Blue Lakes wildfire at 75 percent containment

The Blue Lakes Fire in the northern Lower Peninsula is, as of Monday, 75 percent contained and estimated at about 2,200 acres, according to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Some closed roads in the fire area also have been reopened, according to Kerry Heckman, DNR fire public information officer.

DNR firefighters and cooperating agencies have been working since Friday, May 13 to contain the fire, which covers portions of Montmorency and Cheboygan counties. It has been determined that the fire originated with a Wednesday lightning strike that smoldered for a few days before spreading into dry fuels, resulting in a wildfire. The fire was reported about 12:40 p.m. Friday.

Heckman explained that containment doesn't necessarily mean the fire is out, but rather that it is unlikely to spread beyond the containment lines. These are areas where firefighters have been able to plow a line down to bare earth (removing all fire fuels) around that portion of the fire.

"There may still be hot spots within the contained area," she said. In the case of the Blue Lakes Fire, the uncontained portion of the fire line is primarily in low, wet areas that are difficult for firefighters to reach. Crews will be working in those areas to connect gaps in the containment line.

Fires are mapped throughout the duration, and acreage is estimated. The 2,200 acres reported on Monday is smaller than Sunday's estimate due to improved mapping with firefighters on the ground using a variety of tools, Heckman said.

"We will be using a drone to do some infrared imaging to identify hot spots within the containment line that need attention," Heckman said.

The Black River is still closed between Blue Lakes Road and Clark Bridge Road until nearby hot spots can be identified and addressed.

DNR crews on the scene Monday included 32 DNR firefighters, two emergency medical technicians and a 13-member incident management team, with law enforcement assistance from two Montmorency County Sheriff's deputies and three DNR conservation officers.

Fire danger remains high in northern Michigan. Due to increased fire risk, the DNR has not conducted prescribed burns and has not been issuing burn permits. Before any open burning, check Michigan.gov/BurnPermit and get fire safety tips at Michigan.gov/PreventWildfires.

Board selects new superintendent

During a special board meeting held on May 10, the Alpena-Montmorency-Alcona Educational Service District Board of Education unanimously selected Justin Gluesing as its new superintendent. Gluesing accepted the position pending successful negotiation of a contract.

Gluesing comes to the AMA from Crawford-AuSable School District where he has served as the superintendent since 2019. Prior to that, he worked for Alpena Public Schools for 15 years. He started his educational career as a teacher in Wisconsin.

"I am excited to join the AMA ESD school family, and with our staff, I look forward to partnering with the member districts to serve the students and families of our communities. The AMA region has a special place in my professional and personal journey, and I am eager to get started", Gluesing said. He will assume duties July 1.

"Our board completed a broad, vigorous and transparent search for the next leader of this educational service district. We had excellent candidates that applied.

Local farmer visits Poland to help Ukrainian refugees

By Mary Weber
Staff Writer

A local farmer said he was on a mission from God when he volunteered to help Ukrainian refugees.

Boyd Byelich, a former resident of Alcona County who still operates his family farm in Harrisville, usually begins each day by reading a devotional.

On most days, he wonders what is meant to become of the devotion and nothing much comes to mind, however, last March he heard the words in his head very clearly. He was to go and help the Ukrainian people.

Byelich watched the atrocities on television that Vladimir Putin, president of Russia, was inflicting on the people of Ukraine in his quest to take over their country. The message in his mind asking him to help the refugees was very loud and clear. "It was so loud, I started looking into it that day," Byelich said.

He began by contacting organizations that were sending aid, like the American Red Cross, UNICEF and others. That didn't work. Although they were more than willing to take his money, they didn't want him as a volunteer.

He reached out personally and professionally to anyone who might have connections in Poland, Hungary, or anywhere close to Ukraine.

Through a friend of a friend of a friend Byelich reached a woman who did the same type of work in Poland that his late father, George, did in Alcona County, directing the Michigan State University Extension.

She found a large organization that was all run with volunteers on the ground. There were about five facilities they were operating, one was a clothing distribution center in Krakow, Poland. Because Byelich only speaks English, they felt it would be a good fit for him.

