Hubbard Lake Nature Preserve hosts grand opening event

Community members are encouraged to explore the Hubbard Lake Nature Preserve on Thursday, June 20 during a grand opening event from 4 to 7 p.m. There will be a short program at 5 p.m., plus an invasive species information table and a nature exploration station for kids. Huron Pines staff will be on hand to answer questions and collect community input about the preserve and future programming opportunities.

Huron Pines acquired the Hubbard Lake Nature Preserve, located at 720 Holiday Inn Road in Hubbard Lake, as a donation from the owners, John and Wendy Frye, last summer. The Fries enjoyed the property as a home for several years until job opportunities took them elsewhere. While they kept the property and visited it for hunting camps and family celebrations, they had a sense that the property could have an even greater purpose.

"Our thinking kind of evolved. If we really wanted to protect the property and also make it available, then a preserve was the best way to do it," Wendy Frye said. "Now more than ever, people need a place to go to be inspired and quieted by nature."

The 80-acre preserve will be open to the public from sunrise to sunset for hiking, wildlife viewing and general nature exploration starting on June 21. Huron Pines will be hosting events each month from June through October

Celebrating 100 years of Michigan state parks

From iconic destinations like Tahquamenon Falls State Park in the eastern Upper Peninsula to lesser-known gems like Hayes State Park in southeastern Michigan's Irish Hills, the Great Lakes State offers 103 state parks to enjoy.

Within these parks, there's hunting and fishing along with campgrounds, boat launches, swimming beaches, trails and light-houses.

Whether it's city destinations like Belle Isle Park and the Outdoor Adventure Center or wilderness areas like Craig Lake State Park, Michigan has plenty to offer.

But before 1917, state parks numbered only one - Mackinac Island State Park, which was established in 1895 as a gift from the federal government. It had been the country's second national park.

Interlochen State Park is considered Michigan's first official state park, having been purchased by the state legislature in 1917.

At the beginning of the 20th century, when Michigan's population rapidly expanded as the automobile industry grew, cars became affordable and people could drive from their urban homes to the country or the lakeshore. But with few places available for the public to enjoy these scenic outdoor settings, it became clear that a statewide system of recreational areas open to everyone was needed.

According to P. J. Hoffmaster, Michigan's first superintendent of state parks: "The appearance of 'No Trespassing' and 'Private Property, Keep Out' signs has been a growing one, all tending toward an approaching era of exclusion of the great mass of our residents and visitors from wonderful recreational advantages offered by the state. Through this, if nothing else, has come the setting aside of tracts of land and water by the people for the use and enjoyment of all."

On May 12, 1919, the Michigan Legislature established the Michigan State Park Commission to oversee, acquire and maintain public lands for state parks.

To commemorate this historic milestone, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources is celebrating the 100-year anniversary of Michigan state parks throughout 2019.

"A hundred years ago, people in Michigan were rallying to protect the state's most beautiful outdoor destinations," said Ron Olson, chief of the DNR Parks and Recreation Division. "Fast forward through time and you'll find that generations of residents and visitors have fallen in love with these treasured natural places."

The centennial celebration will encourage the pub-

Lead cook hangs up her apron

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

Students and staff at Alcona High School are bound to miss the bubbly personality that cannot be contained by an apron and strict meal regulations.

Dawn LaLonde, the lead cook at Alcona Community Schools, has retired after working in the high school cafeteria for 25 years.

She has greeted students and staff with a smile followed, quite often, with a heartfelt compliment or a positive word of encouragement, since she began working in the high school lunchroom in 1994.

Dawn explained her own children attended Alcona schools and working there allowed her to have the same schedule. She flashed a huge grin when she said by working at the school, she also knew right away when her children were in trouble.

The decision to retire wasn't easy, but Dawn knew it was time to think about it when her two co-workers, Sarah Roe, and Lindsay Nardi said she was giving them the "Mom" look, a telling glance which means either she is tired, doesn't approve of something or to get back to work. "She's really good at giving us that look," Roe said.

Dawn said the true reason she is retiring is she didn't feel she was doing her job to the fullest potential sometimes. "Literally, I wasn't lifting my weight. Deliveries come into the kitchen sometimes twice a week and the boxes weigh about 50 pounds. My younger co-workers can lift those boxes easily, but I struggle with them. It's time, I want to leave before I become the crabby old lunch lady," Dawn joked.

