Fire destroys Harrisville residence, injures two occupants

By Cheryl Peterson
Editor

Harrisville fire fighters and deputies from the Alcona County Sheriff's Department responding to a structure fire on east Clark Road in Harrisville on Friday morning found a fully engulfed residence and three adults escaping from the fire.

According to Alcona Deputy Robert Clink, he and deputies Leonard Franklin, Roger Klukowski, Brian Allen and Logan Bewley transported three individuals to a waiting ambulance while firefighters began battling the fire around 8 a.m.

"They were coming out of the house when we arrived," Clink said.

Owners of the residence, Larry and MaryAnn Brozowski, were transported by Alcona EMS to MidMichigan Health in Alpena and later taken to Hurley Medical Center in Flint, Mich. for serious injuries. The third adult is unidentified and was not treated for injuries. Two dogs perished in the fire.

According to Harrisville Fire Chief Dan Klukowski, when he arrived the house was fully engulfed and heavy, black smoke was rolling from the structure. "This was a fast burning fire," Klukowski said.

Considering the size and speed of the fire, no injuries to fire fighters were reported and "it was a well-run containment operation and collaborative effort with mutual aid provided by Lincoln, Greenbush and Mikado fire departments, according to Klukowski.

Firefighters cleared the scene at approximately noon. The cause of the fire has not been determined. The fire is being investigated by the Alcona County Sheriff's Department fire investigator.

A GoFundMe site has also been instituted for the Brozowskis. Family Heritage Baptist Church is collecting donations for the couple with every dollar going directly to the Brozowski's needs. Checks with a memo for the Brozowski family can be made payable to the church and sent to 4260 M-72 Harrisville, Mich. 48740.

County EDC receives $80,000 federal grant

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The Alcona County Economic Development Committee (EDC) was recently awarded an $80,000 grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA).

According to Doug Cheek, Alcona County EDC chairperson, the funds will be used to hire a contractor to extensively map the county for Internet access and assist with a connectivity plan and roll-out strategy for all points of the county.

"Every inch of road will be chronicled, they will (physically) drive up and down the roads of the county and map every (Internet) provider's infrastructure, whether laid down or hung. It will be mapped accurately and granularly and will be 100 percent accurate for the county. We need to know where every provider serves and if the services are cellular, broadband, or cable," Cheek said.

Along with the mapping study, the contractor will also give the EDC guidance on the best solutions for every household and business to receive Internet with consideration of the topography, infrastructure in place, or what needs to be installed.

"This will help us immensely to figure out the amalgam of solutions we will need. Not everyone will be able to get hard-wire services," Cheek said.

Cellular service in the area is also very important. "Right now, since 5G has hit, anyone with a 4G phone is seeing a decline in service. It's not constant, I can normally get four bars at my house, but if I go to one end of it, I can only get one bar.

"The (providers) are running into a problem right now. The 5G is fast and capable of lots of data, but if a lot of people are accessing 5G and it is taxing the system they will knock them down to 4G. When that happens, it puts stress on the 4G network. Cellular service has to be part of the solution," Cheek said.

He explained the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) used to recognize an area that had good connectivity based on if one household in a census block had some kind of Internet connectivity they figured all the houses there had it. They also based connectivity at very low unusable speeds.

Things are changing though, according to Cheek, because recently the FCC has opened a public portal for people to go directly to the FCC site and give their broadband experiences. "They are beginning to understand that providers were not giving them accurate information. The good news about this in Alcona County is that with this (mapping) study, we will be way ahead of them. This will give them the data they are looking for," Cheek said.

The process to obtain the grant started last year when the EDC began working hand in hand with the Northeast Michigan Council of Governments (NEMCOG). He explained NEMCOG understood the nuances such as the proper language that would win the recognition of the U.S. Economic Development Administration.

"NEMCOG had never done a broadband strategy type grant before. We combined our expertise on the technical side with their expertise in putting U.S. EDA grants together," Cheek said.

NEMCOG made the grant possible when it was able to supply the 20 percent matching funds necessary for the grant to be awarded. NEMCOG paid the matching funds by offering the U.S. EDA in-kind services with a relatable vertical asset study it had already performed in the county combined with the labor to get that done.

"It made it possible for the grant to be awarded without costing our county a dime. One of the things that make obtaining grants so hard in depressed northern Michigan counties is the lack of funds to cover the match," Cheek said.

The EDC was very grateful to NEMCOG for its assistance and to the EDA for recognizing the importance of the project.

The EDC expects contractors to submit their proposals by April 15 and they will be reviewing the grants on a scoring system. Cheek said, "Choosing the right contractor will be driven by the outcome, what we have in our hands when they complete the job."

