High school to hold Maple Syrup Celebration Day

By Mary Weber

Staff Writer

Maple syrup — it's sweet, it's sticky and when placed atop a pile of hot, buttered pancakes it evokes memories of leisurely weekend breakfasts with mom and dad sipping coffee while their children, with eager forks in hand, watch as the thick amber liquid slowly makes its way over the stack dripping down to the plate.

To celebrate that memory and show off students' agricultural talents, the Alcona High School Agriscience and FFA classes will once again be holding its annual Maple Syrup Celebration Day.

The event will be held Saturday, March 18 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the school's Sugar Shack where the students make the syrup, bottle and sell it.

Agriscience teacher and FFA advisor, Connor Hubbard, explained the project teaches a lot about agriculture sustainability as well as the responsibility of garnering the sap from healthy trees in a way that will not cause harm to the trees.

Hubbard said that tree tapping doesn't harm the tree if it is done correctly. "The big thing is to make sure to use sanitary equipment and that the tree is not over-tapped. People may worry that tapping harms the trees because many times the trees they see along the roadside are in decline. A lot of those trees are over 200 years old and have reached the maximum spectrum of their lifespan.

"Every year, before a tree is tapped, we evaluate the tree's health to determine if it can handle tapping. If we don't think it can, we remove it from production. This year we had to remove three or four trees from production," he said.

The celebration day includes a free breakfast of pancakes, covered in Alcona FFA syrup, and sausage. This year Kevin Rifenbark donated a hog to the cause and the students will butcher and process it for the breakfast.

Demonstrations and tours will be held during the celebration. Hubbard wants everyone to see the shiny new evaporator and a reverse osmosis machine. He explained the reverse osmosis machine increases the sugar concentration of the sap by 50 percent before it even goes into the evaporator, cutting down the boiling time.

The evaporator, reverse osmosis machine and other new maple syrup equipment were purchased with funding of more than $40,000 through the State of Michigan Career and Technical Trades special equipment funding grant.

All 88 of Hubbard's students have had some hand in the undertaking of Maple Syrup Celebration Day. "Every kid touches the project in one way or another. Students in the advanced agriscience class will be conducting the tours," Hubbard said.

Some small farm animals will be at the event to pet, typically goats are brought in which are always a big hit with everyone.

County signs medical examiner contract despite increase

By Mary Weber

Staff Writer

It's something no one ever wants to think or talk about, but counties across the state and nation are required to have a medical examiner.

"It's necessary and sensitive," commissioner Carolyn Brummund said at the March 1 commissioners board meeting.

Last week Alcona County Board of Commissioners unanimously agreed to sign a five-year contract with the Michigan Institute of Forensic Science Medicine (MIFSM), even though the rate per year is substantially higher than it paid the same company for the last three years.

"We have contracted with MIFSM for the last three years with very good results," commissioner Craig Johnston said.

Brummund explained in March 2020 the county contracted with MIFSM for $18,000 per year, but that was a drastically reduced price and the commissioners were told at that time the cost would go up substantially and it did.

Steven Hiiter

The new contract will increase gradually. This year the cost will increase to $27,000, in 2024 the cost will be $30,000 and in years 2025, 2026 and 2027 the cost will be $35,000 per year.

The jump in price and the thought of paying an increased total of $72,000 over five years, gave commissioners a jolt. Even though the three-year contract with MIFSM expired the day before the meeting, the board felt the need to discuss the costs raise.

The decision wasn't a light one, according to Johnston, but after looking at costs without a contract, on a per-need basis ala carte, it would have been substantially higher.

MIFSM Chief Medical Examiner Investigator Steven Hiiter was at the meeting to explain the cost increase. "Costs have risen across our country. Inflation is up 13 percent. For the past three years, we haven't asked for any increase while still supplying the best service possible and improving our services. We want to continue the best service for the county," Hiiter said.

The improvements include opening their own toxicology company last year to get reports back in the shortest time possible. MIFSM also has two medical examiner forensic pathologists on staff, MIFSM Chief Dr. Roshan Mahabir and MISFSM Deputy Dr. Donald Higgs.

Mahabir joined the team in 2022 and is also board certified in forensic, clinical and pediatric pathology.

