District selects athletic director with experience in coaching

By Mary Weber Staff Writer

A lifelong love of sports and raising seven active children has given the new athletic director and student services support coordinator of Alcona Community Schools a unique skill set for success.

Joy Bullis began her new career just a few weeks ago and is already taking on the duties with excitement and vigor.

So far, according to Bullis, things have been easy. She worked with outgoing athletic director, Chad Cole, before he left for a new career as an account executive with TV6 in Marquette, Mich., at the end of March. She is working closely with Patti Byce, a paraprofessional and athletic coordinator, before Byce rethe school district in June.

Bullis said raising her three biological boys and having guardianship of four boys more through the Alcona County-based Chosen Ranch has helped a lot in keeping her active, efficient and able to multi-task with ease, something both job titles require.

She and her husband, Michigan State Police Sergeant Jamie Bullis, have three boys living at home, one biological and two guardianships. All three are sophomores attending Alcona High School.

Dan O'Connor, Superintendent of Alcona Community Schools, said Bullis joined the Alcona family with over a dozen years in athletics. "She's extremely organized and energetic and we tires from a long career with are thrilled to have her supporting athletics," he said.

As the athletic director, Bullis will oversee all varsity, junior varsity and middle school sports associated with the school district. "I make sure we have officials for home games, plan transportation to away games, manage the coaches and make everything goes smoothly. The job is not as chaotic as it sounds. It could be, but having raised boys and being athletic myself, I'm comfortable with all the sports and have either played them or have been actively involved with every sport the school participates in.

Bullis said one of her biggest challenges will be making sure they have the right officials in place. "I get a little stressed about that, but, throughout basketball and wrestling season, I knew most of the officials because they were people out of Alpena. Either I've coached their kids, or they were officials in Alpena, so I feel comfortable with them.

"I've been around the block enough over the last 15 years in this area to know the people I'm working with," she said.

She explained there is some adjustment in going from a Division-1 school to a Division-4 school because she isn't as familiar with the smaller schools Alcona competes with. "Everyone is friendly and helpful though, so I don't think it will be a problem," she said.

Bullis is thinking about Alcona school district's sports future too and said she would like for the whole community to see how hard the youth work to achieve their sporting goals. She wants to raise

Low water levels enhance shoreline shipwreck viewing

By Jim DuFresne

Capital News Service

Some trails break out of the woods at a lake. Some climb a dune to a sweeping

And many lead to a shipwreck with a story on a beach.

This summer could be excellent for shoreline shipwreck viewing as the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers predicts that the water level of lakes Michigan and Huron could be almost two feet below the record highs set in 2020.

Michigan's maritime history is not limited to old lighthouses or restored lifesaving stations.

The state is blessed with accessible shipwrecks that don't require an air tank or a wetsuit to view - only a pair of hiking boots, a paddle or a snorkel and mask.

The heart of shipwreck territory is Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore, but there are others, including a wreck in Thompson's Harbor State Park in Presque Isle County and more off the shore of the Upper Peninsula's Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

Michigan's shoreline wrecks are constantly evolving, depending on wave action, shifting sand and Great Lake water levels.

High and dry for easy viewing this summer will be one of Michigan's newest exposed wrecks, the Jennie and Annie.

The 137-foot schooner, built in 1863, was rounding Sleeping Bear Point in November 1872 when gale-force winds pushed it into the shallows and reefs of Lake Michigan's notorious Manitou Passage. The ship, its 10member crew and a cargo of corn were driven aground nine miles south near Empire. Only three crew members survived.

For the past two summers, a substantial piece of the hull has been visible on a Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lake-shore beach.

Here is a landlubber's guide to other great Michigan ship-

Healthy Living Series

A free Healthy Living Webinar Series via Zoom, hosted by Region 9 Area Agency on Aging, will be held on the third Friday of each month from 1 to 2 p.m.