Obituary

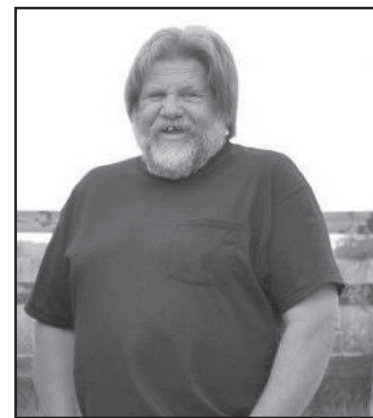

James L. Dellar

James Lee Dellar, 64, of Harrisville, died on Sunday, March 28, 2021.

He was born October 9, 1956 to Howard and Iva (Healy) Dellar.

He loved spending time with his wife, Cora, (his partner in life for 42 years), his family and friends. He enjoyed a good cup of coffee and conversation every morning at the kitchen table. He also enjoyed the sound of a running semi, a good turnout at an auction, sunny days with no wind, a job well done and playing with his grandkids.

Mr. Dellar is survived by his wife, Cora; two sons, Zachary (Lisa) Dellar and Kyle (Suzette) Dellar; two grandchildren, Zoey Dellar and Alexander Dellar; one brother, Howard (Marilyn) Dellar; and one sister, Rita (Brian) Bennett.

He was preceded in death by his parents, one brother, Lawrence Dellar and several loving dogs.

Cremation arrangements were made through Gillies Funeral Home, Lincoln. Memorial services will be announced at a later date.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor,

Regarding the plans for the complex planned in Lincoln, I understand that the government is to pay for it with grants.

I really don't think residents of Alcona County need more tennis courts, weight rooms, carpentry rooms, exercise rooms, etc. They don't use what is available to them now.

When it comes to the upkeep and maintenance who is going to pay for heat, lights, water, insurance, landscaping, etc.? The taxpayers?

When are the citizens going to be able to let their feelings be known for such things? Shouldn't the people have a voice in this venture, or is it just up to those planning it, leaving us seniors to pay for it with higher taxes?

A lot of people that own property by the lakes, etc. are those that have second homes and no homestead (exemptions). Do you really think they are going to pay more taxes for all this? I don't think so.

The people need to be included, involved and informed well before ground is broken. Put out some questionnaires, have some publicized meetings, etc. with taxpayers included to voice their opinions before going ahead and thinking we all will just go along with it, because most of us won't.

Perhaps more time should be spent on improving the meals - congregate and home delivered. I think more people would be interested in that.

People need to speak up and be heard because this is going to begin without any of your input and your taxes will be raised to maintain this nonsense.

Speak up. Voice your opinions before it's too late. You deserve to be heard and have input on this situation - this is your county.

Find Big Trees

ReLeaf Michigan, the only statewide nonprofit tree planting and education organization in Michigan, has launched its 15th biennial Michigan Big Tree Hunt contest. The contest, which offers prizes for identifying the biggest trees in Michigan, is open to participants of all ages.

The largest trees in the state can be found anywhere: a backyard, a local park, or a hiking trail. Certificates and prizes are awarded for the largest tree submitted from each county, for the overall largest tree in different age groups, and for potential state champion trees. Even if the tree submitted is not as large as the currently listed state champion of that species, it's important to still submit, since the current champion may have died or since been removed.

ReLeaf Michigan started the Michigan Big Tree Hunt in 1993 to celebrate the state's beauty and create a fun way to gather information about Michigan's biggest trees. The contest is an opportunity for all age groups to help track these vital historical living landmarks.

The contest is also a way to discover eligible trees for the National Register of Big Trees, which is updated every spring and fall by American Forests. American Forests tracks "Champion Trees," which are the biggest tree of their species reported to American Forests in a given year. As recently as 2012, Michigan had 23 registered champion trees, but today there is only one registered. Since there are hundreds of tree species that don't yet have registered champions, the Big Tree Hunt is a great opportunity to add to this list and get Michigan trees noticed nationwide.

More contest details and the entry form are available online at bigtreehunt.com. The contest will accept submissions until the deadline of August 19, 2022. This deadline was extended one additional year due to the impact of COVID-19. For questions not answered on the website, email bigtreehunt@releafmichigan.org or call (800) 642-7353.

ReLeaf Michigan's Big Tree Hunt contest is possible thanks to the support of its sponsors. The Premiere Sponsor of this year's contest is Nissan. Other sponsors include Consumers Energy Foundation, the Michigan Botanical Foundation, the Michigan Botanical Club, and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources – Urban and Community Forestry Program.

St. Ignace takes Lady Tigers out of regionals

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

Fresh off its District title, the Alcona girls varsity basketball team took on St. Ignace in a Division III regional semifinal game on Monday, March 29. The Lady Tigers started off well, but ultimately couldn't keep up with host Lady Saints. Their season ended with an 80-24 loss.

"Our girls fought hard against St. Ignace, but their defensive pressure was just unlike anything we had seen before," said head coach Mark Feldhiser. "It is very difficult to prepare for something like that, especially on short notice. I will say that our girls never quit, even though we were outmatched. I think we learned some things, and can apply that when we get another opportunity."

