Church celebrates 150 years through memories

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

"The heart of the Catholic church is the sacred heart of Christ. His heart is for all people. His love is never ending. The Catholic heart believes in the dignity of all, and the worth of all. It is that belief that keeps the church alive, heals and brings communities together. St. Anne is not only a church, it is a family. It is a community. It is the embodiment of love,"

~ Mike Maturen, parishioner of St. Anne Catholic Church.

Americans are used to seeing corporations and their buildings come and go, but churches, which embody the living souls of its parishioners are much more than just brick and mortar. Churches are a living, breathing edifice of the congregation it houses and molds itself to how its worshippers grow and change.

In Harrisville, one such congregation, the parishioners of St. Anne Catholic Church, have sought refuge, reveled in its joys, studied, prayed and for some, completed their entire lives within its ecclesiastical walls for over 150 years.

From its beginning in 1868 through its present day use, the church has served generations of families in Alcona County.

"All the generations of my family have had significant things happen at St. Anne, their baptisms, marriages and funerals. It is such a tender and important part of my whole family experience. Next to things that happen in our home around our kitchen table, the next most important and provocative things that have happened in my life would have happened there. It is a dear place to be," said Dr. John MacMaster.

MacMaster explained Bishop Frederic Baraga, who was born in Yugoslavia in 1797, and came to the United States in 1830, nine years after becoming a priest. At the time, there were no established missions in northeastern Michigan. Baraga was assigned Cheboygan County in which Alpena was included.

Baraga could speak many languages and was a friend to the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians. He was known as the snowshoe priest because many of his long distance missions were made on foot in the winter or by canoe. On one mission, his canoe was put ashore at Springport during an April storm in 1861. "He liked the area and ultimately purchased the property of land for St. Anne. He was a tireless and intrepid missionary who is now a candidate for Sainthood," MacMaster said.

The first church of St. Anne was a small 24 x 40 foot building. Theresa Ball, now 90 years old, was baptized in the old church.

Her parents, John and Eleanor Moskwa, were Polish immigrants who met and married in Hamtramck, Mich., but came north seeking farmland in Alcona County in the early 1900s. The church became a second home to the family of 10.

Ball recalled Father Adalbert Narloch who took charge of the parish in 1928, the year she was born. "He

Rebuild not likely for Ki Cuyler's

By Cheryl Peterson
Editor

The legacy of a long-standing Harrisville business has officially come to an end, while the investigation into the cause of the fire that destroyed it is still open.

Ki Cuyler's Sports Bar and Grill was destroyed by fire in the early morning of Friday, Nov. 30. According to Deputy Rob Clink, Alcona County Sheriff's Department fire investigator, interviews are still ongoing.

According to Justin Belill, spokesperson for the owners of Ki Cuyler's Sports Bar and Grill, at this time there are no plans to rebuild the bar that dates back to 1954 when it was purchased, remodeled and renamed Ki Cuyler's Dug-out by Harold S. "Ki" and Jacqueline Cuyler. Harold Cuyler was the son of Baseball Hall of Fame player Hazen Shirley "Ki Ki" Cuyler, who died in 1950.

Belill is the son of the owners, Tom and Janet Belill, who owned the business since June 2006.

"There has been an outpouring of sadness and support for our family in the loss of the bar," Belill said. "People are saddened and disheartened by the fire. Our family has mixed emotions. It's been their livelihood for the past decade. As any business owner knows, it can be frustrating, exciting – and all the emotions in between. The bar employed 12 people who are now looking for jobs. My dad, who is 70, wants to retire. My mom wants to rebuild. They are figuring out the next phase in their lives," Belill said.

Anyone who has any information about this incident is encouraged to call Alcona County Sheriff's Department at (989) 724-6271.

Looking back through the history of St. Anne Catholic Church

There are two booklets published by St. Anne Catholic Church, "A Centennial History," written in 1968 and "Celebrating 125 years of Spiritual Growth," written in 1993 which describe the history of the church in detail. Parishioners and historians of Alcona County also aided in the following brief adaptation of its history.

- A traveling missionary and apostle of the Ottawa and Chippewa Indians, Bishop Frederic Baraga first came to Harrisville when the canoe he was traveling in was put ashore during a storm in April of 1861.

- It is believed that a French priest, Father Winter, suggested the name St. Anne for two northeastern Michigan parishes, one in Alpena and one in Harrisville. The name Ann is derived from the Hebrew name Hannah which means grace. Ann was also the name of Mary's mother, Jesus' maternal grandmother. The French had great devotion to St. Ann which they spelled with an "e" -- St. Anne.

- The first church building of St. Anne in Harrisville was a 20 by 40 foot wood frame building built in 1868. It offered the people of its parish a place to endure the loneliness and hardships of frontier life. Since a newspaper did not exist at the time, little is written about the first church's furnishings, but typically churches did not have heat. Families would bring foot warming boxes which they could place hot coals taken from a fire which was built in the church.

- Because the only priest in the area would have to travel from Oscoda and means of transportation were slim in the mid-1800s, Mass was held only one Sunday per month.

