and tell you that Kaiser Bill hasn't got me yet and that as long as I feel as good as I do now he'll have to hustle some to get me. I have been here in camp with the 37th division since Sept. 18th and have been working hard ever since. At first it kind of went against my nature for you know by experience I have a natural aversion for work, but I soon got used to it and now I enjoy the exercise. We turn out every morning at 5:30 except Sunday. At 5:45 we line up for reveille and exercises and exercise until 6:50, then breakfast, At 7:50 we line up for drill and drill until 11:45, have dinner at 12 and fall in for drill at 1, and drill until 4:30, stand retreat at 4:45. At 5 mess and have the rest of the time for study and play.

We have a fine physical instructor and he is trying to make us the finest physically trained troops in America, and by the way most of us feel I think he is succeeding. I never felt so fine and so able to take care of myself as I do now and most of the other boys feel the same.

We were given the tubercular and heart test a week ago and out of my company there were just three men who were found defective. There are 147 men in the company.

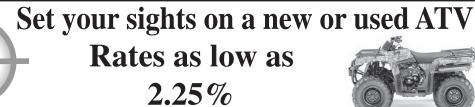

I wish we were in France now. We might help to make Kaiser Bill sick of his job much sooner than he thinks of it. A great many people think we should have waited until the Germans attacked us over here. Great Guns, they attacked us enough and in the most cowardly and dastardly manner ever known to civilization.

We call them Huns but Attil a and his hordes were gentlemen compared with Bill Kaiser and his Kultur Krew. Who ever heard of Attilla attacking a lot of peaceful and harmless women and children and ruthlessly murdering them. Who ever heard of the Huns of his time grinding their dead comrades up for

I tell you they would never have thought of being so filthy or cruel, and that is only a little of the reality. The world will never know all" the horrors of this war for the spread of Bill's Kultur.

Well I must close before I get rough and say things. So good bye.

Your friend, Wm. J. Armstrong, Co. B. 135th U.S.M.G. Bat.

StarWatch By Gary Becker - Action Figures Dominate Fall Sky

A few weeks ago when the moon was near its new phase, I wrote about how to find the Andromeda Galaxy. The star pattern of the teenager, Andromeda, the daughter of evil Cassiopeia, Queen of Ethiopia, hangs onto Pegasus the Flying Horse as she is being conveyed to the kingdom of Polydectes, on the island of Seriphos, and away from imminent death. There, Perseus the Hero, rescuer of Andromeda, will change Polydectes and his court into stone with the head of the Medusa who he has just slain. The "snake-beheaded" Medusa, one of three Gorgon monsters, was so scary that simply looking into her eyes metamorphosed the viewer into stone. Perseus then assumes his rightful place as king, marries Andromeda, has lots of kids, and lives happily ever after. Sounds like the making of a Hollywood blockbuster, and indeed the story has been told several times on the big screen in two versions of Clash of the Titans (1981 and 2010). The perpetrator of these malevolencies in the mythology is Cassiopeia who plays the old "mirror, mirror on the wall" game and truly believes that she is the fairest of them all. This starts a whole sequence of events that first infuriates Nereus, who is the father of the Sea Nymphs. The Nereids are considered by man and god to be the most beautiful women in existence. A storm and tidal wave sent by Nereus does little to persuade Cassiopeia to quit her offensive behavior and that sets Nereus to ask his good friend Poseidon, God of the Oceans, to take care of the matter once and for all. Poseidon conjures up a sea monster called Cetus the Whale to ravage Ethiopia. Hollywood ramped up the excitement by substituting the Kraken for Cetus, a really hideous creature. The Kraken does get Cassiopeia's attention. The oracle that she consults to vanquish the monster declares that she should offer Andromeda as a sacrifice. Cassiopeia complies without hesitation. Meanwhile another mythology is unfolding with Perseus trying to slay the Medusa, a ploy that Polydectes has devised to get rid of Perseus permanently, so that he can marry Perseus' beautiful mother, Danae. Perseus decapitates the Medusa with the help of Hermes (Mercury) and Aphrodite (Venus), putting her head into a sack; but on the way home, airborne Perseus gets blown off course by the terrible storm Nereus has wrought against Cassiopeia. The skies clear for Perseus just as Cetus is about to devour Andromeda. You've got to know what happens next. Cetus is "stoned," Andromeda rescued; Perseus and Andromeda return to Polydectes' court where a lot of limestone statues are created. All of these action figures are on display this week in the NE right after it gets dark. Good observing! www.astronomy.org

• On Nov. 15, 1956, the movie "Love Me Tender," featuring Elvis Presley in his big-screen debut, premieres. Originally titled "The Reno Brothers," the movie was renamed after a song that Presley sings during the film.

• On Nov. 17, 1968, the Oakland Raiders score two touchdowns in nine seconds to beat the New York Jets -- and no one sees it. With just 65 seconds left to play, NBC switched off the game in favor of its previously scheduled programming, "Heidi," a children's movie about a young girl in the

Strange But True By Samantha Weaver

- · It was 20th-century American journalist, editor and writing teacher Brenda Ueland who made the following sage observation: "Inspiration does not come like a bolt, nor is it kinetic, energetic striving, but it comes into us slowly and quietly and all the time, though we must regularly and every day give it a little chance to start flowing, prime it with a little solitude and idleness."
- If you heard the word "pantophobia," you might (logically) assume that it means a fear of pants. You'd be only partially correct, however; those who suffer from pantophobia are, presumably, afraid of pants -- but that's just because they're afraid of everything.

• You might be surprised to learn that the first Model T Fords weren't black -- they were green with red stripes.

