Wine and food tasting event celebrates 25th anniversary

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

What started as a solution to reducing an expensive aspect of a local fishing tournament, turned into an annual wine tasting event that has been pleasing adult palates for a quarter of a century.

The Sunrise Side Wine, Food and Brew Festival will be celebrating its 25th anniversary as it always has on the third Saturday of July. The one-day event will begin at noon, on Saturday, July 20 and run until 6 p.m.

Harrisville resident Ilona Breitmeyer explained the first a beverage company representative came into Breitmeyer's (Muehlbecks Bavarian Village) restaurant and told her about a wine festival he had just been to in Traverse City, Mich. They thought how Harrisville would be the perfect spot to hold the event on the sunrise side of the state.

"I never thought the event would last 25 years. I'm happy it has been so successful and so many volunteers stepped up to continue its tradition," Breitmeyer said.

She explained, in the beginning, a lot of area restaurants would get involved and Dianna Zografos, owner of Northern Accents décor and furniture in Harrisville, explained early in the event's history how she and another volunteer, Carol Sella, made a trip to Leelanau Peninsula's wine festival to compare it to Harrisville's event.

What they found was the Harrisville event was more laid-back and relaxing and a lot less expensive. "We figured for Harrisville to have a much smaller area with fewer people, we compared pretty good. Even back then their (Leelanau's) food was expensive. I don't think the trip made us alter anything. It just made us proud of what we accomplished on this side of the state," Zografos said.

She said in the beginning a lot of vintner organizations were very active in working with the volunteers and put on informative seminars for them.

"I just remember it all being a lot of fun. It was a lot of work. My husband, Tony worked on it and Mel Spinney put a lot of his time into it too. He did the electrical and was meticulous about it. There is a lot of hard, behind the scene, jobs and preparation that goes into planning the wine festival, but it was fun to be on the committee, associate with the wine event began after the Lions reached out wanting to share the cost of renting and erecting a large tent at the harbor for its fishing tournament. By inviting another local event the fishing tournament could use the tent one weekend and something else could utilize the other, splitting the cost of the tent in half.

It was just about that time the vintners loved the crowd it drew of 2,000 to 3,000 attending the event. "It has always been a happy event. The music to accompany the event evolved with it too. The first year we had local musicians playing classical music, then it changed to jazz and then folk. Now it's back to local musicians, but they play a bigger variety of music," Breitmeyer said.

Local musicians play for fun at Harrisville Harbor Pavilion

In a community filled with gifted musicians spontaneous music sessions are bound to happen.

To make sure their music is heard, several musicians have chosen Tuesday evenings to come together for jam sessions in Harrisville. They first met last winter at the Docks Café and word spread quickly, quite often filling the quaint café to capacity with music and friendship.

Now that warmer weather is here, the jam sessions will be held throughout the summer every Tuesday evening at the Harrisville Harbor Pavilion on Lake Street beginning at 6 p.m.

"When the Tuesday night sessions began last January, I could see right away it would be a great way to break up the winter months," said local musician Eric Brandon, who works by day as the Alcona/Iosco Conservation District Forester.

The jam sessions are held open-microphone style with a sign-up sheet available prior to 6 p.m. for anyone wanting to play a few selected pieces for an audience of musician peers, interested family and friends and anyone else who happens to pass by.

Joe Thomas, also a regular musician participating in the sessions, said he enjoys the camaraderie of the other musicians. "We are so lucky to have a lot of talent around us. There are gifted people all around that most would never find out about. The jam sessions provide an atmosphere of encouragement. Everyone is trying to improve everyone else. We make each other feel appreciated and celebrated. That feeling is infectious and spreads to the audience," he said.

Thomas explained the music played is eclectic and ranges from Rolling Stones rock to soul music, traditional folk, oldies, and alternative American folk, along with just about anything in between. The instruments the musicians bring with them also vary and include vocals, guitar, flute, saxophone, stand-up bass, dobro, mandolin, violin and more.