- During the lumber industry period, French, Irish and Scottish immigrants moved to the area, filling the small church to capacity. In 1874 an addition was put on the church making it 30 feet wide. Later in the 1800s, Polish decent immigrants began to settle in Haynes Township and also joined the church.

- The parish grew under the spiritual guidance of Father Adalbert Narloch after World War II. Father Narloch began planning the new church and by the time he left the parish in 1953, $22,000 had been accumulated for a new church.

- It was under the direction of Father Raymond C. Mulka when ground was broken for the new church building on July 10, 1960.

More funds were needed for the church to be built so members held barbeque dinners. There are a few photos in "A Centennial History" which show men, who would do the barbequing, preparing 500 pounds of chicken for the meal and women peeling potatoes, which was done in the stifling hot basement of the church. Later a "buy a brick" program was developed to fund the new church.

- The new church is a 55 by 138 foot glass, brick and redwood contemporary church. It was designed to reflect the historical aspects of the county during the

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
Overdoses are happening everywhere, all over the country. In our current society, the streets are filled to the brim with ultra-strong heroin that's often mixed with fentanyl and a multitude of its analogues, making life saving efforts, like Narcan, futile when trying to reverse an overdose.

The thing is, overdoses don't just happen in the bathroom or bedroom at home. In fact, many people who overdose do so in public areas. Overdoses can happen in the grocery store, in the car, at a shopping mall... just about anywhere.

Overdoses happen when a person has taken more opiates (or opioids) than their body can handle. They can happen absolutely anywhere and it's really important for everyone to know the symptoms of an overdose because then, the appropriate actions can be taken to save a person's life.

For more information on the opiate epidemic, visit <http://www.narcononsuncoast.org/blog/how-to-recognize-signs-of-an-opiate-overdose.html>. If you are in need of a referral to a treatment center, call (877) 841-5509.

To the Editor,
A recent Mikado Township newsletter noted the township was seeking a group of citizens to volunteer to place flags on the graves of area veterans each year. The township further noted that the American Legion Post in Mikado failed to respond to two letters sent them requesting information as to the legion's desire to perform this function.

The legion did have conversation with the Township after receiving the first letter but the second letter was misplaced and regrettably, only recently discovered.

It is tradition among Legionnaires across this country to place flags on the graves of veterans during those periods when this nation honors their sacrifice and as flags need replacing. The Mikado Legion wants this community to know that it has no intention of giving up this responsibility, honor and privilege to our deceased veterans and that it will continue to provide and place these flags in honor of the memory of those who chose to serve this great nation – so many with the ultimate sacrifice.

The Mikado American Legion has communicated its intentions to the Mikado Township Board by letter and hopes the board will, in turn, communicate the same to its readers.

Lady Tigers remain unbeaten after contest against Whittemore-Prescott

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona girls varsity team could never quite get its offense on track in its home game with Whittemore-Prescott on Tuesday, Dec. 19.

It's a good thing that the Lady Tigers' defense paved the way, giving them a low-scoring North Star League girls basketball win, 32-23.

"We came out a little flat, for whatever reason and never really got into any rhythm offensive," head said coach Mark Feldhiser. "Give W-P credit, they came in ready to play and played us tough. Fortunately, our strongman-to-man defense kept us in the game. Our goal was to hold them under 30 points, that will usually lead to a win."

The game opened with a low-scoring opening frame, with Lily Bilbey and Rachel Layton each hitting a bucket to give the Tigers a slim 4-2 lead after one. The second quarter, Alcona got a bucket and a free throw by Megan Grove and a field-goal by Hailee Gordy to make it 9-8 entering the half.

In the third, Alcona had its best offensive output. Faith Wallenmaier buried a three and had five points in the quarter. Briana Fogle had three points and four other players had two points, all to give Alcona a 25-17 lead entering the fourth quarter.

There Fogle hit a three and Bilbey and Gordy had a two each to bring the final to 32-23. "The outcome of the game was very much in question until we got on a run and scored the last 11 points of the third," Feldhiser said. "We had good scoring balance, but just couldn't finish off some chances and had way too many turnovers."

With six points each was Bilbey, Fogle and Gordy, Grove and Wallenmaier netted five apiece and Layton finished with four.

Alcona (4-0 overall, 2-0 NSL) hosts Ogemaw Heights on Friday, Jan. 4, 2019.

"We are happy to finish 2018 4-0," Feldhiser said. "We have some time off now so we will get back to work on fundamentals and offensive execution."

Tigers bow to Ogemaw Falcons

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona boys varsity basketball team hung around in its non-league game at Ogemaw Heights last Friday. However, the Tigers could never quite make a run at the Falcons and were forced to return home with a 60-52 setback.

"Although we didn't come up with the win, the boys played a very hard game," said head coach Ryan Bilbey. "The boys played a very hard game. We still have too much up and down inconsistent play that is causing us trouble in the second half of games."