- If you're thinking of starting a business and want to get up and running right away, there's a company ready to help vou get started. Novanym, a branding firm based in Farnborough, England, can provide you with a unique name and its matching .com domain -- even your choice of three logos for your fledgling venture. For less than $700 you can brand your company as Aquinique, Spiranti or Fenmarch. Have a more generous budget? Try Mupkin, Cubexis or Zeqon, all in the $5,000 range. If you really want to go all-out -- and are in the right industry -- try Motaway for $25,727, or even InvestmentEtc, which is going for nearly $40,000.
- You might be surprised to learn that if you add up all the deaths that are caused worldwide by tuberculosis, malaria and AIDS, the total would be less than a third of those attributable to pollution, which accounts for 16 percent of all global deaths.

beat them on their home field and this year they beat us on ours. That was especially tough for Conner McCoy (the team's other senior), we won't be able to put an Alcona soccer jersey ever again."

With all of those goals coming off his feet, Steiner admitted that there is one in particular that stands out above the rest; when he scored a game-winning goal against Roscommon for the district championship in 2016.

"Putting in the last second goal against Roscommon was a favorite," he said. "That doesn't happen very often in I've narrowed it doesn't ever I go, I am going I can play for them."

soccer for anybody, so for it to be able to happen to me, I felt pretty blessed to be able to do that. That's probably my biggest memory, that and just all the time spent with teammates and this great group of guys."

Steiner, who is also a point guard on the Alcona varsity basketball team, hopes to continue playing on at the next level.

"I plan on going to college to play soccer," he said. "I'm still undecided on where, but I've narrowed it down to a couple of schools but wherever I go, I am going to see if I can play for them."

Organizations Organization Notes

Alcona Lodge No. 292

Awards night at the September meeting of Alcona Lodge No. 292 included presentation of a 50-year membership pin to Richard Bailey of Oscoda. He joined Genesee Lodge No. 174 in Flint, Mich. on February 23, 1967 and maintained his Masonic affiliation during his lifetime as he moved about. He was a member of Portage-Brady Lodge in Schoolcraft, Au-Sable Lodge in Oscoda, Monitor Lodge in Hampton, Va., and Oriental Lodge in Matthews, Va., before retiring to the area and joining Alcona Lodge.

Alcona Lodge recognizes that so many men and women in the Alcona County community work to make this a better place in which to live. These volunteers share a great deal of time and energy to help in many ways.

Of particular importance to the lodge was recognizing the efforts and contributions made by Stanley Darmofal of Harrisville. He was honored with the Grand Lodge Free and Accepted Masons of Michigan's "Edgar A. Guest" award.

The Edgar Guest award is given to a non-Mason who distinguishes him or herself through outstanding service to the community. The award was presented by way of resolution earlier in the year and shared the following information:

A former resident of Livonia, Michigan, Darmofal is a retired engineer from Ford Motor Company. He retired to Harrisville with his wife, Sandy, and became involved in the community. His accomplishments and record of service are unparalleled, and follow in part:

- Organized the 40-plus amateur radio operators in Alcona County into a viable, functional and effective communications group for the purpose of providing emergency service and communications during civic events in addition to promoting amateur radio as a hobby.
- Spearheaded the drive to raise $8,200 to purchase and outfit the Alcona County Emergency Communications Trailer.
- Joined and became a dedicated worker, organizer and, eventually, a member of the Alcona County Fair Board.

- Teaches basic radio theory to assist those interested in obtaining their FCC amateur radio license.
- Teaches basic radio theory to assist Alcona High School students in obtaining their Federal Communication Commission amateur radio licenses and mentors them once they have received their license. To date, over 50 students received their first license and are now an active part of the worldwide emergency communications network.
- Organizes the semiannual National Weather Service programs put on in Alcona County.
- Darmofal has received recognition for his outstanding contribution and exceptional service to Alcona County from the Alcona County Board of Commissioners; has been recognized for his programs and service by QST, the official publication of the American Radio Relay League; and has received recognition for his commitment to students interested in amateur radio by Alcona High School and contributions to Alcona Community Schools; and has been recognition for continued public service by Senator Walter H. North, and the American Red Cross

He was honored as Volunteer of the Year by the offices of Emergency Management in District Three (Northern Lower Michigan). Darmofal is the Alcona County Emergency Management Coordinator under the Michigan Office of Emergency Management and is an official Volunteer Exam Coordinator for FCC amateur radio license testing – a group of specialized licensees authorized to proctor and conduct license examinations for the FCC Darmofal is also a member of St. Anne Catholic Church and still manages to spend quality time with his wife, Sandy, their children and grandchildren.

Darmofal's commitment to the community has made it a better and safer place in which to live. His activities rival full time employment. It therefore becomes our privilege and responsibility to accord citizens like him all the recognition they so richly deserve.

THANK YOU

Our hearts are filled with gratitude when we say many thanks to family members, friends and neighbors for all acts of kindness and sympathy; food, flowers, donations, cards, visits and kind words spoken to our family regarding the recent passing of a wonderful husband, father and grandfather, Kevin Michaud. We want to express special appreciation to the Mikado Goodfellows, Reverend Al Pillarelli for his many words of comfort and to Buresh Funeral Home for their professional arrangements and caring service.

The Family of Kevin Michaud

According to Lincoln Fire Chief Mike Serafin, from initial indications the fire may have originated in the kitchen. Fire fighters from the Lincoln, Mikado, South Shore and DNR departments helped in extinguishing the fire and protecting neighboring homes. No one was injured during the incident, and the American Red Cross has been asked to assist the Wesley Black family, residents of the home. Serafin said there was plenty of manpower and water to assist in suppression of the blaze. Courtesy photo.