Last year chief executive officer of MIFSM, Brian Hart, explained to the board of commissioners there were only about 500 pathologists in the entire country and Michigan has only three in the state who are pediatric pathologists. "Holding the pediatric certification makes him one of the most qualified pathologists in the state," Hart said.

The company also provides fast service by having medical examining investigators (MEI) on staff. MEI are qualified and trained individuals who are usually current or retired police, fire or medical professionals, such as nurses and there are two living in Alcona County to provide service quickly.

Hiiter explained that an autopsy is performed on any unusual deaths, such as the death of a young person or any death the MEI or law enforcement feel is of questionable in nature, but Hiiter said, sometimes the family feels an autopsy is warranted just to give peace of mind, and MIFSM performs those services.

All MIFSM autopsies are performed in Saginaw, Mich. and MIFSM is responsible for transporting the body to Saginaw and back to a funeral home per the family's direc-

Hiiter supplied commissioners with a breakdown of what the past three years would have been without a contract which stated in 2020 (April-December) the MIFSM was called to the county for 28 deaths, six had autopsies which ala carte would have cost $23,700. In 2021 MIFSM had 54 Alcona County deaths with 11 requiring autopsies that would have cost $43,850 and last year MIFSM had 45 deaths with 11 autopsies in the county which would have cost $42,500.

Johnston noted the price breakdown of $2,500 per autopsy, transportation round trip of $300, toxicology report of $300 and investigation of $150 didn't include a medical examiner's report which would have driven the ala carte cost even higher.

The board discussed how before contracting with MIFSM there were serious issues getting death certificates after autopsies and long delays with toxicology reports, however, with MIFSM that

To the Editor,

Even though Mr. Lenny Avery is educated, very hard working, articulate and seemingly a man of integrity, he, by his own words insinuated that the deputy was a racist and claimed he was terrified by the deputy's presence at the special meeting. I do not believe him.

Mr. Avery admitted that the $12.5 million had several "strings attached" and was not all being utilized to build a senior center. On the estimates that I know of, The Alcona County taxpayers would have to basically match the $12.5 million grant to actually build the facilities hasn't happened. The delays caused burial and life insurance payout issues causing nightmare scenarios for grieving families.

After the meeting, Johnston said one of the issues in the county is they don't know how many times the county would be calling for these services and the county goes from 10,000 people this time of year to 25,000 in the summer.

According to Johnston, in vears past the county paid for a medical examiner yearly and for autopsies as they were needed. An autopsy was the big expense, around $2,500, but it wasn't always performed because the state didn't require it. Then (the state) changed that, which meant more autopsies would be necessary," he said.

He explained in 2013 the county paid $19,000; in 2017 the cost was $20,000; and in 2019 the cost was $23,000.

"The board did their due diligence to secure the best price possible for these services. The funeral homes and our county clerk are satisfied with the promptness and follow-ups," Johnston said.

"At the end of the day, it is the required duty of the county to properly investigate and account for the deaths of our citizens and this company has represented Alcona County with respect and dignity to those who have required these services."

Alcona NHS students committed to community

By Mary Weber

Staff Writer

The National Honor Society (NHS) is a nationwide organization for high school students in the United States and its outlying territories, which consists of many chapters in high schools.

Selection is based on four criteria: academic achievement with a minimum grade point average of 3.0, commitment to service, leadership, and good character.

For Alcona High School students, belonging to the NHS means not only achieving good grades but the responsibility of commitment to serve the community, even if that commitment falls on a Sunday.

According to Alcona High School NHS advisor, Sarah Hechlik, NHS students must perform 18 hours of community service. They must also do a group and individual projects.

Hechlik explained some of the community service hours are spent volunteering for the humane society and last year, students hosted an elementary sports day with over 100 elementary students in attendance to teach the youth about different sports they may want to take an interest

Individual projects include don't even apply. I'm hard on tutoring, trail clean-ups, bathroom renovations at the school and can drives.

For their group project, the students have been putting on monthly veteran coffee socials on the first Sunday of the month at the school.

"This is a big commitment for them. Most of these kids take part in other activities such as sports, band, FFA, robotics and all sorts of things throughout the week and then they must come in on a Sunday too. It's hard for a teenager to give up one of their Sundays.