Antavious Mikazes had a solid opening quarter, getting to work in the paint and hitting for six points. An and-one play by Josh Kilbourn was the only other points of the stanza as Ogemaw led 15-9 after one.

Alcona picked up five points by Aidan Wrobel in the second quarter, Mikazes chipped in with four more and Dominic Howe buried a three. The Falcons had an answer for each Alcona basketball however, as they still led at the half, 26-21.

Damion Stewart hit a three and netted five points in the third quarter, with a trio of other Tigers hitting for a two pointer, though the Falcons had a huge offensive quarter to bring it to a gap of 49-32 entering the fourth.

Alcona got a pair of threes by Kilbourn and a three each by Bilbey and Stewart as they drew within single digits, but the Tigers were unable to finish off the rally.

Mikazes finished his big night with 18 points. Wrobel and Kilbourn had nine points each. Stewart finished with eight, Bilbey had five and Howe netted three points.

On Thursday, Dec. 20, Alcona dropped a non-league game in Hillman, 56-54.

Hillman led 19-16 after the first quarter and pushed that gap to 30-22 by the half and led by as much as double digits in the middle of the frame before Alcona rallied to tie things up at 37-apiece.

The Tigers faced a 53-36 deficit with about three minutes to play, but got a three each by Wrobel and Bilbey to put it to 53-52 with about a minute left to play.

Hillman made a pair of free throws to pull ahead 55-52 and later added another from the line to lead 56-54. Alcona had a last-second three-pointer fall off the mark, preventing it from coming away with a win.

Mikazes finished with 19 points and Stewart had 14. Wrobel netted eight, Bilbey finished with six, Howe had four and Kilbourn netted three.

On Monday, Dec. 17 the Tigers nabbed a North Star League win at Whittemore-Prescott, 56-46.

"We left with a win and that's the most important stat," Bilbey said. "We didn't rebound the ball particularly well in the first half but did a better job of boxing out and controlling the glass in the second half and that really made the difference."

The Tigers came out hot in the opening quarter, netting 24 points, thanks, in part to three threes and 11 points total by Wrobel.

Alcona, leading 24-14 after the first quarter, slowed down some in the second quarter, getting just eight points, five alone by Howe. The Tigers still led 32-24 at the half though and held a 44-37 lead entering the fourth, after a well-balanced third.

The Tigers hit eight-of-13 free throws down the stretch to salt away the win.

"We did not shoot very well all night but we hustled and

Infrared cameras will track PFAS contamination from Wurtsmith

By Lance Cohen
Capital News Service

A wireless all-weather infrared camera system will be placed around Van Etten Lake in Oscoda Township to detect PFAS discharge from the former Wurtsmith Air Force Base.

It's the latest addition in a high tech monitoring of the contaminant that has already included the use of drones. State officials expect to increasingly use such technology in pollution investigations.

PFAS compounds — per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances — are a group of harmful contaminants used in thousands of applications globally including fire fighting foam, food packaging and many other consumer products.

Research conducted by the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry found that PFAS leads to an increased risk of cancer and learning defects among children.

The Wurtsmith Air Force Base closed in 1993, explained Arnold Leriche, co-chairman of the Wurtsmith Restoration Advisory Board and a resident of Oscoda.

"PFAS and other chemicals that were originally thought to be safe were used at Wurtsmith for 20 years prior to the base's closure," Leriche said. "The Air Force, Department of Defense and the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) have been cleaning up chemicals including PFAS for the last 20 years, and there is still much more to be done," Leriche said.

Fire fighting foam that contained PFAS was used at the base for many years and those chemicals seeped into local water sources, which caused the problem we have today, Leriche explained.

Earlier the DEQ used a drone to determine the best locations and height to mount the cameras in Van Etten Lake. The new camera system is likely to be installed around the lake in the upcoming weeks, said Scott Dean, communications director for the DEQ.

In September, the department conducted similar drone reconnaissance over Lake Margrethe to locate contamination from fire fighting activities at the Camp Grayling military base in Grayling, Mich., Dean said.

This initial research was the first time that any state or federal agency has used drones during a PFAS investigation. According to Dean, the drone's forward-looking infrared camera is used to look for groundwater seeps entering the lake from the Wurtsmith Air Force Base. They are identified by a difference in water temperature shown in the drone's footage.

The drones and cameras have similar technology that use infrared imagery to track groundwater seeps, that often show PFAS contamination.

"Drones provide us with a unique way to track the dispersion of PFAS into bodies of water, which is why they were used at Grayling and now Wurtsmith," Dean said. "We believe that this camera system is necessary in this case because the PFAS foam found in Van Etten Lake is more difficult to detect."

Critics say that the high tech monitoring is not enough. According to Cathy Wusterbath, co-leader of the Need Our Water campaign, the DEQ is not doing enough to remedy this problem and the drone reconnaissance is more smoke and mirrors than a real solution.

"We all know that the foam is from the Wurtsmith Air Force Base and that it has a high concentration of PFAS," Wusterbath said. "The drones are simply a distraction tactic and the real goal should be to find a solution to get clean water to those affected."

