Harrisville Harbor donates docks, saves thousands

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

A company that specializes in refurbishing harbor docks worked at the Harrisville Harbor of Refuge last week on a recycling project which will save the City of Harrisville about $20,000.

With a small crew of about eight employees from Water Street Adventures, the 30-year-old finger piers scheduled to be replaced next spring were removed and floated by boat to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) boat launch just north of the Harbor.

From there they were loaded and trucked to the East Jordon, Mich., to be refurbished and utilized to help that community's harbor.

The work began just after the Harrisville Harbor Commission received notification that grant funding, which was suspended due to COVID-19, had been released and the harbor will receive two grants, an approximate $500,000 grant which was awarded over a year ago to complete phase five of renovations and a $90,000 emergency state grant for damage from high water the docks sustained last winter.

According to Bruce Weber, Harrisville Harbor Commission president, the City of Harrisville agreed to provide the required in-kind funding match for the emergency state grant and the removal and recycling the docks will suffice for the city's in-kind portion of the emergency grant funding.

Water Street Adventures project manager Allan Griffin explained the finger piers his company was taking would be reconditioned. "They've been in the water for 30 years and are obviously in tough shape, but once you flip the board over, they aren't that bad. It's the foam and the tin that goes bad. It is a huge effort to recondition them, but this will help out the project that is going on in East Jordon and it will help this (Harrisville Harbor) too. This is saving both communities quite a bit of money. It's a wonderful thing, a win-win for both communities," Griffin said.

He assured Weber that any debris which may have fallen

Two Alcona County veterans receive Quilts of Valor recently. Veterans Joe Scramlin, a 23-year U.S. Army veteran of Black River and Terry Story, a 23-year U.S. Air Force veteran of Greenbush, were presented with the quilts by Barb MacDonald, a quilter with the Quirky Quilters Guild of Oscoda. The Quilts of Valor Foundation is a nationwide effort to cover service members and veterans touched by war with comforting and healing quilts. Story, a Vietnam Veteran, was unable to attend the presentation, so his wife, Avis, accepted the quilt on his behalf. (From left) Avis Story, Barb MacDonald, Joe Scramlin and his wife, Barb Scramlin. Herbs for Thanksgiving

Sprinkle sage on mashed potatoes or into broth for extra flavor. Nutmeg adds to the sweetness and spice of pumpkin and sweet potato pie fillings. Use bay leaves as a flavorful rub for your Thanksgiving turkey. Thyme brings flavor to a fall salad full of greens, fruits, vegetables and walnuts. The strong taste of clove brings warmth to pumpkin pie and bread pudding.

The good, bad and ugly of acorns

By Gregg Schefferly
Outdoor Writer

Early reports regarding the archery season haven't been very good at all. I know of a few hunters who've been successful and are feeling pretty good about this year's archery hunt.

However, most hunters I talked to aren't.

Few are seeing any bucks and, in many cases, very few deer are observed while hunting or on trail cameras. Most everyone I talk to is blaming their lack of success on acorns. The number of pictures found on trail cameras that overlook food plots are down substantially from last year. In many cases, the food plots are still in good shape.

Exploring the Outdoors
By Gregg Schefferly

Certain areas have had deer removed due to crop damage or TB concerns. Finally, the youth hunt, as it always does, puts the mature bucks in a nocturnal mode.

However, I believe with oak wilt and the return of gypsy moths the trees have been more stressed and it's not uncommon for them to bear the west of our camp, the firearm opener was slow, but we'd sit tight and the deer would get pushed from the open hardwood ridges to the swamps and by the second and third days our hunting got much better. Patience is of the utmost importance.

I will never forget a story I heard of a woman who hunted

This healthy buck was feeding on acorns while being photographed on a trail camera on October 9. Photo courtesy of Gregg Schefferly.

Normally, by this time of year the fields have been browsed all the way down to the ground.