He got his plane tickets and made motel reservations. Two to three days before leaving he found out the clothing distribution center would be

Muehlbeck's Bavarian Village

By Eric Paul Roorda

Author and Artist

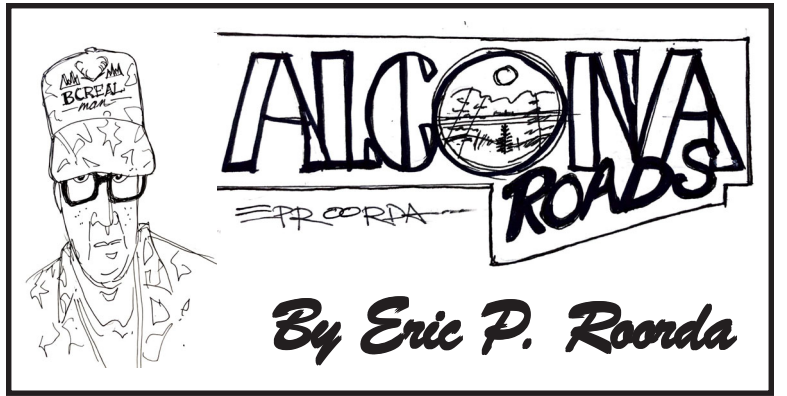

Alfons and Hermine Muehlbeck brought the authentic cuisine of Germany, their homeland, to Alcona County in 1954. They leased the Alcona Beach Dining Room and Cocktail Bar from the founders of Alcona Beach Resort, which had grown to be a cluster of 21 cabins since it opened in 1939.

Renamed Muehlbeck's Bavarian Village, the restaurant featured classic Bavarian fare, with a décor to match. Moreover, the Muehlbecks generated Gemütlichkeit at their Kneipe on the outskirts of Harrisville. Gemütlichkeit is an important German word, really a concept, that means the feeling of being at home while in a public space. Kneipes are the tavern-like spaces that can generate Gemütlichkeit.

Muehlbeck's Bavarian Village's Gemütlichkeit attracted a loyal clientele from Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda, 16 miles south. Many of the airmen stationed there had previously served in Germany, at places like sprawling Ramstein AFB. While living there, they had learned to love German food, and the homey feel of German Kneipe-type eateries. Learning that those could be found at Muehlbeck's, they drove north, and brought their buddies with them. Wurtsmith sent a steady stream of diners to Alcona County for decades.

The Muehlbeck's daughter, Ilona, returned to her hometown to help her parents, and ended up running the place herself. But in 1991, Wurtsmith Air Force Base closed. Challenging years ensued, until, after several name changes, the restaurant closed in 2008.

After a decade of standing vacant, the old Alcona Beach Dining Room/Muehlbeck's Bavarian Village came back to life in 2019 as the Alcona Brew Haus, courtesy of Sandy and Steve Arens. The remodeled, modern restaurant retains all of the best features of its predecessors, like the original fieldstone fireplace from 1939, and an ingenious double-door mural of a Bavarian scene painted in the 1950s, which guests swing open upon entering and exiting.

Last Friday, the Alcona Historical Society gathered at the Alcona Brew Haus to unveil its newest historical marker, to keep alive the memory of the Alcona Beach Dining Room and Muehlbeck's Bavarian Village. Many readers of the Alcona County Review have their own fond recollections of the latter; among mine are going there with my parents, and applying for a bus boy job in 1979. (Being people of discernment, the Muehlbecks sized me up and turned me down, quick!) The Alcona Brew Haus continues the tradition of fine fare established by the previous occupants of the spruced-up building, adding its own distinctive craft beers to the menu, which is a touch that Alfons and Hermine Muehlbeck would appreciate.

(Eric lives in Springport, where his parents put down roots 50 years ago. He was a college history professor for three decades. His books include, "The Ocean Reader" (Duke, 2020), "Twain At Sea" (Chicago, 2018), and "The White Tail Family: A Coloring Book" (R/DC Press, 2021), which is available for $10 at eproorda@gmail.com.)

Specialized moving services help seniors downsize, relocate

Dear Savvy Senior,
Can you recommend any businesses or services that specialize in helping seniors downsize and relocate? I need to find some help moving my mother from her four-bedroom home—where she's lived for nearly 50 years—to an apartment near me.

Overwhelmed Daughter

Dear Overwhelmed,
The process of downsizing and moving to a new home is a big job for anyone, but it can be especially overwhelming for seniors who are moving from a long-time residence filled with decade's worth of stuff and a lifetime of memories. Fortunately, there's a specialized service available today that can help make your mom's move a lot easier for her, and for you.

Senior Move Manager

To help your mom get packed up and moved into her new home, you should consider hiring a "senior move manager." These are trained organizers (they are not moving companies) who assist older people with the challenges of relocating and can minimize the stress of this major transition by doing most of the work for you.