Proposed state legislation would lower the lifetime health advisory protected limits from 70 parts per trillion of PFAS to the new recommended standard of five parts per trillion, Wusterbath said.

The use of products that contain the PFAS chemical exploded in the 1950s and by the 1970s and 80s, manufacturers began seeing the impacts of these chemicals on their employees, said James Clift, the policy director of the Michigan Environmental Council.

"American chemical manufacturers stopped producing PFAS in the late 80s. However, other businesses continued to incorporate this chemical into their products as it is still produced in numerous countries overseas," Clift said.

Michigan is doing a good job of trying to locate PFAS in an attempt to remedy this problem, Clift said. "No other state in the country is looking into this issue as closely as Michigan is," Clift said. "While the state is making huge strides, I worry that the standards set in place need to be raised to protect people's well-being."

According to Dean, the Michigan PFAS action response team has received $23 million to locate PFAS contamination, identify sources and oversee remediation activities that aim to protect the state's water supply and reduce health risks to the public.

Clift explained no government ban exists to stop manufacturers from using products that contain PFAS. However, many companies are moving toward alternative products that do not have the chemical. "This change away from products that contain PFAS is driven mainly by the concern by many business that they could be held liable for contamination that may occur in the future," Clift said.

Today only a handful of companies still have PFAS in their products, he said. Granular activated carbon filters, which reduce the amounts of PFAS and other contaminants in drinking water, can be purchased for personal or commercial use.

They are only treasures if you have them.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

What you should know about your aging parents finances

Dear Savvy Senior,
My siblings and I don't know much about our elderly parent's financial situation or their wishes if something happens to them. When mom broke her hip last year, it got me thinking we need to be better prepared. What's the best way to handle this, and what all should we know?

Tentative Daughter

Dear Tentative,
Many adult children don't know much about their elderly parent's financial situation or end-of-life plans, but they need to. Getting up to speed on their finances, insurance policies, long-term care plans and other information is important because some day you might have to help them handle their financial affairs or care, or execute their estate plan after they die. Without this information, your job becomes much more difficult. Here are some tips.

If you're uncomfortable talking to your parents about this topic, use this column as a prompt or start by talking about your own finances or estate plan as a way to ease into it.

Also see TheConversationProject.org, which offers free kits that can help you kick-start these discussions.

It's also a good idea to get your siblings involved too. This can help you head off possible hard feelings, plus, with others involved, your parents will know everyone is concerned.

When you talk with your parents, you'll need to collect some information, find out where they keep key documents and how they want certain things handled when they die or if they become incapacitated.

Here's a checklist of areas to focus on.

Personal and Health Information

- Contacts: Make a list of names and phone numbers of their doctors, lawyer, accountant, broker, tax preparer, insurance agent, etc.

- Medical information: Make a copy of their medical history (any drug allergies, past surgeries, etc.) and a list of medications they take.

- Personal documents: Find out where they keep their Social Security card, marriage license, military discharge papers, etc.

- Secured places: Make a list of places they keep under lock and key or protected by password, such as online accounts, safe deposit boxes, safe combination, security alarms, etc.

- Pets: If they have a pet, what are their instructions for the animal's care?

- End of life: What are their wishes for organ or body donation, and their funeral instructions? If they've made pre-arrangements with a funeral home, get a copy of the agreement.

Legal Documents

- Will: Do they have an updated will or trust, and where is it located?

- Power of attorney: Do they have a power of attorney document that names someone to handle their financial matters if they become incapacitated?

Savvy Senior

tated?

- Advance directives: Do they have a living will and a medical power of attorney that spells out their wishes regarding their end-of-life medical treatment? If they don't have these documents prepared, now's the time to make them.

Financial Records

- Debts and liabilities: Make a list of any loans, leases or debt they have – mortgages owed, car loans, medical bills, credit card debts. Also, make a list of all their credit and charge cards, including the card numbers and contact information.

- Financial accounts: Make a list of the banks and brokerage accounts they use (checking, savings, stocks, bonds, mutual funds, IRAs, etc.) and their contact information.

- Company benefits: Make a list of any retirement plans, pensions or benefits from their former employers including the contact information of the benefits administrator.

- Insurance: Make a list of the insurance policies they have (life, long-term care, home, auto, Medicare, etc.) including the policy numbers, agents and phone numbers.

- Property: Make a list of the real estate, vehicles or

Health department encourages being tobacco free for 2019

The holiday season is here, and with it comes many traditions and new opportunities. Many people look to the New Year as a time to try something new, make positive changes, and support their loved ones in their efforts to make healthy decisions.

For tobacco users, the New Year can be a great time to quit smoking. Family and friends can help to support and motivate people in their efforts to quit. By making homes and cars smoke-free, individuals can set a tobacco-free example and protect non-smokers from the health harms caused by secondhand smoke exposure.

"Quitting tobacco can be challenging because nicotine is a highly addictive drug. The good news is that there are resources available to help, and the health benefits are immense" said Denise Bryan, Health Officer for District Health Department No. 2.