Those of us who've hunted for 20 or more years have experienced heavy acorn crops and have seen reduced numbers of deer before, but this year seems to be worst.

After the acorns ripen and a few windy days bring them down, they are quickly cleaned up. Once this occurs deer will usually turn their attention back to the food plots and resume more normal activities. In other years, the deer stayed in the hills, in the oaks, until the rut and/or until hunters push them into the swamps.

I believe there are other variables that aren't helping regarding the number of deer being seen. This year, locally, many of the fields were planted either in corn or beans. In previous years there were more alfalfa fields for the deer to browse, without them deer are focusing more in the hardwoods.

heavy mast crops as a result.

Hunters certainly have a love-hate relationship with acorns. Hunting camps that have hardwoods ridges with great acorn yields are posed to have a banner year. Hunting camps with river bottom and swamps that are experiencing poor hunting either have to wait it out or, perhaps, find some hardwoods on public ground to archery hunt. A little time must be spent scouting for oaks bearing good crops of acorns.

I've heard reports that some hunters have done just that, scouted out some oak ridges on public land, located trees loaded with acorns, and set up on the runways the deer are using to get there.

In past hunting seasons when the oaks were loaded with acorns up in the hills to all day every day the entire two weeks of the firearm season without seeing a deer. In the end, on the last day, her perseverance paid off, she shot a huge buck.

Keep in mind that antler growth is phenomenal following a fall of bumper crop of acorns. So, while it doesn't make it any easier this year, there is a silver lining to the acorn crop.

Hang tough and good luck hunting.

SENIOR LIFESTYLES

How to find an online therapist

Dear Savvy Senior,
 What is the best way to find online therapy services for my anxiety and depression? I just turned 63 and have become increasingly hopeless since the COVID-19 pandemic hit and cost me my job. I need to get some professional help, but I'm also high risk for illness and very concerned about leaving the house.

Need Help

Dear Need,
 I'm sorry to hear about your job loss and the difficulties you're going through right now, but you're not alone. Because of the coronavirus pandemic and resulting economic downturn, fear, anxiety and depression is being reported by 45 percent of Americans, according a Kaiser Family Foundation tracking poll.

To help you through this difficult time there are a variety of therapists, psychologists, and other mental health providers you can turn to. And because of the pandemic, most of them are now offering counsel to their clients online through teletherapy services. This will allow you to interact virtually with a therapist from the comfort of your home using only a smartphone, tablet or computer.

How to Find a Therapist

A good first step to locating a therapist is to ask your primary care provider or family and friends for a referral. You can also look on your insurer's website for a list of therapists covered under your plan. But be aware that some insurers have limited, or even no coverage for mental health, and many mental healthcare providers don't participate in insurance plans. (Medicare does cover mental health services.)

Other resources to help you find a good therapist include online finder tools at the American Psychological Association (locator.apa.org) and the American Psychiatric Association (finder.psychiatry.org).

If you want some help, there are also online platforms that can help match you with a licensed mental health provider. For example, Talkspace (talkspace.com) and BetterHelp (betterhelp.com), are virtual services you can access through your phone or computer, that contracts with thousands of licensed and credentialed therapists.

The process starts with a few questions to assess your goals, your condition, and your preferences, and then matches you with some top therapists in your state.

If you don't have insurance coverage or can't afford therapy, you can call or text 211 (or go to 211.org) anytime for a referral to a provider who offers support at no cost or on a sliding scale, based on your budget.

You can also call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline 24/7 and ask for a referral to a local resource or provider or ask to be transferred to their "warm line" for nonemergency calls, where you can talk anonymously to a trained professional at no cost.

Another possible option is Federally Qualified Health Centers, which are community-based health centers, some of which may offer teletherapy services at no-cost. To search for centers in your area visit FindAHealthCenter.hrsa.gov.

There's also this website called Open Path Collective (openpathcollective.org), where therapists offer low-cost online sessions for between $30 and $60.