"With the veteran coffee events, they physically see who they are giving to. I saw a few students tear up as some veterans received their Quilts of Valor. The students are understanding the sacrifices veterans have made and they get excited about learning the veteran's stories and are sharing them," Hechlik

She said it cost the NHS about $750 a year to put on the monthly veteran coffee events which cover the cost of coffee, cocoa, sweet treats, whatever may be needed for games and assorted prizes.

Students earned the funds last year by selling T-shirts; Valentine's Day flower sales; working during the Sunrise Side Wine, Brew and Food Festival; and selling food and treats and by personal donations. According to Hechlik, next year the students won't be selling T-shirts because people are getting tired of them.

Michigan's five-alarm fire

By Neil Sheridan

MTA Executive Director

(Editor's note: This article was reprinted with permission from the Michigan Townships Association and appeared first in the February edition of Township Focus magazine. The piece mirrors the challenges volunteer fire departments in Alcona County are facing.)

During a long summer drought 15 years ago, I was looking out my living room window at the dry forest meadow right down the hill from my home. In the blink of an eye, there was suddenly a 400-foot-wide fire marching up the hill toward the house.

A power line had fallen and torched the meadow. Within five minutes, the Groveland Township (Oakland Co.) Fire Department was on the scene with a brushfire truck and had called up a crew for the big pumper. You can bet my appreciation for our welltrained, properly equipped and reliable firefighters took a big leap that day.

Today, Michigan is in deep trouble. Speaking with township leaders, fire chiefs, fire authority managers and others in the last few years makes it clear that there are multiple crises damaging their ability to deliver on a core expectation of our residentsto receive fast, effective and reliable emergency services such as I benefited from that summer day.

We face at least four crucial problems:

• Recruitment. Recruiting volunteer, paid on-call and salaried firefighters and emergency medical technicians is a longtime and on-going challenge.

It's not about paying personnel—it's about finding them. This problem also impacts police officers for townships with police departments. Thirty years ago, young people often volunteered at fire departments or first aid squads to enjoy a bigger social network, feeling more connected in their communities.

Today, we compete with the digital "social networks" as people sit at home (or wherever) thumbs on keyboards instead of standing shoulder to shoulder doing chest compressions, vehicle extrications and building evacua-

• Training. Training needs and both initial and renewal certification requirements are extensive and deter some from joining departments. Longtime firefighter and MTA President Bill Deater pointed out that today's public safety teams have advanced equipment that dramatically improve their effectiveness and their own safety. However, he says, the advanced technology upgrades and frequent mandated updates to procedures also cost department members time and township

• Managing. Funding and equipping public safety, including purchases, operations, maintenance, required upgrades and compliance can be staggering. The days of it being sufficient to have a "firemen's fair" or other fundraiser to get new helmets are over. New fire trucks now cost as much as a new township hall. The cost to stock and run ambulances makes it necessary for some townships to add financial charges onto the burdens of the people they just assisted.

How we can provide the target quality and level of service is an escalating Michigan problem compounded by the poor state of the national economy?

• Retention. There are many competing demands on people's free time and gaining a longtime volunteer commitment is becoming increasingly challenging. Have you looked at the age range of your medical and fire volunteers—the average age shifts higher every year. For keeping paid part- and full-timers, fierce competition among departments is now the norm.

Full-time fire and police are increasingly being recruited away from townships to other municipalities, agencies and other roles. Trying to use contracts to retain them is a weak strategy in this hyperactive labor market.

MTA has formed a Public Safety Advisory Committee of township leaders and experts to inform, advise and support our efforts as we continue to work with our members on these issues. We are reaching out to our peers at their organizations and associations to build a common front.

"It's truly a problem and it's a rarity anymore to recruit new members to a volunteer squad. As current members age out, we are being left short-handed," said Rod Cordes, Hawes Township

Local Veterans honored monthly with coffee

By Mary Weber

Staff Writer

As with most rural counties, veterans are at the top of the most admired local citizens. Communities are always happy to recognize them, whether by group applause during a parade or individually just by saying "thank you" or "welcome home" to a veteran in passing.

In Alcona County, veterans are honored with two entities offering free monthly coffee gatherings for veterans and their spouses. There is one held twice a month at the Westminster Presbyterian Church and another is held monthly at Alcona High School.

Westminster's coffee, held on the first and third Thursday of the month at 9 a.m., is a gift of love and respect offered by two local citizens, Carolyn Brummund and Jane Meyer.