According to the American Cancer Society, the benefits of quitting smoking are immediate. Within 20 minutes blood pressure drops, and within 24 hours a person's chance of heart attack decreases. The benefits continue for years, including reduced risk of lung cancer, stroke, and heart disease.

Bryan explained that research shows that while quitting is difficult for most tobacco users, people who use tobacco can increase their success in quitting with help. Quitters are most successful when using a combination of therapies, including resources such as nicotine replacement, counseling, self-help materials, and a strong support network of family and friends.

She explained the Michigan Tobacco Quitline is an evidence-based service that continues to provide free telephone coaching for the uninsured, pregnant women, residents enrolled in Medicaid and Medicare, veterans, cancer patients, and American Indians, and free nicotine replacement therapy to those who qualify.

The Quitline provides services including materials, text messaging, and referral to all Michigan residents. New this year is an online, interactive coaching program option. The same program that is available on the phone can now be done online with the Quitline's specially trained web coaches.

Providers can refer their patients and clients to the Quitline, and individual tobacco users can contact the Quitline directly at (800) 784-8669, or enroll online at <https://michigan.quitlogix.org>. Additional information, including a fax referral form for providers, is available at the website. Staff and providers in all health care settings can refer patients and clients to the Michigan Tobacco Quitline.

According to Bryan, tobacco use remains the single largest preventable cause of disease and premature death in Michigan, killing more than 16,200 residents each year. Each year, 4,400 Michigan kids become new, daily smokers.

Thirty percent of cancer deaths in Michigan are attributable to cigarette smoking, 19.4 percent of Michigan adults smoke cigarettes, 10.5 percent of Michigan high school students smoke cigarettes, and another 14.8 percent of these kids use e-cigarettes.

The CDC recommends that Michigan spend at least $110 million on tobacco prevention and control programming. Michigan spends just $1.6 million. In contrast, the tobacco industry spends an estimated $320 million to market their products in Michigan each year.

"The holidays can be a stressful time, but smoking doesn't have to be a part of them," said Bryan. "Calling the Michigan Tobacco Quitline now can help people make the holidays, and 2019, tobacco-free. Quitting tobacco today will lead to a lifetime of health benefits."

For more information, call the Michigan Tobacco Quitline at (800) 784-8669.

In seven years, one female cat and her offspring can produce an incredible 370,000 kittens!

Save Lives Spay and Neuter

All of us are affected by animal overpopulation. Pet "overpopulation" encompasses two primary factors:

- Allowing cats and dogs to reproduce with little chance to find homes for the offspring
- Pets being relinquished by owners who can no longer keep their animals, or who no longer want them.

Shelters do their best to place animals in loving homes, but the number of homeless animals far exceeds the number of willing adopters.

Many loving and healthy animals in our community must be euthanized as a solution to this tragic dilemma.

Having your pet spayed or neutered ensures that you will not be adding to this tremendous burden.

The single most important thing that we can do to save cats and dogs from all the suffering and death that their overpopulation causes is to spay and neuter them.

Please contact the Alcona Humane Society at (989) 736-7387 for information about our subsidized spay/neuter programs or to donate to assist in this effort.

was a great priest, very strict, but kind. If he saw trouble, he would put an end to it," Ball said.

Janet (Somers) Higgins, a local historian, was also baptized in the old church and recalled Father Narloch taught her catechism. According to Higgins, if prayers were not recited back by a child by wrote, Father Narloch would chew them out. She said he was strict on procedure and just wanted the catechists to succeed.

In the 1930s and 40s, Ball recalled everyone helping everyone else in the community. Her family had a Model T Ford and every Sunday their large family would drive from Lincoln to St. Anne for Mass. People who lived along the way and did not have cars would often come out and stand by the side of the road and the Moskwa's would stop and give them a ride to church.

Ball said Father Narloch spoke Polish and loved her parents. On one visit to the family home when she was about six, he asked her if she could recite prayers in Polish. She told him she could recite the Apostles Creed, a lengthy prayer. "When I recited the prayer in my broken Polish, Father laughed and laughed, but I did it," Ball said.

The small church had a white ornate alter, typically dressed with colorful flowers. A loft in the back of the church would hold the church choir. MacMaster and Ball remember well the enchanting voice of Hazen "KiKi" Cuyler singing "Oh Holy Night" during midnight Mass, which became a tradition of the church.

"It was quite a treat," MacMaster said, "It was a treat because it was beautiful, and a treat because it was KiKi Cuyler who was a celebrity, a major league baseball player who lived in Harrisville. He had a beautiful singing voice and it would lend to the whole mystery and wonder of midnight Mass at old St. Anne."

Higgins recalled the old church seemed to be busting at the seams before the new church was built. During the summer, chairs were put out on the lawn near the windows so the overflow could sit outside and hear Mass.

By the time Higgins entered her teenage years, Father Raymond Mulka was the parish priest. His guidance was an inspiration to Higgins and others her age because he showed much concern and compassion for the youth and would put great faith and trust in them.