Interview Your Therapist

Before you start sessions with a therapist, it's important to make sure he or she meets your needs. If you're not comfortable with the person, you're unlikely to benefit from the therapy. So, schedule a call or a video chat to get a feel for each other, and to ask about the therapist's training, years in practice, specialties, therapy techniques and fee. Ideally the therapist you choose will be a good personality fit for you and will be within your budget and/or covered by your insurance.

Owls roll over Tigers, remain undefeated

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Oscoda varsity football team has been rolling through its opponents so far this season, and last Friday night was no different. The Alcona varsity football team fell to the 11th ranked Owls, 62-0 in North Star League action at home.

"I thought our guys played really well at times," said head coach Jason Somers. "Again, I was very proud of our effort and think that we have improved as the year has gone on."

"We are still adjusting to the more wide-open sets and the blocking schemes that go with that, but overall, I thought we played okay." Somers said of the offense. "We had some opportunities that got by us and we found some things that we could take advantage of. The positive that came out of this game was that our players played to their best for four quarters, which has been a struggle at times this season. I was happy with their effort."

Stephenson finished four-had seven tackles while Bill Jones had five tackles and recovered a fumble.

Alcona (0-5 overall, 0-2 NSL) heads to Roscommon (1-4) on Friday, Oct. 23 to wrap up the regular season. The Bucks, who Alcona defeated 44-34 last year, are coming off a 55-12 loss to Evart last week.

"They play in a tough league and have played many games where the scores have been tight, we will need to be at our best to come out with a victory," Somers said. "A win and some momentum

The Owls wasted no time, racking up four touchdowns in the opening quarter to take a 32-0 lead. Oscoda pushed its lead to 38-0 at the half and tacked on three touchdowns in the second half.

"They have a lot of skilled players that are fast and elusive," Somers said of the Owls. "I think their overall team speed is their greatest attribute."

Oscoda hasn't allowed a point in its five games so far this season, although Alcona came as close as anyone. In the second quarter, facing a fourth-and-goal from the 23-yard line, quarterback Zach Stephenson tossed a pass over the middle. Gavin Walker tracked it down, but was tackled just shy of the end zone, at the one-yard line.

of-12 passing for 33 yards and one interception, completing all four passes to Walker. Stephenson also had 10 yards rushing.

On defense, Chris Barnes

would go a long way as we enter the playoff run. We'll take it one game at a time, prepare as we should and let the chips fall where they may."

The Alcona cross country team competed in its final two meets of the regular season last week. The Tigers wrapped up the year on Saturday, Oct. 17 at Ogema Heights for the Northern Lower Peninsula Invitational.

The lone runner in the boys race for the Tigers was Carter Upper. He placed 18th overall with a time of 20:21.

On the girls side, Sara Decker and Karen Sharboneau competed. They were 17th and 22nd with times of 23:36 and 24:49.

On Tuesday, Oct. 13 the Tigers competed at the Hale Invitational.

Upper was once again the lone runner for the boys; he came in 10th overall and ran a time of 21:12.

The Lady Tigers had Decker place on a time of 23:38, Sharboneau was 10th at 24:14 and Janae Kierzek was 26th on a time of 32:16.

Alcona runs in a division four pre-regional meet on Saturday at Inland Lakes.

"We will be working hard this week to prepare for pre-regionals," said head coach Tammy Nelson.

Lady Tigers top Hillman on Senior Night

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity volleyball team hosted Hillman on Senior Night last Thursday. The Lady Tigers won the North Star League crossover battle in four sets, 25-11, 13-25, 25-16 and 25-14.

“Senior Night is a special evening,” said head coach Kristi Miller. “We have six very committed and hard working seniors that have been a huge part of our program for many years. It is always fun to reflect on their volleyball careers and what they brought to our program. Throughout the game they stepped up in all areas to fight for the win. We must continue motivating each other as we work to accomplish our goals.”