Brummund and Meyer, together, with Deb Halsey, a veteran widow who calls herself the "Lazy Susan" of the group, flit from table to table offering coffee or bringing toasted bagels and other goodies to their guests. "It's not my party, I just help out," Halsey said as she set down some jam and cookies.

A dozen or more attendees are treated well and it's obvious no one is left out of the group conversation which flows easily across the tables.

They talk about the price of this or that, the ladies mention a recent purchase, the gentlemen converse about gas prices. Mostly the conversation is about the weather, how much snow is predicted and when spring will arrive. It's a gentle conversation of the wise and knowing, the ones who have reached the age of understanding when to speak and how to listen.

"Some will talk about their time in service, but others don't bring it up. I think a lot of veterans like to put it behind them and not talk about it. Which is fine. We understand it," Mary Hamather said.

Hamather is a veteran who served in the United States Air Force (USAF) from 1956 to 1959. She said she joined the service after junior college with her twin sister, "It was fun for us," she said.

Hamather is also the widow

During the Alcona High School National Honor Society Coffee with Veterans event, which is held the first Sunday of the month at the school, students were emotionally moved as they watched three Quilts of Valor presented to veterans, (left to right) Bill Hastings, Eileen Oposnow and Dave Bastion. Quilt presenter, Bonnie Baker (far right) said she has been quilting for about 15 years and was proud to represent the creators of the quilts given who are all members of the Quilts of Valor Working Stars group.

Hastings served from 1955 to 1963 in the United States Second Air Force and earned the rank of Staff Sergeant while stationed at the Second Headquarters with the Inspection General team.

Oposnow served from 1974 to 1978 in the United States Air Force and earned the rank of Sergeant with the Strategic Air Command at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana and Mather Air Force Base in California

Bastion served with the United States Army from 1961 to 1963 and earned the rank of sergeant. Bastion served one year in Korea and was with a demilitarized zone. The Quilts of Valor Foundation is a nationwide effort to cover service members and veterans touched by war with comforting and healing quilts. Since 2012, over 338,143 veterans have been wrapped in a new red, white and blue themed quilt. Photo by Mary Weber

Alcona boys bow out to Tawas in district finals

By Ben Murphy Sports writer

The Alcona boys basketball team knew it had a tall order taking on heavily favored Tawas Area in the two's Division 3 district championship game at Friday. The Tigers were able to hang around at times early on in the game, but ultimately the host Braves pulled away for the 65-41 victory, giving them their second straight district championship.

"Unfortunately, our season came to the end," head coach Alex Cole said. "I feel that everyone fought hard but Tawas is a very good team. I wish (Tawas head coach Todd) Kaems and his team the best of luck in the next round."

The Braves started off the game with a three pointer but DJ Howe was able to answer that by battling for an offensive rebound and put-back basket. Tawas and Howe traded baskets again, leaving the Braves ahead 5-4 early on.

With Tawas leading 10-4 late in the opening frame, Howe again connected, this time hitting one from behind the arc, trimming the gap to 10-7. Tawas, who hit 11 three pointers on the night, hit another in the closing seconds of the quarter, giving them a 13-7 lead after one.

The Tigers got a basket by Hayden Johnston to kick off the second quarter, but Tawas was able to take a double digit lead by midway through the frame, 21-10.

Alcona kept fighting though, getting a three pointer by David Sharboneau to pull them within 21-13. The Braves built a 29-14 lead late in the half, with Howe finishing up the frame with a lay-up to make it 29-16 at the break.

Tawas opened up the second half with back-to-back three pointers to lead 35-16 and continued to pull away, leading 40-20 midway through the third quarter and finished the frame on a 10-2 run to lead 50-22 after three.

utes, but did get the final points of the night in the form of a three pointer from Howe.

The Tigers had Howe finish with 18 points to lead the team. Garrett Somers scored all eight of his points in the second half, H. Johnston finished with six, Sharboneau netted four, Sam Johnston had three and Owen Borsvold added three.

Alcona reached the district championship, thanks to their semi-final win over Johannesburg-Lewiston on Wednesday, March 8, 62-41.

Somers hit a three and had seven points in the first quarter and Ricky Schott had four points, put the Cardinals led 15-14 after one.

Howe got going in the second with six points and Somers netter four more, helping the Tigers pull ahead 29-22 at the half.