The vivacious almost 60-year-old first began substituting in the kitchen for about two years before being hired full-time. She said while she will dearly miss her co-workers and the students, she won't miss the responsibilities of being lead cook and having to deal with production reports for state requirements.

As lead cook, LaLonde ordered all food item for the menus making sure state requirements were being met, helped to cook the food, acted as cashier and helped to clean up.

"One of the hardest parts about the job is ordering menu items so there is not a surplus of food, but also not to run out of anything. The law reads the last person in line should be able to get what the first person was offered. We try and make sure we have a balanced meal for everyone. I wouldn't want to be the last person in line and find out we were out of strawberries. That just wouldn't be fair," Dawn said.

She explained many things have changed over the last 25 years, some of the changes, such as strict food and menu requirements, were not for the better.

"When I started here, we did our own menus. There were no regulations and we Huron Pines, a non profit organization, is actively seeking funding to continue long-term monitoring, stewardship, maintenance and programming at the preserve. So far, Huron Pines has raised over $40,000 to support initial programming, create public parking, clear trails and install signs. All of this has been possible with donations from residents and supporters from across the state, fundraising efforts by the Alcona Community Schools and grants from Great Lakes Fishery Trust, The Carls Foundation, Besser Foundation, PIE&G, and Community Foundation of Northeast Michigan's Women's Giving Circle Fund.

Huron Pines is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization established in 1973 to protect, restore and conserve Michigan's natural resources. Huron Pines works across northeast Michigan's forests, lakes and streams to improve economic, environmental, educational and recreational opportunities and to support healthy water, protected places and vibrant communities. lic to get involved by sharing their stories and photos, attending events taking place throughout the year, exploring a new or favorite park, learning more about the history of state parks and much more.

"We think about the centennial as a nod to our rich history and an energizing look forward," Olson said. "We're celebrating by marking this milestone year with special events, podcasts, historical stories, videos, geocaching and lots more."

An average of 28 million people each year visit Michigan state parks ranging from Milliken State Park and Harbor in Detroit - Michigan's first urban state park providing a green oasis in the heart of the city - to Porcupine Mountains Wilderness State Park in the western Upper Peninsula, offering one of the few remaining large wild areas in the Midwest.

"State parks play a role in helping visitors connect physically and emotionally to all of Michigan's natural resources and outdoor recreation opportunities, including inland lakes, miles and miles of shoreline, lush forests and a variety of fish and wildlife species," Olson said.

One way people can share their connection to state parks is by contributing photos and memories to the digital Michigan State Parks Memory Map.

How to choose and use a home blood pressure monitor

Dear Savvy Senior,
I just found out I have stage 1 hypertension and my doctor recommended I get a home blood pressure monitor to keep an eye on it. Can you offer me any tips on choosing and using one?

Hypertensive Helen

Dear Hypertensive,
It's a smart idea! Everyone with elevated or high blood pressure – stage 1 (or 130/80) and higher – should consider getting a home blood pressure monitor. Home monitoring can help you keep tabs on your blood pressure in a comfortable setting. Plus, if you're taking medication it will make certain it's working, and alert you to a health problem if it arises.

Home Monitors

The best type of home blood pressure monitors to purchase are electric/battery powered automatic arm monitors, which are more reliable than wrist or fingertip monitors. With an automatic arm monitor, you simply wrap the cuff around your bicep and with the push of one button the cuff inflates and deflates automatically giving you a blood pressure reading on the display window in a matter of seconds.

Many monitors today also come with additional features like irregular heartbeat detection; a risk category indicator that tells you whether your blood pressure is in the high range; a data-averaging function that allows you to take multiple readings and get an overall average; multiple user memory that allows two or more users to save their readings; and downloadable memory that lets you transmit your data to your computer or smartphone.

You can find these monitors at pharmacies, medical supply stores or online, and you don't need a prescription to buy one. Prices typically range between $40 and $100.

In most cases, original Medicare will not cover a home blood pressure monitor, but if you have a Medicare Advantage plan or a private health insurance policy it's worth checking into, because some plans may provide coverage.

Some of the best automatic arm monitors as recommended by Consumer Reports are the Omron 10 Series BP786N ($75); Rite Aid Deluxe Automatic ($60); Omron Evolv BP7000 ($70); and A&D Medical UA767F ($45).