Rachel Layton had a big night, getting 21 kills. Arianna Realis had four aces, three blocks and 73 assists. Lily Bilbey had 12 digs.

On Tuesday, Oct. 13 the Lady Tigers played another NSL crossover contest at Hale. They needed five sets to win this one, 25-15, 26-24, 24-26, 17-25 and 16-14.

“It was a battle throughout the entire game,” Miller said. “Hale really stepped up their defense and made us work for every point. The girls responded and it was a great team effort to come up with the win.”

Leading the way in this contest was Layton with 18 kills. Lily Bilbey had 17 kills and three blocks. Caroline Forsythe had 24 digs. Ashlyn Gordy served up five aces and Realis had 119 assists.

Alcona was at Rogers City on Tuesday and heads to Au Gres on Thursday, Oct. 22.

into the water as part of the removal process would be picked up by his crew.

In a matter of minutes, three men from the refurbishing company had several of the finger piers free from the main docks. “This job is going easier than we thought,” Griffin said last week.

Harbormaster Tiffany Wilson explained once the docks are removed, the company installing the new docks will look over everything and make sure it is safe and secure for winter. The new docks are expected to be installed before boating season begins next summer.

Weber said he was delighted and surprised funds for the grants got released as soon as they did because he had heard other harbors were not as fortunate and were still waiting to hear when their grant monies would be available.

Phase five will complete the final phase for the restoration project, which has been ongoing for the last four years with each phase costing approximately $500,000.

Workers float a finger dock from the harbor to the DNR boat launch.

Richard Tracy, state historian and local trustee for the American legion designed and built two pair of custom cornhole boards which he donated to the Mikado Legion for future cornhole tournaments. Patriotic bags were also donated by Elida McKee of the auxiliary. Courtesy photo.

Could work-from-home movement drive northern Michigan economy?

By Jasmine Hall
Capital News Service

Grand Traverse is among the top 10 Michigan counties in high average income, low unemployment and a low percentage of the population below the poverty line.

The county's median income in 2019 was around $65,000 — almost $6,000 more than the median income for the entire state, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

And the work-from-home movement caused by the COVID-19 pandemic could build on that economic success, according to experts.

"If their job is remote, they want to be here," said Warren Call, the chief executive officer and president of Traverse Connect, a private economic development organization for the Grand Traverse area.

In just 2020, the county's population increased by 1,000, according to the census bureau. In 2019 alone, Grand Traverse's average income increased by more than $7,000, according to the Census Bureau. That was double the average income increase in Michigan in 2019.

The differences are even more stark between Grand Traverse and other northern counties. Baraga, Arenac and Kalkaska counties experienced declines in their median incomes, according to the Census Bureau. Kalkaska County, which already registered less in median income than 60 other counties in Michigan, declined by almost $2,500.

The 20 counties with the lowest average incomes as well as some of the highest unemployment rates are all northern counties. A significant portion of the residents in those counties make under $40,000 annually, and around 20 percent of the population in northern counties of Roscommon or Gogebic make under $20,000, according to census statistics.

Grand Traverse County makes almost double the income of around 15 percent of Michigan — and more than 30 percent of northern Michigan. This is because it used the special natural and cultural resources northern Michigan has to offer, Call said.

Grand Traverse is not an island though, and northern economic developers see how the northern communities around them are struggling — and need support. He said he believes there is an opportunity for other northern counties, especially because of the unique situation COVID-19 brought in 2020.

The need for remote work, the attraction of a rural area with a high quality of life and a desire for natural resources are all reasons to go north, he said.

Traverse Connect, a non-profit partner of the Grand Traverse Economic Development Corp., is focused on regional economic development for counties surrounding the Grand Traverse area and regional economic commerce. It provides northern counties with public policy advocacy on the local, state and federal level and talent attraction. It also focuses on fostering the growth of businesses that don't fall into the start-up category, but need support to gain success.