"A chance to interact with other musicians is a big deal for me. This is not meant to vintners and all the people. Some of the people I met back then still come into my store to see me and chat. It's nice," Zografos said.

Spinney said he didn't get involved until the Lions organization no longer needed the tent for the tournament and the wine and food festival was the one looking to find another event to share the cost.

"Someone at the chamber of commerce, I think it was Marilyn Conklin, knew my late wife (Joyce) liked antiques and asked her if she knew anyone interested in holding an antique show in the tent the weekend before the wine and food festival. We had friends who were big-time antique dealers and went all over to different shows, so Joyce asked them," Spinney said. The first Antique & Collectibles Show at the harbor had over 40 vendors in attendance.

Spinney, who was an electrician before retiring and moving to Harrisville, wired the tent first for the antique vendors so each booth would have what it needed and then rewired and strung lights for the wine and food festival for the following weekend. He said he got to work with a lot of great volunteers over the 13 years he worked on it.

"I worked with a lot of nice ladies doing whatever they wanted for the two events. Ilona and I got to be buddies. Everyone thought the lighting was such a big job, but it wasn't for me. I would help Joyce sell tickets for the antique show. I'd put up fencing, move trash cans, checked on port-a-potties. Whatever would need to be done. It was a lot of work, but there were a lot of great volunteers involved. Even the (Harrisville) fire department would come and help string lights. It was fun," Spinney said.

Breitmeyer said a few years ago the antique show event dropped out so she thought of another event, The Great Junque Hunt, which will feature a variety of old, new and repurposed vendor ware which will premiere this coming weekend.

Mark Larson, owner of Modern Craft Winery of Harrisville, with his wife, Venita, has been a chairman of the Sunrise Side Wine, Food and Brew Festival for a few years. They love the camaraderie of the vintners who attend and how everyone makes it a happy social event with a big part of the festival promoting Michigan and the sunrise side.

"We enjoy working on it," Venita said, "It gives a chance to connect with other vintners and wineries. We share ideas, how crops and shops are doing and if there are any changes. The people who come become friends and it's great to catch up with them. Many come back year after year."

Venita explained when she and Mark first started their winery, they went to a lot of festivals all over Michigan but got burned out. "It took a lot of traveling and energy. Harrisville is different because it

Butterflies, and a few moths, engage in what is called "puddling." Males will gather in moist areas, such as mud in a roadway or in a field, the edges of a stream or pond, in animal dung, or in rotting fruit, so they can collect salt or minerals as they drink. The male can then pass these nutrients along to the female during mating, which she needs to produce and lay eggs.

Sanctuary Lecture Series

The Sanctuary Lecture Series will feature prehistoric archaeology at 120 feet: Exploring Lake Huron's Alpena-Amberley Ridge and will be held on Thursday, July 11, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., doors open at 6:30 p.m. at the Great Lakes Maritime Heritage Center, 500 West Fletcher Street, Alpena.

Dr. John O'Shea, Curator of Great Lakes Archaeology at the University of Michigan's Museum of Anthropological Archaeology, will share his research of the Alpena-Amberley Ridge (AAR), a unique geological feature that bisects the modern Lake Huron basin. The AAR is a unique geological feature that bisects the modern Lake Huron basin. During the Lake Stanley low water phase (10,000-7500 cal BP) the AAR formed a dry land corridor linking north-eastern lower Michigan with south central Ontario. With the expansion of the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary (TBNMS) boundaries in 2014, the American portion of the AAR now falls entirely within the Sanctuary.

Archaeological explorations of the AAR have demonstrated that it was a focus of ancient human activity during Lake Stanley times. Stone hunting structures preserved on the AAR are among the oldest dated examples on the planet and the lithic industry is unlike anything known in the Great Lakes region. The range of hunting and fishing activities is likewise novel and unlike contemporary sites on land.