Alcona scored the first five points of the contest but St. Ignace closed the opening frame on a 28-9 run to lead 28-14 after one. That lead jumped to 61-15 at the half and it was 69-18 entering the fourth quarter.

"We were able to put up 14 in the first quarter, but their press wore us down and they got a lot of easy buckets," Feldhiser said. "They put the game away in the second quarter; once a team like that gets rolling, it is nearly impossible to turn it around."

Leading the team in the setback was Kelsey Hansen with seven points and Lily Bilbey added six. Alcona finished the season 12-5.

"Overall, a good season, all things considered, it was, obviously, a very strange season," Feldhiser said. "The way it started, stopped, and started very quickly, led to not many practices and a lot of games. We had some injuries, and were missing different players for a lot of our games, but that is the way it goes. We always had players step up and get the job done. We were close in every game we lost, other than the last one."

"We will miss all of our seniors and the leadership they provided. This has been great group; they have always stuck together no matter what."

Feldhiser is hoping that things will return to a bit of normalcy when next winter rolls around.

"I am already looking forward to and planning for next season," Feldhiser said. "Hopefully, we will be able to have a normal schedule for summer basketball; that will help us figure out what we might look like next season. Even though we are losing a whole bunch of talent and experience, we still bring back three good players with varsity experience."

"I was encouraged by what we saw from a couple of the freshmen in district play, and there are other good additions from the JV (team) that will need to contribute next year. We will be very young, but I am looking forward to another good team," he said.

EDC gives quarterly report

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

The Alcona County Economic Development Committee (EDC) recently gave its quarterly report to county commissioners during the last board meeting.

Doug Cheek, EDC committee chairperson, went into detail with the commissioners on EDC plans to use an $80,000 grant from the U.S. Economic Development Authority. The funds will allow the EDC to have an accurate map and strategic plan to bring Internet to every corner of the county. (See article page one)

"Our concern is trying to reach the unreachable. These people are not on Facebook and they can't Zoom. We want to be able to connect with that segment of the county's population as we proceed. We need to educate the public and desensitize those who are untrusting of connections such as this."

"There are many residents in the county who are underserved or not served at all. We have to figure out the best way to reach them," Cheek said. He thought by mail and/or town-hall meetings would help and told commissioners the EDC is willing to work with as many community groups as it can to see if they can create a symbiotic relationship.

Cheek also brought a nomination for a new EDC committee member. They group was asking to have Jordan Weichel officially join the EDC. Cheek explained Weichel is a talented asset to the EDC with a computer background. Also, he grew up in Alcona County and knows the challenges the county faces with Internet connectivity and economic development. The commissioners, who govern the EDC, approved Weichel to sit on the EDC.

The EDC is still seeking qualified members to join the efforts, particularly anyone with marketing, treasurer, and/or computer Internet background, according to Cheek.

He that without a person or persons who meet those requirements, they have recently reached out to Target Alpena to provide the expertise the EDC needs. "If we use Target Alpena we would have to pay a fee, but, in the long run, it might be well worth the cost. It would allow us to move quickly if we need to," Cheek said.

He said Presque Isle (County) has a similar relationship with Target Alpena which seems to be working well and that Target Alpena was extremely interested in helping Alcona County too.

During the report Cheek also mentioned that the State of Michigan has recently created a portal for a Dig Once program. Dig Once allows utility providers of electric, gas, fiber optic and others to work in conjunction with road crews already tearing up the road.

"The road on US-23 is going to be under construction for two months with a big hole out there. Why open a

If you love sport fishing and are in your 40s and 50s you'll have a good understanding of all the changes the Great Lakes have endured the last 40 plus years.

Because we live on the shore of Lake Huron let's focus on the changes out our backdoor.

When I was a child, my dad would take my brother, Rick, and I smelt dipping every April. We'd start across from the Red Rooster. The next stop was at Springport, then on to Harrisville Harbor, Sturgeon Point, Black River and then to Devil's River in an attempt to find those tasty little morsels. It was exciting; the anticipation of being able to stay up way past our bedtime and travel the shoreline after dark was quite an adventure for a kid. I'm not sure how old I was when I started going, but we shared in that adventure for many years.

We'd hear so many stories. Dad told us about netting smelt out of Hubbard Lake or from the ditches of Black River. As kids we weren't the best at staying dry but you learned quickly how much colder it was once you were wet. While dad had waders, we started with hip boots. Those darn smelt were out in the lake so you could just barely reach them without going over the top of them. The problem was the slightest wave would pour some 40 degree water down them and oh, was that cold!