She explained while Father Mulka did not teach catechism, he did make sure that anyone who wanted to attend could get there. To do this he purchased a small red, white and blue bus which he used every Saturday to pick up and deliver the catechists. Higgins said he always drove a little too fast and it was quite a ride on bumpy dirt roads.

According to Higgins, Father Mulka was also a good baseball player and had he not chosen to become a priest could have possibly played major league baseball. Unfortunately, parishioners did not take kindly to a priest playing baseball and he resigned from the team.

"I've talked to players long after that who were not even Catholic and they said Father Mulka had influenced their lives in a good way while he was playing ball. I think of that often, that the people who were not happy with him playing baseball just didn't realize how much good it did," Higgins said.

It was under Father Mulka's guidance when ground was broken for the new church to be built.

Higgins also recalled the May crowning procession to honor the blessed Virgin Mary which would start in the evening by the rectory. Parishioners walk down the sidewalk and up to the church. Inside the church would be four or five young ladies with fancy blue dresses on and they would carry the crown on a pillow up to the statue of Mary. The girl chosen to place the crown on the Virgin Mary wore white and Higgins said it was quite an honor to be chosen to do that.

Some of the saddest moments of the church, according to Higgins, were when it lost members who were in service to their country during war time.

Ball said that while she worked and raised her children downstate, church was always her number one priority and ultimately it was her devotion to St. Anne Catholic Church which brought her back to the area after she retired. After her move back to Lincoln, Ball taught catechism at St. Anne for 24 years until resigning last year at age 89.

Currently, St. Anne holds Mass for about 150 people during the summer, more if visitors or tourists attend.

As for its future, no one knows. MacMaster explained when he was young the town of Harrisville was teaming with children. Everyone in the area had big families. Now the area is greatly populated by older people. He said the children have left and the same shift has affected the churches of the area.

"The change in the church today reflects the change in our community. The fate of the parish and the fate of the community are inseparably timed. If Harrisville becomes a place where people once again chose to raise their families, then the church will once again be a place for families. Without that, neither the church or the community have a future.

"I wish the best for Harrisville and her sweet old Catholic Church on the hill in the middle of it. I want both to thrive. They are both good places to live and we have been very grateful to have their help to raise our children. It's been a big part of the success we have had as parents," MacMaster said.

•The bell tower imitates an Indian teepee which is also the shape of a pine tree. The east wall of the church has a fort-like appearance and assists with shutting out the sounds of traffic and train noise along US-23. More than half of all the building materials, both inside and out, were made of wood to remember the lumber industry days and that wood was once the richest natural blessing God gave the north.

The new church's first Mass was celebrated November 19, 1961.

Organizations Organization Notes

River Aux Sables Chapter

River Aux Sables Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held its Christmas meeting at the Willow Tree Restaurant in West Branch, Mich. Guest speaker was Michigan State Trooper Jeff Devine from the West Branch Post who spoke on human trafficking.

Human trafficking is modern day slavery and effects two children a minute who will become a victim in the United States. One thousand children under the age of 18 in Michigan go missing a month. Only one percent are found and returned.

He urged parents and grandparents to make sure they know who their child is texting or talking to on social media. He explained that visiting a website provides your name, birth date, and sometimes address if not careful, and a in a couple of days it can be read by a predator, in hours they know everything about a child. Fifteen percent of American children interviewed say they were recruited online.

Anyone who has suspicions contact any of the following and ask questions: Iosco County (989) 362-1430, Alcona County (989) 724-9520 and toll free number (800) 553-0911.

Christmas party at Mikado hall

December 26, 1968 ~ Mikado— A glow of Christmas lights encircled the stage and two beautifully decorated Christmas trees, standing on the floor below the stage with Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer, standing between, greeted the delighted and expectant children Monday night at the Mikado Community's Christmas Party. Entertainment was given by the Tom Miks Trio who played several Christmas and folk songs. The choir from the Reformed Church of Christ of Latter Day Saints, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Howard Specht on the piano, sang two beautiful, long loved old Christmas hymns, and the Boy Scouts of Troop No. 171, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Parsons, sang two always welcome songs, "Silent Night" and "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear". This in turn was followed by "Jingle Bells", and then there was Santa Claus, well, Santa Claus' helper, that is. And the "jolly old elf" went right up on the stage and began to hand each child the big generous bags of candy and nuts!

There was an unexpectedly large crowd in spite of the last minute planning of the party and Fire Chief Lloyd Michaud, who did most of the coordinating of the work, deserves many thanks and much appreciation for his splendid work. Appreciation goes also to Mrs. Percy Green who donated the lovely Scotch pine trees, to those who decorated and cleaned the hall previous to the party, and to the many generous donors of money for the candy and nuts. We understand that the "goodies wrappers" had a ball!

All this activity actually got underway at the Joliettes' Christmas party on December 17, when the knowledge that if the group and members of the community who were concerned that there was no children's party, did not immediately "get on the ball" there would be many disappointed children. There fore the Joliettes donated a collection of $8.15 which was given for the cause, and Mrs. Lawrence Travis, was named to represent the Joliettes.