The series schedule:

- April 22 -- Healthy Cooking and Nutrition: Mindful eating is maintaining an awareness of the food and drink consumed by an individual. This webinar will discuss helpful tips and tricks to making healthier choices such as eating well and being active.
- May 20 -- Living with Diabetes: Whether currently living with, newly diagnosed, or caregiving for someone with diabetes, this webinar will provide participants with practical tips. Learn how diabetes affects the body and what can be done to manage it.
- June 17 -- Healthy Living for your Brain and Body: This webinar will use research and science to provide insight into nutrition, exercise, cognitive activity, and social engagement, and use hands-on tools to help incorporate these tips into a plan for healthy aging.
- July 15 -- Fall Prevention: Falls are a major threat to independent living; however, falls are not an inevitable part of aging. This webinar will provide an overview of the importance of fall prevention and offer strategies to improve mobility and prevent falls.

- Aug 19 -- Living with Chronic Pain: Pain is a challenge faced by many people living with chronic diseases. It has an impact on a person's physical, psychological, and emotional health. Discover alternative options to medication for managing chronic pain.
- September 16 -- Managing Stress and Mental Health: Adults are expected to manage families, jobs, financial situation, and many other stressors, while dealing with their own stress and anxiety at the same time. This webinar will focus on managing stress during this unprecedented time.

American Life in Poetry

By Ted Kooser

U.S. Poet Laureate, 2004-2006

That sage curse, "May you live in interesting times," has been upon us for the past few years, but here a Kentucky poet, Jonathan Greene, offers us some reassurance that there is order in the world. Greene has a special talent for, and love of, short poems, and this is a good example of his work. This poem is from his most recent book, "Afloat," published by Broadstone Books.

The Return By Jonathan Greene

We are heartened when each year the barn swallows return. They find their old nests, teach their young to fly, lining up on the barn roof for their first flight.

They remind us, for now, some rituals of this good earth continue.

American Life in Poetry is made possible by The Poetry Foundation (www.poetryfoundation.org), publisher of Poetry magazine. It is also supported by the Department of English at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Common heart problem often ignored, when to expect Social Security checks

Dear Savvy Senior,

What can you tell me about atrial fibrillation? Every so often, I've noticed my heart starts beating rapidly for no particular reason. Is this something I should be worried about?

Anxious Annie

Dear Anxious,

Heart palpitations can be harmless if they are brief and infrequent. But if you're experiencing an erratic heart rhythm, you need to get checked out by a doctor for atrial fibrillation, or AFib.

AFib – which is marked by rapid, fluttering beats - can lead to serious complications such as stroke and heart failure, when the weakened heart can't pump enough blood to the rest of the body.

Normally, your heartbeat follows a steady rhythm as your heart contracts and relaxes. But when you have AFib, the upper chambers of your heart (atria) beat rapidly and irregularly, sending blood to the lower chambers (ventricles) less efficiently. These episodes can last for minutes to hours or longer, and can cause palpitations, lightheadedness, fatigue, and/or shortness of breath. Over time, AFib tends to become chronic.

Age is a common risk factor for AFib, which affects roughly 10 percent of people older than 75. Other factors include genetics, obesity, diabetes, high blood pressure, and alcohol and tobacco use. The condition has also been linked to viral infections, including COVID-19.

Diagnosing AFib

If you're experiencing AFiblike symptoms you need to see your doctor who will listen to your heart and likely recommend an electrocardiogram (EKG) or a treadmill heart test, or you may wear a portable monitor for several weeks to look for abnormal heart rhythms to confirm a diagnosis of AFib. Such tests can help distinguish AFib from less serious conditions that may cause the heart to flutter, like anxiety and stress.

AFib affects some three million adults in the United States, a number that is expected to quadruple in the coming decade as the population ages and risk factors like obesity, diabetes and high blood pressure become even more common. The lifetime risk of developing AFib is greater than 20 percent, yet many people don't even know they have it.

Treatment Options

A growing body of research underscores the importance of lifestyle steps such as exercise, a healthy diet, and limiting alcohol for treating AFib.