A senior move manager can help your mom pare down her belongings, decide what to take and what to dispose of, recommend charities for donations and help sell her unwanted items. They can even create a customized floor plan of her new home so your mom can visualize where her belongings will fit.

Senior move managers can also get estimates from moving companies, oversee the movers, arrange the move date, supervise the packing and unpacking and help set up her new home, have the house cleaned and just about anything you need related to her move.

If you want to do some of the work yourself, you can pick and choose only the services you want. For example, you may only want a move manager's help with downsizing and selling excess furniture and unwanted belongings but plan on doing the actual packing and moving yourself.

Savvy Senior

The cost of working with a senior move manager will vary depending on where you live, the services you want and size of the move, but you can expect to pay somewhere between $60 and $125 per hour or more, not including the cost of movers.

You can also search at Caring Transitions (Caring-Transitions.com), which is the largest senior relocation and transition services franchised company in the U.S. They currently have nearly 200 franchises throughout the country.

How to Find One

To locate a senior move manager in your area, visit the National Association of Senior Move Managers website at NASMM.org or call (877) 606-2766. The NASMM is a trade association with an accreditation program that requires its members to abide by a strict code of ethics that ensures integrity. They currently have around 1,000 members across the U.S.

But, before you hire one, be sure you ask for references from previous clients and check them, and check with the Better Business Bureau too. Also find out how many moves they have actually managed and get a written list of services and fees. And make sure they're insured and bonded.

If you can't find a senior move manager in your area, another option is to hire a

Tigers drop league games to Hurons, Owls

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity baseball team couldn't get much going in its home games against Rogers City last Thursday.

The visiting Hurons handed the Tigers losses in both contests, 15-5 and 12-2.

"We didn't play baseball like we have in the last couple weeks," said head coach Dru Carson of the North Star League Big Dipper contest.

In game one, Evan Borsvold took the loss, as he went four and one-third innings. Jesse Sheldon pitched two-thirds of an inning in relief.

The offense saw E. Borsvold get two doubles, one single and two RBI. Gavin Walker had a double, single and scored two runs.

In game two, Owen Borsvold took the loss on the mound, with Sheldon, once again, pitching in relief.

Walker had the highlight on offense in this one, with a triple.

gers lost a pair of close games against NSL Big Dipper foe Oscoda, 5-4 and 4-3.

In game one, Gavin Walker pitched well but took the loss, pitching a complete game.

E. Borsvold got two hits and Sheldon roped a double. In game two, O. Borsvold took the loss, tossing the first four innings. E. Borsvold pitched the final two innings and struck out six batters.

G. Walker and Collin Walker had two hits apiece.

Alcona (8-14 overall) hosts Posen on Wednesday, May 18.

Rogers City, Oscoda prevail over Lady Tigers

By Ben Murphy
Sports Writer

The Alcona varsity softball team could not slow down Rogers City, leaders of the North Star League last Thursday.

Home field advantage did not help the Lady Tigers who lost both games of the doubleheader, 13-4 and 22-11.

In game one, Miah Schopfer took the loss as she went six innings and gave up 13 runs, six earned on 12 hits, five strikeouts and three walks.

Sage Gauthier and Baylee Goddard had two hits apiece. Riley Tracy, Hanna Tanner, Avery Wrobel, Hannah Renchenski and Jena Wambold all had one hit each.

"Another tough loss this week," said head coach Chelsea Neuenfeldt. "We were able to keep up until the sixth inning where Rogers City's bats got hot and we made a few mental errors."

In game two, R. Tracy took the loss, with Schopfer tossing in relief and striking out five batters.

R. Tracy had three singles. Wrobel had two hits. Gracyn Tracy had a triple and Gauthier, Schopfer and Goddard had one hit each.

"What a way to end this week," Neuenfeldt said. "We had a rough time with our bats. Started off down and just couldn't climb out of the hole. We made too many errors on defense as well. Although it was a tough loss, the girls talked about where their mistakes were and how to fix it for the next game. They have started talking together more and working as one cohesive team very well."

On Monday, May 9 the Lady Tigers lost two high scoring NSL Big Dipper games at Oscoda, 15-14 and 19-16. Schopfer took the loss in game one, as she went five and one-third innings and struck out six batters and walked four.

R. Tracy had two singles and also reached on two walks. Gauthier and Goddard had two hits each. Wrobel and Tanner had one hit apiece. Renchenski and Schopfer also doubled in the contest.