How to Measure

After you buy a monitor, it's a good idea to take it to your doctor's office so they can check its accuracy and make sure you're using it properly. Here are some additional steps to follow to ensure you get accurate readings at home.

- Relax: Don't exercise, smoke or drink caffeinated drinks or alcohol for at least 30 minutes before measuring. Sit quietly for at least five minutes before you take a measurement and remain quiet during the test.

- Sit correctly: Sit with your back straight and supported (on a dining chair, rather than a sofa). Your feet should be flat on the floor and your legs should not be crossed. Your arm should be supported on a flat surface (such as a table) with the upper arm at heart level. Make sure the middle of the cuff is placed directly above the bend of the elbow. Check your monitor's instructions for an illustration.

- Put the cuff directly on your bare skin: Putting it over clothes can raise your systolic (upper) number by up to 40 mmHg.

- Measure at the same time every day: It's important to take the readings at the same time each day, such as morning and evening. It doesn't matter whether you do it before or after taking medication. Just be consistent.

- Go to the bathroom: A full bladder can rise your systolic pressure by 10 to 15 mmHg.

- Take multiple readings and record the results: Each time you measure, take two or three readings one minute apart and record the results by writing them down, or using an online tracker (see CCCTracker.com).

would just come in that week and decide what to make and make it. If we had a new chili recipe that looked good, we'd try it. We could offer homemade desserts and other products. Now we must follow recipes that meet the government regulations. I'm a dessert eater, so I miss being able to make brownies and no-bake cookies.

"We must follow strict government guidelines on how much sugar and salt content can be consumed by children weekly. Everything, including pizza crust, must be whole grain -- no white bread, and they have to have so many green and purple vegetables per week. It makes it tough. Would you eat a breadstick at home without butter and garlic salt on it? I think some of this may be changing, but I don't know what the new formula will look like. Maybe students will be able to have hamburger buns that are not whole grain once a week," Dawn said.

One improvement Dawn has seen has been how students are charged for their lunches. She explained when she first began all students purchases used to be handwritten and the cashier would have to ask the student if they were on the free or reduced lunch program.

"It was a privacy issue for the students and embarrassing. Now all students have a pin number which is punched into the register. Free lunch students are not charged and for the other children, parents can pay on their child's account online or send cash with them to school. We never have to ask them if they are on free or reduced lunch. There is no discrimination when it comes to a child receiving food," Dawn said. In the 25 years she has worked in the school no child has ever been denied food because of a delinquent account.

On average, the kitchen crew at the high school feeds about 170 students for an hour for breakfast starting at 7:10 a.m. and about 290 students for lunch. The students favorite foods are the breakfast burritos, garlic noodles, mashed potatoes and gravy and bacon cheeseburgers.

Dawn is looking forward to spending time with her husband, Leeroy, in their Black River home and visiting with two grandchildren, ages six and seven, who live in North Carolina. She also wants to spend more time with her son and daughter-in-law who live locally in Spruce.

Although she may not feel like she is pulling her weight in the kitchen, LaLonde isn't about to slow down. She hopes to volunteer at the Alcona County Library, which she feels is an important asset for the community.

Dawn has been the Alcona Township clerk for about 20 years and feels she has good knowledge of how budgets work. She would consider taking a seat on the school board if there should ever be an opening, just to give the board a little different perspective.

Dawn will miss her co-workers who have become her very close friends and the students. She knows nearly all the students' names and their pin numbers by heart and said knowing the students made going to the sporting events at the school a lot of fun.

"It was a joy to work here. I can't say enough about the staff. I know I am leaving the kitchen in good hands. It's an amazing dynamic," she said.

"Dawn has made a tremendous impact on the district over the past two decades (plus). While her work with food and nutrition has been impactful, her positive relationships with students and her co-workers are what will be missed most," said Superintendent Dan O'Connor.

Sarah Roe will be the new lead cook when school resumes in August.

Lakers, walleye, bass, perch -- oh my!

Northeast Lower Peninsula June 13

• Alpena: Chinook, Coho lake trout and the odd steelhead were caught when trolling spoons in 50 to 80 feet between Thunder Bay Island and Rockport. Lake trout were taken on spin-glos and attractors in the lower half of the water column while the salmon were up higher and hitting on copper and lead core.