Depending on your age and symptoms, your doctor may prescribe drugs to help control your heart rate, like beta blockers such as metoprolol (Toprol XL); and/or rhythm, such as antiarrhythmics like flecainide (Tambocor).

You may also need an electrical cardioversion, an outpatient procedure that delivers an electrical shock to the heart to restore a normal rhythm. You will be sedated for this brief procedure and not feel the shocks.

Catheter ablation is another outpatient treatment for AFib that scars a small area of heart tissue that causes irregular heartbeats. This procedure is becoming more common based on evidence of its safety and ability to normalize the heart rhythm and ease symptoms. Ablations can be effective in people 75 and older, but medication may still be required afterward.

If you're at higher risk for stroke, you may be prescribed a blood thinner, too. In the past, Coumadin (warfarin) was the only such drug widely available, but it requires monitoring with regular blood tests. Newer anticoagulants, like apixaban (Eliquis) and rivaroxaban (Xarelto), don't have that requirement and have been shown to be just as effective at preventing strokes.

Dear Savvy Senior,

I am planning to retire and apply for my Social Security benefits in July. When can I expect my first check, and is direct deposit my only option for receiving my monthly payment?

Almost 62

Dear Almost,

Generally, Social Security retirement benefits, as well as disability and survivor benefits, are paid in the month after the month they are due. So, if you want to start receiving your Social Security benefits in July, your July benefits will be distributed in August.

The day of the month you receive your benefit payment, however, will depend on your birthdate. Here's the schedule of when you can expect to receive your monthly check.

If you were born on the:

- First through the 10th: Expect your check to be deposited on the second Wednesday of each month.
- 11th through the 20th: Expect your check to be deposited on the third Wednesday of each month.
- 21st through the 31st: Expect your check to be deposited on the fourth Wednesday of each month.

There are, however, a few exceptions to this schedule. For example, if the day your Social Security check is supposed to be deposited happens to be a holiday, your check will be deposited the previous day. And, if you are receiving both Social Security benefits and SSI payments, your Social Security check will be deposited on the third day of the month.

You should also know that for Social Security beneficiaries who started receiving benefits before 1997, their Social Security checks are paid on the third day of the month.

To get a complete schedule of 2022 payment dates, visit SSA.gov/pubs/EN-05-10031-2022.pdf.

receive your Social Security benefits. Most beneficiaries choose direct deposit into their bank or credit union account because it's simple, safe and secure. But if you don't want this option, or you don't have a bank account that your payments can be deposited into, you can get a Direct Express Debit MasterCard and have your benefits deposited into your card's account. This card can then be used to get cash from ATMs, banks or credit union tellers, pay bills online and over the phone, make purchases at stores or locations that accept Debit MasterCard and get cash back when you make those purchases, and purchase money orders at the U.S. Post Office. The money you spend or withdraw is automatically deducted from your account. And you can by phone, online or at ATMs. There's also no cost to sign up for the card, no monthly fees and no overdraft charges. There are, however, some small fees for optional services you need to be aware of, like multiple ATM withdrawals. Currently, cardholders get one free ATM withdrawal per month, but additional monthly withdrawals cost 85 cents each, not including a surcharge if you use a nonnetwork ATM. To learn more, visit USDirectExpress.com or call (800) 333-1795.

When and How to Apply

The Social Security Administration recommends that you apply for benefits three months before you want to start receiving checks. This will give you enough time to make sure you have all the needed information to complete the application. See SSA.gov/hlp/isba/10/isbachecklist.pdf for a checklist of what you'll need.

Apply for your Social Security benefits online at SSA.gov, by phone at (800-772-1213), or in person at a local Social Security office call first to make an appointment.

Seeing these kids go off to college or get that job because I had faith in them is super-rewarding as a coach. I hope to keep that philosophy rolling and the coaches here seem like-minded. They are excited to coach and I'm excited. We want the kids to be excited about sports and their school too," Bullis said.

studies with an emphasis on juvenile justice in 1998.

"I also ran track at MSU which is how I got started in coaching," she said. She began coaching in 2001 and has coached at four schools including Alcona.