Mrs. Albert Simpson and Mrs. Joe Rhoden to represent others of the community who had also been concerned over the possibility of a "treeless" Christmas. Mrs. Travis was designated to ask our tireless Fire Chief Lloyd Michaud, for help in contacting the Mikado businesses and any others interested. Mrs. Amos Duvall and Mrs. John Everett, who had been previously interested in getting a program started, contacted the ladies of the R.L.D.S. for help and they assisted in the work. Mr. Duvall's "work" shall be nameless but it was fun and he did enjoy it!

The Mikado Community Group is already planning a bigger and better party for '69: Merry Christmas, Everyone!

Banquetted the life savers

A Fine Spread, Eloquent Speeches, Good' Music at the Churchill

December 28, 1893 ~The banquet and ball tandem by the Hon. W. L. Churchill to the captains and men of the Tenth district life saving service and their ladies, on Tuesday evening was one of the most elegant and enjoyable social functions; ever taking place in northern Michigan.

About one hundred, persons were present, including members of the service and their ladies from the stations at, Sand Point, Grindstone City, Point Aux Barques, Tawas, Sturgeon Point, Thunder Bay, Middle Island, Hammond Hay, Bois Blanc Island and Muskegon Lake. The guests commenced to arrive early, and before the hour set for the banquet the parlors and corridors of The Churchill presented an animated appearance. The handsome dining room was lavishly decorated with cut flowers, palms, etc., the tables were daintily set with china and silver, and Gattleson's orchestra discoursed sweet music. About 8:30 the guests filed down stairs and into the spacious dining room. It was handsome and distinguished looking assemblage. Many of the brave boys wore their blue uniforms, and the ladies were elegantly attired in party costumes. When all were seated the brilliantly lighted room presented a picture of animated social life seldom equaled. The divine blessing was invoked by Kev. H. U. Van Auken.

The menu consisted of eight courses, including every delicacy of the season, and was elegantly served.

All did full justice to the sumptuous repast, and at the close Mr. Churchill arose and briefly addressed those present as follows:

To the Superintendent and members of the life saving crews of the 10th district, your ladies and our guests, I tender a hearty welcome and hope you will have a very good time.

At the close of the season a year ago, a delegation from the 10th district, in this hall and around these tables, tendered me a banquet and made me the recipient of this beautiful cane, which I proudly carry now as an ornament, but in my declining years will be a staff to lean upon. I now desire to thank you all in person for this beautiful gift, and believe me when I say I feel highly honored at this token of affection and esteem from a body of men pursuing the noblest calling in the land, "Life Saving," and I might add "Life Riskers." The service to which you belong requires about all the good qualities in man, bravery, cool, deliberate courage, strength, endurance, unselfishness. These are the requisite virtues necessary for a man to imperil his own life substantially without the hope of reward, to save the life and property of his fellow man. Men in anger or under great excitement will risk their own lives to save or injure the life of their fellow man. but men who coolly and deliberately, in the absence of either anger or excitement, go out and face the peril of an angry sea, full well knowing the danger and exposure of their own lives, too much praise cannot be given. Such men deserve the name of heroes, and as I look around these tables and see the members of this noble service, many of them known to me personally, who have been tried and not found wanting, believing every man in this room, when the signal of distress is hoisted, and the cry for help comes from out on the sea, would be ready, willing and eager to risk all to help his fellow man in danger or distress. Believing this I feel I am now standing in the midst of heroes. (Applause).

In after years perhaps many young men now present may engage in other pursuits. The lesson learned in the service I believe will make you better men and citizens, let your motto always be to help your fellow men; be honest and honorable in all your dealings; don't injure or trample down your neighbor to get up yourself, but always lend him a helping hand and thus be life savers through life.

Before me I see many past the age of youth who have been long in the service and probably will remain to the end. To you I will say you will not; gain as much worldly goods as many of your neighbors, but be happy and contented; you have plenty and can hold up your head with the proud knowledge that you are an honored member of the noblest service in the land.

To the young unmarried gentleman I will add when you conclude to desert the bachelor rank and decide to take unto yourself for better or worse the girl of your choice, may she be as good and beautiful as the girl of a school boy's dream.

Mr. Churchill's remarks evidently came from the heart and were greeted with spontaneous applause. Mr. Jas. Collins responded on the part of the men in service. He expressed the sincere regard in which Mr. Churchill is held by the men, and returned thanks for the able work accomplished by that gentleman in furthering legislation favoring the service. Mr. Collins spoke of the number of lives and the amount of property saved by the life saving crews on the lakes, and paid a high compliment to the heroism of the boys in the service. He closed his remarks by proposing a toast to the genial host of the evening.

After a few minutes spent in social converse in the halls and parlors, the dining room was cleared and all indulged in the dance, being joined by a number of citizens of Alpena. The festivities were kept up until a late hour, and the affair was pronounced by all as one of the happiest occasions of a lifetime.