"We started off down in the first three innings, but we fought back in the next two but ran out of time," Neuenfeldt said. "We had one inning we lost zero-to-four and that cost us the game. They fought hard and it was a tough loss."

In game two, R. Tracy suffered the setback as she went three innings and gave up six earned runs on six hits, one strikeout, five walks and two hit batters. Gauthier pitched in relief and struck out two.

Gauthier had two doubles and a triple. Tanner had two singles. G. Tracy and Renchenski had one hit apiece.

"Another tough loss," Neuenfeldt said. "We had some tough mistakes that the girls will be working on but overall, they are working hard and not giving up. They are a group of girls that want to win and will put in the work each day to get there."

closed for four days because of Easter weekend.

"I was not going to be a tourist, I made plans to work. When I got there, I found out my motel was right next to the building where the clothing center was.

"The building was laid out a lot like the Alpena Mall and at one end was the clothing distribution center, where Kmart used to be and at the other end where JC Penny had a store, they had a make-shift children's play area," Byelich said.

He explained in-between the two ends of the building were cots for 600 Ukrainian refugees, along with bathroom and shower facilities.

In the parking lot of the building, World Central Kitchen had set up a facility to dispense free, hot food.

One of them spoke enough English to be able to translate and Byelich asked them what they did for a living. One was a hairdresser.

"I was wearing a hat and in obvious need of a hair cut so I told her I could use one. She asked me when and I said tomorrow morning. She showed up at 10 a.m. with just a pair of scissors and cut my hair. Best haircut I ever got and all she had was scissors even stuff usually done with clippers. I tried to pay her, but she wouldn't accept it saying I was helping her people and it was what she could do to give back. It was very moving," Byelich said.

Of the four women, two were married and the other two had boyfriends. Their men could not leave Ukraine. They had to stay to fight for their ans are very proud of their president, Volodymyr Zelenskyy, who could have left the country but stayed to defend it.

The women showed Byelich cell phone videos they took of their homes. "The girl who cut my hair was from the north side of Kyiv near Bucha where we saw all the atrocities on television with the bodies lying face down, hands tied. What she showed me was way beyond what we saw on television. What we saw on TV was just a tip of things happening there. Her apartment building was all blown up on one side. The reality of those videos was like I was living it.

"One of the women lived in southern Ukraine by Odessa and showed me a video taken (from) her apartment com-

Byelich walked by and poked his head in asking if they could use help. The man who was running the operation was from Spain but also spoke English.

"They needed help and I showed up to work at 10 a.m. the next morning. They said because I was an American and according to them, Americans love to grill, that's what they put me on. I ran the grills and cooked Kielbasa for four days, 80 at a time. I don't know how many cases of Kielbasa I cooked from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

"I never sat down once. With very few volunteers we were serving 2,000 meals a day. There are about 300,000 Ukrainians in Krakow right now scattered out to other refugee centers, some rented apartments, or were staying in motels. The kitchen was open to anyone who needed a meal," he said.

During that process, he got to meet and become friends with some of the Ukrainian people. Byelich said it was almost all women and children with a few older men and less than 10 young men. Many left Ukraine with just the clothes on their back but some drove their car and brought quite a bit with them.

Byelich met four Ukrainian women around the age of 30.

country. He said the women were very worried about them and teared up talking about them. Yet that worry did not diminish their belief that they would overcome this and take back their country again.

"They told me nobody they knew in Ukraine owned a gun or ever used a gun. They were always worried about that. At the same time, they were so grateful for everything that was being done to help. The Ukrainian people are fiercely defiant, proud, but humble.

"Little kids would sing and dance in the kitchen. They all sang the same song over and over. The chef could understand some Ukrainian and told me it was their victory song. Every child knew that song. The people never said, 'if.' They said 'when' we take our country back and 'when' they go home. They were determined to go back home; they just didn't know when.

"The Ukrainian people held themselves very well and looked good no matter how worried, afraid or tired they may have been. I can't imagine being in a mall with 600 people on cots all trying to sleep with babies crying and everything else going on. They had already endured so much and many I saw were just in survival mode," Byelich said.

He explained that Ukrainiplex and across the courtyard you could see the flashes of light with incoming and outgoing artillery. She said on the first night of the war she counted 280 incoming and outgoing artillery fires. She was just shaking and wondering when it would end.