In addition to all her other duties, Bullis is still involved with one of her favorite passions; being on the roller derby court as the Dutch Deeva with the Alpena Shipwreck Alley Rollers, now in its fifth season.

Bullis, who coached the Shipwrecks said some of her coaching time will be lifted as the rollers have gone to a coaching rotation this year utilizing other team members and giving her a bit of a break.

Bullis was excited to announce she is now, as of just last week, a grandmother, with the birth of Presley Joy Sheldon, the new daughter of Robert and Morgan Sheldon. Robert is an Army specialist with the 10th Mountain Division at Fort Drum in New York. He is one of the first boys the Bullis' took guardianship of years

Lady Tigers blast Mio in season opener

By Ben Murphy

Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity softball team had a big offensive night in its season debut on Monday, April 11.

The Lady Tigers, hosting Mio on a North Star League Big Dipper doubleheader, won handily by scores of 19-2 and 30-9

In game one, Alcona trailed 2-0 after the top of the first inning. Starting pitcher Miah Schopfer settled down from there though, blanking Mio the rest of the way and striking out four batters to get the win Gracyn Tracy had an early home run that helped spark the team. Riley Tracy also smacked a home run. Sage Gauthier and Hannah Tanner had key hits early on as well.

Alcona fell behind in game two by eight runs, but rallied to pick up the high-scoring victory.

Riley Tracy started the game pitching and got the win, with Schopfer tossing in relief.

On Thursday, April 14 Alcona lost to visiting Tawas in a pair of non-league games, 18-0 and 24-7.

Schopfer took the loss in game one, while Gauthier led the offense with two hits.

In game two, Gauthier took the loss, but struck out five batters.

The Lady Tigers had nine hits in this contest, led by Avery Wrobel who had three hits. Riley Tracy also had two hits Alcona (2-2 overall, 2-0 NSL Big Dipper) was at Hillman on Monday, April 18; hosts Roscommon on Wednesday, April 20 and AuGres on Thursday. They head to Posen on Monday, April 25.

Alcona baseball sweeps Mio in debut

By Ben Murphy

Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity baseball team opened the season with a pair of home wins on Monday, April 11.

The Tigers topped visiting Mio in North Star League Big Dipper action, with scores 11-6 and 8-3.

Gavin Walker earned the win in game one in relief of starting pitcher Evan Borsvold.

Owen Borsvold had two hits and three RBI. Evan Borsvold had a double and a single. Collin Walker had two hits and two RBI and G. Walker had one hit and scored three runs.

In game two, O. Borsvold pitched a complete game to get the win, striking out seven batters.

G. Walker walked three times and scored three runs. E. Borsvold had one hit. O. Borsvold had a double and Jesse Sheldon had one hit.

On Thursday, April 14, Alcona came up short in a pair of non-league games to visiting Tawas, 17-0 and 15-3.

E. Borsvold took the loss in game one, but he did strike out 10 batters. O. Borsvold, Ricky Schmitt and C. Walker had one hit apiece.

"Game one was a bit rough, but the boys fought hard," said head coach Dru Carsen.

In the nightcap, G. Walker started the game and struck out five batters with Cayden Hebert pitching in relief.

E. Borsvold led the hitting attack for the Tigers.

Turning Prepping your soil soil for the demands of the growing season ahead is key to the success of your garden this year. You want to add in what might be lacking in your soil as your plants begin their growth. If the soil crumbles when you work it around in your hands, then it is ready to till; if it's sticky, it may be too wet. Use a soil testing kit to see what nutrients should be added to your soil, then work the needed amounts into the soil before planting. - Brenda Weaver

Widow helps others through podcast

By Mary Weber

Staff Writer

Battling the blow of losing a spouse can be extremely difficult, but one Alcona County woman is working through her grief by helping others through a weekly pod-

The "We to Just Me" podcast is the creation of Caroll-Lynn Bradley, a 65-year-old widow who moved to Alcona County near the end of 2019.