Steelhead and Coho were found near the bug slicks. Walleye fishing was slow but those trolling early or late found fish inside 20 feet with body baits. A good number of smallmouth bass were taken on spinners and soft plastics in Squaw Bay. Smallmouth bass and pike were caught on crank baits in the harbor. Surface water inside the bay was in the mid-50s.

• Thunder Bay River: A couple good catches of walleye were taken on crawlers and leeches. Walleye were caught in the evening by those casting body baits. Smallmouth bass, rock bass, bullhead and freshwater drum were caught.

Northeast Michigan Fishing Report

• Oscoda: Those trolling caught good numbers of lake trout and the odd steelhead on spoons and spin-glos in 60 to 80 feet. Lake trout were in the lower half of the water column and taken with downriggers and dipsey divers. Pier anglers caught walleye, catfish and freshwater drum on crawlers and leeches or the odd steelhead on spoons.

• AuSable River: Water temperatures were in the mid 60s below Mio, Alcona, and Foote Dam. Walleye, suckers and rock bass were caught below Foote Dam when drifting or floating crawlers in the holes. Largemouth bass and yellow perch were found in the weedy cuts with crawlers or crank baits. A couple drop-back steelhead were caught in the holes when casting spoons.

In the upper river between Alcona and Grayling, march browns, sulphur and blue winged olives should be effective fly patterns. Brown trout, steelhead and a couple brook trout were caught on small spinners between Mio and Alcona.

• Tawas: Chinook and lake trout were found in 50 to 70 feet out past Tawas Point when trolling spoons. One large Chinook weighed over 11 pounds. Walleye anglers heading south toward AuGres caught fish in 30 to 45 feet with a crawler harness. Lots of carp and smallmouth bass were caught by those fly fishing with crayfish imitations in three to four feet near Tawas Point.

• Tawas River: Those casting tube baits and jigs off the dock and shore at Gateway Park caught smallmouth bass and pike.

• AuGres: Limits of walleye were taken with bottom bouncers in 30 to 45 feet from north of Point Lookout to Point AuGres. At times, the fish were suspended up higher in the water column. A couple lake trout, steelhead, channel cat or perch were also taken.

• Higgins Lake: Boat anglers found lake trout on the bottom in 80 to 90 feet when trolling downriggers tipped with rapalas and spoons or when jigging sand kickers in the early morning. Good smallmouth bass action along the drop-offs in 10 to 20 feet with crawlers, leeches or lures. Rock bass are everywhere. Small perch were caught.

• Houghton Lake: The fish were more active with warmer weather. Walleye were taken by those trolling right above the weeds in 10 to 12 feet or when jigging leeches. Bass were found under structures and lots of pike were caught. Crappie were hitting on minnows in eight to nine feet. Some good size bluegills and sunfish were hitting on a jig and leaf worm or small leeches in the shallows or as deep as six to 10 feet. Hot colors were purple, chartreuse and pearl.

• Cheboygan River: Boat anglers drifting a crawler harness caught walleye and suckers. Shore anglers targeting walleye and smallmouth bass caught a few fish on crawlers and crank baits or when jigging minnow imitations. No report on steelhead or Atlantic salmon.

• Rogers City: Anglers were taking limits most days, however some days it was a little more difficult to find them. Mornings were best. Most were fishing inside 60 feet with spoons as well as dodgers or cowbells with spin-glos. The salmon were coming higher in the water column, try the top 35 feet. Good colors were green, orange and gold, orange and silver, chartreuse or other bright colors.

• Presque Isle: Was producing limits of lake trout. Chinook and some Atlantic salmon were also caught. The lake trout were coming throughout the water column on dodgers and other attractors with spin-glos. The salmon were in the top 40 feet and hitting on spoons. Hot colors were green, orange, silver and chartreuse. Atlantic salmon were found in the top 20 feet or so.

The Garden Bug

The roots of the dandelion reach deep into the soil, making its tooth-shaped leaves rich in magnesium, copper, folate, calcium, potassium, manganese, iron and vitamins A, E, K, B6, B2, B1 and C. The leaves taste somewhat bitter, which helps curb sugar cravings. Use them in salads, or whenever a recipe calls for greens. Dandelion tea can help detox the liver and improve your skin and stomach health.

Nikki and Lori Tartaglia become U. S. citizens

June 19, 1969 ~ Friday, the 13th of June, 1969, was an important and happy day for two little orphan Vietnamese girls who are happily established in the home of an American family in Harrisville. They became naturalized citizens of the United States on that day.