"I've kept in touch with the one who cut my hair and she did go back to Kyiv but was evacuated again because they said something bad was coming.

Buggy Rides

Was it a "Booze" boat?

May 18, 1922 ~ About 3:30 Friday morning the town was aroused by the prolonged whistling of a boat which seemingly was in distress.

The craft seemed to be aground off Jos. Miller's residence. Not much sea was running and the boat was so close in that voices were heard on board. Mr. Miller called telephone central and the Sturgeon Point coast guard station was notified. By this time the steamer had pulled out into the lake and was speeding southward.

Rumor has it that she was a "booze" boat and ran in here by mistake. 'Tis further said the craft ran to Oscoda, where she was more successful in making a landing.

Edward Schroeder named deputy

May 18, 1972 ~ Edward Schroeder, 44, of Harrisville, has been named by Sheriff Martin Gehres to the full-time deputy position which was vacated the first of this month by the resignation of Tom Stone.

Schroeder has been a part-time deputy for the Alcona Sheriff's Department for eight years. He served in the Armed Forces, one year in Japan, and also served with the Michigan Army National Guard for 13 years.

Schroeder is married and has one son, Karl, at home, and two daughters, Beth and Lynn, who attend Central Michigan University.

Alcona teacher has first book published

May 18, 1997 ~ By Cheryl Peterson

He doesn't really have a name, but his emotions are familiar to young and old alike.

He is a blue whimsical octopus and the character in "Inside Me, Sometimes," a book written and illustrated by Gail Heath of Harrisville.

Heath said her publication is an early concept book written for preschool through second graders. The octopus experiences conflicting emotions and then invites the young reader to identify with those feelings.

Heath, an English teacher at Alcona High School, spent 300 hours doing all of the acrylic illustrations for "Inside Me, Sometimes."

She chose the octopus because she's always been intrigued by water, particularly the ocean. Heath has had the idea for this book for many years - from when she taught kindergarten and first grade.

She said not only children will be able to relate to the book. "We all feel that way," Heath said of the various emotions in her book. "It's OK to feel those emotions."

Heath began her teaching career at Alcona Community Schools in 1969 as an elementary teacher. In 1974 she began teaching in the junior and senior high school.

Heath said she's been writing almost all of her life and for the last 15 years or so, she's been published in various regional and national magazines and newspapers including "Marriage and Family," "English Journal" and "Children's Playmate." She has also been the recipient of the Santa Barbara Writer's Conference Award.

She has submitted another children's book to a publisher and is waiting for a reply.

Heath is also in the process of writing an inspirational biography about her handicapped son.

This book has been in the works for several years and is very difficult to write. Heath said she works on it a little bit at a time and breaks to work on other projects.

"Inside Me, Sometimes," will be released by Ozark Publishing, Inc. in January 1998. Heath has been promoting the book for several weeks.

She is the daughter of Lucille MacDermaid and the late Lt. Col. Harry MacDermaid of Harrisville. She and her husband, John, and their three children, John E., Jason and Sara live on Sturgeon Point.

Spruce postmaster gets four months in prison

May 18, 1922 ~ E. R. Teeple, former postmaster at Spruce, was sentenced in Federal Court, Bay City, Tuesday to serve four months in the Detroit House of Correction.

Teeple was short in his post office accounts about $5,500, which had been all replaced. The court stated he felt it was a case for leniency, the evidence showing carelessness rather than delinquency on the part of the defendant. Under the law the court had no option but a short prison sentence or a fine of the whole amount of the shortage, which Teeple would have been unable to pay. The sentence was the minimum. Teeple was represented by Attorney Herman Dehnke.

Injured in car-tractor accident

May 18, 1972 ~ Robert H. Williams, 60, of Harrisville, was taken to Alpena Hospital by County Ambulance. Wednesday morning, following a car-tractor accident.

"The night we were sitting around and she was showing me videos on her phone she got a text message 'incoming, take cover.' Back home that was what was happening to her people. It was a life-changing experience.

"They all had incredible stories. I won't ever look at life the same. It affected me deeply. I don't think I have shown any emotion in 30 years, but I do now," Byelich said.

When the clothing distribution opened up Byelich said he was afforded a new experience. "I witnessed the amazing generosity of the Polish people. There were mountains of clothing donated, used but in very good shape and all washed.

"Half of the space looked like a large department store with racks of clothing. The Ukrainian people could come and take whatever they wanted with no limit except for underwear, socks and shoes. Underwear, socks and shoes are in the greatest demand and limited to one pair a day because the underwear and socks have to be new, not gently used. Shoes can be used but there is a very limited supply," he said.