The podcasts are an ongoing weekly series of how Bradley is handling the grief, loneliness and the daily struggles in rural northern Michigan after losing the love of her life just as the world shut down during a pandemic.

In an introduction before each episode, Bradley tells listeners that her podcasts are meant to be a form of encouragement, not a series of steps and that there is no right or wrong way to grieve. "These are just my stories. Through them I hope people can feel a little less alone, a little stronger, know that they are enough and that every situation is unique.

"I was once a part of something bigger than myself. I was a significant other, a partner and now I am not. The word widow says it all, but I'm determined to make the next 30 years the best years of my life," she stated.

Podcast topics vary and include how important it is for a woman to have the right chainsaw, living alone through a four-day power outage, plumbing woes and sump pumps, making maple syrup, feeding the dog, clearing a mile-long driveway to reach the mailbox and trying to figure out what she would like her next adventure to be.

The 15 to 30-minute podcasts are filled with useful, sometimes humorous, real-life information. Although they are meant to address and empower widows, the advice is pertinent to all who face daily challenges living in northeast Michigan.

Bradley's philosophy, "when life throws you lemons, make the best lemonade possible," is an affirmation that most people are stronger than they think, even when it seems like the world is crashing down around them.

Through her words about how, or how not to slay the next dragon on her long to-do list, Bradley also conveys the message that everyone moves through life and grief at their own pace.

She knows too well that grief catches people without warning, sometimes it is just a consistent gnawing at the back of one's thoughts that someone is missing. Other times it comes bellowing in like a crushing hurricane of ache, disbelief and insecu-

"I thought the first year would be the hardest and it would get easier with time, but this year is just as hard, sometimes even harder. I cry a lot now," she said.

Putting on a brave face while wiping away another fallen tear, Bradley explained her unusual podcast name of CarrollLynn which is a combination of her late husband's and her first name. A comforting way for her to acknowledge and remember he is still a part of her journey.

The couple married in 2000, a second marriage for both. She explained it took him three years to convince her to marry again because her first marriage was not pleasant and stayed in that marriage many years beyond what she should have.

The couple met just after she had gotten her teaching degree. She was a single mom raising four children and running a busy church camp. "I hired him for the summer. The camp had 160 acres with nine buildings and we needed a part-time handyman. He had just retired from being a carpenter and was bored. I never would have dated him, but I saw how he interacted with my kids, the kids at camp and the staff.

"I had never thought of dating at all and when he asked me out for coffee at the end of the summer it surprised me. I just looked at him dumbfounded and said 'okay.' I was flattered.

"He was just a really good person, a good fit for the camp and a good fit for me. It just took me a long time to realize it," Bradley said.

Not only was he the right man for her, but also for her children, the youngest was just 10 when they married. Her children enjoyed his company and grew to love him as their dad for over 20 years. He also became a favorite grandpa to their children, always willing to help, share knowledge and have fun.

Bradley said it was her husband's dream to own property in the northwoods of Michigan and he was very proud of the purchase and move to Alcona County in November of 2019. "He said he felt at home the minute he walked through the door.

"It was perfect for him. We hunted, we fished. There is a creek on the property we pulled trout from; we have apple trees, hundreds of maples. He and my grandson built a workshop in the barn. He never gave up, even when he was sick. He couldn't do the big projects like he used to. The last thing he did was build a toy box for a grandbaby he never got to meet," Bradley said.

Just a few months after the move, her husband, a veteran, got sicker. He succumbed to diseases associated with exposure to agentorange in December of 2020.

Bradley was a teacher downstate for 25 years with a degree in biology, chemistry and math and a master's degree in instructional design and technology. She said one of the reasons they moved to the area was because she was up for a job, that, unfortunately, she didn't get.

"We had to move anyway. The house we sold was my dream home, but it had three sets of stairs and he couldn't get healthy climbing that much. This house is mostly all on one floor. I'd go home, but now there is no home to

County spelling contest won by Lincoln girl

Secures a Prize for Herself and a Pennant for Her School.