Until we experienced success, our initial excitement often subsided quickly, because, as we all know, kids lack patience. Anyone who hunts or fishes knows that once you've experienced success it's much easier to stay focused. I'm certain we complained to dad about being cold or tired, but then we'd stop and someone dipping was getting smelt. We'd run back to the truck, get ready, and we couldn't get into the water quick enough. Often times the next challenge was finding a place to dip.

As hard as it is to believe, the shores of Lake Huron on those late night excursions in April were busy, because practically everyone was out trying to get some smelt for dinner. As a result, often times trying to find a spot to wade out and fish was a challenge, especially where the dippers were getting smelt. For whatever reason at times when they first showed up they might only be in a small spot in the lake, or a small section of the creek.

As I said, smelt mostly ran well after dark and in April they often didn't show up along the shoreline or in the creeks until around 10 p.m. Often, as the night wore on, more and more fish showed up and pretty soon the water was literally full of smelt. I've seen occasions where, in a single dip, anglers could barely lift their net out of the water because it was half or completely filled with smelt.

As I started fishing with my buddies I learned quickly that cleaning a couple gallons of smelt was quite an endeavor. Back in those days a lot of people were asked the morning following a successful trip if anyone wanted smelt. The well known follow up question was, "Are they cleaned?" Because back then everyone knew how much work it was to clean them.

For those of you who've never cleaned smelt, it's not that they are difficult to clean. In fact, cleaning a smelt can be completed in seconds, but when you have a five gallon bucket full of smelt with a thousand or more, it takes a long time. As kids we developed an assembly line, using scissors, one would cut the head, someone else would slit the belly and the third person removed the entrails with their finger. Rinse them off and you were done. Fry them up they were delicious

I bet few people in their 30s have even heard of or seen anyone smelt dipping. Why am I telling you about this historic spring activity? Because there's a change taking place in the Great Lakes -- smelt are coming back. Not only are smelt coming back, but perch, shad, shiners, and alewives are as well.

I'm not bringing this to your attention because you'll be able to go out and get the smelt like we used to, at least not just yet. However, you might get some smelt if you go out at the right time in the right place. I'm telling you this because it's important the same mistakes aren't made again.

Naturally, some naysayers will say that the crash of the smelt and perch populations is our fault. I'm here to say hogwash. When I was a kid, I remember going charter perch fishing off the Charity Islands. I also remember many years of millions of alewives along the shoreline, then after spawning the stench of the millions of carcasses washing up on and stinking up the beach.

Then they all disappeared, why? Simply put, man decided to mess with Mother Nature. The state's fishery department embarked on an annual program to plant millions of salmon and trout in the Great Lakes.

What they failed to realize was the forage base couldn't support the voracious appetites the additional burden placed on the ecosystem. For a while everyone who could afford a big water boat was fishing salmon and trout. As time went on these fish weren't getting as big as they once had. At about the same time it became harder and harder to find smelt. The perch charters in the Charities went out of business because the perch had practically disappeared. Last but not least, the alewives disappeared as well. This happened because the state's biologist lost sight of the ripple effect of their actions.

I'm not bringing this up to be negative, rather to ask everyone to contact and remind the state's fishery biologists how past policies destroyed Lake Huron's ecosystem.

I enjoy fishing trout and salmon as much as anyone and realize, at times, planting some might be necessary. We need to remind them that there are tens of thousands of anglers who enjoy smelt and perch fishing and don't want these fisheries destroyed with the sole focus being on trout and salmon. Additionally, without the burden of over planting, the fish we catch won't be starving and skinny. As long as the perch, smelt, shiner, shad, and alewife populations thrive so will the size of the fish we catch increase.

I know of many anglers this past winter that enjoyed tremendous catches of both smelt and perch through the ice. Anglers all around Saginaw Bay were catching limit catches of nine to 16 inch perch in four to seven feet of water. I found out that anglers were also catching over 100 smelt a night through the ice in early March. Fishermen sitting in shanties looking through their holes observed large schools of smelt, perch, shad, and shiners. Guys fishing perch on the bay said the perch were stacked up all the way from just below the ice to the bottom and getting a limit didn't take long at all.

Another gauge of the forage base is the walleye population. Twenty years ago Saginaw Bay and Thunder Bay out of Alpena were both well known for 10 pound walleye, now it's rare to catch one that big. However, under the current conditions I believe over the next several years you'll be hearing of bigger and bigger walleye, trout, and salmon.

Because of poor management strategies in the past, seeing anglers lined up at Squaw Bay south of Alpena fishing perch in the summer or thousands of anglers traveling the shoreline of Lake Huron each spring looking for smelt are a memory. These same scenarios have disappeared across the state. Generations of fishing traditions have been lost as a result.

Our fishery should be managed for all anglers, not just salmon and trout fishermen. Who knows maybe once again you'll be able to go to a sporting goods store and find a smelt net for sale or see anglers along Squaw bay...