In the third, Hayden Johnston hit a three and put in seven points, Somers had an and-one play and five points in the frame and Alcona led 47-27 entering the fourth.

Somers hit two more threes in the fourth and finished with 22 points, Howe netted 11, H. Johnston and Scott had nine points apiece, Owen Borsvold put in four points, with three was Nathan Nardi and Evan Borsvold and Cayden Hebert had two points apiece.

Alcona finishes the season 10-12 overall and finished second in the North Star League Big Dipper with a record of 6-3.

"I'm proud of the five seniors and what they have meant to the program," Cole said. "Each of them will leave big shoes to fill next year but they have helped to lay the foundation for the culture that we are building in Alcona. We will back."

of a veteran. For her, the coffee socials are a good reason to get out of the house to talk to other veteran widows and widowers, especially in the winter. "Sometimes it's not just the women who are veteran widows. There are husbands of veterans too," she

Eileen Oposnow who is a USAF 1974 to 1978 veteran and the widow of a veteran, said the gatherings are very family-like. "We have a common history and a wider viewpoint of the world. It's not necessarily about what we did while in service, just that we see the bigger picture and have camaraderie. We don't have to question each other to understand each other. It doesn't matter what our political stance is, we know we are all in it together. We are a family," Oposnow said.

The Alcona High School National Honor Society (NHS) hosts its coffee to honor veterans on the first Sunday of the month in the lobby of the school auditorium from 2 to 4 p.m. during school months. The students serve coffee, hot chocolate and treats such as peanut butter cookies student ElliMae Spaulding brings each month that everyone seems to love and count on.

During the two hours, students introduce themselves and acknowledge new veterans attending. There is usually a drawing or games for a few gift prizes, some of the prizes are donated by the public, some are purchased by the student's NHS funds.

Students always pick something creative to do, at Halloween they had the veterans and their spouses painting pumpkins with prizes given for the most creative. Their advisor, Sarah Hechlik, said the students love planning a theme for the Sundays and are always thinking about a new way to make the event interesting.

They held their first event in January 2022 where just a handful of veterans and their spouses came but for the past year word has gotten out and the number of attendees has

On March 5 they recorded the largest turnout for the event they have ever had with 41 attendees. People just kept coming through the doors. It was very exciting for the students," Hechlik said.

Hechlik has 17 NHS students with 21 applicants wanting to join next year. "I think we will be doing another coffee Sunday for the veterans next year, especially now that we have a rhythm that works. As long as the veterans keep showing up, we will keep having the event," Hechlik said.

Hechlik said the students get a lot out of the monthly event. "I think they see and respect veterans more. They are learning communication skills by talking to the veterans and leadership skills in hosting the event.

Logan Bates, a senior NHS member said he enjoys the veteran coffee socials. "As part of NHS, I feel like I belong to something and when I see the veterans come together I think it gives them the same feeling — like they belong and are welcome here.

"At the Sunday coffee, I get a chance to see old faces, new faces and hear their stories. I hear about their achievements and struggles. I think some of them don't want to share (stories) because their time in service was very personal. I can understand that. They will tell me their branch and when and where they served. They are proud. I am very impressed by them," Bates said.

Bates said he would like to see the socials continue because each first Sunday more and more new people come, but said that will be up to next year's NHS members.

Bates said, "The Sundays are a lot of fun. It gets the veterans out of their homes, allows them time to interact with each other and allows us to get to know them."

The Westminster Presbyterian Church is located at 201 N. Second Street in Harrisville with coffee for veterans on the first and third Thursday of the month from 9 to 11 a.m. The next scheduled coffees will be on March 16 and April 6.

The NHS coffee for veterans is on the first Sunday of the month, with the next event scheduled for April 2 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Alcona High School auditorium lobby on the northwest corner of M-72 and Barlow Road.

Tigers bow out of tournaments

March 18, 1998 ~ By Rich

It was just one of those nights! Alcona's hopes for another district championship were shattered by the Rogers City Hurons last Thursday evening, 52-34.

The Hurons clamped on a zone defense that took Alcona's usually productive inside game away from them.

The Tigers were forced to shoot from outside, and it was just one of those nights when "nothing would fall."

Rogers City then beat Whittemore-Prescott at the buzzer to advance to regional play against Boyne City.