The county spelling contest which was held at Harrisville on Friday, April 14, was won by Miss Edith Gallagher, a seventh grade girl from the Lincoln school. She misspelled only one word out of 150 words given, this giving her a credit of 99 1-3%.

Miss Ethel O. Shell of the McDonald school of Caledonia won second place with a credit of 98 2-3%. Third place was won by Miss Sadie Balmer of the Pine River school in Mikado with a credit of 97 1-3%. Fourth and fifth places were won by Miss Grace Goddard of the Alvin school and Miss Violet E. Healy of the Curtisville school,, their credits being 96 2-3% and 96% respectively.

Eleven of the eighteen contestants received credits above 90%. The contest would

Thomas awarded 4-Her of the Year

April 16, 1997 ~ 4 H'er of the Year Award was presented to Chris Thomas last Thursday.

This award is presented to honor any member who has become a skilled, productive and self-directing individual.

Must have acquired lifeskills that are essential for an individual to become an active responsible citizen. This award is only given once to any one member.

Thomas, 17, and a senior at Alcona High School, is the son of Les and Toni Thomas of Spruce. Chris started in 4-H when he was six years old by getting involved in the BMX club with a few of his friends.

He is also a member of clowning, 10X rifle, and Karing for Kids. He moved on to livestock clubs as the Boyat's Pig Club, Spruce Variety and his dad's game bird club.

He was also a member of the Sticky Fingers Pottery Club for eight years. Chris has held club office and was a teen leader for four years.

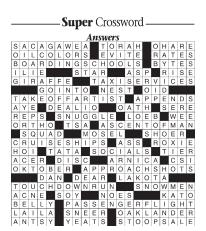

Chris and his brother, Matt, have hosted Poland exchange youth through 4-H, and in the summer of 1996 spent one month in Poland. Both are excited that they have been chosen again to host a Polish youth this summer

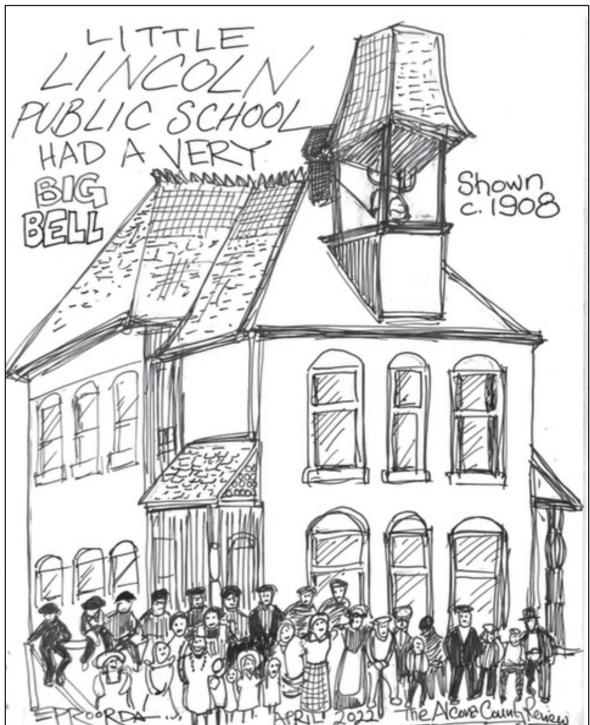

"Through growing up in 4-H clubs, they almost became another family. I learned responsibility and caring through this organization as well as leadership and how to use my skills the best way I know how," Chris said.

have been participated in by several schools but owing to the poor condition of the roads it was impossible for their representatives to attend.

The schools made a fine showing and may justly feel proud of the same. None of the contestants need feel any dishonor in not winning; a noble effort was put forth by all and they are entitled to a place in the front ranks of good spellers anywhere.

A pennant bearing the inscription, "Winner of Alcona County Spelling Contest, 1921-'22," has been presented to the Lincoln school by Commissioner Emerick, while Miss Gallagher receives a fountain pen as evidence of her ability to spell.