Dr. O'Shea will describe both the techniques of underwater research that the University of Michigan team has developed for investigating these submerged sites and summarize some of the most recent findings surfacing from the research. For more information contact, Steph.Gandulla@noaa.gov or call (989) 884-6200.

Prescribed Burn Meeting

The USDA Forest Service will host a town hall meeting on Saturday, July 20 to discuss prescribed fire and fuels reductions in the Huron-Manistee National Forests. The event will begin at 10 a.m. at the Sand Lake Heights Community Center, 4059 Indian Lake Road, National City, Mich.

Fire management personnel will present information pertaining to fire on the landscape, the intent and purpose of prescribed fires, past and present fire threats to the communities at risk, as well as the benefits of fuels reductions and fuel breaks as tools to protect lives and property.

"This is a great opportunity for anyone to learn the why behind the projects and gather information on how to protect your home," said Assistant Fire Management Officer Ryan Stone. "We will show case studies on the change in fire behavior and how it effects the future fire threat to the local communities in northern Michigan."

Subject matter experts will be on hand to answer any questions the public may have on home hardening, fuels reductions, creating defensible space on their property and the fire threat potential to the local communities in northern Michigan. "There are a lot of misconceptions about prescribed fire and fuels reduction," Stone emphasized. "We hope that by engaging the community we can dispel those misconceptions and create a better partnership with residents and the public."

Doors will open at 9:30 a.m. to anyone who has an interest in the Forest Service's use of prescribed fire and the creation of a safer landscape.

be a cool concert to come out to, it's about giving every one of every ability a chance to play for an audience. It welcomes old troopers like me and others who want to dust off their instruments and play," Brandon said.

He explained near the end of the evening all the musicians come together to play which is a great opportunity to teach, learn new songs and techniques. "That's usually when I play my fiddle because a fiddle all by itself doesn't sound like much. We'll ber one Billboard hit, "Runaway." "I also played with the Tokens. That's me playing bass on the 'Lion Sleeps Tonight' record. I don't think I got these jobs because of my talent. I just happened to be in the right place at the right time," Brandon said.

Thomas, of Harrisville, is the Alcona County Library technology assistant during the day, teaches after-school ukulele to Alcona Elementary students and also streams a live music broadcast over the Internet on Sunday evenings.

I don't prescribe to that philosophy at all," Brandon said.

"I'm excited this has continued and we found a summer home at the harbor. This is truly grassroots -- with musicians practicing all week at home to play a few songs. It's a concert, but it's not a headliner that's getting paid. It's just local musicians who have something to show. We just want to be seen," he said.

run through a song, make sure everybody knows how to play it and away we go. It's so much fun," Brandon said.

Brandon, who plays guitar, accordion, piano, bass, violin, and mandolin can also sing harmony. Whenever possible, his wife, Annie, and daughter, Alli, sing with him. "I'm a good side man," Brandon explained, "I'm not a gifted singer, but people don't run away when I do." The trio will be performing during the upcoming Sunrise Side Wine, Food and Brew Festival in Harrisville on July 20 and has booked other summer festivals in Michigan.

Brandon first picked up a guitar when he was seven years old because everyone in his family was expected to know how to play an instrument. "I've been playing off and on since then. I'm 63 years old now. You'd think I'd be better at it," he said followed by a hearty laugh.

Brandon has played alongside some well-known musicians in his life such as the Coasters, famous for their song, "Yackity-Yak Don't Talk Back" and toured with Del Shannon, known for his num-

"I like music too much to be a passive observer. I'm glad the Tuesday Docksides Jam Sessions will be open to a much larger audience. Now that we have an outdoor venue, we've begun putting up flyers to attract visitors staying at the park or others who may not have known about it. It's always more fun to play in front of an audience. We can also play for a while longer and not so constrained by the restaurant hours. Typically, the summer sessions end about 9 p.m. but they could run longer," Thomas said.