The heartbreaking departure could not take anything away from another very successful season. Alcona finished with a 15-6 record. More importantly, they continued the long, proud Tiger tradition. The tradition of knowing that when you play Alcona, you are going to have your hands full.

lights Thursday night. Junior Sean Stewart had an early dunk that gave Alcona an 11-8 first-quarter lead.

Senior Andy Budreau had a pretty put-back tip-in to keep Alcona close, 31-20 after three quarters.

The Tigers did get as close as nine points on a Zack Sedgwick basket early in the fourth quarter, but that was Alcona was just out of sync offensively throughout the evening. At least on this night, the Hurons seemed to be a step ahead of the Tigers all night.

Sedgwick and Budreau were the only Tigers to hit double figures with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

For five disappointed seniors, it was their last appearance in a Tiger uniform. Each in their own way contributed to their team's success. Each represented their school and their community

There were not a lot of high- in a positive manner on and 100 percent. off the court.

> • Andy Budreau - Fun to watch. Leaper, slasher, scorer. Always gave it his all. When he was on, the team responded and usually won. Will be very difficult to replace.

• Aaron Healy - All heart. Slowed by injury but worked harder than anybody. Did whatever was asked of him. Very consistent. Fulfilled his role. Good kid.

• Dale Saranen-Wonderful example of patience and persistence. Sat on the bench last year but never complained. Worked hard. Developed into excellent point guard. Ran the offense, good ball handler. Has a sweet, short jump shot.

• Zack Sedgwick - What a battler. Not afraid to "give up his body." Stepped forward in regional loss last year and never let up. Scrapped and clawed his way to a 20-point scoring average. Always gave

• Keith Van Hurk - Another example of hard work. Improved his game from a year ago. Could stroke the three pointer but could also go to the basket. Simply loved the game. His sense of humor kept his teammates loose.

Seven underclassmen return next season. With a lot of practice as well as summer camp participation, there is lots of potential for another good season in 1999.

Junior Sean Stewart, Mitch Ranger, Lucas Tracy, Nick Beatty and Shawn Carriveau all return. So does sophomore David Zawada and Paul Somers and some talented athletes that will move up from the Junior Varsity.

So, congratulations to Coach Wayne Van Dyke and all the coaches and volunteers that work so hard to make Alcona basketball such a positive experience for kids.

Hatching of Brook trout an interesting sight

Hundreds' of Thousands Come Out During Week at Hatchery

March 15, 1923 ~ The still for a few minutes they brook trout at the fish hatchery have come out in great numbers during the past week and today there are 1,672,000 of the wriggling, squirming chaps agitating the water in the long troughs, that will be their home for some time.

No, the reporter did not count them, but that is the number that Supt. Frank Tubbs said was there and he knows. Also, here is a rare opportunity for the curious to try their skill at accurate counting.

They are funny little fellows, these future speckled beauties. When you find several thousand of them lying remind you of a bunch or pine needles and that little white sack "on their chins" which, to the uninformed, looks like a disease of some kind, is in reality the food pouch from which the trout draws his sustenance until such time as he is able to provide for himself or, if he remains a captive, until he can safely eat the food provided by the attendants.

The original stock of eggs is practically all hatched out, but a later supply of two or three hundred thousand "green" eggs has been received and this gives the visitors an opportunity to see the process of hatching practically in all of its stages.

Red Cross benefit party at Greenbush nets $141

March 18, 1948 ~ Greenbush— The party Saturday evening at the Greenbush Town Hall to collect funds for the American Red Cross, had a record breaking attendance, and was a huge success. Funds collected amounted to $141.08.

The party started with bingo. This lasted for about two hours and was followed by a program of superb entertainment and an evening of dancing. Some of the highlights of the evening's entertainment consisted of the Hungry Five Band from Oscoda; a solo by Mrs. Jack Barlow; a skit by Mrs. Marble and Mrs. Marshall: a guitar solo by Mr. Clyde Banks and a solo by Mr. Russell Sterling.

The entire community was there with everyone offering their services.

We think special credit should go to those who worked so hard all day to clean the hall in preparation and to those who worked behind the lunch counter so tirelessly.

The Red Cross committee for Greenbush Township, Mr. Frank Raynak and Mr. Russell Sterling, wish to extend special thanks to Mrs. Jas. Dotson for her help in preparing the program, to all who worked in carrying out their plans, and to those taking part in the entertainment to help make it a success.