Moments In Time By The History Channel

- On April 20, 1841, Edgar Allan Poe's story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," first appears in print. The tale, generally considered to be the first detective story, describes the methods used to solve a series of murders.
- On April 22, 1889, at precisely high noon, 50,000 to 60,000 would-be settlers make a mad dash into the newly opened Oklahoma Territory to claim cheap land. Towns like Norman and Oklahoma City sprang up almost overnight.
- On April 18, 1906, in San Francisco, an earthquake registering 8.0 kills 3,000 people as 30,000 buildings are destroyed. Two days later, 20,000 refugees trapped by a massive fire were evacuated from the foot of Van Ness Avenue onto the USS Chicago.

• On April 21, 1930, a fire at an Ohio prison kills 320 inmates, some of whom burn to death when they are not unlocked from their cells. The prison, built to hold 1,500 people, had 4,300 prisoners.

• On April 23, 1945, two weeks after taking over as U.S. president, Harry Truman gives a tongue-lashing to Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov. Truman was determined to take a tougher postwar stance with the Soviets than his late predecessor, Franklin Roosevelt, had. Molotov, indignant, stormed out of the meeting with Truman.

 On April 24, 1953, Winston Churchill, the British leader who guided Great Britain and the Allies through the crisis of World War II, is knighted by Queen Elizabeth II. He would win the Nobel Prize in literature later that same year.

• On April 19, 1993, near Waco, Texas, after a 51-day siege, the FBI launches a teargas assault on the compound of Branch Davidian leader David Koresh and his disciples as part of an investigation into illegal possession of firearms and explosives. The compound at Mount Carmel was burned to the ground, and some 80 Branch Davidians, including 22 children, died in the inferno.

Strange But True By Lucie Winborne

- A honey badger named Stoffel, resident of a wildlife center in South Africa, was noted not just for repeated escapes from his enclosure, but his stubborn penchant for pursuing much larger animals than himself. After ending up in the clinic after attacking two lions, upon his release, he immediately broke free to attack them again!
- The novelty song "Monster Mash" by Bobby Pickett was banned by the BBC for over a decade on the grounds it was
- · Sorry, Honey Nut Cheerios fans, your cereal doesn't contain any nuts. While ground almonds used to be included, since 2006 just "natural almond flavor" has been used, and that is typically derived from apricot and peach pits.
- An estimated 5% of the population has never experienced a headache.
- Who needs Red Bull? In the early 1900s, distance runners were given champagne, brandy or even strychnine (rat poison) as a type of "energy drink" during long races.
- Robert Pirsig's "Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance" holds the world record for being the most-often rejected book to later become a bestseller, with a whopping 121 refusals before a publisher finally agreed to buy it.
- On the moon, the Earth doesn't appear to rise or set, just wobble a bit.
- A Ukrainian couple tried to save their failing relationship by handcuffing themselves together. They lasted about four months before throwing in the towel for good.
- Studies have shown that removing lead from gasoline was a factor leading to the decline of violent crime in 1990s America. Individuals exposed to lead at young ages have numerous conditions and problems with impulse control, all of which may negatively impact their decisions as they reach adulthood.

the Straits of Mackinac. When the steamship was raised 125 feet two years later, it was the deepest salvage ever attempted in the Great Lakes up to that time.

After being rebuilt in Cleveland, Ohio, the ship returned to service as a stream barge, only to finally meet its end on November 4, 1873, during a storm with blinding snow.

It was hauling flour and corn when it ran aground on a sand bar just off Green Point Dunes Nature Preserve in Benzie County. The raging surf quickly broke the hull, and the crew abandoned ship.

The ship's remains are west of the preserve's beach access stairway, 150 to 200 feet from shore, depending on water levels. It's angled in seven to eight feet of water, with its stern buried in the sand bar and its bow occasionally less than four feet below the lake's surface. It's easy snorkeling, and visitors can see the outline of the bow in clear water from the preserve's second observation deck.