South Shore Fire Department receives funding for rescue craft

South Shore Hubbard Lake Fire Department received grant funding from Meijer late last year to purchase A Rapid Deployment Craft (RDC). This piece of equipment, sometimes referred to as a "Banana Boat," is a leading-edge tool in ice and water rescue operations. Basically, an RDC is a 15-foot inflatable rescue boat that fits in a suitcase sized bag. It weighs 50 pounds, is highly portable and is easy to deploy quickly. The boat fully inflates in less than two minutes using the bottles from the fire department's air packs and provides a stable and safe platform from which to conduct rescue operations.

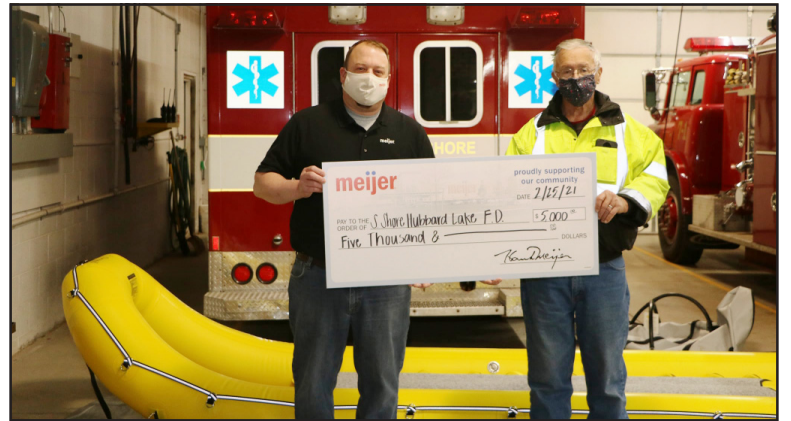

South Shore Fire Department Board Vice President Carolyn Mass spearheaded the grant effort which resulted in Warren Richter, manager of the Alpena Meijer store presenting South Shore Fire Departments Chief, Carl Smith with a check in February.

The rescue boat was immediately operationalized and put into service by the fire department. South Shore Fire Department can bring this piece of equipment to any incident in the county via mutual aid agreements with other departments in and around Alcona County. It works closely with all the fire departments in Alcona County to support each other and share special skills and tools.

The South Shore Fire Department appreciates Meijer for its generosity and assistance in bringing this tool and capability to Alcona County.

On February 21, members of South Shore Fire Department, Hubbard Lake Fire Department and Alcona Township Fire Department held a joint Ice Rescue Training session on Hubbard Lake to determine the best practices for using the RDC and to familiarize all three departments with its use. Courtesy photos.

Providers call for expansion of telehealth services

By Chloe Trofatter
Capital News Service

Between February and April last year, primary care telehealth visits in Michigan jumped over 59 percent, according to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

“Telehealth, of course, is important during the COVID-19 crisis,” said Dennis Litos, the CEO of the Michigan Primary Care Association, an advocacy group for 44 health centers that provide for underserved communities. These centers range in location from Houghton Lake and Traverse City to Mount Pleasant and Detroit.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services implemented emergency COVID-19 policies allowing offices to be paid for telehealth care and services to patients through video conferencing. These policies also allow voice-to-voice care over the phone. That made care more accessible for rural and poor communities where video equipment and Internet services aren’t as readily available, Litos said.

Telehealth allows primary care facilities to maintain basic care of their patients, as well as to expand more in-depth care for behavioral health and addiction treatment during the pandemic, he said.

The Primary Care Association-affiliated facilities, for example, use medication-assisted treatment for substance abuse and addiction, but it requires monitoring. Telehealth makes such treatments possible while preventing unnecessary direct coronavirus exposure between patients and medical staff.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, telehealth benefits providers and their employees in many ways. For example, some staff no longer have to risk working in medical facilities and can instead work from home — reducing their exposure and the need for already-scarce personal protection equipment.

Patients seem to like telehealth services too, according to a national survey from Press Ganey, a health care consulting firm based in South Bend, Indiana. The May 2020 survey found that patients were more highly satisfied with their services and the attentiveness of their provider when in a telehealth visit rather than an in-person appointment.

“We want them to keep it a part of standard practice going forward,” Litos said. “These services could be beneficial during a typical flu season,” he added. “They have proven to be more convenient and could be productive for chronic patients who need regular care but are not noticing significant changes in their condition.”

The expansion of telehealth services was a result of the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security Act, or CARES, passed in March 2020. To extend or maintain these services further legislation must be passed, ac-ording to the American Hospital Association.

In January, a bipartisan group of U.S. representatives reintroduced a bill to permanently allow telehealth services. Bills to do the same were introduced in Congress last year but failed to pass.

The legislation would allow the U.S. secretary of Health and Human Services to permanently waive telehealth restrictions from the Social Security Act.

Telehealth benefits communities because it expands access to quality health care regardless of location, according to the National Library of Medicine, it also saves time and money for patients and their providers.