Nikki, age 7½, and Lori, 7, are the adopted daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Tartaglia of Harrisville.

They are, it is believed, the only Vietnamese children adopted and brought to Michigan by a serviceman.

They received their citizenship papers Friday in Circuit Court at Tawas City, from Circuit Judge Allan C. Miller.

Although not required to do so, Nikki and Lori gave the pledge of allegiance to the American Flag, which they had memorized, along with the three adults who became naturalized citizens in the same ceremony, one from Jamaica, one from Spain, and the third from Germany - five new U. S. citizens from widely scattered parts of the universe.

The Tartaglia girls have anticipated becoming U.S. citizens for some time and are very proud of their flags, plaques and two books, "Your Flag and You" and "Flag Etiquette," which were presented to them by different organizations at the ceremony.

Tartaglia adopted Nikki and her twin sister from a Saigon orphanage while he served with the U. S. Air Force in Vietnam in 1962-63. They were 11-month-old babies and the one sister later died of pneumonia. He then adopted 9-month-old Lori, from another orphanage. The children were cared for by a nurses aid until he could return to the United States with them.

On July 24, 1963, Mrs. (Marion) Tartaglia and her two children by a previous marriage, Cheri, now 18, and Kim, 14, met the father and two children at the Tri-City Airport in Bay City, and after a few days shopping spree for American clothing for the new members of their family, they returned to their Church Street home in Harrisville. Waiting to welcome them were Grandpa and Grandma, Ira and Olive Elmer Johnson, who live across the street, and who are equally as proud of their new granddaughters.

When someone says "Emily" at St. Anne Church in Harrisville, everyone knows who is being spoken about. Emily Bejesky has been a pillar of the church since 1947, when she began playing the organ at both St. Anne in Harrisville and St. Raphael in Mikado.

Emily was born in Glennie, graduated from Oscoda High School and attended Central Michigan University. She learned a lot about people working in her dad's electrical shop in Harrisville and, later, as an airline stewardess.

Returning to Harrisville, she furthered her college career while teaching school, both at Bean Hill and Barton City. She married Anthony Bejesky while still teaching school.

In 1961 she and Tony adopted a young brother and sister, Kathy, age two-and-a-half and Duane, age five. Two years later they adopted little Lisa, age one. During this time she began teaching catechism at St. Anne.

In 1970 she gave birth to Robert. For the next few years, along with her teaching, she became the typical mother, even doing Safety Patrol duty on the streets of Harrisville. She continued her education, attending classes in Tawas, and finally in 1971 received her Religious Education certificate from St. Joseph's in Tawas.

In 1973, Emily began her position as Director of Religious Education at St. Anne. Her duties as D.R.E. included many meetings, paperwork, recruiting and preparing teachers, organizing, scheduling, planning activities trips, youth rallies, working with the Youth Ministry, and organizing a children's summer Bible school.

She also worked with an adult religious program, teaching parents how to keep faith in the home.

While doing all of this, Emily still had time to play the organ, and organized and worked with both a children's and an adult choir.

She has belonged to, and been active in, the Ladies' Altar Society, the Legion of Mary, St. Vincent dePaul Society, and St. Anne's Prayer Circle. Emily has several hobbies including cooking, sewing, gardening, artwork and, of course, music.

Emily has seen many pastors come and go at St. Anne and now it is her turn. She will retire the end of June, and when asked what her plans are she replied, "I'd like to travel, enjoy my hobbies and learn to relax and purr like a kitten."

To wish her well and show their appreciation, the parishioners of St. Anne's will host a reception on June 26 at 12:30 p.m. at Maria Hall.

Ladies' rest room opened by E. L. Society

June 19, 1919 ~ A ladies' rest room has been opened by the Epworth League Society in the building at the corner of Main and First streets formerly occupied by Jos. Dube.

As its name implies, the room is for the use of ladies who may have occasion to wait in town during the afternoon and evening. While it is primarily intended for the accommodation of ladies from the country, any lady is welcome to use the same. Conveniences will be provided for ladies with children, lavatory and toilet accommodations, writing facilities, etc.

The building will be open each week day afternoon and will be in charge of a member of the League, who will serve free of charge. To meet the expense of rent and light, a small stock of candy will be kept on hand for sale and on Saturday afternoons ice cream will be offered for sale.