Brandon said new musicians are always welcome and he has heard some great music since the sessions began. "One of the best things I've heard was when Bill Immekus of Greenbush played Crosby, Stills and Nash's 'Suite: Judy Blue Eyes.' It's a long song with a lot of changes in it and he pulled it off. That took talent.

Thomas' stream can be found on Sunday evenings by visiting the website twitch.tv. His username is wigginshades. Brandon can be heard locally on WXTF radio on Thursday evenings with his show "Annie and the Tree Guy," which blends forestry conservation interviews, information and topics along with a blend of music.

The Garden Bug

It is easy to grow coreopsis, also known as tickseed or pot of gold. Sprinkle seeds over a prepared area of un-amended soil in spring in a full-sun location. Seeds of coreopsis plants need light to germinate, so cover lightly with soil, or simply press seeds into moist soil. Keep the seeds of coreopsis plants watered until germination, usually within 21 days. Once flowers are established, cut off spent blooms so the plant produces new flowers.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

Finding an alternative to AARP

Dear Savvy Senior,
Can you recommend any conservative membership organizations for older adults that offer discounts too? AARP is way too liberal for my liking.

Discount Seeking Conservative

Dear Discount,

There are actually quite a few senior advocacy organizations out there promoting themselves as conservative alternatives to AARP, and many of them offer membership benefit too. Here's what you should know.

Anti-AARP

While AARP, with a membership of around 38 million, is by far the biggest and most powerful advocacy group for people age 50 and older, there are millions of older Americans that don't like or agree with their stance on various issues. Many believe AARP leans too far to the left despite its stated nonpartisan nature.

For seniors that disagree with AARP, there are other conservative leaning groups that you can join that may better represent your views. And, many of them offer their members discounts on things like travel, insurance, health-care and more. Here are several to check into.

• 60 Plus: American Association of Senior Citizens (60plus.org): Established in 1992, this nonprofit group was founded to lobby for issues it holds dear, namely free enterprise, fewer taxes and less government. Their main priority is to end the federal estate tax and preserve social security. Membership fees run $12, $24 or $48 per year, or $299 for a lifetime membership. They also offer a bevy of discounts on travel and entertainment, cable, Internet and satellite services, dental, vision and hearing packages, roadside assistance and more.

• American Seniors Association (AmericanSeniors.org): Founded in 2005 for people age 50 and older, this conservative organization is built on five foundations, which includes rebuilding national values, Social Security reform, Medicare reform, tax code reform and control of government overspending. Fees to join run $15 for one year, $25 for two or $35 for three years, and members receive access to a variety of benefit on travel, home and auto insurance, security services, health and wellness (medical, dental, vision and hearing) and more.

• Association of Mature American Citizens (AMAC.us): With more than one million members, this organization was started in 2007 for people 50 and older. Its mission is to help seniors fight high taxes, reduce excessive government involvement in our day-to-day lives, and preserve American values. They also offer a host of benefits on home, health and auto insurance, travel, vision and dental care, prescription drugs, retail savings, roadside assistance and more. Membership fees run $16 per year, or less if you join for multiple years.

• The Seniors Coalition (Senior.org): Founded in 1990, this conservative public advocacy group claims to have around four million supporters. Their key issues are to protect Social Security benefits, stop Social Security payments to illegal aliens from Mexico, eliminate the death tax, and reform the Social Security COLA system. TSC offers very few membership benefits. Annual fees run $10 for one person per, or $13 per couple and you can join at any age.

Some other senior membership organizations to consider that offer discounts include the non-for-profit American Senior Benefits Association (ASBAonline.org), and the conservative leaning National Association of Conservative Seniors (NAOCS.us), and Christian Seniors Association (CSA-benefits.site-ym.com).

(Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org.)