How to search for senior discounts in 2021

Dear Savvy Senior,
I just turned 60 and would like to find out the best way to go about locating senior discounts.

Looking to Save

Dear Looking,
One of the best, yet under-utilized perks of growing older in the United States is the many discounts that are available to older adults.

There are literally thousands of discounts on a wide variety of products and services including restaurants, grocery stores, travel and lodging, entertainment, retail and apparel, health and beauty, automotive services and much more. These discounts – typically ranging between five and 25 percent off – can add up to save you hundreds of dollars each year.

So, if you don't mind admitting your age, here are some tips and tools to help you find the discounts you may be eligible for.

The first thing to know is that most businesses don't advertise them, but many give senior discounts just for the asking, so don't be shy.

You also need to know that while some discounts are available as soon as you turn 50, most don't kick in until you turn 55, 60, 62 or 65.

Search Online

Because senior discounts frequently change and can vary depending on where you live and the time of the year, the Internet is the easiest way to locate them.

A good place to start is at TheSeniorList.com (click on the "Senior Discounts" tab), which provides a large list of discounts in categories, i.e., restaurant dining, grocery stores, retail stores, prescription medications, travel discounts and more.

You can also search for discounts by provider. Go to a search engine like Google and Yahoo and type in the business or organization you're curious about, followed by "senior discount" or "senior discount tickets."

If you use a smartphone, there are also apps you can use like the "Senior Discounts & Coupons" app (available on the App Store and Google Play), which categorizes discounts by age and type.

Join a Club

Another good avenue to senior discounts is through membership organizations like AARP, which offers its members age 50 and older a wide variety of discounts through affiliate businesses (see AARPdiscounts.com).

If, however, you don't like or agree with AARP, there are other organizations you can join that also provide discounts like the American Seniors Association (AmericanSeniors.org), the American Automobile Association (AAA.com), or for retired federal workers, the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association (NARFE.org).

Types of Discounts

Here's an abbreviated run-down of some of the different types of discounts you can expect to find.

- Restaurants: Senior discounts are common at restaurants and fast-food establishments – like Applebee's, Arby's, Burger King, Chili's, Denny's and IHOP – ranging from free/discounted drinks, to discounts off your total.

Savvy Senior

- Retailers: Many thrift stores like Goodwill and Salvation Army, and certain retailers like TJ Maxx, Banana Republic, Kohl's, Michaels, Ross and Walgreens stores offer a break to seniors on certain days of the week.

- Grocery stores: Many locally owned grocery stores offer senior discount programs, as do some chains like BI-LO, Piggly-Wiggly, Fry's Food Stores, New Seasons, Fred Meyer, and Hy-Vee, which offer discounts on certain days of the week, but they vary by location.

- Travel: American, United and Southwest Airlines provide limited senior fares in the U.S. to passengers 65 and older, while British Airlines offers AARP members discounts of up to $200. Amtrak provides a 15 percent discount to travelers over 62. Most car rental companies give discounts to 50-plus customers or those who belong to organizations like AARP. Royal Caribbean, Norwegian, Celebrity and Carnival cruise lines offer discount rates to cruisers 55 and over. And, most hotels offer senior discounts, usually ranging from 10 to 20 percent.

- Entertainment: Most movie theaters, museums, golf courses, ski slopes and other public entertainment venues provide reduced admission to seniors over 60 or 65. And the National Park Service offers a lifetime senior pass for those 62 and older for $80 (see nps.gov/planyourvisit/passes.htm).

piece of ground twice? This allows providers a chance to get whatever they need installed while the road is still torn up," Cheek told the commissioners.

He said the EDC jumped on the Dig Once program and asked Tom Stephenson of Connect Michigan to get with Mercury Electric who was recently awarded a grant to build infrastructure in northern Michigan and apply to install lines while the road was under construction. "Even if it is just for two-and-a-half-mile stretch, that's that much less road they will have to tear up putting conduit in the ground to fill with fiber," Cheek said.

The EDC board has also attended a Zoom meeting of the Oscoda Wurtsmith Airport Authority and is interested in what is coming to the airport. "There is some very exciting stuff going on there with it being a future horizontal satellite site. We want to be a part of those plans," Cheek said.

Adam Brege, Alcona County Commission Chairperson, commended the Alcona County EDC on the outstanding work it has done so far and asked them to keep a close eye on the American Rescue Plan Act because it may include infrastructure funding for Internet connectivity.

The Alcona County Commissioners meet on the first and second Wednesday of the month at 1:30 p.m. A Zoom link to the meeting is posted on the Alcona County website at alconacountymi.com.

Thirty to fifteen years for Glennie bank robbers

Stiff Sentences Given by Judge Widdis at April Term.

April 7, 1921 ~ Not more than thirty nor less than fifteen, with a recommendation of 22½ years in the state's prison at Jackson was the sentence given Joseph Quarters and Harry Clark, confessed bank robbers, by Judge Widdis Tuesday at the opening of the April term of court. Harold Conklin was sentenced to from seven to fifteen years in the Detroit House of Correction, with recommendation of seven years, for a like offense.