The affair throughout was delightfully informal yet elegant., and the genial host and his lady welcomed the guest so cheerily that all fell at ease.

The boys felt the compliment paid them by Mr. Churchill, and enjoyed the occasion to the utmost. It is to be hoped that there will be more such events in the future.

The life savers

December 28, 1893 ~ Tuesday night, at the Churchill, were six keepers whose terms in the service ranged from 12 to 17 years—as one of the boys humorously put it—without missing a meal or a pay day. They are as follows: Capt. Joseph Valentine of Hammonds Bay station 17 years, having entered the service in September, 1876; Capt. D. McKenzie of Middle Island station, 17 years, also since 1876; Capt. John D. Persons, of Thunder Bay station, 16 years; Capt. H. D. Ferris, of Point Aux Barques station, 10 years; Capt. Hendenron, of Sturgeon Pointe station, 13 years; Capt. George Plough, now of Sand Beach station, 12 years in the Life Saving service of this district. Many of the surfmen too, now belonging to the active service at these stations, have served from ten to sixteen years.

The boys are pardonably elated over the complimentary banquet given them by Mr. Churchill Tuesday night.

Heron's Hotel goes up in smoke

December 28, 1893 ~ A Black River correspondent writes that the Heron Hotel near Black River was totally destroyed by fire Tuesday night about 6 o'clock p. m. But little of the furniture was saved.

Nothing is stated as to the probable origin or cause of the fire. This is the house which a few years ago was presided over by Duncan McArthur, a bright, promising and popular youth, who in an evil hour for himself and family, launched on a career of gambling, debauchery and viciousness which in a few years brought his complete ruin, and sent him to the solitary confinement of a cell in an insane asylum, where he will remain a mental and moral wreck until he dies. In McArthur's reign this house was known as the "Bull Pen," just why we have never ascertained. It was the haunt of scores of lumbermen who came there with a "stake" to expend it in a general spree, or a "good time" as they term it. McArthur fairly coined money, but he spent it as freely as he made it. He might have been worth $50,000, but instead of that he is today a county charge.

The house has had a much better standing since the present proprietor took possession of it. He has run it on business principles and has kept a quiet, orderly place. He has made money and his signature is worth at least $15,000.

- On Jan. 4, 1785, the older of the two Grimm brothers, Jacob, is born in Hanau, Germany. His brother Wilhelm is born the following year. As young men, the brothers published "Children's and Household Tales," later known as "Grimm's Fairy Tales," in several volumes between 1812 and 1822.
  - On Dec. 31, 1879, in the first public demonstration of his incandescent light bulb, American inventor Thomas Alva Edison lights up a street in Menlo Park, New Jersey. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company ran special trains to Menlo Park in response to public enthusiasm over the event.
  - On Jan. 5, 1933, construction begins on the Golden Gate Bridge, as workers began excavating 3.25 million cubic feet of dirt for the structure's huge anchorages. The bridge officially opened on May 27, 1937, the longest bridge span in the world at the time.
  - On Jan. 1, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill issue a declaration, signed by representatives of 26 countries, called the "United Nations." The signatories vowed to create an international postwar peacekeeping organization.
  - On Jan. 2, 1962, an appearance by The Weavers on NBC's "The Jack Paar Show" is canceled when band members refuse to sign an oath of political loyalty. The folk group saw their careers nearly destroyed by the anti-communist Red Scare of the early 1950s.
  - On Jan. 6, 1975, some members of a large crowd in line to buy tickets to the rock band Led Zeppelin break into the Boston Garden arena and cause $50,000 in damage. In response, Boston's mayor Kevin H. White bans the band from Boston for five years.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was beloved American comedian and film star Groucho Marx who made the following sage observation: "There's one way to find out if a man is honest -- ask him. If he says 'Yes,' you know he is a crook."
- You might be surprised to learn that, in addition to his holiday duties, Saint Nicholas is the patron saint of children, coopers, sailors, fishermen, merchants, broadcasters, the falsely accused, repentant thieves, brewers, pharmacists, archers, pawnbrokers, Aberdeen, Galway, Russia, Greece, Hellenic Navy, Liverpool, the Italian town of Bari, the city of Siggiewi in Malta, Moscow, Amsterdam and the Lorraine region of France.
- The next time you've enjoyed a happy hour out with friends, you might want to consider the virtually unknown adjective "gambrinous," which means "to be content and happy due to a stomach full of beer."
- A pregnant goldfish is known as a "twit."
- Sometimes looking at local ordinances can make you wonder what inspired lawmakers to pass such laws. For instance, in Florida it's illegal to wear nothing but liquid latex while in a public place.
- If you make a serious study of Hungarian gypsies, you probably already know that you're a "tzigologist."
- Ever wonder how the statuette taken home by winners of the Academy Awards got its nickname? Evidently, in 1931 a secretary at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences saw the statuette for the first time and exclaimed, "Why, he reminds me of my Uncle Oscar!" The comment struck the fancy of a reporter who was present, and he put it in a story about the awards, and the name stuck.