• James McBride: Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore is a graveyard for another steamer and sank in shipwrecks, including this 121-foot brig built in 1848 and lost in October 1857. A November storm in 2014 washed up a 43-foot-long section of the James McBride, making it the largest shipwreck ever to appear on the park's shoreline.

> • Francisco Morazan: On November 27, 1960, this Liberian freighter left Chicago, Ill. bound for Holland, Mich. with 940 tons of cargo, a crew of 13, its captain and his preg-

The next day, the ship ran into 40-mile-per-hour winds, snow and fog that made for a virtual whiteout.

The captain thought he was rounding Beaver Island, more than 100 miles away, when he ran aground on the south side of South Manitou Island.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter and helicopter rescued the 15 people, but left the wreck behind to be forever battered by Lake Michigan. Today it's the most popular destination for campers on the island. The wreck is also popular with kayakers who bring their boats over on the ferry.

• American Union: This 186-foot, three-masted schooner was one of the largest sailing ships to work the Great Lakes when launched in 1862. Its size ultimately led to its demise when it encountered a fatal storm in 1894 that grounded it at Thompson's Harbor State Park, northwest of Alpena. The crew was saved, and today the wreckage rests a quarter-mile from shore in 10 feet of crystal-clear Lake Huron

The remains of the hull offer viewing opportunities for snorkelers and kayakers.

• AuSable Reef Wrecks: From Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore's Hurricane River Campground, visitors can head east on the Lakeshore Trail and pass several wrecks, then end up at the AuSable Light Station built to protect the ships.

The first wreck, the Mary

Jarecki, lies just outside the campground. The wooden bulk freighter was carrying iron ore and grounded on the AuSable Reef in July 1883. When other boats couldn't tow it off, the ship was left to be battered by Lake Superior.

Its remains are just offshore and are challenging to see if there is a chop on the lake surface. But a hike further down the trail leads to timbers and ironwork from two wrecks half-buried in the

- The first is the Sitka, a wooden freighter that grounded and broke in half in
- The second is the Gale Staples, built in 1881. The wooden freighter was loaded with coal when it beached itself on the sandy reef in 1918.
- America: On June 6, 1928, this tourist ship was loaded with crates of fresh fruit and 48 passengers when it left a resort on Isle Royale National Park's Washington Island and, within a half-mile, struck a reef.

It sank within sight of horrified hotel employees and guests back at the dock. No deaths occurred, but bushels of fresh fruit washed ashore for weeks after the mishap.

Even more unusual, the ship sank in a vertical position, with one end lying less than three feet below the surface of Lake Superior.

Curious visitors can rent a canoe in Windigo and paddle out of Washington Harbor into the North Gap, where a buoy marks the ship's location. Lake Superior is so clear it's amazing how much is visible from a canoe seat.

go home to, this is home now," she said.

After her husband's death, Bradley found employment teaching online and tutoring. She said keeping busy helps to battle the loneliness, but she still misses having friends to go out for a cup of coffee with and just chat.

and working online, it feels like I don't talk to real people. I can go weeks on end without seeing a person. When you are typing in a room by yourself, you can cry and no one knows," she said.

Thinking there must be other widowed women like her in the area, Bradley decided to take her story public on the Internet via the

"I just thought it would be a way to connect and share some insight with others going through a similar experience.

"My husband could do anything and taught me a lot. Some things I already knew from being a single mom. I can do almost anything that needs to be done around here, chop firewood, garden, can. I tap about a dozen Maple trees for syrup and I made Mead last year. Sometimes I get help from my children. I've got a strong teenage grandson who learned a lot from my husband. He helps me when he visits.

"I know my limits though. I called on neighbors to help "Because of the pandemic me get a widow-maker tree down that was falling on the driveway. It was just too big for me to manage," Bradley

> As she leaned back on her cozy floral sofa facing a burning wood stove, her dog wrestling his favorite toy at her feet, she smiled proudly and said, "Sometimes when I complete something I've never tackled before, I'll call my grandson to talk about how I did it. He just says, There you go, Grandma, something else for another one of your podcasts."