All the defendants plead guilty as charged. The crime for which Clark and Quarters were sentenced was the attempted robbery of the Glennie Bank of McNichol on the evening of December 7, 1920. Readers of the Review are familiar with the details of the crime, which is here briefly reviewed: The two young men left Harrisville in Clark's car in the afternoon of December 7, arriving at Glennie about 5 o'clock. Quarters entered the bank and ordered Cashier Miller to hold his hands. In the shooting that followed both men were severely wounded. Clark, who waited outside the bank, met his wounded partner at the door and rushed him to Oscoda where Quarters caught the train and went to his home in Tawas. The following day Quarters confessed to Prosecutor Dehnke, implicating Clark, who had driven to Harrisville after placing Quarters on the train at Oscoda. Clark was arrested the day following the crime.

Quarters is 27 years old and Clark 20. In sentencing Quarters the court said he could give him a stiff sentence but that he took into consideration his wounds and the suffering he had endured, and also that he made no attempt to blame anybody but himself for his plight. Attempting to draw from the prisoner the reason for his departure from the path of virtue, Quarters said he did not know.

When Clark was asked to plead he said he did not know whether he was guilty as charged in the information read by the prosecutor. He was represented in court by Attorney Dafoe and the court and attorneys retired with the prisoner for consultation.

Upon their return to the court room Clark plead guilty. Questioned by his attorney he said he went with Quarters to rob the bank because the latter threatened to inform the officers of his (Clark's) part in the robbery of Fuqua's drug store.

Quarters when questioned said this was the first he had ever heard of such a thing. Asked what led him to enter on his career of crime, Clark said he did not know. Sentence was then passed. Clark also plead guilty to robbing this same bank on August 22, but sentence was not passed for this.

The crime to which Harold Conklin plead guilty was committed on August 22, 1920, when Clark, Quarters and Conklin robbed the Glennie Bank of $1,650. Asked to tell the court something about the crime, Conklin said they left Harrisville Sunday afternoon August 22. There had been a ball game here that day and he said he was intoxicated by whiskey brought here by the Tawas ball team.

At Glennie he acted as sentinel while Clark and Quarters went into the bank. The latter waited until Cashier Miller and his wife returned from church, when they compelled Miller to open the safe, then locked them in an upper room. The three arrived back in Harrisville about 10:30 and divided the money, about $550 each, at Quarters' barber shop.

Neither Quarters nor Conklin could tell how they spent this money. Conklin said he spent his foolishly and could find only one item of any amount, that of about $40 spent for a gun.

The three prisoners were taken away Wednesday morning, in charge of Sheriff A. J. Freer and deputies A. W. Hayden and Fred Freer.

In deferring sentence on Forest Conklin who plead guilty to breaking and entering in the night time. Judge Widdis cautioned the boy in no uncertain terms. He was advised to obey his parents, to work or go to school and especially to keep out of the pool room and pay back the money he took from Fuqua's store. "It pains your parents to see you here. You are only a youth and the only person who can help you is yourself."

I can give you 15 years for this crime, but what you will get will be determined by your future conduct."

The boy is under bond to appear at the September term of court, when he is directed to pay the costs of the case with money earned by himself.

Harrisville takes two

April 7, 1921 ~ Harrisville took both games from Lincoln Thursday night at Lincoln in the second of the basketball championship series.

The Hi Y's won by 11-4, deciding the contest between the junior teams.

The Harrisville Independents got back at Lincoln Independents—bringing in the bacon by a 11-9 score. The result ties up the record as between the two senior teams.

This is said to be the first game lost by Lincoln on their home floor and they put up a desperate scrap to maintain that record.

County suffers heavy loss by forest fire Tuesday

April 4, 1946 ~ The year's first and heaviest forest fire raged in the western part of the county during the season's strongest wind storm here Tuesday.

Fire at the south-end of Hubbard Lake in section 13, was probably the worst one in Alcona County. Fire fighters from all neighboring counties were called in action early in the afternoon, and it was near midnight when it was brought under control. About 600 acres was burned over.

At Glennie some alarm was felt for that community, when fire north west near McKinley got out of control.

A saw mill burned. Three families were driven from their homes, and taken to Mio in Oscoda County, for safety. All available State and National Forest equipment were called into action in this fire. One of the several fires in this section was started by a high powered line being broken and fell to the ground, causing the fire.

A fire was reported south of Cedar Lake, on the county line road, burning over several hundred acres of timber.

Alcona County has had little rain this spring and the condition of the woods is dangerous for any kind of fire. Conservation officers have warned cottage owners and residents that a permit MUST be secured from that department before any burning whatever is done.