The Harrisville Lions Club wishes to express its gratitude to all who supported our annual Duck Race; the men and women who sold tickets, the set-up and tear-down teams as well as Harrisville Harbor Grocery which gave us valuable space to sell our tickets AND especially to those who purchased our Duck Race tickets. The proceeds from this event will be used to continue supporting Lions projects such as scholarships for graduating high school students and those community projects as we have for the 79 years of the Club's existence. Thank you again.

Boogie 2 Shooz

Boogie 2 Shooz is comprised of two singers, songwriter and multi-instrumentalists, Pattie-Jean Cousens and Pamela Jenkins.

Pam and Patti-Jean first performed together in 1987 in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., while helping to organize a fundraiser for AIDS. This work led to the formation of Boogie 2 Shooz and a commitment to foster the work of women in music, while serving audiences with great sounds, energy and loads of fun.

Two unique and expressive vocal styles combine to bring torch ballads, soulful and fiery renditions of the blues, funk-flavored R & B, and lush jazz and spirited Latin to every performance of saxophones, flute, percussion, keyboards and digital music technology. Boogie 2 Shooz presents a visually, and musically exciting performance supported by a full and colorful sound.

Boogie 2 Shooz’s extensive touring experiences, from festivals and cruise ships to hometown lounges and concert venues, have given them the ability to deliver diversity and insight in every show. Additionally, experience and an extensive repertoire allows them to reach a wide spectrum of musical tastes, and touch all ages. The audience can “kick back” and enjoy the show or “kick out” and boogie!

“Their sound is full and balanced. Their performance is warm and irresistible.”

The Jon Archambault Band performs music to make your soul happy and your body move! "We're not a traditional blues band by any means. Blues is our main influence, our leaping off point, but I want all of our influences to be heard in the music we make. My favorite blues artist throughout history put the best of all their influences into the music they made and created a sound that was as unique to them as a fingerprint. We combine the passion of the blues with energy of rock, the storytelling of country and the improvisation of jazz. I play music because I want to feel something, and I want the audience to feel something. If it feels good, we play it." – Jon Archambault

The band brings together some of northern Michigan's premier musicians! Combining elements of blues, jazz, funk, classic rock & roll, and instrumental music, the band's technical virtuosity and improvisational style keeps each performance fresh and exciting.

Each attention grabbing performance is charged with music that stirs the soul. Audiences experience timeless classics cast in a new light, and fresh, new original music that makes it clear you're listening to accomplished musicians performing in their prime.

The Money-Gods recorded and released a vinyl record album in San Francisco, California in the 1980's called "Hearts and Brains." It was produced by Roy Loney, original lead singer of the Flamin Groovies. They have just released a new CD album on Tenderette Records called "Kings and Queens."

The current lineup is: Greg Leslie Fodor – vocals and guitar, Walt McCurdy – bass, vocals and slide guitar, James Schultz – lead guitar and vocals, and Tom "T-Bone" Wagner – drums and vocals.

Greg and James played in the San Francisco line-up. The Money-Gods play original rock songs, plus classic rock and rhythm and blues.

Surprise 88th birthday party celebrates Greenbush resident's achievements

July 13, 1994 ~ by Clarissa Sansone

A framed letter of recognition from state representative John Pridnia, paying "Special Tribute" to Walter Scott of Greenbush, accentuated the achievements mentioned in the dozen other letters Scott received at his eighty-eighth birthday party last Thursday (July 7). Pridnia's letter commended Scott's altruism, stating: "Despite the demands on his time from his exemplary career, Walter Scott was never too busy to serve the community and to get involved in worthwhile causes."

The organizations behind the aforementioned "causes" comprised the roughly twelve other parties that recognized Scott by letter. These included United Way of Flint-Genesee, which Scott headed three times; the State American Red Cross, of which Scott was a member; St. Joseph Hospital of Flint, on whose board Scott served; the Flint Board of Education, of which Scott was both a member and three-time president; and the Mott Foundation and Mott Community College, where Scott was a board member.