According to Byelich, 30 volunteers sorted the clothes, and as the racks diminished volunteers would find another box. On any given day over 1,100 refugees came through the distribution center and 9,000 items of clothing were handed out to refugees each day. Entire rooms filled with clothing would be gone in a day.

"We had a sign-in sheet in the breakroom and each day the volunteers would write down the country they were from. No name, just the country. I don't think there were any less than 20 countries represented on any given day. I met a girl from Egypt and there was a group there from Norway. The fact so many were coming together to help one nation was incredible to me, they were all there on their dime to serve the same purpose.

"There was a harmony amongst those volunteers like no other workplace I have ever been in my life. There was so much positive energy it was addictive. We would leave at night and say we couldn't wait to get back to work tomorrow. Everyone gave what they could, some could only come for a day, some came (for longer) and all came with so much love and compassion.

"I witnessed humanity from all parts of the world. To be a part of that I feel blessed. Even though there was suffering among the Ukrainian people. Being there was such a help to them. The atmosphere was great, like a natural high. I tell people it is something they must experience to understand. The other volunteers and I felt very fortunate to be a part of it. It was the most meaningful two weeks of my life," he said.

Byelich is making plans to return in August.

Plans to Help Refugees

When Byelich left to help Ukrainian refugees, only about six of his friends and family knew he was going. "I believe talk is cheap. I saw other Americans boasting on Facebook they were going. I'm not that way. I was just going to help. It wasn't about me. I felt the same when I came back, but I also came back seeing how great the needs were.

Boyd Byelich said his trip to Krakow Poland to help Ukrainian refugees was life changing.

"Despite the number of donations coming in, the needs were still greater, especially for certain types of clothing and medical supplies. I want to support what they are doing there and realized to do the greatest good, I had to get the word out to others," Byelich said.

With some assistance from his daughter and now having contacts in Poland he trusts, Byelich has formed a Facebook page: One Box for Ukraine. Along with that, he has started a Go Fund Me account. He is asking for donations of gently used items along with a $50 shipping fee or additional funds to send to the Ukrainian people.

"Many, like me, might have thought about doing something to help but didn't trust how their funds would be used. If the donor can supply the $50 for shipping, I can guarantee every penny or a box of goods (over that) donated through One Box for Ukraine will go directly to the cause within two weeks of donation," Byelich said.

For those who are not Internet savvy, they can call Byelich at (307) 286-4807. "If I'm not there, leave a message and I will get back to you. This means a lot," he said.

Byelich when he first mentioned to close friends and family that he wanted to help refugees escape the war Russia began with the Ukrainian people.

He appreciated the offers, but felt it was divine guidance leading his journey and that he had to test the water and scout things out by himself first.

"By doing this on my own I now know people there and how to get around in Krakow, Poland. I have trustworthy contacts now.

"There is a lot of value in doing something like this by yourself. If you have other people in your group with you, then you tend to spend time only with that group. I was able to meet new people from many countries. I integrated with other volunteers, went to dinner with them, laughed with them, and learned about them. They all had the same calling I did. They felt they needed to be there.

Safety Issues

Before going, Byelich did some preliminary checking with an acquaintance who knew someone who was ex-military that helped people navigate in areas under conflict.

"The ex-military man was very candid with me. He said if I did go to Poland there would be a permanent record of it and after I would never be able to travel to Russia because they will know I was there helping the Ukrainian people.

"He said Americans stick out. He told me to bring a second cell phone with a completely different number to use there and to call and check-in with a few people every day around the same time frame, so if I suddenly stopped calling, they would be able to know when my last contact was. That's good advice even if there isn't a world conflict going on," Byelich said.

He also told Byelich to take a thousand dollars in cash and not to spend any of it. "He said to just keep it because if something happens and Putin starts lobbing missiles into Krakow then I may need that money to hire someone to drive me out of the country," Byelich said. He also thought that was good advice and followed it, even though it turned out he never needed the cash.

Communication Aid

A helpful piece of equipment Byelich took with him was a language translator application his children downloaded on his phone, which was very helpful.

"It was surprising how well we all communicated just by pointing and facial expressions. I learned some of the Ukrainian words for different things like potato, vegetables, plate and carton. We also had three Ukrainian teenagers helping in the kitchen. They didn't speak much English, but they could get whatever the people were asking for," Byelich said.