To present annual spring concert

April 8, 1971 ~ The Department of Music, Alcona Community High School, will present its annual Spring Concert on Thursday evening April 15 in the Alcona High School Gym.

This years Concert will feature in addition to the 75 piece Alcona High School Concert Band, an Art Show of works of High School Art Students under the guidance of Mr. Gary Etzler, Art Instructor; exhibitions of drawings by the Drafting Department, Mr. Donald McLean, Instructor: a preview of this years High School Play, "The Mouse That Roared" which is directed by Miss Philys Monroe and will be presented in its entirety in May, as well as selected piano and vocal solos.

The program is admission free and will begin promptly at 8:00.

Moments In Time

By The History Channel

- On April 5, 1614, Pocahontas, daughter of the chief of the Powhatan Indian confederacy, marries English tobacco planter John Rolfe in Jamestown, Virginia. The marriage ensured peace between the settlers and the Powhatan Indians for several years.
 - On April 9, 1865, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrenders his 28,000 troops to Union Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, effectively ending the American Civil War. The two generals met in the parlor of the Wilmer McLean home at 1 p.m. Grant arrived in his muddy field uniform, while Lee turned out in full dress attire, complete with sash and sword.
 - On April 10, 1906, O. Henry's second short story collection, "The Four Million," is published. It includes one of his most beloved stories, "The Gift of the Magi," about a poor but devoted couple who each sacrifice their most valuable possession to buy a gift for the other.
 - On April 6, 1968, Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey" debuts in theaters. The film went on to win an Oscar for Best Visual Effects. Today it is regarded as one of the defining films of the 20th century.
 - On April 7, 1970, legendary actor John Wayne wins his first -- and only -- acting Academy Award, for "True Grit." Wayne played a drunken, foul-tempered but endearing U.S. marshal named Rooster Cogburn.
 - On April 11, 1988, actress and singer Cher collects the Academy Award for Best Actress for her performance in "Moonstruck" (1988). Cherilyn Sarkasian first became famous as the taller, female half of the 1960s singing duo Sonny and Cher.
 - On April 8, 1990, "Who killed Laura Palmer?" was the question on everyone's mind when David Lynch's surreal TV drama "Twin Peaks" premiered on ABC. The body of the blonde homecoming queen was found washed up on shore wrapped in plastic in the show's opening episode.

Strange But True

By Lucie Winborne

- One dung beetle can drag 1,141 times its own weight.
- Italian banker Gilberto Baschiera was a modern-day Robin Hood. Over a period of seven years, he secretly diverted 1 million euros from wealthy clients to poorer ones so they could qualify for loans. He made no profit from these dealings and avoided jail in 2018 with a plea bargain.
- In 2006, a Coca-Cola employee offered to sell Coca-Cola secrets to Pepsi. Pepsi took the high road and responded by notifying Coca-Cola.
- Ever wonder why there's no period in "Dr Pepper"? It was removed because the old logo font made it look like "Di: Pepper."
- Wildlife technician Richard Thomas took the famous tongue twister, "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood?" and calculated a rough estimate of the actual answer. It came out to around 700 pounds!
- For years your dentist has no doubt advised you to be sure to floss. But the benefits extend beyond your teeth. Researchers have discovered that flossing can also help your memory. It prevents gum disease, which prevents stiff blood vessels, which in turn cause memory issues.
- The future Queen Elizabeth II's wedding dress was entirely paid for with ration coupons.
- Red Solo cups have not only been honored in a song by country singer Toby Keith, they're a common souvenir to bring back from the U.S. The novelty comes from their appearance in numerous movie party scenes.
- American children are given an average of $3.70 per lost tooth.
- To properly write adjectives in order, list them by amount, value, size, temperature, age, shape, color, origin and material.

Department of Homeland Security Federal Emergency Management Agency Proposed Flood Hazard Determinations for Alcona County, Michigan (All Jurisdictions)

The Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency has issued a preliminary Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM), and where applicable, Flood Insurance Study (FIS) report, reflecting proposed flood hazard determinations within Alcona County, Michigan (all jurisdictions). These flood hazard determinations may include the addition or modification of base flood elevations, base flood depths, special flood hazard area boundaries or zone designations, or the regulatory floodway.

Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed flood hazard determinations shown on the preliminary FIRM and/or FIS report for Alcona County, Michigan (all jurisdictions). These flood hazard determinations are the basis for the floodplain management measures that your community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program. However, before these determinations are effective for floodplain management purposes, you will be provided an opportunity to appeal the proposed information.

For information on the statutory 90-day period provided for appeals, as well as a complete listing of the communities affected and the locations where copies of the FIRM are available for review, please visit FEMA's website at https://www.floodmaps.fema.gov/fhm/BFE_Status/bfe_main.asp, or call the FEMA Mapping and Insurance eXchange (FMIX) toll free at 1-877-FEMA MAP (1-877-336-2627). 3-31, 4-7