He received accolades from Arthur Ellis, director of commerce for the state of Michigan, for his service on the former State Commerce Board, and from Jack Smith, CEO of General Motors, for his many years of work for GM. During his years of community involvement, Scott also served eight years as president of the Flint Institute of Arts, and was an active supporter of the Urban League and the United Negro College Fund.

Scott moved to Michigan from Canada when he was 17. He has been a seasonal resident of Greenbush since 1941, when he and his wife Saidee purchased land in Alcona County, and a permanent resident since 1970, three years after his retirement.

Previous to his employment at GM, which included handling public relations for General Motors Institute, and organizing, said Scott, "the anniversary of the class I dropped out of," Scott worked as a reporter— first for the Flint Journal, and later for the Detroit Times, a paper owned by W.R. Hearst. At this time, said Scott, "I also wrote radio news...nine programs a day."

Those present at Scott's surprise celebration Thursday, which was organized by neighbors and friends in the community, included Greenbush township supervisor Ed Roddy, who toasted Scott, and two former secretaries of Scott's, neither of whom Scott had seen for 28 years. The party was successful, in that "It was," the grateful octogenarian noted, "a complete surprise."

Sunrise Side Wine & Food Festival is Saturday at harbor

July 13, 1994 ~ Seven local food service operations and 13 Michigan wineries will offer their wares on Saturday (July 16) at the first annual Sunrise Side Wine and Food Festival. The event, which has been a year in the planning, will take place from noon until 6 p.m. inside the food and beverage tent at the Harrisville harbor.

"We thought it was a really nice idea, and it was a little different," said Ilona Breitmeyer, owner of Muehlbeck's Restaurant and chair of the committee that has organized the event.

Becky Stratton of the Springport Inn co-chaired the committee, and Breitmeyer said that Carol Sella, Marylou Webb, and Terry Krumbach aided in the preparation of the festival, which she hopes will draw more tourists to the eastern shore of northern Michigan. Harrisville borrowed the idea for the wine and food sampling from Leelanau, where a similar festival has been held, Breitmeyer explained.

Local restaurants are working in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture's Grape and Wine Council, and representatives from each of the wineries will be present to serve and "talk to the people about their wines," said Breitmeyer. In addition to wine, a variety of foods, ranging from jumbalaya to Wiener schnitzel, will be available to the 1,500 guests expected to attend. A $5 admission fee covers two tickets for wine, and a commemorative glass; food will range from $1 - $2 per dish.

Persons 12 to 21 will be admitted for $3, and children under twelve will be admitted free.

Large crowd at Harrisville July 4th

July 10, 1969 ~ Occasional showers failed to mar the overall success of the July 4th celebration at Harrisville and the usual large crowd was on hand for the main events scheduled.

About forty units participated in the parade which was under the marshalship of Dana Brown.

Heavy traffic on US-23 was routed through at intervals causing intermittent delays in the line of march, but the crowds lining Main and Lake streets thoroughly enjoyed the procession.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Grand Prize winner, Green Thumb Flower and Garden Club; Organizational - 1st Harrisville Hurons 4-H Club, 2nd Harrisville Home Study Club, 3rd Pack 93, Cub Scouts; Non-Organization - 1st Old Styles comic by Mrs. W. Griffin, Mrs. Roy Pyne, Mrs. N. Larson and others, 2nd H. MacDermaid, 3rd Cedarbrook Trout Farm; and Commercial - 1st Friendly IGA, 2nd Gillies Funeral Home, 3rd, Alcona County Review.

The children's small sports, the midway attractions, the Arts and Crafts Show, Chicken Bar-b-que, dance and the grand finale - July 4th. fireworks at the fairgrounds helped make a full day of entertainment.

Our 4th of July is past now with a few more memories added to our already long list of memories.