Talent attraction is where the most opportunity is for northern counties during the pandemic, Call said. Since the pandemic started, more people have moved up north because they can work remotely and escape the urban environment.

Other counties in northern Michigan should begin to market their quality of life for permanent residency — which is different from tourist attraction. There should be a focus on "quality jobs that have a living wage" and diversify the economy, Call said. "We see an opportunity to further grow into the types of jobs that can be done from anywhere," he said.

Creative Coast is a recent initiative to expand on the idea. It is geared towards "enhancing a creative economy" — whether that's from software development, the fine arts or music production. It's not just necessary for remote work, said Don Grimes, a University of Michigan regional economic specialist.

Northern Michigan counties need to invest in attracting companies focused on informational technology services, app development and creative entrepreneurs.

Grimes said there is clear economic distress in the smaller, northern rural communities and so they need to move away from an economic structure that relies on a small-scale hospitality industry and the manufacturing industry.

There needs to be a re-evaluation of how smaller communities build their economy, Grimes said. The most successful economies currently are impacted by high educational attainment and economic diversification that attracts information technology.

Economic development corporations and nonprofit organizations such as Traverse Connect are trying to replicate these successes in their own communities. "In a weird way, this pandemic supports these economies better, because they can design their attractiveness around people who want to move out of urban areas," Grimes said.

Miss Candice Cuyler homecoming queen

October 22, 1970 ~ Homecoming festivities were the scene Friday, October 16, at Alcona High School. It began with an assembly at 2:00 p.m. in the gymnasium. Scott Edwards, President of Student Council, opened the program and presented the Homecoming Court of Honor.

The 9th grade princess was Miss Linda Rivera and her escort was Mike Goddard. The 10th grade princess was Miss Barbara Nosko, with her escort Daryl Kauffman. The 11th grade princess was Miss Sue Paradise. Her escort was Carl Ellinger. The Senior candidates for queen were Miss Candice Cuyler, and her escort David Somers, Miss Ava DeJarlais, and her escort Gary Anderson, Miss Joanne Kruttlin and her escort Keith Nedo, and Miss Lynn Schroeder, and her escort Kim Thompson.

Speeches were given by Head Coach Gary Sonnenberg and Assistant Coaches Gail Perkins and Roger Baumgardner. Following their speeches was the announcement of the Homecoming Queen for this year. Our queen was Miss Candice Cuyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cuyler of Harrisville. Her father was there to officially escort her to her throne. The Queen and her court were given gifts as a token of our appreciation.

A pep rally and bonfire followed outside at the rear of the parking lot.

Prior to the game at 7:00 p.m. the Senior Class honored the graduating class of 1961 at a coffee hour.

At halftime during the Whitemore-Prescott and Alcona game, the Homecoming festivities continued. The presentation of floats came first. The Senior Class won first prize for its float entitled "World Peace".

Following the floats were the Queen and her Court. The highlight of it was when the 1961 Homecoming Queen, Carol Cook, crowned Candy Cuyler as our new reigning queen. To add to this our fantastic team won its first homecoming game in the history of our school!!! The "Reign" played at the dance afterwards.

T. A. Ferris & Son Sawmill

Brothers James Ferris, of Oscoda, and T. A. Ferris and his son, G. C. Ferris, both of Lincoln, started the sawmill. It was in operation from 1908 to 1936. T. A. Ferris came to the area in 1887 with a portable sawmill. From 1908 to 1910 the mill building was built, and machinery installed including a steam boiler and stationary engine. The machines included sawmill equipment, planer and matcher and sticker for running moulding and a resaw. Besides this equipment, there was wood shingle making in a separate room in the mill. Shingles were made from native white cedar, virgin growth.

Three generations of the Ferris Family worked in the mill; T. A. Ferris, G. C. Ferris and Leonard Ferris. They dealt in retail and wholesale lumber and other wood products.