Ladies are cordially invited to make use of the room and the society hopes that the accommodations offered will find favor with them.

Outdoor improvements that boost home value

Whether home improvement projects are design to improve the interior or exterior of a house, focusing on renovations that make the most financial sense can benefit homeowners in the long run. The right renovations can be assets if and when homeowners decide to sell their homes.

So how does one get started? First and foremost, speak to a local real estate agent who is knowledgeable about trends in the community. While a swimming pool may be something coveted in one area, it may impede sales in another. It also helps to study generalized trends and data from various home improvement industry analysts to guide upcoming projects.

The following outdoor projects are just a few renovations that tend to add value.

- Fire pit: A fire pit is a great place to gather most months of the year. Bob Vila and CBS news report that a fire pit realizes a 78 percent return on investment, or ROI.
- Outdoor kitchen: Many buyers are looking to utilize their yards as an extension of interior living areas. Cooking, dining and even watching TV outdoors is increasingly popular. Outdoor living areas can be custom designed and built. In addition, prefabricated modular units that require a much smaller commitment of time and money are available.

- Patio: Homeowners who do not already have a patio will find that adding one can increase a home's value. Patios help a home look neat, add useable space and may help a home to sell quickly. The experts at Space Wise, a division of Extra Space Storage, say that refinishing, repairing and building a new patio offers strong ROI.

- Deck: Deck can be as valuable as patios. A deck is another outdoor space that can be used for entertaining, dining and more. Remodeling magazine's 2018 "Cost vs. Value" report indicates that an $11,000 deck can add about $9,000 in resale value to the home, recouping around 82 percent of the project's costs.

- Door update: Improve curb appeal with a new, high-end front door and garage doors. If that's too expensive, a good cleaning and new coat of paint can make an old door look brand new. These easy fixes can improve a home's look instantly.

- New landscaping: The National Association of Realtors says an outdoor makeover that includes well-thought out landscaping can net 105 percent ROI. Installing a walkway, adding stone planters, mulching, and planting shrubs are ideas to consider.

Many different outdoor projects can add value to a home. SH192670

New plan in place of alcohol ban on AuSable River for this year

The USDA Forest Service and a working group of community partners have developed an action plan that emphasizes public safety and the preservation of natural resources on the congressionally-protected "wild and scenic" sections of the AuSable, Manistee, and Pine Rivers."

In February 2019, the forest service proposed an alcohol ban on the AuSable, Manistee, and Pine wild and scenic and;

- Empowering visitors to be good river stewards.

To accomplish these objectives, the working group will coordinate with the forest service community groups, local businesses, and other partners to develop and distribute content that promotes river safety and etiquette.

Other planned actions include:

- Working with media part-have quality recreational experiences, and maintain our natural resources."

Additionally, the forest service will conduct educational outreach and public safety patrols to protect visitors and preserve the wild and scenic rivers. Those efforts will include the presence of recreational staff at river landings and joint law enforcement patrols with state and local partners in the river corrinic rivers to address ongoing challenges associated with excessive alcohol consumption on those waterways, including visitor safety, illegal trespass, harassment of river users, and widespread littering.

The forest service will not implement the alcohol ban this year. Instead, a working group to explore community actions to promote safe and responsible recreation on the wild and scenic rivers was organized. The action plan is the product of those efforts.

The action plan calls for:

- Educating the public about the values and benefits of their wild and scenic rivers ners to develop safety-oriented public service announcements;

- Organizing outreach and volunteer events in the wild and scenic river corridors;

- Providing mesh bags and ties to river users at landings, liveries and other local businesses.

"The action plan is a constructive end result that we hope will bring positive dividends to those utilizing the resource," said Manistee County Board of Commissioner Chairman Jeff Dontz, who serves on the community working group. "It encourages people to be cognizant of their fellow citizens, dors this summer.

"Our goal is to maintain a culture of respect and responsibility that preserves our natural resources, attract visitors, and benefits local communities," said Huron-Manistee National Forests Supervisor Leslie Auriemmo.

Members of the public may share questions and comments about the plan by emailing r9\_hmnf\_website@fs.fed.us, calling (231) 775-2421, or sending a letter to the Huron-Manistee National Forests, Attn: Community Working Group, 1755 South Mitchell Street, Cadillac, Mich. 49601.