But I cannot let this go by without a few words of praise and thanks. Thanks and praise both to the Lions, and the Lady Lions and the Businessmen of our town who donated their time and money to help bring a little pleasure and culture to our town and also to see our young people take an interest and develop their talents. Not to forget our other citizens of all ages, for talent is in everyone. I'm proud of all those who entered, those who won, and those who came to see. It made all the work it took well worth the while.

I would also like to thank the Judges for the businessmen's award, Mrs. Kenneth Noyes, Mrs. Walter Ross and Mr. Jerry Jasinski for taking the time to pick a winner for our show.

There is throughout this area a great amount of talent. Some needs a hand to dust off the webs, and some needs a gentle push to get started. Whatever it takes, it should be taken for there is an awful lot of pleasure in creating, seeing a picture come to life, or working with fellow artists.

Whatever it is, there is a wealth of talent in and around this area and if it could ever be awakened our area would become well known in the art circles. Thanks again for a wet but successful 4th.

Strange But True

By Samantha Weaver

- It was noted 20th-century American poet e.e. cummings who made the following sage observation: "The most wasted of all days is one without laughter."
- Those who study such things claim that a single teaspoon of ordinary soil contains more living creatures than all the humans on the planet.
- Albert Einstein's final words are lost to history. He spoke his last words in his birth tongue, German, and it seems that the nurse who was attending him during his last moments spoke only English.
- Other than the fact that they were all famous writers, what did Charles Dickens, Edgar Allen Poe, Mark Twain, Louisa May Alcott, James A. Michener and Leo Tolstoy have in common? They all were adopted.
- The monkfish, a species of anglerfish found primarily in the northwestern Atlantic Ocean, has an enormous head. Really, really enormous. The monkfish's head is so large, in fact, that it makes up three-quarters of its body.
- It's been reported that country singer-songwriter Willie Nelson believes he's had numerous previous lives, including at least one as a Native American.
- In an anthropological study once conducted in Papua New Guinea, it was found that one in three adult deaths was the result of homicide. And it seems that those murdered were often targeted because they were suspected of practicing sorcery.
- If you've ever worn a tuxedo, you know what a cummerbund is, but you probably don't know the origin of the word. It comes from a Hindi word meaning "waistband."

Thought for the Day: "Writers have two main problems. One is writer's block, when the words won't come at all, and the other is logorrhea, when the words come so fast that they can hardly get in the wastebasket in time." -D Cecilia Bartholomew

Freeport Flag Ladies Retiring 9/11 Tradition

The Freeport Flag Ladies - Carmen Footer, Elaine Greene and JoAnn Miller -- haven't missed a single Tuesday morning in 18 years, standing with U.S. flags on a corner in Freeport, Maine. Rain, snow storms, icy wind, heat and humidity, it didn't matter. The ladies were always there, waving at the hundreds of honking cars that passed. They were often joined by others who came to stand and wave flags.

And now they're retiring from their Tuesday mornings.

It all started when the plane hit the second tower on September 11, 2001. Not knowing what else to do to honor the lives lost, they grabbed a flag and went to a corner on the main street in town, waving the flag. Cars honked in response, and they promised to be there every week for one year to help with the nation's healing. They stayed on to support the service members who were then placed in harm's way. That was 18 years ago.

They've been busy, despite their advancing years. (Elaine Greene, age 74, is the youngest of the three.) They've made appearances at honor flights, candlelight vigils, parades, deployments from National Guard centers, homecomings, flag retirements and much more, always in support of service members, veterans and first responders.

There were all the airport greetings with servicemembers coming and going, with thousands of photos being snapped and loaded on their website (www.freeport-flagladies.com). Those last-minute airport photos are most treasured by the families who couldn't be there. And then there are the lucky pennies, each placed in a tiny envelope with a card designed by the Flag Ladies and handed out at airports to departing service members.

While they'll continue some of their activities, the Tuesday flag days will end in September.

Consider sending the Ladies a postcard just to say thanks: Freeport Flag Ladies, 17 School St., Freeport, ME 04032.
